Framed against a sky of wispy clouds, the $6 million home of Commerce Clearing House, Inc. was officially declared "open for business" today after 31 months of ground excavation and construction. The three-story building which covers more than one acre under roof sits on top of Quail Hill overlooking the Northgate area and surrounding hills and valleys. State Deals Sewage Project Fatal Blow

Bolinas, Stinson Beach Lose Financial Backing

By PAT ANGLE

The $8.1 million waste disposal system proposed for Bolinas and Stinson Beach was dealt a fatal blow yesterday as the state Water Resources Control Board decided to withdraw its certification of almost half the project, citing resistance within the community as a main reason for the reversal.

According to John O. Nelson, manager of the state board's grant program, the action means the project will no longer be eligible for the approximately $2.6 million in state and federal grants its backer had counted on to help finance it. Consequently, he said the system as proposed is "dead, because the communities could not afford to finance it on their own."

In its decision, however, the state board indicated the funds still would be available for an alternate project. But despite this concession, the state board made it clear a cease-and-desist order against pollution of Bolinas Lagoon and environs would stand, as would a state suit to speed up a portion of the project.

The grants in question had been requested by the Bolinas Community Public Utility District for construction of joint use facilities to be shared by both communities, among them a treatment plant and ocean outfall. In light of the state decision, he said a $238,667 grant for interceptor pipelines sought by the Stinson Beach County Water District will not be forthcoming either since the state board will not sign the final contract for it.

The project was originally certified and declared eligible for state and federal money in April of this year and grant offers were made to the two districts in May.

Nelson said he could not say what effect the new state rulings would have on cease-and-desist orders against the Bolinas Utility District to enjoin the district to stop dumping raw sewage into the Bolinas Lagoon from about 180 homes in the downtown area.

The orders have been issued by the San Francisco Bay Area Regional Water Quality Control Board (an arm of the state water board), which has also threatened the district with fines of up to $6,000 a day if the discharge is not halted. In August the state attorney general, at the request of the regional board, filed suit against the utility district to compel it to speed up completion of its portion of the disposal system.

According to Nelson, the state board has a policy of keeping its grant program separate from its enforcement program because there is not enough grant money to go around. "If we did not do this, applicants could use their inability to obtain grants as an excuse for not solving their problems," he explained.

Nelson said the state board's change of heart on the system it had once endorsed came about following a two-month study of the project which the board undertook in August.

The board decided to rethink and review the entire project, he said, after the federal environmental protection agency declared its intent to study the environmental impact of the proposed system. He said the EPA study was triggered by controversy centering around the population growth the system could potentially support.

Although the state and federal government had offered grant contracts to the utility district in May, Nelson said the district had never executed them.

Consequently, he said, the state board felt the district's failure to accept the grants appeared "to substantiate the assertion that the majority of residents in the Bolinas area are opposed to the population potential of the proposed project.

(The ocean outfall pipe was designed to serve a population of 16,000, while the treatment plant, planned to serve 4,650 persons could have been expanded at a relatively small cost).

"When Bolinas left the grants on the table, it was significant action on their part," Nelson said.

He said the state study had also revealed that cheaper alternative solutions were available to some of the sewage problems the expensive system was designed to solve. For example, he said the state wter board found that spray irrigation of treated waste water on hillsides and pastures on the Bolinas Mesa "would appear to be a viable alternative" to the $1 million ocean outfall pipe and would not cost as much.

Nelson said the water resources control board was convinced that both the Stinson and Bolinas districts must investigate further alternatives to the

Holiday Monday — But Not For All

Students and most government employees will have a holiday Monday for Veterans Day but most businesses throughout the county will remain open.

Traditional ceremonies by veterans' groups in the county apparently will not be held this year, none having been scheduled.

However, a parade and picnic honoring "heroes of war resistance" will begin at 10 a.m. at the Hub intersection in San Anselmo.

Sponsored by 13 Marin organizations including the Marin Alternative and Marin Veterans for Peace, the parade will proceed along Red Hill Avenue in San Anselmo and Fourth Street in San Rafael to San Rafael High School.

Earlier plans to use Albert Park for a 11:30 a.m. rally were scotched by city officials when the groups could not find insurance funds. The rally is now planned at the high school, which will be closed.

City offices in Marin and Southern Sonoma will be closed except in Belvedere, Petaluma, San Anselmo and Tiburon where employees instead take a holiday the day after Thanksgiving.

Federal, state and county offices will be closed, including the courts.

All Marin and Southern Sonoma public schools will be closed, as well as post offices and libraries with the exception of the San Anselmo library.

Cuba Attacks U.S. Plan On Saving Taiwan's Seat

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Cuba charged today that U.N. approval of the U.S. plan to save a General Assembly seat for Nationalist China would perpetuate American military occupation of Taiwan.

Cuban Ambassador Ricardo Alarcon Quesada made the charge as the assembly went through its fifth day of the China debate behind tightened security following violence and threats and a floor interruption yesterday.

The floor interruption came when an intruder slipped past U.N. guards and almost reached the speakers' rostrum before he was apprehended. He claimed the right as a U.S. citizen to speak on the issue of China's representation.

"China is represented here now by private persons—just like the man who invaded this hall yesterday and was taken out by security personnel," Alarcon said.

He denounced the U.S. proposal which agrees to seat Communist China in the assembly and the Security Council but would require a two-thirds vote of the world parliament to expel the Nationalists.

"The U.S. proposal for dual representation would perpetuate the military occupation of Taiwan," the Cuban delegate said. "This assembly must liquidate the American endeavor

No More 'Secret' Meetings

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SACRAMENTO — Marin and Bay Area governmental agencies, which have been leaning on a legal crutch to justify secret committee meetings yesterday had the crutch pulled from under them and broken.

Attorneys for the agencies have claimed that committees consisting of less than a quorum of governing boards are exempt from the state's antisecret meeting law.

A formal opinion by the state Legislature's counsel, however, shows these attorneys have erroneously interpreted the law, the Ralph M. Brown Act.

According to the legislative counsel, George H. Murphy, they misconstrued an exemption from the Brown Act, and applied to committees on which board members serve an exemption that actually applies only to advisory committees on which board members do not serve.

The attorneys' misinterpretation of the Brown Act grew out of a 1968 amendment adding the exemption for advisory committees.

After the exemptions became law, Murphy wrote:

"In our opinion meetings of committees of members of the governing body of a local agency, even if less than a quorum is involved, are within the scope of the act notwithstanding the passage of A.B. 202."

Assembly Bill 202 was by Assemblyman James A. Hayes, R-Long Beach, who set forth this statement of the intent of

ORIGIN MYSTERY

Two Big Blasts Rock Bay Area

Thousands of Bay Area residents were awakened at 2:30 a.m. today by two thunderous explosions.

The blasts were heard in Marin, San Francisco, San Mateo, Mendocino and Napa counties. Although presumed to be sonic booms, officials at Hamilton, Mather, Beale and McClellan Air Force Bases in Northern California said they knew nothing about the incident.

A spokesman at San Francisco International Airport said he doubted the blasts came from any planes landing or taking off from the airport.

Officials at the North American Air Defense Command in Colorado Springs, Colo., which tracks planes and satellites over North America, said NORAD also heard nothing about it.

"We had no exercise at all along the Pacific Coast . . . and, there were no unknowns in the air," the spokesman said.

A Sausalito resident reported being wakened on his boat by the sound wave's vibration through the water that reminded him of a depth charge going off at a great distance . . .

Living Costs Climb During Last Month

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The cost of living index went up 0.2 per cent in September. The government blamed most of the rise on prices not covered by the wage-price freeze or increases actually imposed before the freeze went into effect Aug. 15.

Ironically, a sharp price decrease in one category of goods exempted from the freeze — raw agricultural products — kept the overall index from rising even higher last month.

At the same time, President Nixon named the membership of the two "Phase II" agencies that are supposed to supervise wages and prices after the freeze ends Nov. 13. He appointed U.S. District Judge George H. Boldt, Seattle, Wash., to head the 15-member Pay Board and C. Jackson Grayson, of Southern Methodist University at Dallas, Tex., chairman of the seven-member Price Commission. another government economic report, the Commerce Department announced that the Gross National Product, the full value accounting of all U.S. goods and services, rose nearly $16 billion between July and September. That brought the GNP to a seasonably adjusted annual rate of $1.059 billion for 1971.

The September cost of living increase was half the 0.4 per cent reported in August. The August boost, which reflected only two weeks under the freeze, equaled the six-month average index rise. However, the index had gone up only 0.2 per cent in July.

Some prices covered by the freeze went up in the September index and the Bureau of Labor Statistics explained that was due to two factors: permissible "seasonal" increases for such items as clothing, and

Charcoal Warning Bill Is Approved

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The state senate Thursday passed a bill requiring a label on all charcoal sold in California warning consumers of possible toxic fumes if used without ventilation.

The label, which must appear on charcoal bags beginning Aug. 1, 1972, reads: "warning: do not use for indoor heating or cooking unless ventilation is provided for exhausting fumes to outside. Toxic fumes may accumulate and cause death."

Nixon Vows Woman Will Fill Supreme Court Slot

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon, who maintained the all-male tradition of the Supreme Court in nominating as justices William H. Rehnquist and Lewis F. Powell Jr., vowed today, "There will be a woman on the Supreme Court."

In a speech to the National Federation of Republican Women, Nixon said he was proud of the two men he named to the Court Thursday night.

"I know that a great many in this audience, including my wife, wanted a woman to be not only considered but appointed to the court," Nixon said. "But we have made a beginning. There will be a woman on the Supreme Court."

The President implied it was the American Bar Association's rejection of California Judge Mildred Lillie that prevented the naming of the first female member of the high court.

"I feel somewhat lonely," Nixon told his woman audience. "I'm the only man on the platform. I must say that's a better break than a woman gets when she goes before the American Bar Association.

"When (the ABA) jury of 12 decides on the merits of the nominees that the president submits to them ... the jury should have at least one woman on it."

Although the President submitted the names of six potential nominees to the ABA, he did not consult with the Association about the qualification of either Rehnquist or Powell.

Although there were indications the nomination of any of those six would be fought vigorously in Senate confirmation proceedings, the nominations of Rehnquist and Powell evoked no hostility.

Although constitutional philosophies change in men serving lifetime tenure on the nation's highest court, Nixon clearly expected — and said he did — that his nominees would bring forth a "strict constructionist" majority on the bench "for generations to come."

Unless Senate confirmation hearings, likely to open shortly after Nov. 2, produce the sort of damaging personal disclosures which defeated nominees Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. of South Carolina and G. Harrold Carswell of Florida, it was considered a certainty that Rehnquist and Powell would win the Senate's "advice and consent." A majority vote is required to confirm nominees.

Women's liberation groups were disappointed that Nixon had not named a woman, as had been hinted. Some Republicans probably were disappointed in his choice of Powell, a Democrat.

Generally, however, the Senate reaction was cautious but friendly.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., who led the floor fights which defeated Haynsworth and Carswell, said Rehnquist and Powell "appear to be significantly better qualified than some of the other names leaked to the public."

This was a reference to the six candidates —two of them women and four of them judges —which the administration had submitted for ratings to the American Bar Association's Judiciary Committee.

The Washington Post reported on Thursday that the ABA panel had rejected as unqualified the two thought to be Nixon's first choices, bond lawyer Herschel H. Friday of Little Rock, Ark., and Judge Mildred L. Lillie of the California State Court of Appeals in Los Angeles. The ABA's opinion is advisory but influential.

Irked that the names of the six had reached the public, Attorney General John N. Mitchell said the administration would abandon the practice which it had initiated of seeking pre-clearance of judicial candidates. The names of Powell and Rehnquist had not been sent to the ABA.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, the conservative Democratic whip of the Senate, whose own name was on the list, promised to support Nixon's effort "to restructure" the court.

As for his own possible candidacy, Byrd said, "I can only say that I am greatly honored

Conservative Powell Has 'Deep Respect For Court'

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Lewis F. Powell Jr., nominated by President Nixon for one of two vacant U.S. Supreme Court seats, is a conservative lawyer with a "deep respect for the court as an institution."

Powell, 64, has practiced law in Richmond, Va., since 1932, and has served as President of both the the American Bar Association and the American College of Trial Lawyers.

The slight, soft-spokenlawyer described the nomination Thursday night as a "deeply moving experience. I would think my principal reaction is one of deep humility," he said.

"I have respect for the court as an institution," he continued. "I have also a deep respect for the court as it is presently composed. The role of the court in the American system of government is unique. It is essential to our system. If I should be confirmed, it is certainly our hope that I can contribute to the preservation of that role."

Next to law, Powell's deepest concern has been with public education and quality schools. He served as chairman of the Richmond, Va., school board during the 1950s when "massive resistance" to the high court's desegregation order swept through Virginia and the South.

As school board chairman, Powell—and his board—favored a "go slow" approach to integration. But during his 11 years on the board, public schools prevailed in the old Confederate capital, while private academies with "white only" signs flourished in surrounding cities and counties. He later served as a member and president of the Virginia State Board of Education.

LEWIS F. POWELL
'Moving experience'

During the late 1950s, Powell visited the Soviet Union as a member of a six-man delegation from the ABA to study the Russian legal system. His experiences there led him to urge upon his return a reevaluation of the American education curriculum in light of the cold war and the challenges of the space age.

Among his suggestions was the education of scientists and engineers to maintain America's industrial and technical supremacy.

The unwelcome truth is that education is one of the major battlefields of the Cold War," he said.

He also urged the ABA to go on record favoring a course on Communism in secondary schools as "an effective means of contrasting the merits of freedom of Western democracy and 20th Century capitalism and the brutal and repressive characteristics of 'dictatorship of the proletariat'."

Powell, a Democrat, is a graduate of Washington and Lee University and and obtained his law degree there. He took his masters of law from Harvard University in 1932. He has been a partner in the Richmond firm of Hunton, Williams, Gay, Powell and Gibson since 1938.

Born in Suffolk, Va., Sept. 19, 1907, Powell has lived most of his life in Richmond. He is married to the former Josephine Pierce Rucker of Richmond and they have three daughters and one son.

During World War II, he served as a combat and staff intelligence officer with the Army Air Force in the European and North African theaters. He rose from the rank of Lieutenant to full Colonel, winning the Legion of Merit and and Bronze Star and France's Croix de Guerre.

Watson Jury Returns With Death Verdict

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Charles (Tex) Watson, a former high school scholar and star athlete who admitted leading the bloody forays in the seven Tate-Labianca murders, yesterday was sentenced to death.

The verdict, returned by the same jury which had convicted the lanky Texas, made the gas chamber unanimous for the five Charles Manson cult members tried for the killings.

Watson, 26, was refused a possible penalty of life imprisonment at the penalty phase of the trial by the same six-man, six-woman panel which earlier rejected his plea of innocent by reason of insanity.

The verdict brought to an end the long criminal proceedings in the Tate case-excluding appeals — but a variety of other charges, including murder, against a total of 17 "family" members still are in progress or pending.

Meanwhile, in the second murder trial of Manson, 36, for the slayings of Gary Hinman and Donald "Shorty" Shea, the case went to the jury Thursday.

Manson and three women followers, Susan Atkins, Patricia Krenwinkel and Leslie Van Houten, had been sentenced to death at the first Tate trial, which Watson had avoided by fighting extradition from his hometown of McKinney, Tex.

Deputy District Attorney Vincent Bugliosi, who prosecuted both trials, said that in previous murder cases he had recommended life imprisonment.

Watson, dressed neatly in a dark blue jacket, swallowed once when the court clerk read the jury's verdict but kept the same vacant expression he has displayed throughout the trial.

Recycled Paper Measure Moves

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state would be required to purchase recycled paper and recycle its own waste paper under a bill passed 33-0 Thursday by the Senate.

The measure by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose, requires the State General Services Department, when feasible, to buy paper containing between 10 and 50 per cent of recycled paper.

The bill, returned to the lower house for concurrence in amendments, also directs the agency to draft a recycling plan for its waste paper no later than July 1.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Viet War Ruling

BOSTON (UPI) — The U. S. Court of Appeals ruled yesterday U. S. participation in the Idochina War is constitutional and dismissed a suit brought by the state of Massachusetts.

"In a situation of prolonged but undeclared hostilities, where the executive continues to act not only in the absence of any conflicting congressional claim of authority but with steady congressional support, the Constitution has not been breached," the court said.

However, the court said if either branch were opposed to the continuance of hostilities, a court might well take a different view.

In the unanimous 13-page decision written by Judge Frank M. Coffin, the three-judge panel said the Vietnam war was a "product of the jointly supportive actions of the two branches to whom the congeries of the war powers have been committed.

"Because the branches are not in opposition, there is no necessity of determining boundaries."

Pitch For Apollo

HOUSTON (UPI) — Moon scientists meeting in Houston yesterday urged the government to continue exploring the moon and extend the Apollo program with another mission in 1974.

Dr. Robert A. Phinney of Princeton University warned that Apollo 17, scheduled in December 1972 could be shelved by budget cutbacks. He urged a letter-writing campaign to government officials to stress the importance of the Apollo program.

The 100 scientists at the Lunar Geophysical Conference voted unanimous approval of a resolution endorsing an extension of the Apollo program with an orbital mission by 1974. They said the orbital mission would cost less, since the expense of putting men on the lunar surface could be avoided.

A New Version

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — A Latin American bishop has come up with a new version of the oldest prayer in Christendom.

"Lead us not into the temptation of violence," said Archbishop Alfonso Uribe Jaramillo of Colombia, "but deliver us from the evil of injustice."

It was Uribe's way of telling the Third International Synod of Bishops that he did not support some Roman Catholic priests who support or defend violence in seeking social change.

Uribe told the 210-member synod Thursday that the trend towards violence in Latin America has infiltrated into the ranks of the priesthood. He was sharply critical of the so-called theology of violence.

Kissinger Photos

ROME (UPI) — Pictures of U. S. presidential envoy Henry A. Kissinger meeting Chinese leaders have been published for the first time in a Communist newspaper, the Italian news agency ANSA reported in Peking today.

ANSA said diplomats in Peking attributed "considerable significance" to the pictures, published in the Peking People's Daily. One of them showed Kissinger with Premier Chou En-lai.

"The decision to allow the people to see Chinese leaders together with high officials of the United States, a country violently attacked in slogans and posters all over the country, indicates, according to diplomats, the existence of certain developments in Sino-American relations," the ANSA correspondent said.

"However, for the time being there is no official indication of any change in the positions of the two parties."

Border Security

NEW DELHI (UPI) — India has tightened security in areas facing Chinese-occupied territory in the eastern sector of Kashmir in what diplomats described as a "sensible precaution" at a time of possible war with Pakistan, officials said today.

Civil and border security officials said the stepped-up security arrangements have gone into effect since the military buildup began Sunday along the India-Pakistan borders.

The area affected included the Ladakh area.

Wiretap Proponent Rehnquist Has Worked Behind The Scene

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A tall, balding and slightly stooped man, William H. Rehnquist, has come from his quiet position working behind-the-scenes as the administration's constitutional troubleshooter, to the fore as a nominee to the U.S. Supreme Court.

President Nixon's personal defenders of four previous Supreme Court nominees, Rehnquist is a staunch proponent of wiretapping, surveillance of criminal suspects and the need to balance the rights of society against the rights of an accused criminal.

Rehnquist batted .500 with the Senate on behalf of Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, Associate Justice Harry A. Blackmun, Circuit Court Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. and former Judge G. Harrold Carswell.

In his adopted state of Arizona, Rehnquist, 47, is remembered as an able lawyer who shunned the spotlight and did not shrink from assuming troubleshooting chores for the GOP.

Following graduation at the top of his class from Stanford Law School, he was appointed to a clerkship with Supreme Court Justice Robert Jackson. He left that post to move to Phoenix with his family, joining a prominent law firm. He later opened a law office with longtime friend James Powers.

Although an active Republican in Arizona, the native of Milwaukee never held an official post except that of legal counsel to the state party.

When the Arizona House of Representatives impeached two members of the State Corporation Commission for alleged high crimes in office, Rehnquist was appointed by the House as prosecutor. He personally conducted a well-prepared case in the lengthy case and, although he lost, the accused commissioners both left office.

WILLIAM H. REHNQUIST
Behind the scenes

Rehnquist, who holds a masters in law from Harvard University, came to Washington as a friend of Assistant Attorney General Richard Kleindienst in 1969. He was also appointed an assistant attorney general and breezed through confirmation in the Senate.

He and his wife, the former Natalie Cornell of San Diego, Calif., now live in an exclusive residential area of suburban McLean, Va. They have three children: James, 16, Janet, 14, and Nancy, 12.

An avid supporter of wiretapping, Rehnquist told the American Bar Association Convention in London July 15, "The present administration of the Department of Justice ... is commited to the use of wiretapping under the safeguards prescribed by Congress."

"Is the invasion of privacy entailed by wiretapping too high a price to pay for a successful method of attacking (organized crime) and similar types of crime?" he asked. "I think not, given the safeguards which attend its use in the United States."

Perhaps Rehnquist's most controversial speech, "Under Attack from the New Barbarians," was on Law Day, May 1, 1969, in Newark, N.J. In it he warned that:

"They are found today on university campuses, in various public demonstrations and protests, and elsewhere, though they represented only a small minority of the numbers participating in these movements ... just as the barbarians who invaded the Roman Empire neither knew nor cared about Roman government and Roman law, thees new barbarians care nothing for our system of government and law."

Judge Beat Up By A Car Thief

VALLEJO (UPI)—Raymond Sherwin, national president of the Sierra Club, was released from a Vallejo hospital Thursday after treatment for a beating police said he received from a man trying to steal his car.

Sherwin, a Superior Court Judge from Vallejo, received extensive head wounds when he surprised a youth Wednesday night rifling through his glove compartment.

The 56-year-old Sherwin said the man, about 30, slugged him with his fists until Sherwin blacked out.

ROBBIE STURLA OF PETALUMA

Fund Drive Forms To Aid Prep Paralyzed In Football Practice

Organizations from St. Vincent's High School have united for a fund drive to assist Robert (Robbie) Sturla, the 15-year-old football player paralyzed since an injury during practice on Sept. 14.

Sturla has remained paralyzed and in traction in the intensive care unit at Hillcrest Hospital since the neck injury with no evident improvement. The high school sophomore does have some movements of the arms and wrists, friends report.

Michael Gonzalez, school athletic director, is coordinating money-raising activities sponsored by organizations from the school and St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church.

Beginning Monday at 8:05 a.m. radio station KTOB in Petaluma will sponsor an acution of articles and services donated by residents and businesses from Petaluma, San Rafael and Santa Rosa. Hundreds of items will be on the auction block and will include neckties from comedian Jack Benny, an original "Peanuts" cartoon strip from Charles Schulz, and autographed books from Rep. Paul N. McCloskey Jr., D-11th District, and actress Joan Crawford.

The auction is expected to last three weeks or until the items are gone.

A benefit spaghetti Dinner will be held Nov. 7 from noon to 7 p.m. at the school. Gonzalez said he hoped 3,000 tickets could be sold to gather $3,000 for the fund.

Sturla is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis (Babe) Sturla, 100 Jessie Lane, Petaluma. His father is a retired empioyee of the Petaluma Sanitary Disposal Co.

The youth will go to the Santa Clara Rehabilitation Center in San Jose on Nov. 15 to begin intensive therapy, his father reported.

Gonzalez said costs at the special hospital could run from $4,000 to $6,000 per month. Funds from the Crippled Children's Association will help defray some costs. "The Financial strain on the family will still be overwhelming," Gonzalez said.

The boy is anxiously awaiting transfer to the other hospital to begin therapy, according to his father. "His spirits are really great," Sturla said. "He's determined to beat this thing."

Sturla termed the fund raising activities "amazing." "We surely appreciate everything everyone is doing for us," he said. "I never realized we had so many friends."

Fellow football players and two coaches participated in a radio auction last week to sell their services to homeowners and businesses. The fund netted $1,623 from the auction.

Friends have also held garage sales for the fund and collected more than $700. The fund also received a $100 boost in a donation from the football team and student body at Tomales High School.

Individuals or businesses interested in donating items for the radio auction should contact the radio station or Gonzalez.

Cash donations may be made to the Robbie Sturla Fund in care of St. Vincent's High School, Keokuk and Magnolia avenues, Petaluma.

AUCTION ITEMS — St. Vincent's High School athletic director Michael Gonzalez adds a golf bag to the items to be auctioned starting Monday on Petaluma radio station KTOB to benefit the Robbie Sturla fund. Proceeds will help defray medical expenses for Sturla, 15, who has been paralyzed since a football practice injury on Sept. 14. Other items to be auctioned include an evening gown, man's jacket, chrome wheel, motorcycle tire, plants and a drawing of Snoopy by cartoonist Charles Schulz.

College Bond Is Endorsed

The Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau board has endorsed the $16.7 million bond measure to expand community colleges in Marin.

The measure appears on the Nov. 2 ballot as Proposition A.

The board said it endorsed the measure because the College of Marin is too small to handle the increasing college enrollment in Marin, and while the pay-as-you-go plan is less expensive, it would require over-burdensome tax increases within a few years.

Fourth Judgeship In Bill Sent To Reagan

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A fourth Marin Municipal Court judge will be authorized under a bill that has gone to the governor's desk following final legislative approval.

The bill, SB 1051 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, also grants pay raises to court employees and creates eight new positions in addition to the judgeship.

Judge David R. Baty's West Marin Justice Court seat will merge with the Central Judicial Dstrict of Marin County. Under the bill he will automatically become the fourth judge. The bill also requires that his branch-court contcue to be maintained "at an appropriate location" in his former West Marin district.

The change, if signed into law as expected, will become effective about the end of January. The new judgeship was recommended by the state Judicial Council.

Municipal court judges are paid $30,724 a year. The pay hikes for court employees will depend on approval by federal wage-price boards.

Pay increases include hikes from $17,520 a year for the secretary of the court to $19,800, and from $13,740 for the chief deputy clerk to $15,480.

The other pay raises hiked salary ranges and step increases.

The Hungarian National Commission for UNESCO has sponsored publication of a 300th anniversary facsimile edition of Comenius's "Orbis Sensualium Pictus," the first illustrated school textbook, a portion of which was printed as early as 1653.

Judge Levels $300 Fine In Dog's Death

A 42-year-old Sausalito man was fined $300 today for shooting to death a neighbor's dog last year.

Judge Peter Allen Smith also placed Thomas Henry Donoghue on probation for one year and ordered him to pay $75 restitution for the dog to its owner, Kathie Sommer.

A municipal court jury found Donoghue guilty last month of cruelty to animals.

In sentencing him today, Judge Smith told Donoghue that he had used "incredibly poor judgment," and that if it weren't for the fact Donoghue had no criminal record, the judge said, he would have considered sentencing him to jail.

Donoghue had admitted during his trial that he shot the dog, but said he thought it was justified because he was bitten by the dog that day, May 16, 1970 — the third time in as many weeks the dog had bitten someone.

Donoghue's attorney, Michael B. Dufficy told the judge today the shooting was a "stupid and illegal thing to do," but he tried to persuade the judge to consider the "mitigating circumstances" of the dog biting.

But the judge replied that he saw "very little mitigation for this."

Four Seek Water Unit Empty Seat

Four persons have applied for the Marin Municipal Water District seat vacated by Ray Foreaker Jr., new county public works director, the district administration has announced.

William R. Seeger, district manager, said the district will accept applications from interested candidates through Nov. 5. The directors will interview the candidates Nov. 10, and may fill the vacancy that day or at their following regular meeting, Nov. 24.

Seeger said applications have been submitted by Donald Duerr, Halsey Lyon, Robert Raab and Frank Solomon, all residents of Division One.

Solomon is an attorney and Marinwood civic leader. Lyon lives in Sleepy Hollow and heads a manufacturing firm. Raab lives in Fairfax and is employed with Pacific Gas and Electric Co. Duerr is an administrator at San Francisco Theological Seminary and a San Rafael resident.

COURT

that the President gave my name consideration." His failure to have taken the bar examination had weighed against him.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, a leading Democratic candidate to oppose Nixon in 1972, predicted Senate confirmation without a battle. "I know of Powell and his achievements," he said. "The President picked an outstanding lawyer." He said he would keep "an open mind" about Rehnquist.

Key senators were told in advance, but Nixon's choices suprised many. Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., was so certain that Herschel Friday, his fellow Arkansan, was to be picked that he had prepared for distribution a letter congratulating him.

Both Pat Nixon and Martha Mitchell had campaigned to their husbands for appointment of a woman who would have been the first woman Justice in the Court's history.

The President took note, saying that some had urged a woman and some had urged "the appointment of religious, racial and nationality groups not presently represented on the court."

"But with only nine seats to fill obviously every group in the country cannot be represented on the court," he said.

The seats they will fill, if confirmed, were occupied by the late Hugo Black of Alabama, a 1937 appointee of President Franklin D. Roosevelt and John Marshall Harlan of New York, an appointee of President Dwight D. Eisenhower. Both retired in September for reasons of health and Black died a short time later.

This left the Supreme Court with seven justices, two of them —Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Associate Justice Harry Blackmun —appointed by Nixon.

Stole A Car To Haul Loot Away

A burglar who broke into a Tiburon home took so much loot he had to steal a car to carry it away, Tiburon sheriff's deputies said today.

They said someone entered a garage at the Robert A. Fishman residence on Southridge Drive East between Tuesday evening and Wednesday morning.

The thief apparently loaded frozen meats and juices from a garage freezer and statuettes and liquor from the house into a beige 1970 Chevrolet station wagon parked in the garage and drove off, deputies said.

The stolen items were valued at roughly $1,400, deputies said.

BOLINAS

According to the grant program manager the state study also showed that:

1. Individual homes and businesses are discharging raw sewage into Stinson Creek, which feeds into Bolinas Lagoon.

2. A sewer system for Stinson Beach's downtown and hillside areas is necessary because of failing septic tank conditions.

3. Because of geology and ground surface conditions, septic tanks on the Bolinas Mesa would appear, in most instances, to be inadequate means of waste disposal, as would percolating liquid wastes into the mesa soil.

4. The proposed ocean outfall would not have an adverse effect on the environment.

5. Raw sewage from downtown Bolinas must be stopped.

As a result, Nelson said no grant for a disposal system for the communities will be forthcoming until the size of the system and methods of treatment and disposal are worked out and agreed upon at the local level and approved by the state board and EPA.

He said the state water resources board will consider certification of a modified project only if it meets four criteria set by the board. Any new project proposed by solve the problems of both Bolinas and Stinson and eliminate all discharge of raw sewage into Stinson Creek and the lagoon. In addition, it must include an evaluation of the alternative of spray irrigation on the mesa and provide sewage facilities for existing development, as well as make provisions for reasonable, well-planned development.

He said the Bolinas Utility District might prefer to construct a system in several stages, with the downtown sewage problem solved first and the mesa project provided for at a later date.

The state decision to withdraw project certification will make the federal agency's impact study unnecessary, Nelson said, since there is now no project to study.

Quentin Prison Tour Tomorrow

A congressional subcommittee studying prison reform will tour San Quentin Prison tomorrow and hold a hearing Monday in San Francisco.

The subcommittee of the House Judiciary Committee, chaired by Rep. Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., was to tour the state prison at Soledad today. Both prisons have been wracked by violence and death.

Eight of the subcommittee's nine members came West for the tours and hearing. The hearing is scheduled for 9 a.m. in the Ceremonial Courtroom on the 19th floor of the Federal Building, 450 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, despite the Veteran's Day closing of the building.

HOLIDAY

banks will remain open, but many supermarkets will be closed.

Parking meters will be not be enforced except in Sausalito and Petaluma.

The Independent-Journal will publish as usual.

The fourth Monday of October is designated as a federal holiday under Public Law 9363, according to the United States Attorney General's office in San Francisco.

Technically there is no such thing as a national holiday. The President and Congress may proclaim holidays for the District of Columbia and for all federal employees, but it it up to the states whether to follow suit.

Monday has also been proclaimed Prisoner of War Day in California in act by acting Gov. Ed Reinecke.

In the proclamation issued this week, Reinecke urges "all citizens to show their respect and concern for these servicemen and join me in praying for their release."

He called on the state's cities and counties to declare the week of Oct. 25-29 as Prisoner of War Week and asked the state's churches to declare Sunday as a day of prayer for the POWs.

The holiday will be a three-day one for many —the second this month. The first one was Columbus Day weekend.

The act of Congress last year moved several holidays around to create more long weekends. One of its products was selecting Monday as the new date for Veterans Day. The holiday had long been celebrated on Nov. 11 and originally known as Armistice Day.

Private businesses are not necessarily bound by the federal holiday designation, the attorney general's office explained.

The following governmental meetings originally scheduled for Monday will be postponed to Tuesday: The Mill Valley School District board at 1 p.m. at Park School; the Mill Valley Planning Commission at 8 p.m. at city hall; the Mill Valley Park and Recreation Commission at 8 p.m. in the library; the Tiburon City Council at 7:30 p.m. in city hall and the Novato Sanitary District board at 6 p.m. in the North Marin County Water District office and the Rohnert Park Recreation Commission at 7 p.m. in the city building.

The regular meeting of the Novato Planning Commission has been canceled and the Marin County Schools Office Personnel Commission will shift its meeting day, normally Monday, to Oct. 28 at 8 p.m. and the county schools office.

The Kentfield School District Board will meet Monday at 8 p.m. as scheduled, but the Corte Madera Board of Design has cancelled its scheduled meeting.

ECONOMY

delayed reporting of earlier increases, such as for school tuition.

The lag in reporting also cranked earlier increases in taxes, which are not frozen, into the September report. The decline in raw food prices, led by a 5.7 per cent drop in fruit vegetables, actually cut in half the September increase. This more than offset increases in such other exempt items as mortgage rates and taxes, and pulled down increases in price-frozen items.

The BLS said consumer prices had been going up in the past three months at an annual rate of 3.3 per cent, the second lowest quarterly advance in the last four years. There was a 2.8 per cent increase in the first three months of this year when mortgage interest rates were declining.

There was a 5.3 per cent annual increase for the second quarter of this year —April through June.

The BLS said food prices dropped 0.8 per cent before adjustment for seasonal factors but only 0.3 per cent after adjustment, and automobile prices also declined —new cars by 1.5 per cent on an unadjusted basis and used cars by 0.8 per cent.

Marinite Is Found Guilty

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A Kent Woodlands man who is a part-owner of a Tenderloin bar was found guilty yesterday of charges of assaulting and interfering with two federal agents who had gone to his home to serve a subpoena growing out of an investigation of organized crime in the Tenderloin.

Milton Mohr, 40, president of West-Ent Inc., which owns the Mocambo Bar on Powell Street, was convicted after a three-day jury trial before Judge Thomas Clary in U.S. District Court.

Two Internal Revenue agents went to Morh's home at 296 Crown Point Road on May 3, and reported they were kicked and pushed when they tried to serve a subpoena from a federal grand jury investigating Tenderloin bars in connection with prostitution, credit card thefts, illegal liquor dispensing and tax violation.

Despite the fracas, the subpoena was served.

An IRS spokesman said no sentencing date has been set for Mohr, who faces a maximum sentence of three years in prison or a $10,000 fine, or both.

Another employee of the Mocambo, Ron London, 29, of Tamalpais Valley, is awaiting court disposition of a gun charge arising from a visit by a federal agent to the tavern, also on May 3.

Guards were doubled at all security posts after a well-dressed intruder slipped through the delegates' entrance entered the assembly hall and almost reached the speakers' rostrum before U.N. authorities dragged him away.

The man made his dramatic appearance just after Soviet Ambassador Yakov Malik had told the assembly of shots fired into his midtown Manhattan delegation headquarters from the roof of nearby Hunter College. Syrian Ambassador George Tomeh registered complaints of threats to his mission. New York City police were stationed at both places in extra strength.

Although the outcome of the discussion on whether to expel Nationalist China from all U.N. affiliates while seating Mainland China in both the Assembly and Security Council remained in doubt, the closeness was not reflected in the debate, now in its fifth day.

Of 56 countries heard by the start of today's proceedings, 38 favored Peking, 17 were for the Nationalists and Ecuador was noncommital. There were still 22 speakers on the list of Assembly President Adam Malik of Indonesia.

Britain Thursday lined up with the opponents of the U.S.sponsored resolution aimed at preventing the expulsionof Nationalist China while granting membership to Communist China.

Sir Colin Crowe told the assembly that Britain has long recognized the Peking regime as the "only lawful representative of China" and would vote against "substantive resolution or amendment which provides for dual representation..."

Copies Of Master Plans Can Be Read

Copies of the controversial Tiscornia Estate Master Plan and the North Ridge Plan are available for reading at the Larkspur Library, the Friends of the Larkspur Library have reported.

The documents — the first proposing extensive development of the forested hills above Larkspur and the other proposing they remain undeveloped — have been the center of growing controversy between developers and conservationists.

LAW

his bill: "The reference to committees of less than a quorum was intended to apply only to new section 54952.3 (his bill) and not to the entire Brown Act." Hayes underlined the "not."

His bill, he said, was aimed at closing a loophole in the Brown Act under which public agencies had created temporary advisory committees composed of governing board members — but deliberately including less than a quorum in order to dodge the Brown Act.

That evasive practice, Hayes said, "eliminated the public from all of the investigative and fact-finding processes." The Brown Act, he said, obviously was intended to apply to all deliberations by public bodies, not just to those by their full boards.

Hayes stressed that the bill was introduced and signed into the law "to erase this subterfuge."

The most recent local abuses of the Brown Act under Hayes' amendment have been by the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District and the Metropolitan Transportation Commission.

Directors of the smog district, including Marin County Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., have held three unannounced closed meetings of the personnel committee to consider firing the district's counsel, Matthew S. Walker.

Ironically, it was Walker who advised district officials that Hayes' 1968 amendment allowed the unannounced sessions. He relied on the misconception that the amendment exempted committees of less than a quorum of the full board.

The Metropolitan Transportation Commission has been conducting all of its committee meetings without public notice, relying on the same misconception. Its chairman, Alameda County Supervisor Joseph P. Bort, advised complaining newsmen that "if you want to make a big issue about it, go ahead. It won't do any good."

Psychiatry Clinic Will Relocate

The Ross Psychiatric Clinic, which has been given free space at Ross General Hospital since 1964, will move Nov. 1 to the Redwood Medical Building at 1125 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield.

Dr. Thomas E. McCormick, clinical director of the center, said the move was necessary because hospital officials now need the space for their own programs. He added that hospital officials will continue to cooperate with the center.

The clinic, which provides psychiatric services which are billed according to ability to pay, is sponsored by the Marin Mental Health Foundation, a private nonprofit foundation.

Hours of the clinic will continue to be 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, Dr. McCormick said.

Thieu's Victory Cleared

By KIM WILLENSON

SAIGON (UPI)—The South Vietnamese Supreme Court approved today by an 8-1 vote the Oct. 3 unopposed reelection of President Nguyen Van Thieu, clearing the way for his inauguration Oct. 31.

The court also issued decisions on lawsuits filed by supporters of Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky seeking to have Thieu's victory declared invalid. The court had deliberated on the suits four days and postponed its decision three times.

The court decided again by an 8-1 vote to reject a suit by four taxpayers and by 6-3 to reject a similar suit by a professor of law.

TO VALIDATE

As to the election itself, Chief Justice Tran Van Linh announced "the Supreme Court in its meeting on the 19th, 20th, 21st and 22nd of October, based on Article 54 of the Constitution, has reached a decision to validate the elections of Oct. 3.

"We solemnly declare that 6,331,918 voters have gone to the polls. The democracy slate (Thieu) received 5,975,018 votes. The Supreme Court officially declares that the democracy slate was elected."

Chief Justice Linh read the judgments in a low voice to some 50 newsmen and a dozen police along with the litigants in an open court session. The dissenting justices were not permitted to give their minority opinions and the entire court filed out with the justices refusing to answer questions.

LAST BARRIER

The decision cleared the last legal barrier to Thieu's assumption of power for another four years. Construction of grandstands and a ceremonial platform for the inauguration a week from Sunday has been underway for a week.

The court challenges were based on a controversial election law forced through the National Assembly by Thieu last spring. It required presidential candidates to get the backing of either 40 deputies or senators or 100 provincial councilors on their nominating petitions.

Thieu wanted to cut down on the number of candidates in the race and give a clear majority to the winner. But when it became apparent he might have to run against both Ky and Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh, Thieu used the law to force Ky out. At that point Minh withdrew.

Take Your Choice

BOSTON (UPI) — A sign in the front window of the Paulist Fathers Center says in big letters: Repent and Be Saved. In smaller type in the lower right-hand corner, it says: "If you have already repented, please disregard this message."

CAPT. DANIEL B. AHERN
Awarded four medals

Flying Cross Is Awarded To Novatan

Air Force Capt. Daniel B. Ahern of Novato has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for valor in flying vitally needed ammunition to a South Korean airfield in the face of enemy fire.

The Air Force also announced that it had presented the Marin man his second, third and fourth awards of the Air Medal for "outstanding airmanship and courage" on other vital missions, while he was flying a C-7A tactical airlift aircraft.

Ahern's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard L. Ahern, live at 455 Calle De La Mesa, Novato. The young pilot was a 1964 graduate of San Rafael High School and graduated from the Air Force Academy, where he earned honors as captain of the fencing team, in 1968.

He is married to the former Ellen Gaither of Prescott, Ariz.

Medi-Cal Fraud Figure Gives Up

OAKLAND (UPI)—A 37-year-old pharmacist charged with bilking the state of nearly $1 million in fraudulent Medi-Cal claims surrendered in Oakland Thursday.

Robert D. Tobenkin gave himself up and promptly posted $60,000 bail. He was sought Tuesday on 32 grand theft counts but couldn't be located.

Arraignment for Tobenkin, who is married and owns a $75,000 mansion and two drug stores, will be held Oct. 28.

Charles Herbert, an Alameda County deputy district attorney said:

"Tobenkin received very close to $1 million from the state Medi-Cal program over the past four and three-quarter years, and we have reason to believe that more than 90 per cent of it was obtained illegally."

Fire Base Pullout Of 200

By ARTHUR HIGBEE

SAIGON (UPI)—The United States today pulled out nearly 200 American troops from embattled Fire Base Pace, closing the last exposed U.S. base in South Vietnam. It had been under Communist fire for 27 consecutive days.

UPI correspondent Don Davis reported from Tay Ninh City that about 95 artillerymen and 100 infantry troops were flown into the Tay Ninh area by huge U.S. Chinook helicopters. Pace was 80 miles north of Saigon and only 600 yards from the Cambodian border.

"I'm not worried about security," he told Davis. "These airborne troops are good. They can take anything."

The pullout of the 200 Americans left all U.S. combat and support forces, with exception of advisers, well inside the South Vietnamese borders and in effect under the protection of the South Vietnamese.

Earlier this year U.S. fire bases along the along the Cambodian and Laotian borders and just south of the Demilitarized Zone also were closed up, leaving Pace as the only exposed American positionremaining in the war zone.

As if to prove the the point that South Vietnamese troops are now protecting the Americans, 300 soldiers swept out of Vietnamese bases 30 miles east of Saigon in an attempt to wipe out an understrength Viet Cong "regiment" of less than 700 men.

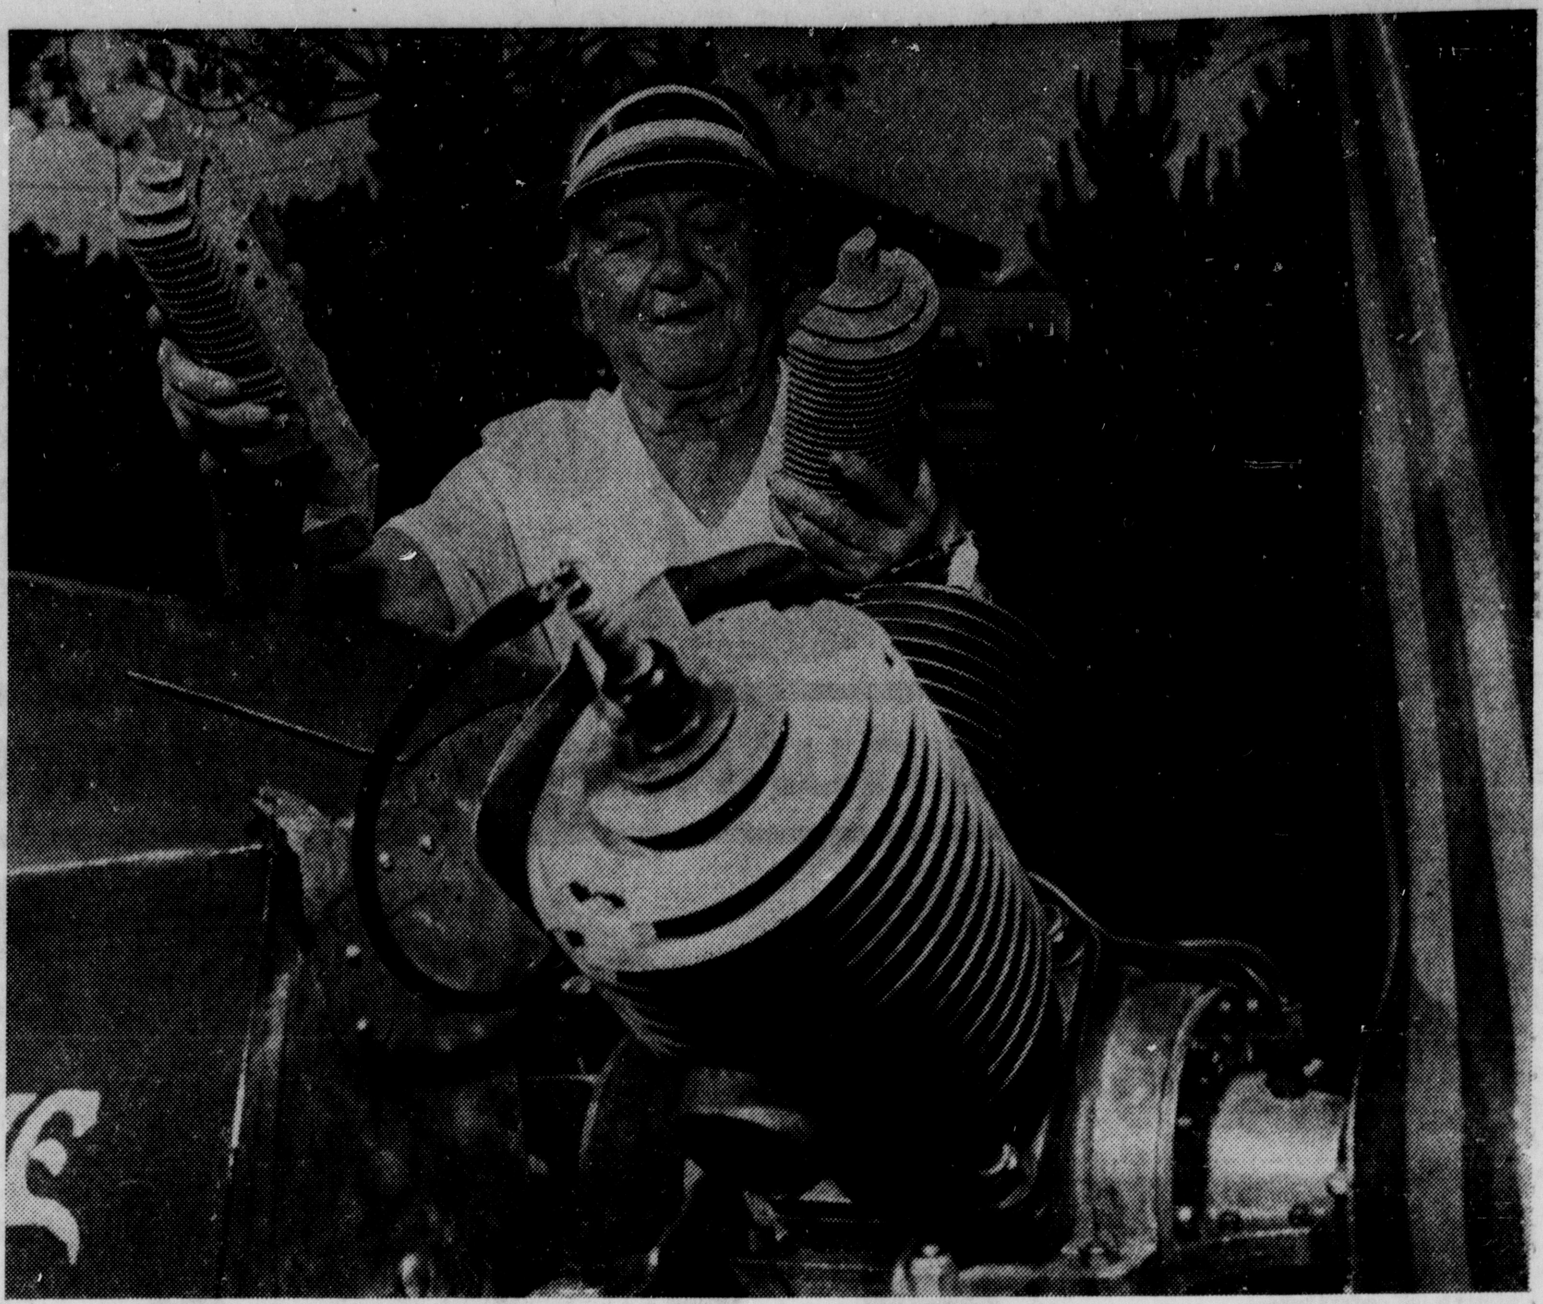
WILL IT OR WON'T IT? — Unflappable John Irwin of Bolinas sits in the cockpit of his red Meteorplane, antique biplane which he has been slowly restoring for nearly 16 years. The takeoff is to come within the next few months, and the 80-year-old Irwin has no doubts the machine will fly.



ENGINE COMPONENTS — Hand-made parts from the Meteorplane's engine are examined by aging aviator John Irwin. He has tested the engine, and waxes enthusiastic over its performance. Only a few adjustments and final assembling of the craft are all that is needed before takeoff, Irwin says.

A 16-YEAR DREAM

80-Year-Old Aviator Will Soar Again

By PAT ANGLE

On some fateful day in the next few months, John Fulton Irwin of Bolinas will hop into his bright red Meteorplane, open up the throttle and soar into the sky, at speeds up to 75 miles an hour.

The 80-year-old pioneer aviator can hardly wait. In the face of many obstacles, he has been inching toward that big day for almost 16 years, working slowly and painstakingly to restore the antique biplane.

Of the many persons who will be watching the historic takeoff eagerly, none will be more enthusiastic (or relieved) than Jack Irwin's wife, Ethel, who has the distinct impression she is living in an aircraft factory.

"I don't have a home anymore; I'm lucky I have a bed," she said with a wry grin. "Now he has started to store his equipment on the beds in the guest room!"

But good natured griping from his wife is not about to dissuade Irwin from his appointed task. The 240-pound plane is not just any old plane, but one he designed and built himself in the 1920s.

Irwin, who was flying and building planes when most of his fellow citizens were predicting the automobile was a fad that would never last, opened his meteorplane factory in Sacramento in 1922 and turned out more than 200 of the craft before the start of the Depression.

The red Meteorplane which reposes (and completely fills) the Irwin's tiny garage is one of the few still in existence. Considering its history, the fact that it is still extant and almost ready to fly again is only slightly short of a miracle.

During World War II, for example, the small plane was stored in Aptos, Santa Clara County. Youngsters broke into its shed and stole the motor and rain water rotted out most of the front part of the craft.

It would have been enough to make almost anyone give up the idea of restoring the plane. But Irwin is a salty old character, a kind of 80-year-old Peck's bad boy who likes to finish what he starts.

He searched "up and down the state" for more than two years and finally found his engine in North Sacramento where a man was using it to pump water. "I had to buy my own engine back for $75," he recalls cheerfully.

After Irwin began the restoration in earnest in 1955, a man in San Carlos generously offered to help in the work and took the airplane down there. However, all was not well and creditors attached the man's business and all his possessions. Fortunately the Meteorplane had been moved to another place "just in time," before the creditors moved in.

The work has also been slowed by the fact that Meteorplane parts are not available just anywhere; you can't find them in the Sears catalogue or at your friendly aircraft supply house. Irwin has all the patterns and builds all the parts by hand, not all that easy when you don't have the money, the proper equipment or a good place to work.

Jack Irwin's stubborness — which first manifested itself in 1905 when, despite his parents chagrin, he substituted for a drunken balloonist at a fair — has come in handy during the long restoration.

After all, any man who was fooling around with those strange, impractical contraptions called aeroplanes as early as 1910, has to have had a definite stubborn streak.

Of course through the years, there have been many doubters who have been sure the plane would never get off the ground, but Irwin is used to such doubts and they don't bother him a bit. "My own mother and father thought I was crazy," he said with a laugh, "why they would never even ride with me in a car because they thought I was nuts."

He is sure the plane will go and has a tape recording of a recent test of the engine which he will play for anyone at the drop of a hat. "Listen to that motor turning, 1,650 rpms," he purred.

All that is needed now are a few adjustments and assembling of the craft. "I'll have to take it outside to assemble it," the sprightly Irwin said. "It could be ready to fly within 30 days, but if the rains come early, well then we'll have to wait until spring."

Irwin, who has lived in Marin County on and off since 1895 and in Bolinas since 1950, hasn't flown for years, but is convinced he will have no trouble because "it's like learning to ride a bicycle; you never forget."

The flight will be a short, but a merry one, just to prove to himself and others that the plane will actually go. After that, Irwin hopes to find "a good museum which will preserve it." He laughed: "After all. I have a little ego in me."

The flight will mark the end of a 69-year career in aviation which began in 1903 with testing dirigibles in the mudflats near San Bruno. Irwin says he got his first flying license in 1919 from Orville Wright. After that he worked at a variety of jobs in the industry, including managing the Watsonville airport, working for the Navy as an aeronautical consultant and working as a consulting engineer in San Francisco.

After the big event, what then? Won't the aftermath be a big letdown? To those questions, Irwin responds with a big emphatic "No!"

"I'll have plenty of things to do, to keep me busy," he said with a wicked smile. "I'll probably spend a lot of time making love to my wife," he said and added: "I'm just a sexy senior citizen."

New City Offices Gain Approval

The Rohnert Park City Council last night approved final plans for a new city office building.

City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan said the council voted 3-1 to go ahead with the building project. Mayor Warren K. Hopkins dissented and Councilman Vernon P. Smith was absent.

Callinan said the council had generally approved preliminary plans by architect Lawrence Simons, but posed philosophical questions about the estimated expenditure of $150,000. Callinan said the council also considered holding an election on the building plan, but dismissed the idea.

The council directed Simons to prepare working drawings for the building and told Callinan to go ahead with negotiations to buy 1.5 acres for the building on Commerce Boulevard. Land cost was estimated at $30,000.

Callinan said the council, sitting as the Rohnert Park Civic Commission, could sell bonds to finance the project with the city paying an annual debt service of $17,000 to $20,000 on the 15-year note.

The city plans to rent some of the offices to the Cotati School District for up to $400 per month to defray some costs.

The building now used as a city hall will be turned over entirely to the police and fire departments.

Youth Panel Enters Book Controversy

Marin County Youth Commission members will get a peek next month at a controversial San Rafael High School book to see if the commission should take a stand either for or against.

Commissioner Brian Perkins of San Rafael said he has a copy of "Movement Toward a New America," which San Rafael High teacher Virginia Franklin planned to use in her American government class.

Perkins told the commission he will not only bring the book but will talk to Mrs. Franklin in order to gather more information on how she intends to use the book.

"I've read it and don't find anything in it that most of us don't know already," Perkins said. The book is a collection of articles from the underground press, he said. He will report back to the commission at the next meeting, set for 4 p.m. Nov. 4 at the Civic Center.

The Marin County Youth Commission also:

YOUTH NEWS — Asked youth coordinator L. Charles Smith to see if "Free Youth," the new youth newspaper published only yesterday, can include paid advertising in the future, and whether it can be printed on recycled newsprint. Smith said the first issue of 6,000 mimeographed copies cost $65.

PAKISTAN RELIEF — Heard from Smith that about $150 has been collected for relief of starving and diseased children in Pakistan. Commissioners decided they would try to make at least one more concerted fund drive in their respective high schools.

COUNTYWIDE PLAN — Was urged by Commissioner Merritt A. Robinson to attend one of the hearings on the preliminary countywide plan. One hearing was held last night at Sir Francis Drake High School, and the final wrapup public hearing is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 30, from 9:30 a.m. at College of Marin's Olney Hall.

NORWIN S. YOFFIE
To head foundation

Yoffie Is Foundation President

Norwin S. Yoffie, general manager of the Independent-Journal, has been chosen president of the California Newspaperboy Foundation for 1971-72.

Yoffie, who was first vice president last year, replaces Ralph H. Markham, advertising director of the Van Nuys News.

The foundation, based in Glendale, is engaged in preserving the rights of newspaperboys to engage in a part-time occupation and to promote and encourage good working habits, educational opportunities and special awards.

Other new foundation officers are William Ortman, circulation manager of the Oakland Tribune, first vice president; Hubert L. Kaltenbach, publisher of the South Bay Daily Breeze in Torrance, second vice president, and William J. Morrissey, circulation director of the Long Beach Independent Press-Telegram, secretary-treasurer.

One-Day Membership Drive Set

A one-day membership drive was set yesterday for Nov. 11 by the Novato Chamber of Commerce board, according to secretary Billie Garl.

Twenty-five members will make the drive, starting with a kickoff breakfast and closing with a cocktail party at which reports from the day's canvassing will be made.

The board also voted to spend $1,675 for part-time office help for Mrs. Garl.

It was agreed to change its luncheon meeting dates from the third to second Thursday of the month because of a conflict with the Air Force Association.

The board voted to endorse the $1.6 million bond issue of the North Marin County Water District at the Nov. 2 election.

The City of Novato has proposed that the chamber move from its present location at 1123 Grant Avenue to a house which the city recently purchased at De Long and Reichert avenues, and the board voted to investigate the cost and feasibility of the move.

Happy Camp Has A Doctor Again

HAPPY CAMP, Calif. (UPI)—This town of 2,600 has a doctor again.

Dr. Stanley Gustin, 48, a native of Medford, Ore., has opened an office here. Happy Camp, 72 miles northwest from Yreka, the nearest city of any size, had been without a doctor for a year.

Dr. Gustin said he took the job because he has become so "de-urbanized" that even Medford, with about 30,000 people, is "overdeveloped."

The doctor had spent the past 10 years in New Mexico and Southern California. He learned of Happy Camp's plight while passing through Siskiyou County on a visit.

Six Policemen Are Killed In Ambush

BANGKOK (UPI)—Communist terorists detonated a land mine under a government jeep Thursday and sprayed the wreckage with automatic weapons fire, killing six policemen.

The ambush was on a jungle road in the Chawang district of Nakhon Si Thammarat province in southern Thailand.

Belfast Firm Is Bombed By Gunmen; Three Hurt

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—British troops fought youth gangs in Londonderry today and gunmen who forced entry into a Belfast city center egg-packing firm bombed the building, security forces spokesmen said.

A police spokesman said three women were hospitalized in Belfast when five men forced entry into the Gravey Brothers Egg-Packing Co., ordered the watchman out and placed bombs at the rear, in the center and at the front of the building.

Two of the bombs exploded, setting off a fire which badly damaged the building, the spokesman said.

The fighting in Londonderry began when a combined British army and Northern Ireland police raid swept through the Roman Catholic Bogside district of the city, an army spokesman said.

Soldiers fired back with CS nausea gas and rubber bullets, the spokesman said.

In Belfast, an army patrol shot and wounded a man aiming at gun at a soldier in the Short Strand district in the eastern part of the Northern Ireland capital, an army spokesman said.

The man was moved to the Royal Victoria Hospital where he was placed under guard, the spokesman said.

A police spokesman said security forces today discovered a new extremist bomb tactic—"a particularly nasty device"—that could blow up "any one at all."

Adolf Hitler seized Austria in March, 1938.

Door Slammed; House Collapses

She was only two steps away from the door when the entire house collapsed, leaving her standing in front of a pile of rubble.

Police said the house's main beam apparently was rotten.

COURTYARD OPEN TO THE SKY — This central area serves as the principal air circulation for the entire Commerce Clearing House building. A rolling skylight opens or closes at the touch of a button. Central column is a stainless steel fountain sculptured by Tony De Lap. Water flowing down its fluted sides to the pool below often catches reflections of people passing by and clouds floating overhead.

WIDE CORRIDORS AND WINDOW GLASS — Terrace circling the upper level of the building brings the out of doors as close as a doorway in the glass wall. Commerce Clearing House Finishes Quail Hill Move

By HARRY CRAFT

Commerce Clearing House, Inc., a national publishing house of tax and business law reports headquartered in Chicago, today completed the move of its western regional headquarters from San Francisco to the top of Quail Hill in San Rafael's Northgate section.

The move represents a transfer operation which has been under way since Oct. 4. The three-level office complex houses the western editorial staff as well as the staff from General Programmed teaching, a division formerly located in Palo Alto that designs and develops training materials utilizing principals of instructional technology.

Still remaining in San Francisco in a district sales department for Northern California. It will not be moved.

Commerce Clearing House will have about 84 employees at the Quail Hill facility at the start which will include office workers, executives, administrators, writers and editors. About half of this number are said to live in Marin, including the company's western vice president Richard K. Duncan, a resident of Peacock Gap.

The new western headquarters is part of an 83-acre site developed by a subsidiary of the publishing firm, Quail Hill, Inc. Duncan said the remainder of the area will be developed by others pending completion of negotiations. Construction is expected to start this year on a residential development consisting of 110 condominium townhouses and 34 single-family dwellings and additional administrative and professional sites on top of the hill. A 10-story office building site at the northeast corner of the hill is available for development, he said.

About $250,000 has been spent in landscaping the grounds of Quail Hill and a 3.5-acre vineyard planted at the site will produce grapes under a company label, Duncan said.

Commerce Clearing House purchased Quail Hill in 1967 from Citizens Federal Savings and Loan Association after more than a year searching for a Bay Area location that would remove it from the traffic and congestion of San Francisco.

Citizens Federal Savings had acquired the land from Jerome Draper who had purchased it in 1954 from the Manuel T. Freitas Estate.

The property had been rezoned in July 1967 to allow construction of a conference center, administrative--professional buildings a commercial building, houses and townhouses. Ground was broken for the Commerce Clearing House office building in March 1969. Construction of the building involved installing 110 concrete piers 30 feet deep in the hill, many hundreds of tons of concrete and 34 miles of reenforcing cable in each floor. The total structure covers 120,000 square feet.

The building was designed by Marquis and Stroller. Exterior facing is of chipped concrete, giving the building the appearance of chiseled granite. Most offices are located on the upper level with a panoramic view of the surrounding hills and circled by an outside terrace.

A large central court contains galleries, planters and a sculptured fountain. Entrance and lobby are on the second level which also contains large dining areas and a kitchen. The lower floor is used for parking, a telephone exchange, computer equipment and service facilities.

The firm was founded in 1913. It edits and publishes information on taxes, labor, banking and law for the legal, accounting, business and educational world. It has been expanding for several years, adding to its services and acquiring related companies.

At the end of 1970 the company reported sales of $51.5 million and net earnings of $5.3 million. To provide for anticipated expansion at Quail Hill the building was designed for an additional 320 employees.

"LANDSCAPED" OFFICES — The publishing firm's offices, located on the third floor, are large open spaces, with employees separated by furniture, bookshelves and plants, rather than by walls. Placement of desks is based on a careful study of the functions and interactions of each employee.

North Coast Agency Plan Amended

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation including Sonoma County in a proposed North Coast regional planning agency is being amended radically to strip the agency of power.

The measure, SB 920 by Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, is being overhauled belatedly on the Assembly floor — just short of final legislative approval — because the senator had just changed his mind on the powers of the agency, his office said.

His original bill, written by a Crescent City attorney would have created a North Coast Area Planning and Development Commission with limited veto power over construction of public facilities. The agency also would have operated housing, health and economic opportunity programs under federal funding.

As now proposed in a packet of 180 amendments developed by legislative aides, the commission will have power only to draft regional plans. The word "development" will be stripped from its title.

The result would be a North Coast version of the Association of Bay Area Governments, a forum of city and county officials with no power except to review and comment on local government applications for state and federal funds.

The commission would be financed by a property tax at a maximum rate of 1 cent per $100 assessed valuation. A provision in earlier versions of the bill giving it power to sell revenue bonds will be deleted by the new amendments.

The bill also provides that the commission would be formed only with the approval of a majority of the governing boards of the cities and counties in the proposed area, which includes Sonoma, Lake, Mendocino, Humboldt and Del Norte counties. Other contiguous counties also could join, and each would have two representatives on the commission, one supervisor and one city councilman.

Bicycle Path Bill To Reagan

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation authorizing a statewide system of bicycle paths has gone to the governor's desk for his signature into law.

The measure, SB 265 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, entitled the Bicycle Recreation and Safety Act of 1971, also empowers local governments to require subdividers to donate land for bicycle paths.

His original bill would have applied this requirement to any subdivision large enough to also require dedication of roadways, but this provision was limited in Assembly committee to apply only to subdivisions of 200 or more parcels.

Dog Directory Bill Into Law

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill requiring sheriffs to maintain a directory of dogs specially trained in search and rescue has been signed into law by Acting Gov. Ed Reinecke.

The bill, SB 1050 by Sen Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, originally would have required every sheriff to have such dogs — a proposal that brought a flood of protests from sheriffs objecting to its high cost.

The original bill was asked by the Charles Mel Foundation of Oakland, which maintains one of the two search and rescue dog teams in the state in Inverness. The only other team is in Los Angeles, Behr's staff said.

Hospital Is Given Go Ahead

Petaluma Hospital District directors last night gave the go ahead for plansfor a new hospital after receiving support from the medical community.

Hillcrest Hospital Administrator Joseph M. Horner said the special meeting included a report from Dr. Thomas O. Maloney from the medical staff growth policy committee.

27 IN SUPPORT

Horner said the staff study involved voting by 32 physicians who make up 95 per cent of the practicing doctors at Hillcrest Hospital. Dr. Maloney said that 27 of the 32 supported the board plan for one major public health care facility for Southern Sonoma.

Dr. Maloney reported that 50 per cent of the doctors said they would accept a board decision for the location of the new hospital while 25 per cent said they preferred an east side Petaluma location and the remaining 25 per cent said they wanted to stay at the Hillcrest site on the extreme west side of Petaluma.

Horner said the five dissenting doctors attended the meeting and recommended that the board abandon plans for a new hospital and contract with a private hospital group for medical services.

The board had tentatively approved a plan to build a new hospital on the east side and to reserve the 57-bed Hillcrest Hospital for specialized care such as obstetrics or geriatrics.

BOARD PLEASED

Horner said the board was pleased with the report since any decision they make would please at least 75 per cent of the medical staff.

The board directed Horner to move swiftly on the project and meet with financial consultants Stone and Youngberg of San Francisco to get a recommendation on the most practical methods of financing a new hospital. He was also directed to consult with a nonprofit medical care organization on a possible affiliation that would permit the sale of nonprofit revenue bonds to finance the project.

Road Link In Countywide Plan Causes An Exchange

Debate over a controversial road link between Sleepy Hollow and Terra Linda, and suggestions for incorporating health planning into land use planning were highlights of last night's public hearing on the new countywide preliminary plan.

The hearing was conducted in San Anselmo with councilmen Woodrow V. Capurro and Lewis W. Stewart as co-chairman for the presentation by the City-County Planning Council. Nearly 100 persons attended the discussion.

Dr. Michael L. Harris of the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin County reported that the council directors on Wednesday endorsed making Fawn Drive a link between Sleepy Hollow and Terra Linda. The health spokesman also urged a connector between White's Hill and Lucas Valley as vital to providing emergency health care.

Sleepy Hollow Homeowners Association spokesman Andrew Cordano opposed the connections, calling for mass transmit rather than any more routes for private autos.

Harris said his group would accept limitation of a connector to buses and emergency vehicles.

"The general consensus seems to be that the countywide plan is a good one except that it is not innovative . . . in transportation and relies too much on the automobile," County Planning Director Werner von Gundell said.

The health planning council recommendations, as reported by Harris, branded earthquakes the most serious threat to Marin County residents' health. The council urged immediate drafting of danger zone ordinances, particularly in the countywide plan's West Marin corridor. It called for control of development along fault lines, below slide areas, and downstream from dams.

The health planners drew heavily on lessons from the Los Angeles earthquake in February to draft their recommendations. Among the proposals: frontage roads paralleling all freeways to keep emergency traffic routes open in the event of overpass collapse, provision of alternate emergency medical care sites and use of a countywide emergency telephone number.

The health planning council also recommended drafting a central plan with greater scope than present civil defense proposals, to deal with emergency sewage problems, food and housing shortages and similar problems of less than disastrous magnitude.

The health planners suggested coordinating land use plans to provide general health treatment facilities in four areas — Southern Marin, Ross Valley, San Rafael and Novato. Specialized facilities might be clustered in one area to serve the entire county, the health panel suggested.

A final public symposium will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Oct. 30 in Olney Hall at College of Marin, to review the criticisms of the countywide preliminary plan voiced at the series of city-county planning council hearings held throughout the county in recent weeks.

Rights Panel Backs Leased Housing Plea

Marin Human Rights commissioners last night supported Executive Director Gerald J. Hood in his effort to get cities to drop residency requirements in the federally-subsidized leased housing program.

At the same time, commissioners criticized Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of the Housing Authority of Marin, for making statements that would hinder the program to have cities drop the discriminatory residency rules.

Hood said Shepherd is telling cities they are not legally required to drop residency requirements.

The commissioners authorized the executive committee, headed by Richard Harding, to meet with Shepherd and ask him to refrain from making such statements.

The Marin Human Rights Commission also:

MARIN CITY — Supported a resolution by the Marin Alternative, endorsing the principle of self-determination for Marin City, including incorporation of the community, construction of quality housing, and development of a shopping center and educational and cultural facilities.

EMPLOYMENT — Supported a resolution by the Marin Alternative, demanding that the county take immediate steps to employ members of minority races at all levels and to actively recruit nonwhites as openings develop.

SEX DISCRIMINATION — Heard from commissioner Barbara Hosmer that the county hiring practices discriminate against women. She asked that the commissioners give priority attention to combating sex discrimination.

MANPOWER — Heard from Nesbit Crutchfield, manpower coordinatorfor the Economic Opportunity Council's employment service in Marin City, that the employment service will be out of funds by the end of this month. Commissioners voted a letter to the San Francisco foundation, supporting Crutchfield's request for more grants.

WORK STUDY — Heard from Hood that 25 Dominican College students have signed up for a work-study program, under which they get college credits for doing work for various county departments at the Civic Center.

WORKSHOP — Asked the executive committee to draw up an agenda for a joint meeting with the Marin County Board of Supervisors at 9 a.m. on Nov. 9.

Cathedral's Use Draws Protest

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A group of Episcopalian leaders has protested the use of Grace Cathedral on Nob Hill for "animalistic symbols and pagan cultic practices."

"Grace Cathedral has been consecrated for public worship of God and separated from all unhallowed, worldly and common uses," they said in a letter Thursday.

They cited the use of the Cathedral last month by an organization called "Living Creatures Association.

Truck Door Flies Open, Woman Injured

Eileen Taylor, 25, of 2342 Skillman Lane, Petaluma, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital yesterday for back pains suffered when she fell from a moving pick-up truck at 6:50 p.m. at Skillman Lane and Petaluma Boulevard North, Petaluma.

The California Highway Patrol said the truck door opened as it turned the corner and Mrs. Taylor fell to the pavement. The truck was driven by her husband, William Taylor, 29.

Mother And Son, Hurt In Crash

A young mother and her 4-year-old son were injured at about 8:30 a.m. yesterday in a two-car accident at the intersection of Second and Irwin streets.

Honore Marie Fitzsimmons, 24, of 10 La Brea Way, San Rafael, was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital where she was being treated for a concussion, chest bruises and facial cuts.

Her son, Todd, was treated for a bruised forehead.

Mrs. Fitzsimmons was the driver of a car which collided with one driven by Janis Irene Meyer, 24, of San Francisco. Mrs. Meyer said she would see her own doctor for a bump on her forehead.

The accident was still being investigated by police.

Prison Sentence In Murder Case

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—A blind man who pleaded guilty to fatally shooting an 8 year-old boy was sentenced to state prison on Thursday for second degree murder.

David Crockett Blount, 54, was accused of firing a pistol out his window June 17 when angered by a group of youngsters setting off firecrackers around the house.

A bullet struck Thomas Theis Jr., 8, in the head and fatally wounded him.

Blount was ordered held for a 90-day diagnostic examination to decide whether he should be given to prison authorities to serve the full one-year-to-life sentence.

Malnutrition And Body Fat

PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI)—"The most destructive form of malnutrition in our midst is the accumulation of excess body fat," according to Dr. Charles G. King, the scientist who isolated Vitamin C in 1932.

"For those who live in countries where good quality foods are abundant, it is difficult to realize the penalty that food deficiencies inflict on mankind in other areas of the world," King told an audience Thursday at Washington State University, his alma mater.

"We still contend with moderate deficiencies in iron, iodine, fluorine and other nutrients among the vitamins and minerals, and occasionally severe cases of deficiency are found," he said.

"However, the most destructive form of malnutrition in our midst is the accumulation of body fat," said King, who also identified Vitamin C as a scurvy-preventing substance.

Faulty School Bus Being Checked

ic, Mich. (UPI)—General Motors technicians who inspected a Pontiac school bus that lost its rear wheels report there was a loose nut on one of the bolts that holds the axle to the rear spring assembly.

The bolt could have been loosened by a number of factors, they said.

The 1964-model school bus is one of a fleet used each day to carry children involved in court-ordered busing to achieve integration. Wilbur Johnson, school supervisor of transportation, would neither confirm nor deny Thursday the possibility of sabotage.

"This is something I've never heard of before," he said. "I've never seen it happen."

Pontiac police said they had not been asked to investigate the accident which occurred Wednesday when the driver, Mrs. Wilma Doster, was forced to make an emergency stop as she was returning to the bus depot after dropping off children at their schools. The axle and rear wheels came loose, dropping the rear end of the bus to the pavement.

TELEVISION REVIEW

An Ambitious New Children's Series

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—A preview of the most ambitious children's video series since "Sesame Street" was presented on numerous commercial stations Thursday night as a help to the non-commercial network in getting it launched.

The name of the new series is "The Electric Company," and it will have its formal premiere on the non-commercial Public Broadcasting Service Monday. It is a half-hour daily entry that tries to help the reading of children roughly between seven and 10 years old, and, in its attempt to combine information with an entertaining approach, it has a repertory troupe that includes Bill Cosby and Rita Moreno.

Although there is much general talk about the age group that the series is aiming at—mostly in the second, third and fourth grades —the basic fact is that, like "Sesame Street," its real target audience is youngsters who are part of minorities or disadvantaged surroundings.

As a matter of fact, "The Electric Company" has been put together in the Children's Television Workshop, which also turns out "Sesame Street," so there is a consistency of intelligence at work here.

The intelligence is indicated by the fact that, in the Thursday night preview, the show frankly made clear it is not absolutely sure at all that television can truly educate youngsters to any great degree, or even slightly. But it hopes it can at least help out.

With this aim, the series is spending about $7 million —its budget—from the underwriting of the U.S. Office of Education, the Ford Foundation, the Carnegie Corporation and the Corporation for Public Broadcasting.

Furthermore, it has picked the brains of more than 100 experts and studied about 40 teaching systems to come up with a format that could cleverly hold the attention of youngsters who are at the age when they switch television channels like demons and are tough to keep interested. In short, the entertainment format has to be truly special.

And it is. In a winningly attractive style, reading lessons are slipped into a nicely-paced, but not furiously frantic, combination of witty sketches, animation, music and the other usual devices for such a show. Really, though, who known how much any of this is helping anybody? The series admits as much, and maybe only the kids themselves know if all this is of any help, and probably they couldn't be sure either.

Still, it's better, far better, than the usual dumb cartoons, mainly because the entertainment is pretty intelligent—and enthusiastically offered. It has a zany touch now and then, and somehow this zaniness seems to be the kind that would particularly appeal to kids. My own personal favorite on the show is a girl named Judy Graubart, who managed to get across her reading lesson at one point with a charming, funny takeoff on the video cooking expert Julia Childs.

Anyway, tune in "The Electric Company" starting next week and decide for yourself. If your youngsters are reasonably intelligent or getting along pretty well in reading, I don't think they'll benefit much from it in educational terms. But they might enjoy some of the fun once in a while, and you might too, and it's better than a steady diet of moronic cartoons. It is not, of course, as good as reading. Television rarely is.

Reagan Allays Japan Fear Over Nixon Peking Visit

TOKYO (UPI) — California Gov. Ronald Reagan said today Asia's non-Communist nations have nothing to fear from President Nixon's planned visit to Peking.

"He wants to open communications to see if he can remove the barriers to peace," Reagan told Japanese and American business leaders.

"It means no lessening in the strength of our tieswith our old friends and allies.

"The free countries of Asia are not pawns to be moved around in a giant chess game."

Reagan spoke before an enthusiastic and largelyAmerican audience of more than 500 at a joint meeting of the American Chamber of Commerce in Japan and the JapanAmerica Society. Members of the audience paid $10 to hear the address.

The Republican governor is visiting Japan on the last leg of an Asian tour as personal representative of Nixon.

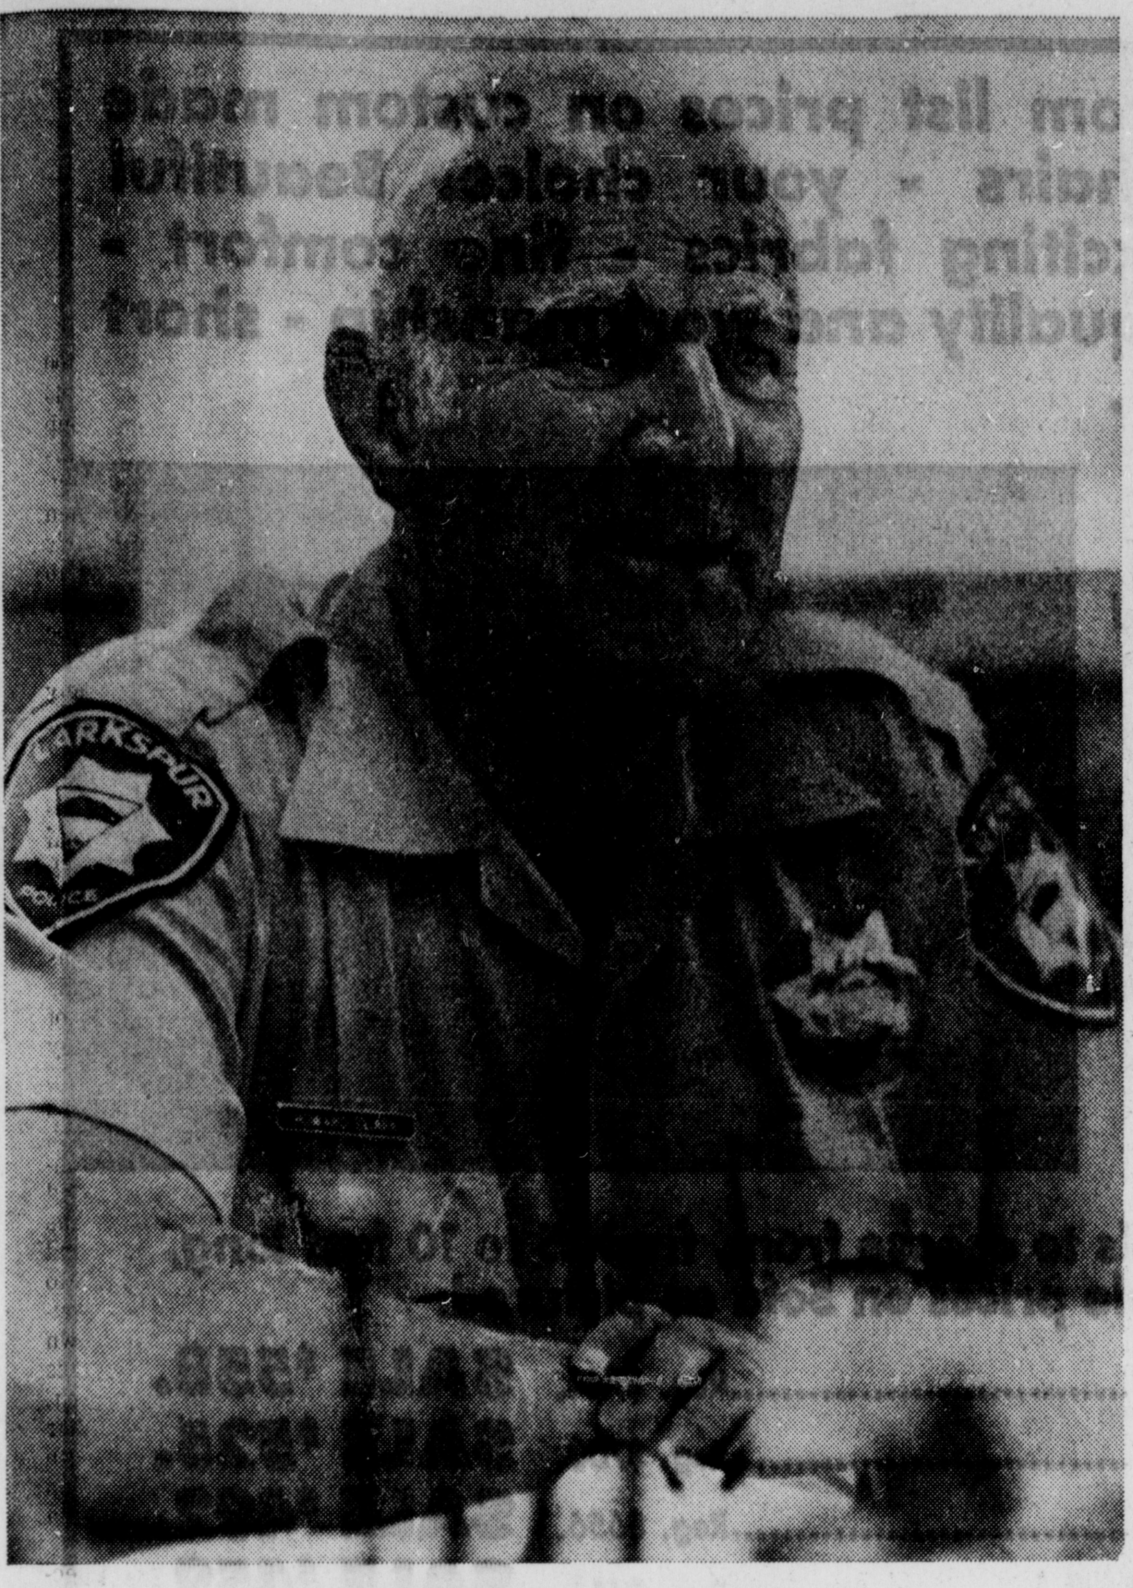
LARKSPUR CHIEF'S 30 YEARS

No Gold Watch Treatment — Yet



CHIEF HOWARD C. CLARK

By ERIK M. INGRAM

After 30 years of police work, one is usually ready for the dinner party and gold watch treatment — but not Larkspur Police Chief Howard C. Clark.

"I hope not; I'd get no retirement pay," the 58-year-old chief quipped the other day.

Apparently city officials are in no hurry either to let their chief go. They are going to give him a party Nov. 2 honoring his 30 years but will hold on to the gold watch for a few more years.

"I think this is the greatest job in the world," Clark reflected in his cramped city hall office. "There never has been a time in 30 years that I have resented or hated coming to work."

When Clark first donned a uniform back in 1941, Larkspur was "a village," Greenbrae a cow pasture and the road to San Rafael wound through San Anselmo.

Since then, he has watched the community grow from 2,000 residents, many of them summer visitors only, into a city of about 11,000.

"There wasn't much police work back in those days," he said explaining that police chief duties included those of dog catcher and street superintendent among others.

As an assistant to former Chief William V. Nicholson, Clark said he got most of his "police training" at the Larkspur Rose Bowl — a popular Saturday night dance spot.

There, according to the soft-spoken chief, a Saturday night wasn't a Saturday night without a few fist fights.

"It was fist to fist combat," he remembered with a twinkle in his eye. "I got knockeddown many times . . . I learned the hard way."

But according to others, Clark didn't get his reputation as being one of the toughest officers in the county by being knocked down too many times.

While he's tough, they add, he's also fair.

His reputation also stems from his record of solving tough cases — some of which have been used for training by the Federal Bureau of Investigations as classics in investigation.

One such case, he said, involved the 1950 murder of a Hamilton Air Force Base sergeant. Besides the body, all Clark had as evidence was a stolen vehicle used in the crime.

Three weeks later, by methodically checking leads from throughout the state, he solved the car theft and with the aid of other departments ultimately the murder.

But, he added with a laugh, there have been the lighter moments.

For instance, the time a naked woman ran past him one night screaming for help.

Giving chase on foot, he finally caught up with her only to realize the entire neighborhood had been awakened by her screams and had witnessed him chasing her.

"We finally got the thing cleared up when we found the guy that had her clothes," he said. "I hope my wife understands when she reads this . . . It's one I always tell when someone asks my about my funniest experience."

But Clark, who was born at San Quentin where his father worked as a prison guard, in his eye. "I got knocked down talked about the future of law enforcement. He didn't believe the courts had weakened the efficacy of police work.

"It's improving all the time," he said. "The so-called adverse decisions by the courts have helped. The individual's rights are more protected."

As head of Larkspur's 15-member department, Clark sees consolidation of his department with the police force of neighboring Corte Madera as the next step to better law enforcement in Larkspur.

"I support consolidation with Corte Madera," he added. "This is one thing that has to happen." Already there is an overlapping of services between the two, he said.

"We're always willing to respond to a call to protect someone . . . we feel we can worry later about whose jurisdiction it is."

Clark, named chief in 1948 during the post-World War II growth of Larkspur, said he has no thought of retiring — "not for another seven or eight years."

Maybe then, he said, he'll think more seriously about his favorite pastime — fishing.

Clark resides in Larkspur with his wife and has two grown children — Bonnie and Bruce Clark, both of Terra Linda.

Cotati Hires A Private Eye

The Cotati Council last night appointed Herbert Miller, an insurance and private investigator, to the city planning commission.

The appointment came after a 45-minute closed door session in which the council also considered five other men who expressed interest in the position. They included Allan Stansbury, who had been recommended by the commission; David Thomas, Stanley Olsen, William Appleton and Harold Griffith.

Miller has lived in Cotati for 14 months and previously served on city councils in Monrovia, Los Angeles County, and in Manchester, Conn.

The council reviewed plans for the oversizing of sewer and water lines to the new Holiday Park subdivision and adjourned to Oct. 29 at 7:30 p.m. to continue the discussion.

Quentin Closure, Broad Reform Urged In Prison System Study

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —Sweeping reforms in the California correctional system, including conjugal visits at all penitentiaries and closing the 19th Century San Quentin and Folsom prisons, were recommended Thursday in a report ordered by the Reagan administration.

The three-volume study said the California penal system was "far superior" to most others, but warned that its reputation "camouflages the reality" that it is "very conventional" and "fragmented."

California prisons, the report said, are generally "too large, difficult if not impossible to manage, and too far removed from the real world of people, problems and real life styles."

The $266,000, federally-financed report was prepared over a one-year period by Oakland criminologist Robert E. Keldgord and a 62-member staff. It was submitted to the State Board of Corrections.

The more than 200 suggestions included shortening prison terms or, in some cases, no terms at all; elimination of two-man cells to decrease homosexuality; installation of "modesty" toilet panels, brighter colors on prison walls; termination of nearly all regular mail censorship, and higher prison wages.

It also suggested the wearing of civilian clothes by the 20,802 convicts, background music at meals, reduction of maximum isolation sentences from 30 to 10 days and the hiring and promotion of more minority group members as prison personnel.

One of its basic recommendations was that the "bulk of the correctional effort ... be moved to the community level" where it would be regulated and partially subsidized by the state.

The study said that conjugal visiting, now being tested at the Tehachapi facility, should be expanded because it "is impressing almost everyone as both humane and rehabilitative, as well as a source of improved inmate morale."

Although the report urged the abandonment of the 116-year-old San Quentin and 91-year-old Folsom prisons, it was not optimistic they would be given up.

"They are immense, yet they do not have adequate space for modern programs. They are not secure or safe. Decent living conditions are almost unattainable in them, and they are ugly and depressing," the report declared.

Major remodeling, it said, would cost millions of dollars, and it would be better to close the facilities than try to recondition them.

The voluminous report also reviewed the local jail and parole system in California.

It said that jail conditions have "not appreciably changed" since 1923 when a federal report on jails said they were "unbelievably filthy" and "usually swarming with bedbugs, roaches, lice and other vermin."

"It is no wonder that jails and lockups are considered to be among the state's worst correctional evils," it concluded.

The study urged parole or probation for most criminals, saying that long prison sentences did not act as a deterrent and incarceration was a costly alternative to parole. California keeps men in prison about 50 per cent longer than other states, it said.

Other findings and recommendations included:

—California has the largest criminal population in the nation, 274,000, including probationers, juveniles, etc., and that local and state agencies spent $220 million on them in 1969-70.

"Small, decentralized and community-based, real-life" prisons should be constructed in the future so that inmates would be closer to jobs when they are released and better rehabilitated.

Drunks and "persons who do not pose a serious threat to the community" should be treated non-criminally.

—Alcoholic beverages should be taxed to finance "detoxification centers" and research on alcoholism.

—There should be increased training and professionalization of prison personnel, probation officers and other persons in the correctional system.

Garry Files Suit In Inmates' Behalf

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Black Panther attorney Charles Garry today filed a lawsuit on behalf of San Quentin Prison inmates who said they have been isolated and mistreated since the Aug. 21 rampage at the prison in which six persons were killed.

The federal court suit was brought by five prisoners who have been confined to specialized quarters since the Aug. 21 incident in which George Jackson, one of the "Soledad Brothers," was killed along with three guards and two other prisoners.

The lawsuit claims the Quentin lock-up denies due process of law, constitutes cruel and unusual punishment and violates the First Amendment by punishing the prisoners' beliefs and associations.

The suit named as defendants Gov. Ronald Reagan, Raymond K. Procunier, director of the Department of Corrections; Louis S. Nelson, San Quentin Prison warden; Associate Warden James W. L. Park; Joseph O'Brien, an official at the prison; A.R. Jacobs, associate warden, and other San Quentin officials.

The plaintiffs, mostly black, had been among the general prison population. The suit said they are now confined in Quentin's adjustment center and A and B sections. They are locked in their cells 23-24 hours per day without prison privileges or programs, according to the complaint, and their parole is in danger.

Charges against the plaintiffs range from being Black Panthers to "making prison staff uncomfortable." There are a total of 200 so segregated, according to attorneys for the plaintiffs.

The plaintiffs named in the suit were Bobby Bly, Wesley Robert Wells, Cleveland Brooks, Willie E. Gray, and Benito Ibarra, all convicts.

Award Will Be Given For Overall Project Design

The Novato Plan Review committee has decided to give an annual award for the best overall project design incorporating new and innovative ideas that integrate the building with the site.

Other awards , the board said Wednesday, may also be given for the best design in cluster single-family residential design, multiple-family residential design, public buildings, commercial, and industrial buildings, renovations and alterations, and signs.

The committee on Wednesday approved plans for 32 single-family residences in Mendocino Gardens, south of Novato Boulevard west of Eucalyptus Avenue for Norman T. Gilroy.

It approved plans for a professional office building at the northeast corner of Second Street and Grant Avenue for Eugene McGillicuddy.

The committee approved an 18-square-foot sign for Little Bavaria restaurant at 5611 Redwood Highway for George Wamminger.

San Marin High Homecoming Set

Homecoming for San Marin High School in Novato will be celebrated tomorrow with the San Marin-San Rafael football game followed by the homecoming ball at which the homecoming queen will be crowned.

Candidates are seniors Debbie Berg, Roxanne Raiewski and Susan Stublarec. The winner will be queen and the other two, princesses, said vice principal William Stiveson.

Their attendants will be junior Wendy Putnam and sophomore Brenda Hagberg.

The dance will be at 8:30 p.m. in the school gymnasium with "Free and Easy," a rock band that has played at Pepperland in San Rafael and Fillmore West in San Francisco. "Rolvaag," a group of San Marin High School students will put on a light show.

School Finance Plan Still Valid

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Supreme Court, in a modification of its landmark Aug. 30 school financing decision, has ruled that the existing property tax system for supporting the public schools is still valid.

The high court yesterday said the Aug. 30 decision was not a final judgment and pointed out that it only ordered the case returned to trial court for further proceedings and did not strike down school financing in California.

If the trial court subsequently finds the present system of public school financing to be unconstitutional, the high court said it should provide for an "orderly transition" to a new system.

In the meantime, the high court said, the lower court's judgment "should make clear that the existing system is to remain operable until an appropriate new system" can be put into effect.

A finding that a governmental operation is unconstitutional "does not necessarily require invalidation of past acts . . . or an immediate implementation of a constitutionally valid substitute," the court said.

In the Aug. 30 ruling, in a case brought by a group of Los Angeles residents, the high court said the method of financing schools by local property taxes was unconstitutional because it penalized children who lived in poorer counties.

The modification was made in response to a petition by Attorney General Evelle Younger, who said that some taxpayers were paying local property taxes under protest and filing claims for refunds because they thought the present system was no longer valid.

Soviets Denied Land In Mt. Vernon Area

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Sate Department has advised the Soviet embassy it could not approve Russian purchase of a $1 million, 28-acre tract of land near the Mt. Vernon home of George Washington for use as a "recreational area" by embassy officials and employees.

A department spokesman said yesterday Secretary of State William P. Rogers decided last week that "purchase of land of historic interest by any foreign nation" could not be approved.

Rogers' decision was relayed Thursday to Soviet first secretary Vadim I. Kavalerov, who called at the department on "other business."

The Russians had sought to buy from a private owner the 28-acre Potomac River estate on land once owned by Washington, who built a home there before he moved to nearby Mt. Vernon.

Department spokesman Charles W. Bray said he knew of no legal designation of the property as "historic" although he said its nature was obvious by its location.

The department has no specific legal authority to bar the purchase, but it has an understanding with the Russians that they will neither lease nor buy property in the United States without the department's approval.

Kavalerov was told the department would give its "full cooperation" in finding an adequate recreational facility elsewhere.

THE SPOUSE GAP

Three Avenues To Save Marriage

(Condensed from the book, "The Spouse Gap")
By ROBERT LEE and MARJORIE CASEBIER

If in reality or in your imagination you have reached the final climax of a deadlocked marriage, there are three possible ways to approach the gap. One way is to live in one of the patterns described in the previous section as variations of the mating game. Another, providing both you and your spouse want to make things work and are willing to risk change, is to find some ways to bridge the gap. Or, a third and last resort is to carry through with divorce, dissolve the union, and build a new life from there.

Before jumping to this last decision, the individuals or the couple together could well seek some counseling help prior to visiting their lawyers. Too often divorce is not a solution to the personality difficulties that created the interpersonal problem.

EVEN WHEN divorce is agreed upon as the best solution, the actual breakup, for a couple in middle age especially, is usually a traumatic experience. When this failure to make it in marriage hits home, the person may experience damage to his self-esteem as well as guilt, grief, resentment, self-pity, and depression. The marriage crisis has become a life crisis.

For those couples unwilling to settle for either deadlock or divorce, the marriage drama enters yet another and final stage, one alive with possibility and anticipation. Perhaps a resolution to the spouse-gap problem is possible.

We do not intend to suggest following a few guidelines will make a rose garden of your marriage and fill it with happiness and peace. We lay down a challenge for each person to go beyond past misery and injustice and failure, to cease blaming others for present troubles, and to assume responsibility for contributing to the marital situation.

If one member is not willing to try to make mutual changes and adjustments, then it is doubtful that there will be progress past the deadlock or divorce stages. For those couples who see that their marriage is in trouble, and who desperately want to make a go of it, there can be surprising changes.

TAKE A MOMENT and think about your spouse. Imagine him as a person separate from any relationship to you — not as your wife or husband, nor the mother or father of your children, but as an individual with a unique past, with special talents, and with a personal history. It is from such a vantage point that we must always relate to another, even after 20 years of marriage, for only when we acknowledge the personhood of each other can we truly relate.

Now begin to feel the difference between expected marital images of behavior and a real, person-centered relationship in considering these factors: A mother never tires or gets sick, but the person you married can tire and does become sick. A doctor's wife (or minister's, or teacher's, or executive's) is understanding and is never lonely, but the person you married does get impatient and lonely. A wife is responsive to her husband and so is always ready to respond to his sexual advances with loving tenderness, but the person you married has feelings that are sometimes expressed in other ways. A husband is self-confident and assertive in his work, but the person you married has his self-confidence threatened and shaken at times. A father can be depended upon, and is happy, to be the primary breadwinner and protector of the family, but the person you married sometimes feels taken-for-granted and unnecessary, apart from bringing home the bacon. A husband is always a confident and attentive lover who takes initiative, but the man you married gets tense and anxious and needs affection and comfort.

Our point is that no one is married to an image or a role; everyone is married to a person — who is the same, yet not the same, today as yesterday. And the spouse gap can only be bridged when couples begin recognizing and affirming that reality. It is not too late to make this person-to-person discovery.

THE WHOLE POINT of a mutually loving relationship rests in the necessity of two people's meeting each other as whole persons. Erich Fromm writes that, "love is possible only if two persons communicate with each other from the center of their existence." Such love is a constantly growing, challenging experience for both parties, allowing neither one to idolize or sentimentalize the other or to project neurotic needs onto the other. But this love can come only if each partner is himself a centered self, aware of his own needs, feelings, and experiences.

Where there is such a coming-together, person-to-person, there is a continuing reaffirmation of love as relationship and a supportive bridge across the spouse gap.

Psychiatrist Traces Men's, Women's Roles

By JOAN LISETOR

Tracing the roles of women and men over the past 50 million years in a one-hour-lecture yesterday at Congregation Rodef Sholom in San Rafael may have been what caused Dr. Wolfgang Lederer to deal in vast generalities.

"Feminists are brave maidens blowing bugles of equality against what they consider an ages old conspiracy by men," he said in a talk sponsored by the Marin County Section of the Women's Division of the Jewish Welfare Federation.

"We are living in an age of fault finding where we must find someone to blame, to attribute our troubles to a conspiracy of someone other than ourselves," Lederer said.

The cause of the women's liberation is legitimate, he said, "but can equality solve our problems?"

LEDERER, a psychiatrist who lives in Sausalito with his wife, also a psychiatrist, traced behavior patterns of the male and female animals from the beginning of time, through the dawn of civilization to the present.

"There is evidence that nature created (male and female) animals fairly equal in the ability to fight, hunt, train the young and the capability of showing affection, but males have always been more apt to rove, while females were at the center of the off-spring," he said.

The male animals would face an attacker, while the female would flee, he said.

Early art showed woman as a vessel, contrasting the man as a fallic symbol with a spear or a plow, he said.

"What has been for 50 million years cannot be changed in the flick of an eyelash," the psychiatrist said. "We were males and females before we became masculine and feminine. Civilization was created primarily by men, while women grew things and were the link to nature."

NO MATTER how much a women increases her knowledge, she is still sought by a man for her understanding, and lack of understanding justifies a man's infidelity, he said. A woman's understanding should not be of the technical aspects of a man's life but of his feelings.

The psychiatrist drew an analogy between ships and harbors and men and women, likening men to a ship in their mobility and women to a harbor in the role of waiting. He drew the analogy further by saying each was worthless without the other.

Immigrants coming to this country found that the role of the woman shifted little, but the man was forced to overcome handicpas in order to get the training required for good jobs to support the family, he said.

Women now think that men have rendered this training hard to obtain to keep them home and protected, he said, but it is not men who are at fault. The nature of the home has changed.

"WITH A restriction of sibling numbers 20 years is all that is required of motherhood, and life for a woman is less demanding and interesting. Busy work is not fully satisfying," he said.

But why do women twist this to mean they are victims of a conspiracy?

"What we require is not the liberation of women and men but a search for how men and

DISTRICT MEETING

Alternative School Idea Explored

By DOROTHY NEWELL

Alternative schools, non-grading and earlier childhood education were the topics of four educators speaking before the 14th District of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers in Novato yesterday.

Dr. Edith Pewitt of the administrative staff of the Novato Unified School District was the moderator. Speakers were Dr. Quentin R. Bryan, assistant superintendent of Santa Rosa City Schools; Dr. James Collins, superintendent of Mill Valley Elementary Schools, and Wayne Boone, assistant superintendent of San Rafael City Schools.

Dr. Collins described his work with a task force appointed by State Supt. of Public Instruciton Wilson Riles, to study early childhood education.

THE TASK force is suggesting that children begin school at the age of 4, but not to move kindergarten to that age but to have a possible non-graded school for children through the age of 8 and also to have early parent education along with the child. Some districts would be ready to go if funded, Dr. Collins said. He added that Mill Valley ahs a healthy situation in the schools with a great deal of parent involvement.

Dr. Bryan said they have alternative programs in the Santa Rosa schools, kindergarten through the 12th grade. Career development and work experience are among the programs, he said. They have also taught algebra to first grade students, he said.

The program is designed to teach students not only to learn to use leisure time but also to work, relating to the outside world of work. The program was started this fall and Dr. Bryan gave as an example a policeman riding his motorcycle into a second grade classroom with red light on and siren blaring. The youngsters were able to talk to the policeman, sit on the bike and then relate how they felt. A course for the seventh graders combines photography and geography, he said.

Vocation, general and exploratory programs are involved in the work experience program. Students either work in the field they are taking courses in in school, are placed on salary for other types of jobs or visit various work stations to see varying careers and professions.

However, Dr. Bryan said, the schools should be able to back out of such programs when they are no longer needed.

IN HIS closing statement, which brought applause from the Parent-Teacher members, he said the state gives beautifully bound glossy books to the student and then tells them not to make a mark on them. The state should give students paper-back books on the cheapest paper so the students can enjoy them and then place them in their library at the end of the year, he said.

Boone discussed the "on location" school started this fall in the San Rafael School District. Twenty-five students were chosen from Terra Linda and 25 students from San Rafael.

The students and two teachers developed their own program, which includes "development of the environment, man's relationship to society and real life experience in voluntary work." The program is only part of a school day, as the student is on a 24 hour a day commitment. The students are housed in the Presbyterian Church in San Rafael, he said.

San Rafael also has the Marin Career Education program which is in its second year — a vocation program which includes auto repair, welding and plastics.

DR. PEWITT described the opportunity classes being offered to students in Novato. These classes, one junior high class and another at Pacheco Elementary School, are for the child who cannot study in a regular class. The student might be either hyperactive or withdrawn, she said.

Other alternative schools in the county include continuation high school, adult evening school and more able learners school.

The educators agreed that it is hoped that the school will eventually be able to absorb all the children — including the educable mentally retarded, emotionally handicapped and the more able learner.

Child Center Sets Series

A series of programs for parents will be held monthly through March by the San Anselmo Pre-School Center, beginning Nov. 1.

The programs will be presented by staff from the Child Center in Kentfield at the school center in San Anselmo, 121 Ross Avenue.

Dr. Gerald Jampolsky, child center and private practice psychiatrist, will open the series Nov. 1 at 8 p.m. with a talk titled "In Defense of Fathers."

Pediatrician Dr. E. Muriel Bennett and Barbara Wander will speak Dec. 6 on "Motor Tune-Up" (motor development in children); speech specialist Jean Hartley and teacher Gayl Westerman will talk on "Sending Clear Messages" on Jan. 10; teachers Therese Stawowy and Therese Berreyesa will speak on creativity through games on Feb. 14, and the panel of staff will finish on March 13 with "The Learning Experience: What Will I Let My Kid Teach Me?"

Classic Look Is Returning

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) —Said designer Chester Weinberg: "I don't want to see the classics die."

Weinberg brings 'em back alive in his new spring collection of daytime through evening clothes. So do the rest of Seventh Avenue's style leaders currently showing their spring finery for benefit of the nation's buyers and press.

They're bringing back such standbys from the 1930s and '40s as the blazer suit, the halter neckline for evening, the white collar (and cuffed) dress that was the trademark of the working girl of another era (Remember Kitty Foyle?), ruffles and taffeta, baby-doll touches for grownups, slinky, exposing gowns in the manner of a Jean Harlow, a Rita Hayworth, a Joan Crawford or a Marlene Dietrich (somebody in the nation's garment center has been watching the late, late shows).

Matter of fact, some of New York's designers dip so far back they're copying classics of the Chinese, such as Weinberg's updated version of a rice paddy worker's trousers and tunic top done now in floral-printed organza.

Weinberg and Larry Aldrich both bowed to the Chinese influence pervading the spring collections, reflecting of course the headlines of President Nixon's forthcoming visit to mainland China. Now that the President has announced he also is going to Moscow next spring, will the cossack look also filter in?

WEINBERG, ALDRICH and Pierre Cardin American, designed by Andre Oliver, were among the collections shown Wednesday.

"Silk honan is back with us," said Weinberg, showing it in dresses with shirtwaist look.

The Aldrich collection, designed by Marie McCarthy, opened with a Chinese honan silk group of dresses in ivory (natural) silk with long, loose sleeves and high-rising mandarine collars.

Oliver didn't mention the Orient in his U.S. collection for Cardin (Cardin also has a Paris design establishment). But there were enough big sleeves, called butterfly style, to show that the mysterious East also captivated this designer.

Every way you turn for spring, you'll see what the fashion industry calls "feminine," calls "soft", calls "pretty" — and also calls saleable. It showed in the soft fabrics such as organza, flat crepes, crepe de chine (China again!), in the rustle of taffeta and crinoline, and at Aldrich enough matte jersey to curtain a warehouse.

The softness showed in the revival of the flattering white collar and cuff look on both daytime and casual evening wear, in big pussycat bows at throats, again for both day and evening, in the return of the pure silhouette of the unbelted princess with its bias cut and flaring skirt.

CERTAINLY NEW York's designers have buried the midi. Only one mini spotted so far and actually that is a misnomer. Weinberg opened his show with the model wearing navy pantyhose and a Kelly green shirtjacket in mohair. The designer said the jacket, ending at the hipline, was for wear with trousers or skirt "but it just looked better showing it without either."

Lengths for daytime spring settled at the knee, just barely covering it. For evening though, a "new" length emerged, especially in casual dresses with skinny sweater tops, fully gathered skirts bustling about. The skirts come just above the ankles, flattering on models, but maybe difficult for the nonmodel types.

IF A WOMAN doesn't want to risk the ankle display, there are plenty of floor length numbers.

Watch also for these trends for spring:

—Continuation of the pants look, Weinberg doing trousers with single-breasted blazer jackets, the cuffed trousers swinging wide at the ankle.

—Big sleeves in some evening dresses. Aldrich showed an "oriental princess" evening dress with big, full sleeves and high, mandarin collar, the works in a soft mauvey-print organza.

—Checks, plaids and stripes all worked into one costume.

—A wider look to the shoulders as designers nip in and fit the body at the waist, but none of the Joan Crawford "football" shoulders that the late designer Adrian used to run up for the movie glamour girls.

—Tiers of ruffles making up the skirts of formal wear, both short and long, the neckline usually the front-covering halter which bared the back. Or, ruffles primly outlining high throated formals, ending the sleeves at the wrists.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

No Answer For Mother Who Wants To Live Without Fear

DEAR HELEN:

I am the mother of an 11-year-old girl who is an honor student and has won several awards. She is mature for her age, yet I must treat her as I would a five-year-old. Here's why:

The home we lived in for the past seven years has been taken by Urban Renewal, and we've been moved to a really terrible district. In the month we've been here, there have been five rapes, and one resulted in the death of a 10-year-old girl. Another victim is still in the hospital.

My daughter resents it when I insist on walking with her almost everywhere, especially in the evening, and taking her up and down on those frightening elevators — we're on the 10th floor.

I can't keep her locked up in our apartment, and I'm wearing myself — and her — out with all this protection. Her father is long gone.

We're on a list for a village apartment, but it may take years. Meanwhile, we fight off rats — and the human kind are worst.

Helen, how can you bring your child up to believe in society when you must make her so afraid that she won't step out of the door alone? — MRS. M.M., GHETTO, U.S.A.

DEAR MRS. M.:

I wish I had an upbeat answer to your question, but I haven't. I can only print it with the hope that someday, somehow, urban mothers and children can live without constant fear.

Meanwhile, keep on writing letters — to the mayor, your councilman, the newspaper, the police commissioner, your state assemblyman, and get other concerned mothers to join you.

Before you say that complaints from the ghetto are never heard, remember your letter made a national column. You have the gift of expression. Don't waste it! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I need a painless, quick, lasting cure for a sister-in-law who always pops in at dinnertime.

Stella must have radar when it comes to food. Preparing and serving dinner for four children and a husband is hectic enough without this 100-pounds-overweight divorcee gossiping and complaining all the way. She never cooks for herself, so all her meals come out of cans, restaurants, or our place. I can't, in good conscience, invite her to eat with us because she's always on a diet and I can't cope with her "no-no" list from W.W., her physician, reducing salon, hypnotist and psychiatrist. But, still she sits and watches us eat. Most often she says, "Oh no, I can't stay, and then ends up with a heaping plate of "just tastes."

I've tried changing our dinner hour but she must be psychic. Whenever I see her driving up, my blood starts to curdle. Why couldn't she come in the afternoon, or later in the evening? Or once a month?

She's my husband's only relative so I can't be mean, though I know he doesn't like her dinner visits any more than I do. I've made little cracks about her "nose knowing" when there's food, but all she ever asks is why I bite my fingernails. Help! — FRYING

DEAR FRYING:

If you can't level with the lady, then why not make the dinner hour so uncomfortable she'd prefer to spend it elsewhere? Trip over her feet, spill gravy in her lap, give the kids permission to play records extra loud, put on a battle or two, scream a lot, greet her with, "I'm so glad you came — can you babysit for us tonight?" . . . And find her a man, if that's possible. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

You mentioned something about a husband joining the "men's auxiliary of NOW." Men are full members of NOW, who vote, hold office, etc. This is where NOW parts company with most women's liberation groups. It welcomes men in equal positions and is attracting more and more males who see that liberation from old sex role stereotypes will help everyone. — B.H.

DEAR B:

I stand corrected: Gentlemen, be seated — equally. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

That's the word from Seventeen magazine, which endorses butterfly sweaters, bright skimps with pinafore shoulders or ruffles mid-sleeve; quilted or plain plush velvet jackets in navy.

Life Around The Computer And Piano

The youthful native of Selma, Ala., is both accomplished pianist and computer programmer.

Miss Donley's recent performance of a Bach concerto with the Greece, N.Y. Symphony was another chapter in a long career in music. (Greece is a Rochester suburb). Conductor David Fetler complimented her as a "sensitive performer" who did a "beautiful job" with the delicate concerto.

Miss Donley, now a computer programmer for the Eastman Kodak Co., began music with piano lessons at the age of four. By the age of 11, she was presented in a recital, playing as many instruments as her age.

She was graduated in 1964 from Fisk University in Nashville, Tenn., taught a year at Tugaloo College in Mississippi, did graduate study in musicology at Indiana University, and was a teacher-assistant at the State University of New York at Buffalo where she earned her Master's Degree in piano.

She came to Kodak a year ago under the company's training program for computer specialists.

Miss Donley sees her musical career as performer and composer completely in keeping with her work in industry—the well-rounded artist, she says, "must balance the creative with the utilitarian."

Be Creative With Packages Of Sausage

Have you tried a sausageburger lately? Smart meat market shoppers know that now's the time to be creative with pork. Sausageburgers are one great creation.

Simply cook sausage patties (a bit larger around than usual) and place on the bottoms of buns. Add a few onion rings, raw or grilled, and a tomato slice and lettuce, or sauerkraut, if desired, before capping with bun tops.

ON BEING BLACK

New Sports Magazine Hailed For Its Specific Viewpoints

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

Some years ago, while viewing a performance by the San Francisco Ballet, my escort for the evening made a verbal observation which caused me to have a new respect for the field of sports — an area I had decided I didn't like and couldn't understand.

As the dancers gracefully and flawlessly performed their repertoire, my friend made the statement that their maneuvers were much like those of a running back or flanker —at least the proper execution of such maneuvers require the same amount of body conditioning, discipline, agility and ability. And they were both (media) beautiful — both worthy of being championed, respected and appreciated.

I was reminded of that bit of philosophy as I viewed the color photo of Dallas' Bob Hayes, which graces the cover of the October issue of Black Sports — a new magazine dedicated to the illumination of black men and women in the world of sports.

PUBLISHED BY Black Sports, Inc. (386 Park Avenue South, N.Y. 10016) this neophyte magazine is off to a great start. The format is fascinating and the features are well written. The point of view is black.

"Jocks" (athletes — past, present and would be) will find Black Sports highly readable but so will the sports layman — especially the female who is only quasi-interested in sports. Black Sports will "turn her on" and help to clear some of the smoke screen that somehow manages to surround the fascinating area of sports.

Creative director Ahmad Sadiq has put together a highly aesthetic magazine. The features include a thoughtful and provocative statement by the publisher, Allan P. Barron and notes from the editor, Sheila F. Younge.

Locker Room Chatter gives the reader a wide range of concise bits of athletic information, and there is an interesting medical column.

Walter Dukes' TCB (Takin' Care of Business) is informative and each month Black Sports features high school and college athletes of the month —well-deserved commendation for up-and-coming young athletes.

BRYAND C. GUMBEL has written a thoughtful article about Bob Hayes entitled "Run Silent, Run Deep" and also a poignant tribute to the late Ernie Davis entitled "One Uniform is Missing."

An especially great feature is Historically Speaking . . . This month it spotlights Duke Slater, an all-American, all-pro Hall-of-Famer, who was also a judge. Its content is an inspiration to all athletes —especially the young.

Carl Nesfield presents an interesting article on black collegiate quarterbacks.

Also included is a monthly rap session. This month the alleged practice of blacklisting is discussed.

HOWIE EVANS initiates the coming basketball season with an informative article called the "Little Man's Game."

Special features you'll enjoy:

The Marin Magazine's current series on cities in Marin continues this week with a look at Novato, apparently destined to be the county's largest city. Mayor Joseph D. Gargiulo presents a "state of the city" report, while his daughter, Ellen, reviews the history of the Novato area and the Novato Chamber of Commerce looks to the future. The word portrait of Novato is accompanied by photographs of the area, past and present.

Musican Marin is as active as ever and one of the latest organizations making sounds is the Orchestra Piccola, a group of young musicians, under the direction of Hugo Rinaldi and sponsored by the Marin Symphony Association. The Marin Magazine's story by Editor Don Keown reveals how the musicians take to the playing of Early Baroque and contemporary chamber music.

Cooks Told To Serve More Fish

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Commerce Department is waging an enticing campaign to lure more American housewives into fish and seafood cookery.

The Department's National Marine Fisheries Service has available a series of pamphlets which aim to provide homemakers with information on the vast protein resources of the sea and recipes to make them more edible.

Except for fears of mercury in swordfish, the department is encouraging fish and seafood eating for many reasons. The fat content is low and the protein content is high in a variety of fish.

IT POINTS out that fish with low fat amounts are particularly suited for weight control. Moreover, the fat in fish contains a high proportion of polyunsaturated fatty acids which may help to decrease the incidence of heart ailments.

The fish and shellfish with low amounts of fat and high amounts of protein include tuna, halibut, cod, flounders, haddock, pollock, mullet, rockfish, carp. whiting, crab, scallops, shrimp, and lobsters.

Tuna and halibut are particularly good sources of protein. Fish that often contains higher amounts of fat—but still high amounts of protein—include anchovies, herring mackerel, salmon and sardines. Oysters and clams contain relatively low amounts of fat and protein, because of their high content of water.

The department in promoting resources of the sea stresses the importance of oil in fish and shellfish to human health. Fishery products also are high in minerals and vitamins.

The department rejects the old wives tales that fish is brainfood or that oysters increase sexual potency.

THE SALES pitch on fish eating dwells on the wide variety available in markets all over the country: the quick cooking time; the nutritious value and the low budgeting cost, with good buys all year long.

The brochures are entitled: "Fish for Compliments," "How to Eye and Buy Seafood," "Over the Coals," "Nautical Notions for Nibbling," "Take a can of Salmon," "Flavor of Maine," subtitled "Sardine Secrets" and "Fancy Catfish."

women can become more meaningful to each other," he said. "Those in the (feminist) movement have forgotten this which makes me consider it destructive and evil."

The psychiatrist said he is doubtful fullfilment can be obtained when traditional roles change or by the sharing of household chores.

The psychiatrist is the author of a recently published book, "The Fear of Women." The title, he said is often misunderstood by persons who think it is about women's fears. It is about the fears men have that they can't please women, he explained.

A woman in the audience expressed the hope that the psychiatrist would write a sequel, when he understands women.

'Span Plan' Program Helps Women Take Full Advantage Of Education

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI)—A Purdue University project now being copied elsewhere remembers mamma beyond her potential as wife, mother and housekeeper.

It's designed to prepare a woman for a good job if she goes into the labor market, perhaps even as head of the household. .

Called the "Span Plan", the program includes counseling freshmen to get more out of college than a husband, and a fund that provides "seed money" assistance to student wives and mature married women who want to take college courses.

Dr. Cecelia Zissus, associate dean of women who directs the Span plan, said the program is no longer unique to Purdue because other schools have adopted at least parts of the program.

"THE NAME Span Plan refers to the belief that girls and women should make educational and work plans for their total lifespan," she said. Freshmen women are given a chart showing the average age for major events in a woman's life.

"According to the Span Plan chart, the average woman at age 35 has her last child in school and has 30 active years before her," Dr. Zissus said. Not too long ago, such a woman probably would try to fill her time with clubs or similar social activity, but that does not happen very often now, she said.

There are some 31 million women in the labor force today and the average one is married and 39 years old, Dr. Zissus said. The figure represents over 40 per cent of the women in the United States.

The Span Plan is sufficiently new (it started in January, 1968) so there are really no "typical" cases of women who have benefited from all its aspects.

But Dr. Zissus did have figures on the number of women students, often students' wives who were "putting hubby through," who have received grants under the program. More than 140 grants have been given for a total of about $9,000, she said.

This might not sound like much, but the purpose of the grants is to enable women to take a course or two, not to finance a complete education, she said.

"It was felt that if the wife had a chance to take a course or two, she would feel encouraged to take more courses on her own," she said. The idea has worked that way in quite a few cases.

HERE AGAIN, figures don't come close to telling the whole story.

For Mrs. Sharron Cavness, a 36-year-old housewife from Francesville, the need for such a program was brought home a few years ago. Then, her husband Richard had a tumor in one leg and was unable to return to work for several months and the family had to depend on her income.

At that time she was able only to find work as a teacher's assistant in the town of 1,000.

"As an assistant, I was only making about $50-60 a week and I kept eyeing the teachers and thinking 'Why, I could do that,'" Mrs. Cavness said. "When Richard was able to return to work, the idea kept coming to me that I should go back to school."

Cavness was skeptical at first about his wife, a 1953 high school graduate, returning to college for a degree.

"Now the closer I get to a degree, the better it looks to both of us," she said.

With two children, both girls, aged 13 and nine, and a husband, there is no practical way for Mrs. Cavness to live on campus, so she commutes 100 miles a day for classes.

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The Playoff Begins To Select U.S. Olympics Representative

This afternoon marks the beginning of a playoff in New Orleans to pick the team to represent the United States next June in the Bridge Olympics. The Dallas Aces, winners of the world championship in 1970 and 1971, are favored to win, but the team they are meeting this weekend, headed by Los Angeles expert Lew Mathe, came from behind to beat them in the national team championship three months ago in Chicago. I'll be watching the match to bring you hands like the one shown today.

BRILLIANCE

West opened the seven of spades, and Mike Lawrence won with the ten. At 31, the youngest player in the playoff, Lawrence is ranked by many expert observers as the most brilliant of the Aces. Today's hand shows the soundness of his game.

How should South play for nine tricks after winning the first trick with the ten of spades? Assume that he cannot see the East-West cards.

Lawrence returned a spade to dummy's king at the second trick. West could not afford to put up the ace since that would give declarer a total of three spade tricks, all he needed for the contract. East discarded a heart, and South knew that he could not expect any more spade tricks.

MAKING SURE

The odds were better than even that the clubs would run, but Lawrence saw no reason to take any risks. He was sure of two spades, three hearts and three clubs and needed one other trick for the game. He made sure of that trick also by leading a diamond from dummy.

The defenders could take their three diamonds and the ace of spades, but then Lawrence was sure of the rest. The ten of diamonds was sure to be his ninth trick no matter how the defense wriggled or squirmed.

If Lawrence had gone after the clubs, like a normal human being, the defenders would have taken a club trick as well as three diamonds and a spade. You don't win world championships by taking chances when you can take a sure thing.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one diamond, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - K 5 3
♥ - K 9 6
♦ - Q 8
♣ - A Q 10 9 5.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs.

If partner fails to support the clubs enthusiastically, you can go to game in no-trump at your next turn. If you jumped to 2-NT at your first turn you might miss a slam in clubs.

FAMILY

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Gone With The Wind" — A classic, a pictorial history of the Civil War and of a civilization "gone with the wind."

"Hellstrom Chronicle" — Fascinating and incredibly detailed study of the insect world is nothing short of miraculous. It conveys a new awareness of the world we inhabit.

"Lord of the Flies" — A group of British school boys, marooned on an uninhabited tropical island by a plane crash regress to ancient savagery. Well acted film conveys author Golding's comment on human frailty.

"Murder in the Rue Morgue" — Poe's gory tales of murder are given explicit treatment in this horror film set in and around the theater in the Rue Morgue of Paris. Plenty of violence.

"Murphy's War" — A dissertation on hate. A tale of adventure set toward the end of World War II in the Venezuelan jungle. A British merchant seaman survives a U-boat attack, is obsessed with getting revenge against the submarine responsible for the loss of his shipmates. Well done.

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Bonnie and Clyde" — A chapter in the gangster history of the 30's brought to vivid life. No attempt made to glamorize its characters. Brutally frank and violent.

"Bullit" — Set in San Francisco this story behind the security measures to safeguard a witness for a crime hearing is fast moving and brutally violent. A dizzying car chase and the final shootout have an electrifying effect.

"Death In Venice" — Set in 1911, a composer on the verge of a physical and mental collapse goes to Venice to regain his health and becomes obsessed with a beautiful young boy and is tormented by the passion that is unleashed. Very slow moving.

"Dr. Phibes" — Campy horror film about a man who comes back from the dead to avenge his wife's death, which occurred during surgery. Each of the doctors involved is destroyed according to a pattern of ten curses. It's supposed to be morbid humor but becomes offensive and boring.

"Flap" — Rowdy comedy with unorthodox spokesman for the neglected American Indians undercuts the serious message of this film. A militant group in fighting for better conditions on the reservation use illegal methods and cancel out the progress they might have achieved. Brutality, cursing and nudity.

"Getting Straight" — A satiric view of the Establishment and the radicals on a college campus. Many characters' complicated problems are presented. Riot with police is disturbing to watch, many sex scenes and foul language.

ADULTS ONLY

"Carnal Knowledge" — The sex lives of two men from college days to middle age done in a two dimensional cynical, satirical style does become tiresome. Fine performances from cast, language and sex are explicit.

"Doctor's Wives" — Marital and extra-marital sex in medical circles with operating room gore as added attraction.

"Drive, He Said" — A disturbing portrait of college students who have trouble maturing in today's world. Film relies heavily on use of frontal nudity, love attitudes and foul language, drugs and overwhelming violence.

"Husbands" — Three New York suburban husbands go on a bender after the funeral of one of their pals. Their pent up frustrations with their dreary, empty existence leads them to make one last bid for freedom. Sex and cursing.

"Little Murders" — A black comedy about how people have become brutalized by the horrors of contemporary life, they deny all feeling. How five people react to a series of murders make up the story. Savage, witty, horribly violent parable of our times.

"The Love Machine" — Adaptation of Susann's best seller leaves much to be desired. An oversexed TV newscaster becomes president of the network by bedding down with everyone. Some of the serious dramatic moments are quite funny.

"Marriage of a Young Stock Broker" — An attempt to make a comedy out of a desperate situation is sad. A film about a voyeur, a pathetic character, who cops out rather than find a solution to his problem.

"McCabe and Mrs. Miller" — A mining town at the turn of the century is victimized by a petty crook who sets up a brothel. Story is tasteless in the name of realism. Much brutality, vulgarity and nudity.

"Owl and the Pussy Cat" — A racy adult comedy based on a Broadway hit about a prostitute who tries to improve her mind and a shy would be author and their unlikely relationship. Low comedy bits and profanity from Barbra Streisand.

"The Touch" — Bergman's new film (in English) is about a wife who takes as a lover a friend of her husband's. The lover character is a neurotic, egotistical man. The husband draws the line on how much he will permit his wife to make him and their children suffer. Acting good except for Elliot Gould. Nudity and sex.

Completion Date For Outfall Line Reset To Oct. 27

The San Rafael Sanitation District has extended the contractor's completion date to Oct. 27 for the new Peacock Gap outfall line into San Pablo Bay.

According to Norris M. Rawles, district administrator, the 15-day extension was granted the Heli-Tibitts construction firm of San Francisco which has run into delays getting materials.

The project itself, located south of China Camp, is about 90 per cent complete, he said. Total cost is about $75,000.

On other matters, the board was told Wednesday its new pumping station on Francisco Boulevard at the San Rafael overpass of Highway 101 is about 65 per cent complete.

The $600,000 project is due for completion during the first part of December, he said.

Agnew Playing Tourist Role

ATHENS (UPI)—U.S. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew was just another tourist today, with aides insisting that he planned nothing but sightseeing. Politically minded Greeks refused to believe it.

After an exhausting two-day tour of the Greek countryside, which included his ancestral village of Gargalianoi and the islands of Rhodes and Crete, Agnew spent a quiet Thursday.

Agnew, who canceled an Aegean cruise in order to return to Athens on Wednesday night, was not scheduled to meet anyone, a spokesman said.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Renaissance Center Sounds Intriguing, But

The Renaissance Center in Lucas Valley would be a cultural jewel for Marin, as described by Phyllis Patterson, who hopes to locate it on part of the Grady Ranch just over four miles from Highway 101 on Lucas Valley Road.

It would, as she describes it, attract visitors and students from afar, at the same time preserving, rather than despoiling, the rustic beauty of upper Lucas Valley.

It would be an authentic recreation of a medieval English village, with gildhall, inn, outdoor theater, craft workshops and museum clustered about a village square. Students would participate in workshops under instruction of skilled craftsmen, and would even help erect the buildings. There would be an "Elizabethan summer university."

THIS CENTER would occupy only about 30 acres of the 1,000-acre Grady Ranch. All but 75 acres of the ranch would remain in agricultrual zoning. The 75 acres of the ranch would be rezoned resort-commercial.

Funds for construction and operation of the center, according to a prospectus prepared for the county planning department, would come from a variety of sources. The prospectus lists these as memberships in the center, admissions to its exhibits and events, government and foundation grants, donations, tuition for classes, and sale of books and recordings.

Not mentioned in this list is the source of the funds with which Mrs. Patterson and her husband, Ronald, propose to buy the Grady Ranch: the Renaissance Faires.

The Pattersons operate these "faires" in Marin and Los Angeles counties. One-third of the money received for admissions, according to Mrs. Patterson, is donated to the Renaissance Center, a non-profit corporation. That is the source of the funds to buy the Grady Ranch.

THE MAIN RENAISSANCE Faire would occupy the rest of the 75 acres to be rezoned resort-commercial (although this commercial zoning would apply also the assertedly non-commercial center). The "faire" would be held each year in September and October.

To accommodate the many automobiles carrying visitors to the "faire," the plan calls for parking lots lining narrow, winding Lucas Valley Road for a half-mile below the center entrance. And it is expected, according to Mrs. Patterson, that as many as 1,000 additional cars would be parked at the Marin Civic Center, with shuttle buses provided.

The Renaissance Center, as a non-profit corporation, would be entitled to tax exemption on the property. But Mrs. Patterson says the center directors (she, her husband, and one other) would not apply for such exemption.

MRS. PATTERSON likes to talk about the Renaissance Center. The residents of Lucas Valley are worried about the Renaissance Faire — and with good reason.

Unanswered when Deputy Zoning Administrator Harvey E. Bragdon approved a use permit for the development was the question of why resort-commercial zoning is sought for the Renaissance Center if it is to be a non-profit, non-commercial use.

Perhaps that question will be answered when the application goes before the county planning commission on Nov. 1 — along with other questions, such as what protection would exist against having the whole 1,000 acres removed from the tax rolls by the non-profit corporation, and just how all those cars are to be handled on Lucas Valley Road without all sorts of problems of home access, fire protection, etc.

Without very convincing answers to such questions, we are inclined to think we'd just as soon do without the marvelous Renaissance Center — though Mrs. Patterson makes it sound tremendously attractive.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Retirement Funds Raided To 'Balance' State Budget

By MARY K. SHELL

SACRAMENTO (Capitol) — Several state retirement systems are short amounts totalling nearly $5 billion, according to the Joint Legislative Audit Committee. This revelation was contained in a routine audit report filed without fanfare earlier this year.

According to Assemblyman Vincent Thomas, D-San Pedro, chairman of the joint audit committee, this is the result of annual raiding of the retirement funds by the state to pay other current operating costs. The debt (which nearly equals the entire state budget for 1971-72) is owed to the teachers', public employees', judges' and legislators' retirement systems.

The obligation has grown to such proportions that the joint audit committee has recommended that local government take over funding of the systems for local employees.

IN ITS REPORT, the committee suggests the state pay off its existing obligation to the various funds over a period of perhaps 30 years and transfer the responsibility to local government.

"Wages and fringe benefits," in the committee's view, "including retirement benefits are the rightful responsibility of local government and should be exclusive to local government."

The $5 billion obligation is not mentioned in the governor's budget, which prompts Auditor General William E. Merrifield to conclude, "It is obvious that the state budgets have not been balanced on this basis or the general fund would not have obligations to retirement systems as of June 30, 1970, approaching the $5 billion level."

Merrifield (who serves under the direction of the joint audit committee) also charged the general fund statements and the statements for retirement funds in the state controller's annual report for the year ending June 30, 1970, are misleading because they contain no reference to this "huge obligation of the general fund to the several retirement systems which has accumulated over a long period of years and continues to grow at an accelerated rate."

ASSEMBLYMAN THOMAS compares the practice to a business ignoring its "accounts payable" in a financial statement.

The audit committee has found the state has an unpaid obligation of some $4 billion to the teachers' retirement fund; $360 million to the public employees' fund; $115 million to the judges' fund and $6 million to the legislators' fund.

That was last year! Figures are not yet available on deficiencies for 1971.

Each year the state budget has included an allocation to the several retirement systems, but it has fallen far short of requirements.

By removing the ability to earn interest, the state (that means you taxpayers) can end up paying out twice as much in cash in retirement benefits.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Reporting On School Attacked By Reader

I am appalled at the incredibly poor judgment displayed by the I-J in its recent stories of the San Rafael High School. I can only believe that such an inflammatory, and misleading, attack was meant to stir up a controversy. How unfortunate for both the community and the school!

I think David Dietz is one of the most irresponsible journalists I have ever read. Since he was so lacking in objectivity, he might have mentioned that the venomous rudeness shown by some of the adults at the board of education meeting Tuesday night was fully as distressing and objectionable to concerned citizens as any of the things they so loudly deplored.

The articles have been both uninformed — or misinformed — and misleading. Nothing was included about the positive steps that have been taken by the administration and the police, cooperatively, or the continuing constructive efforts by many people who are involved in trying to work out the problems — which incidentally are nation-wide, not confined to SRHS, which the I-J in its provinciality seems not to realize.

It has been stressed that the solutions lie in community involvement of a constructive nature. Until the I-J can take a realistic attitude toward the school and community, it not only does not offer answers, it adds fuel to the fires of those who refuse to budge an inch in their narrow, short-sighted views.

There have been innumerable requests for help in many areas at SRHS — as at all schools. It is always the same people who respond, who are willing to make a personal commitment of involvement. Conversely, those who know the least are the ones who shout the loudest.

The SRHS PTA board recently gave Dr. Palches its full support and appreciation for his handling of the incidents. It is unfortunate that the I-J so carelessly blew them up out of all proportion.

Maybe Boys Can't Be Boys Any More

Tonight I read an article in your paper that I for one find hard to believe, and I am referring to the boys who were trying to sneak into the fair and some security guard shot at. All I can say is that the security guard was never young.

Big deal, so what if they did sneak in? Do you think it was worth a wounded or dead boy? If the boy had been shot or wounded there would be "hell" to pay and rightly so. I have a eighteen year old boy, and I wouldn't think he was much of a "boy" if at some time in his life he didn't do some of these antics just for the heck of it.

Was also happy to read that Marcelle McCoy said that this was the only "criminal" incident that was reported to mar the fair.

Today is Friday, Oct. 22nd, the 295th day of 1971.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter.

The morning star is Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Libra.

Hungarian composer Franz Liszt was born Oct. 22, 1811.

On this day in history:

In 1836 Gen. Sam Houston was sworn in as the first president of the Republic of Texas.

In 1962 President John F. Kennedy announced an arms blockade of Cuba after Soviet missiles were discovered on the Communist island.

In 1968 the Apollo VII astronauts splashed down after an 11-day earth orbital flight.

Three Ranches Could Become Marin Park

The three ranches for sale, Grady, Lewis and Nunes, should be turned into a park.

San Francisco has Golden Gate, East Bay has Tilden, Peninsula has Alum. Marin too should have a park.

The sewage system or the roads are not adequate to support the Renaissance Faire or more homes.

Let's have some open spaces. The Grady, Lewis and Nunes farms. A place for people to play and breathe. Let's have a park for Marin County.

High Medical Fees Produce Protest

What has happened to fair play? Are there any Doctor Welbys left? Is the medical profession filled with money-hungry individuals who don't care about the working man and whether it kills him to pay their high fees?

Must a working man pay his whole life for a little medical attention, which we all deserve and need? Must we go in debt or broke getting it? I realize that doctors have to go to school for many years and it is expensive, but does mankind have to carry the load for the education and cost for the rest of our lives?

The struggle of a working man having to pay the same medical fee as a rich man and trying to keep his pride and head above water by trying to keep out of the welfare roll. Why should people be the puppets of the medical doctors? We are forced to pay the fees that they charge because the medical needs of a family have to be met. They've got us, but is it fair? They must realize what they're doing to us! Don't they have a conscience?!

Are there any real doctors left that care about the people instead of their money? Down with high doctor fees and in with humanity! . . .

Water Measure Questions Unanswered

As a voter in the Marin Municipal Water District and as an engineer who has had water resource planning experience I am naturally very interested in Measure B.

However, much of the information needed to make a rational decision has not been presented in any article I have read. Virtually everything written concerns conclusions and opinions (both pro and con) rather than the basis for these conclusions.

I would like to see the following information presented to the voters:

(1) What is the firm annual yield of the MMWD system at present?

(2) What would be the firm annual yield during a one in 10 year drought? During a one in 5 year drought?

(3) How much additional water could be obtained from local sources (such as Phoenix Lake)?

(4) What is the present annual water use in the district?

(5) What is the present population served and the average water usage (gallons per capita per day)?

(6) What were the population growth and water usage projections used in determining future water needs?

(7) Are there administrative or legal reasons why construction of the aqueduct could not be delayed for five or 10 years?

Answers to the above questions would give voters the information needed to reach their own conclusions on the reasonableness of these assumptions and decide whether additional water will be needed or desired during the next few years.

Information on financing also needs to be available to the voters. There has been considerable information on this in the I-J but it would be helpful it it was all summarized during these last days before the election.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Voter Participation Needed In Selecting Vice President

WASHINGTON — Two political predictions can be made wtih reasonable safety:

The man who is elected vice president will likely become president.

If he doesn't inherit the presidency, it is probable he will be a presidential nominee.

Under such circumstances, is it prudent, is it good government, is it right that one man should pick the party's vice-presidential candidate?

I say no.

THE TIME HAS COME to end the one-man choice of future presidents and future presidential nominees — and for these two reasons:

1—The vice presidency is the foremost escalator to the White House in the political structure of the United States today.

It made Harry Truman president. It made Lyndon Johnson president. It gave Hubert Humphrey the Democratic presidential nomination. It gave Richard Nixon two presidential nominations and helped him win the presidency in 1968. Sen. John F. Kennedy sought the vice presidential nomination in 1956 as the best means of getting the presidential nomination in 1960.

2—During the last 50 years —from Wilson to Nixon —two-thirds of our presidents have either been grievously ill in office (Wilson and Eisenhower) or died in office either from sickness or assassination. (Harding, F.D.R. and John Kennedy) or been the target of an assassin's bullet (Truman and Roosevelt). Only two out of the last nine presidents (Coolidge and Hoover) have entirely escaped these perils.

THESE CIRCUMSTANCES compel the conclusion that the major parties must measure their prospective vice presidential candidates for fitness to serve as president.

It simply isn't good enough any longer to leave this decision to one man —even to the presidential nominee. The choice ought to be widely based and deliberated by the party as a whole.

It can be done. One good way of doing it is recommended in the solid, practical and provocative "The Future of American Political Parties" by the disparate team of Dr. John S. Saloma III, a political science professor with pragmatic instinct, and Frederick H. Sontag, an experienced practitioner of practical politics.

This study, undertaken under the aegis of the Twentieth Century Fund and to be published in book form next year, is packed with creative proposals to rescue our decaying political parties and to make representative government more representative. It is a voter's as well as a politician's much-needed modern handbook for practical reform. It shows how our parties can be made to work better at every level of voter participation and thereby how government can be made more responsive and more effective.

ONE OF THEIR MANY recommendations is that the selection of the vice presidential nominee be "an open convention contest," that candidates for the nomination should engage in primary contests. They rightly stress that considerations such as ticket-balancing, compatibility of the national ticket and intraparty compromise seem to pale against the criterion of the ability of the vice president to govern the country and lead the party.

Their central point is that the increasing importance of the vice president as deputy leader of the party and as heir to the presidential nomination, now outweighs traditional arguments that the choice of a running-mate should be the sole prerogative of the presidential nominee.

Let's Hear The Cheers For Nancy And Air Force

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — Let's hear it for Nancy Graber, who has socked Vassar College with a million-dollar suit for tolerating her schoolmate's pot smoking to the extent that it ruined her studies.

Also let's her it for the United States Air Force!

In the continuing campaign of individual vs. institution so brashly pushed by young Americans these past years, there is no more heartening intelligence than Miss Graber's individual assertion that the young ladies' institution at Poughkeepsie on the Hudson has let permissiveness go a long step too far.

Unless, perhaps, it is the parallel action of the Air Force as an institution against a 24-year-old individual who has enjoyed a four-year education at government expense and now decided with exquisite timing that he doesn't really like the Air Force business after all.

EACH CASE, YOU SEE, breaks the pattern that had got to be so boring — that of freedom-loving student or other juvenile challenging stuffy conservative institution and sometimes prevailing and sometimes losing, but always drawing hosannas from the youth cultists and two minutes on the evening news.

Here we have a straignt-arrow student (insofar as her attitude toward dope is concerned; I care not how she feels about sex, booze, religion or "Oh, Calcutta!") cast as heroine, and on the other stage the most expensive of the overabused military branches, the wielder of the big bomb itself, playing hero. Ask who cast them in these roles, and I will answer: Me.

I am qualified to along with X-million other parents in this country who have sent, are sending or are saving to send their children to college on their own (the parents') hard-earned money.

THAT IS HOW the 20-year-old Miss Graber went to Vassar, which is a lot more dear than your average county community college. Having shelled out for tuition, room, books and whatall, she found herself billeted with a roommate she refers to out of legal discretion merely as "Pamela." Pamela got her collegiate career off to a fast start by taking a whiff of hemp and, in the words of the Graber suit, "quickly embraced all aspects of the drug culture" and "became a focal point of all the drug users on campus."

Well, that's Pamela's business, you may say. Perhaps so, even when it is against the law. But being a focal point meant having "psychedelic gatherings, playing loud music and singing with abandon all through the night, both in our suite and elsewhere in the corridor," Miss Graber said. And since Nancy and Pamela were roomies and Nancy had this queer notion about doing her homework, they didn't precisely groove together.

Nancy accordingly complained to the management, and the lady dean of residents allegedly told her she could open her windows if she wanted to vent the pot smoke. Persisting, Nancy tried to have her room changed. Vassar apparently had no sympathy for her. Nancy flunked and transferred to Adelphia, which is no Vassar, but then one Vassar may be enough under the circumstances.

Now Nancy is suing for $1 million, on grounds that the college's laissez-faire attitude toward Pamela's partying caused her failure and that will stigmatize her in later life. And if Nancy's example inspires a wave of comparable suits at other campuses around the country, it may do us all good.

AT THE AIR FORCE Academy, they don't go in for Vassar's style of progressive education either in classrooms or dorms. But that did not bother young John McCullough, from the time he signed his contracts until six months after he graduated last June with a bachelor's degree financed by you and me.

His contract required McCullough to serve six years, five of them on active duty after graduation. He opted to go to law school first and do his active duty later. The Air Force agreed. While his time at law school did not count as active duty, it did add to his service longevity, and once he had six months of that, he was exempt from the draft. So six months, two weeks and one day after graduation from the academy, McCullough notified the Air Force that he was a conscientious objector.

Pretty neat. He gets a high-class education, he beats the draft and the taxpayers never get a day's work out of him.

He breaks his contract, which is something any ordinary workingman attempts at considerable peril. But — stroke of brilliance! — he breaks it because he disagrees with the Vietnamese war. That, of course, has become grounds for breaking nearly every law on the books; why not a measly contract as well?

THE AIR FORCE, unamused, is billing McCullough for $53,575, which it figures is his prorated share of Air Force Academy expenses for four years. McCullough's senator, Mark Hatfield, calls the billing un-American and undemocratic. I call it an admirable effort to recover our good faith investment in the young gentleman.

Good faith — sounds quaint, doesn't it?

Air Force Yields To Protests; Radar Domes To Turn Green

Environmentalists have won a battle in Southern Marin and most of them don't even know it.

Perhaps it's incorrect to say dissatisfaction with the bright white radar domes on Mount Tamalpais had escalated into actual warfare. Guerrilla action might be a more proper term.

Environmentalists, of course, have been unhappy with the Air Force radar station since it was built. They claim it spoils the scenic mountaintop, adds to pollution (treated sewage from the installation is sprayed across the mountainside), and offends residents from Fairfax to Mill Valley with its bright security lights.

But, widespread though the dissatisfaction may have been, only a few sporadic raids on the Air Force powers-that-be have taken place.

THE MOST CONCERTED effort was aimed at the security lights, which some residents said made the mountain look like "a wedding cake."

The lights were installed to protect the radar station from roving vandals, mischief-makers and subversives. But some residents, notably Jeffory S. Morshead (who turned the lights into a campaign issue during a bid for the Marin Municipal Water District board) and members of the Sierra Club, felt the lights could be aimed away from the populated valleys.

Armed service bureaucracy being what it is, many months passed before the Air Force acted on the complaints. But finally the poles on which the lights sit were lowered and the lights were pointed more toward the ground. Score one for the environmentalists.

The sewage system remains unchanged. Ecologists claim the treated sewage, which is sprayed across the north slope of the mountain, finds its way into Lake Lagunitas and Alpine Lake and ultimately into the county's drinking water supply. The Air Force denies it.

THAT QUESTION remains to be settled. But all the time controversy over the lights ebbed and flowed, the Air Force was considering blunting criticism of the two bright, white radar domes which so prominently cap the mountain.

Within a few days, according to Maj. Robert Hlawek, commander of the radar installation, the domes will be painted green to blend with their surroundings.

Anticipating the obvious question, Hlawek said the paint will be lightgreen, thus squashing rumors that the Air Force merely was seeking to get rid of a few gallons of surplus olive drab paint.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Brasilia Is Our Dizzy Land, Profitable For The Proprietors

Brasilia: A Dizzy Land — not an amusing enterprise for those who must pick up the tab, but quite profitable for some of the throne room group and the satellites.

The media just carried the story that the lobbyist of the Golden Gate Bridge District board has gotten a bill passed to raise the pay of the directors 50 per cent. This will make the Marin supervisor on the bridge board suffer from the effort of carrying home a total of $17,400 by virtue of being a supervisor.

Then by virtue (and there is a question as to the use of "by virtue") of the continuing abdication by the throne room group, the grand manner of operating the administrator layout is costing the taxpayers over a third of a million dollars. Salaries for the administrator's personnel account are $224,915; his immediate office for half of that. So you see when I said last week that there was a deep dread that someone would wise up that there is just not enough work to warrant the salaries they are getting, the comment had real substance.

ON MAY 30 I WROTE, "Unlike Washington, D.C., and Sacramento, Brasilia is not the capital of Marin. It is the administration building and the hall of justice (plus now the Veterans' Memorial Auditorium). The amount of legislation produced there is minimal and only effective in the unincorporated areas. The grand manner of administration, which is effective in only one-third of the county, is somewhat out of balance."

Early in June an editorial in the I-J said in part: "The Marin County Board of Supervisors seems reluctant to face up to the real problem involved in the county administrator's office. . . After some random discussion, the matter was put over. . . but nobody posed the important question: 'Do we want to restructure the administrator's office, and if so, how?' The approach appears to be 'business as usual,' with only a change in the name on the door.

"As it (the administrator's office) has grown it has assumed more power. It was envisioned as an office to see that the orders and policies of the $400-a-month part-time supervisors of 1957 were carried out. It has become an office that makes its own policies and more-or-less forces them on the $1,000-a-month supervisors of 1971." (Note: now the base pay of the supervisors is $1,100 per month.)

The editorial went on to say, "The result has been that the board has become the captive of its own creation. It has permitted the administrator to make policy — both by what he has and has not provided the supervisors and by going directly to pressure groups to bring the 'will of the people' to bear on the board."

As I said last week, "This baby will make Bruce look like an amateur."

THE EDITORIAL ended by saying, "What the board needs to do now is decide how to structure the office, spell out the areas of its authority — and the areas of its responsibility to the board."

This can be added to the above: The taxpaying voters are in no frame of mind to let things go as they have been and are. June is not far away. The board still has time to show the folks that they really can earn their fattened-up take. If they lose, they can only blame themselves.

Agency Errs In Meeting Location

The Marin County Housing Authority administration said yesterday it erred in announcing that a special hearing on budgets for the authority's leased and low income housing programs would be held in the Manzanita Center, as reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

The meeting will actaully be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Casa Nova Seniors project in Novato.

Anti-Faire Group Sets Sunday Rally

A brand new organization, the Un-Faire Committee of Lucas Valley, will hold a rally Sunday from 3 to 5 p.m. at the Lucas Valley Community Center, chairman Calvin Colt announced today.

The committee was organized by a group of Lucas Valley residents after Harvey E. Bragdon, deputy county zoning administrator, approved a use permit for the Renaissance Faire and Renaissance Center on the Grady Ranch in upper Lucas Valley. Its immediate purpose is to seek to "restore democracy" through an appeal to the Marin County Planning Commission, said Colt, declaring, "We appear to be victims of taxation without representation."

New Guinea High Cost Of Marriage

By CLAUDIA WRIGHT
Toronto Telegram News Service

For thousands of years, the inhabitants of New Guinea's strange valleys have been governed by immutable ancient taboos.

They still are. Among the customs and languages that change from tribe to tribe, bride price is one with magnetism for splendid warriors in parrot plumes or pen-pushing city natives in western dress and shiny shoes.

The bride price magnetically pulls clans together, and through it families of the bride and bridegroom, their relatives and friends, acquire status and importance within the tribe, security and a simple code of marital justice.

For the bridegroom with the cassowary bone in his nose, bride price, whether $500, 20 arm shells and two pigs and one fence post, is custom he guards jealously.

For many of Plato-quoting university educated natives and the young natives making careers in business, bride price is a fact of life — but one they would like to see abolished.

Bride price is not a happy bead around their neck; it is a ball and chain. Because of the European cash economy values ruling their lives they might have to pay $500 for their bride, while natives in villages where the economy is lower might pay $500.

Simply, bride price is what a man pays for his right to the services of a woman for labor and sex. Basically, it has nothing to do with his attraction to her.

The money collected from relatives and friends must always be repaid. The bride and groom do not receive a cent from bride price. It is shared between her parents, their relatives and friends.

But after paying his dowry, the bridegroom's responsibilites just start. Forever it will be his duty to adopt his bride's parents and relatives. If they need food, he gives it. An outboard motor — he buys it. The same with a car, bills and debts.

Their son-in-law is better than bank investment against poverty, old age and the future matrimonials of their sons and relatives.

In Port Moresby the highest price in the territory was paid for a bride last year — $6,000.

They live in Hanuabada village which is a vision of bone-dry timber shacks that sit on stilts over the sea.

Many of the inhabitants living among scattered coconut palms and rat nests work in the city and earn money they never could at home in the villages.

The men and women left at home sit among mounds of betel nuts hoping for paying customers to buy a few of the nuts to chew away the hours.

Arua comes from a well-established family in Hanuabada. His father, Toua Kapena, is the Minister for Labor in the House of Assembly and the leading opponent of bride price.

I was told that the minister toned down his anti-bride price views when it came time for his daughter, Dia, to marry Gabe Ovia. She fetched the record price of $6,000.

Arua Toua, says 30 years ago in Hanuabada the bride price was only a small settlement of cash goods. Recently, his father tried to make modern bride prices a maximum of $500 in cash and $500 in goods, but it has never become law.

He says "The more money you pay the more important you and your family and friends appear. When it comes time to pay the price your parents send out letters to people asking for help with money and then the donations are entered in a book.

"Some pay $2, $5 or $10. This might be all their savings. And when you begin to repay them they get interest on their investment.

"Every time they ask you for money for their sons or relatives weddings, you send it. I was married in 1967 and nearly everybody in the village helped me. Parents of the bride have no control over the amount of the bride price, it all depends on the boy's parents and relatives.

"I've paid back a lot of money. I don't know, I'd have to check, but it would be about $20 a month."

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Blue Rock Inn Operation Dates Back To 1880s In Same Location

Marin County now has only about six dineries which can trace their origins back into the 19th Century.

Except for a few temporary closures between changes of ownership, the old Blue Rock Inn at Larkspur has been in fairly continuous operation since 1887. Originally called the Larkspur Hotel, it dominated most of the early photographs of downtown Larkspur and it still clings stubbornly to its post on the main thoroughfare, Magnolia Avenue, at Ward Street today.

Over the years some structural changes have been made in the building, such as the blue rock facing in 1911 and later improvements in the living quarters upstairs. But the dining room and bar are still much as they were over a half-century ago. The few alterations and additions to the old decor now blend in so well with the original set-up, it is doubtful that anyone remembers when they occurred, or for that matter, what most of them were.

Nothing is posed at the Blue Rock — everything is allowed to mellow in its own natural way. Only some of the denizens are comparatively new and they, too, soon tend to blend in with the woodwork. Oldtimers still visit the place regularly and are reluctant to let go of this tie with old Marin. Considering the age of the Blue Rock, you probably wouldn't qualify as an oldtimer unless you've been going there for 25 years or more.

One of the changes that has taken place is the conversion from rinky-tink to piano bar entertainment. The late Herb Saman was long the popular exponent of the first and I think it was Johnny Robinson who originally appeared in the little cubicle behind the piano bar. Others who have entertained here over the years include such names as Charlie Kelso, Bob Britain, the Dick Saltzman and Walt Ulner duo, Barney Blair — and now, of course, Dori Green recently returned to Marin from Santa Barbara.

It surprises some people to find that the food at the Blue Rock is as good as it is. But present owner John Weiland has consistently tried to maintain a balanced menu of popular, moderately priced selections and good cooking. In a recent test, my wife and I found both the abalone and the chicken Kiev excellent — and if you think these items are something anyone should be able to do satisfactorily, your traveling has either been limited or you are very easily pleased.

ON THE COAST, the Marshall Tavern has been getting a nice play on its dinners recently since Skip Henderson took charge earlier this year. There is also mid-day activity on weekends when lunches are served from noon on Saturday, brunches are served from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Sundays, followed by a lunch period from 1 to 5 p.m.

After that dinners are served to 10 p.m. The restaurant is closed Mondays and Tuesdays, but dinners are from 5 to 9 p.m. on Wednesdays and to 10 p.m. the rest of the week.

Dinner menu runs to such selections as prawns steamed in beer, chicken roasted in a rum sauce, pepper steak in a brandy sauce, sole amandine and a few others. The price range is $3.50 to $4.75 for the complete dinner.

Marshall Tavern also features movies after 9 p.m. on Wednesday nights, live classical music Thursday nights and mostly live country music on Fridays and Saturdays.

There is a general onsale liquor license, but it is a seasonal one, with the "hard stuff" out of season between the end of this month and Feb. 1. During those three months, service is for wines and beers only.

THERE'S MUSIC FOR DANCING Wednesday through Saturday nights at Holiday Inn on the knoll at Terra Linda to the Steve Corley Trio. It goes well with a late dinner.

Formed in 1968, before coming to Holiday Inn this group played at clubs in Sonoma and Mendocino counties, headquartering at the Music Box in Santa Rosa. Steve Corley, who plays piano and organ and sings, had previously performed at clubs and hotels in Dallas, Texas. Curt Levins, the bass guitarist and also a vocalist, toured up and down the coast with a group called the Miracle Workers — and Dick Wildberger, the drummer, toured with the Black Wells.

Together they make good music and you should enjoy them.

BRUCE ROSEN will introduce something different at Der Hof Brau Haus in Northgate One, starting next Wednesday night.

He will offer a program of Dixieland ragtime music between 9 p.m. and 1 a.m. This is being put on by a group called the Hof Brau Four, featuring versatile banjoist and singer Tony Mance, formerly with the Red Garter Band. Other members of the group are also former Red Garter performers.

Except for beer on tap and wine and pizza, all regular food service (table and take-out) will be suspended after 9 p.m. these nights, which are scheduled for Tuesdays through Saturdays.

JUAREZ RESTAURANT in San Anselmo is now open Sundays for dinners from 4:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Mondays through Thursdays, lunches are served from 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. and dinners from 5 to 9:30 p.m. Friday lunches are from 11 to 3 and dinners are from 5 to 10. Saturday dinners are also from 5 to 10 p.m.

BERNARD'S EXECUTIVE LOUNGE in San Rafael has added vocalist Wendy Stafford from the Playboy circuit to the Steve Atken Trio on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

The "$7.95 for two" champagne supper still goes on Mondays through Saturdays —and with the new space added, there is room for parties and banquets here.

ENTERTAINMENT TONIGHT through Saturday at the Lion's Share in San Anselmo is furnished by Dave Von Ronk, who is both a folk and blues artist — along with High Country, a full Blue Grass band of five members who just had an album released this month through Warner Bros. There are two shows each evening at 9 and 11 p.m.

Sunday's performers are Commander Cody and Clover.

OCTOBER IS National Wine month in California and other U. S. wine growing regions, coinciding with the annual vintage time. The California grape crop this year has been forecast as more than 25 per cent larger than 1970's frost reduced crop.

San Anselmo Trustees Endorse Plan For Donald Shaw Memorial

The San Anselmo School District board has endorsed a proposal that a memorial be erected at Red Hill School in memory of the late Donald Shaw.

According to Trustee Mary Helen Olive, the board approved of the idea Tuesday and will investigate costs of erecting a geodesic dome in the former principal's honor.

She said it would house a manual arts center and would be financed by funds already collected by a parents' group and a special fund set up by the board.

The San Anselmo School District board also:

PERSONNEL — Accepted the resignation of Sleepy Hollow School teacher Joyce Woods and approved the hiring of Linda Dooley to replace her. However, Mrs. Woods who will earn $9,387 per year, will work at Wade Thomas School.

ENROLLMENT — Heard a report that school district enrollment is down about eight students from last month. Currently there are 1,972 students attending which is more than 100 less than last year.

OLD BUS — Continued discussion of selling an old bus after teachers requested it be used for educational purposes possibly as a display classroom.

SALARIES — Heard a report that teachers apparently have agreed to accept a 3 per cent cost of living increase this year in the form of fringe benefits. The matter will come up for action at the next meeting, Nov. 2.

TASK FORCE — Continued to its next meeting consideration of a citizens' task force to study operational and fiscal problems in the district.

School's Final Plans Approved

Final plans for the Sullivan Pre-School Center on Ashford Avenue near Lomita Drive, have been approved by the Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Committee, zoning administrator Howard R. McGill reported.

The designs, by San Francisco architectural firm of Royston and Hanamoto, Beck and Abey, were approved at the committee's Tuesday meeting.

McGill said construction of the school will begin as soon as the Southern Marin building ban has been lifted. he said.

LBJ Tells Role In Dominican Crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Former President Lyndon B. Johnson says the U.S. Marines entered Santo Domingo April 28, 1965, to save American lives from "a trigger-happy mob," but the action may also have prevented a Communist takeover of the Dominican Republic.

Johnson said at one key point both the insurgents and the junta army were "dejected," while the Communists who rallied in support of the insurgents were organized and dedicated.

"Communist leadership had the keys to what Lenin once called 'commanding heights' of power in the Dominican Republic," Johnson wrote in his forthcoming book "Vantage Point: Perspectives of the Presidency 1963-1969."

The President was criticized in the United States and by Latin American leaders for the Marine incursion.

Although the regime of Donald Reidy Cabral —who came to power through the overthrow of democratically elected President Juan Bosch— was preserved. Johnson said, that result was secondary to the saving of Americans living in the Central American nation.

The insurgents were led by Bosch followers trying to regain control.

"I realized the importance of the decision. I knew it would attract a good deal of criticism ... but I could not risk the slaughter of American citizens. As their president, it was my duty to protect them with every resource available to me. I would do it again to protect American lives."

Johnson said reports available to him at the White House during and following the week of shooting between insurgent and junta forces indicated that "we were dealing not with an army but with a trigger-happy mob with little experience and no discipline."

Youths of 12 and 13 were issued arms by the insurgents; representatives of the junta were beheaded, and both the military junta and the insurgents were dejected, Johnson said. Eventually, the noncommunist "patriotic Dominicans" who were active in the insurgent forces became dependent on the Communists for arms and leadership.

Baking Firm Denies Ad Deceptive

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The makers of Wonder Bread acknowledged today that their product may contain no more nutrients than competing brands, but they denied their "builds strong bodies 12 ways" advertisements were deceptive.

The firm, ITT Continental Baking Co. Inc., Rye, N.Y., also denied false nutritional advertising charges made against Hostess snack cakes. The company's reply to the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) set the stage for litigation viewed in the advertising industry as a key test.

The Wonder Bread case is considered a test of whether the FTC can clamp down on "uniqueness" claims for a product that isn't really unique.

The Wonder Bread and Hostess cases also could test the FTC's allegation that ads pushing a product's nutritive plusses also should admit any nutritional deficiencies.

FTC Probe Focuses On Sex-Related Ads

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal Trade Commission (FTC) members have asked for the first time whether advertising should be allowed to offer products as a cure for teenagers' loneliness, sexual frustrations and desire to belong.

"Are you selling the product or are you selling sex?" Commissioner Mary Gardiner Jones asked yesterday in connection with ads for cigarettes, cosmetics and hair dressings.

"There are many products that are closely related to the sex act," replied Charles E. Overholser, senior vice president of Young & Rubicam, Inc., a big ad agency.

Overholser replied that the advertiser apparently picked the "clean cut" approach "in contrast to the sex route."

"When you associate an auto with young people and dates what do you expect the person to think of?" Mrs. Jones asked.

Overholser mentioned loneliness and dating worries as common teen-age concerns.

"For a teen-ager ... possession of an auto helps him to believe he belongs in our society and gives him self esteem," Overholser said.

"You're associating the product with a very real human want," said FTC Chairman Miles W. Kirkpatrick.

Mrs. Jones said some critics contend that such ads present products as the answer to human problems.

The dialogue came in the second day of FTC hearings designed to explore advertising's psychological aspects, camera techniques and ads aimed at children.

The URBINO • VQT32
In romantic Spanish

Sealed speaker enclosures deliver sound with a difference you'll notice immediately. Where the difference really counts is in the bass response. That's because sealed speaker enclosures prevent what engineers call back wave cancellation. With comparable conventional open-back speakers, sound waves from the rear come around to cancel out those from the front. This can't happen with sealed speaker enclosures. As a result, you hear all the music—music with the dimension and "feel" of a live performance. RCA Stereo with 50-watt peak power amplifier and "Cushionaire" sealed speaker system is yours at a surprisingly modest cost in a choice of mastercrafted cabinet styles. Come in for a demonstration—we think you'll be impressed.

Preferred Holders Have Special Rights

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I bought shares of Trans World Airlines Cumulative Preferred (NYSE), which I understand are owned "with rights." Could you explain what this means. — E.M.

A. These shares, in addition to being cumulative, are also convertible. I assume it is the right of conversion which concerns you. Each of your shares may be exchanged for one-half common share at your option. If, however, after May 1, 1972, the company calls the shares you may convert only up through the seventh day preceding redemption. Since the preferred is currently trading at a 20 per cent premium above its conversion value such an exchange would be unwise now.

Other rights to which you, as a preferred shareholder, are entitled are voting and liquidations rights. In the event TWA liquidates its assets each share could claim up to $50 plus dividends. The preferred holders are also entitled to one-half vote per share. If the dividend is in default for six quarters preferred holders may add two directors to the board. At present the dividend has been omitted for three quarters.

A healthy level of traffic in both July and September plus an SST refund from the government in August should produce a robust third quarter. If traffic remains healthy, full year net could approach the break even point. Thus the dividend situation appears more promising.

Q. I purchased 200 shares of Aztec Oil and Gas (NYSE) in 1961 and again in 1965. Stock dividends have built my holdings to 610 shares. The stock has fluctuated up and down but seems to go nowhere. What are the company's prospects? — J. A.

A. Your shares have increased 53 per cent in value over your cost, only slightly more than the combined value of the stock dividends you have received. Revenues and earnings have remained static, the greatest change has been the buildup of natural gas reserves to an estimated one trillion cubic feet.

Stocks Close With Surrender

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks surrendered most of an early morning advance today amid continued uncertainty about the economy. Turnover was moderate.

The early gain was attributed largely to the market's own internal conditions, or to what most analysts termed a "technical bounce" coming after seven consecutive declines. There was little in the news, however, to encourage traders and stocks turned down in the last hour of trading.

Declines and advances were about even.

Electronics and oils, among the day's widest movers, pointed in both directions.

Also trading in mixed fashion were airlines, chemicals, and rails. Motors showed scattered weakness, and steels moved over a narrow range.

In the new background, the Labor Department reported the cost of living rose 0.2 per cent last month.

A Bright Outlook For The Economy In 1972

LOS ANGELES (BW) — The president of the nation's leading packaging firm said the economic outlook for 1972 is brightened considerably by the likelihood of increased consumer confidence, but added that business prospects for the fourth-quarter this year are uncertain.

Edwin D. Dodd, president and chief operating officer of Owens-Illinois Inc., told the Los Angeles Society of Financial Analysts that any forecast for the balance of the year is difficult because of uncertainties arising from the complex problems in implementing Phase Two of President Nixon's program.

"Until details become clearer," Dood observed, "it will be difficult to pinpoint our prospects for the balance of the year. Longer range, we are hopeful that the administration's actions will restore consumer confidence in the vitality of the economy.

"While we recognize the inequities inherent in a program of economic controls, we applaud the effort to bring rampant inflation under control," he said. "Because of the outlook for increased economic stability in the coming months, at this point we do look ahead with more optimism to 1972."

Owens-Illinois had record high sales of $1.13 billion in the first nine months of 1971 compared with $1.03 billion in the period a year ago. Earnings for the nine months amounted to $2.81 a common share compared with $2.76 a common share in the nine months of 1971.

In reviewing the operations of Owens-Illinois, the nation's 80th largest industrial firm, Dodd noted that the company has been funneling an increasing number of dollars into programs for the future.

Research and development expenditures have increased steadily over the last decade, and the current budget is in excess of $44 million, compared with $13 million in 1961.

"We have been increasing our spending for these programs during the recent period in which the economy has been sluggish," Dodd pointed out. "Had we not channeled these dollars in this direction, our earnings during this recent rather trying period would have been substantially better. I think you will agree that this is a measure of our commitment to the future.

"As we look back on an annual compounded earnings growth rate of nearly 7 per cent over the past few years, we would like to do better and we are working on a host of ways to improve on that performance," Dodd said. "We are aiming at a return on equity in the range of 12 to 14 per cent. We believe that goal is an achievable one."

Dodd said the company for many years has been engaged in a variety of programs to improve the strength of the glass container while making it lighter in weight and has made notable progress in both directions.

One such development is the "plasti-shield" container.

Hugh Boyer, Aaron Grab Kaiser Golf Lead

NAPA, Calif. (UPI) — Officially Tommy Aaron and Hugh Royer are the leaders at the start of the second round of play today in the $150,000 Kaiser International Open.

But right on their heels are Billy Casper, a man who hasn't played well all year and Lee Trevino, who has but not lagely.

Aaron and Royer shot six under 66's in the opening round Thursday while Casper shot a five under 67 and Trevino had a three under 69.

While Aaron and Royer said they played their best round of the year, Casper and Trevino said things could be better.

Casper has not won a tourney title this year, something he never has failed to accomplish since his rookie year on the pro tour way back in 1959.

Billy, who missed only one green Thursday while playing the tougher North course at Silverado, has no excuses for his play this year.

"I simply haven't played well," he says. "If I knew how to correct things I would. All I can do is keep on plugging and hope things turn around."

They seemed to turn around for Casper in the opening round of the Kaiser, which carries a winner's prize of $30,000. Casper two-putted almost every green so he still hasn't fully regained the putting touch that made him one of the game's biggest stars over the past 10 years.

He made five birdies though and that encouraged him, although none was longer than 10 feet. He also made a couple of three-footers and quipped "even those weren't easy. In fact nothing comes easy anymore."

Ron Cerrudo, former San Rafael resident, fired an opening round 70, and Marin Country Club pro Buddy Sullivan carded a 74.

Tennis Star Ired By Wednesday Story

By RALPH CHATOIAN

A bee sting about the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department's open tennis doubles tournament in this space two days ago was more like opening a hornets' nest in the rec department.

I suggested the doubles team of John Zweig-Bill Theircof was a shoo-in to win, because the pair was head and shoulders above the rest of the competition. And I brought out the fact that both are employed in the recreation department's tennis program.

A letter of complaint to the rec department and to the I-J pointed out that the "weekend tennis player" didn't have a chance against the likes of Zwieg and Andy Moffat of Mill Valley.

"It is an open tennis tourney," Thiercof declared yesterday in rebuttal, "and we welcome all the best players in Marin County. There are at least six teams in the men's competition with just as much chance to win as our team."

And to give the lesser players a chance at winning something, Thiercof pointed out Rule 7 of the tourney: "All first round losers shall play in consolations."

"We're very proud of this tournament and we've had nothing but praise, with the exception of that one anonymous letter of complaint," said Thiercof. "I think this was a cheap shot at us. John and I are not trophy hunting."

Quarter finals will be held tomorrow at Albert Park, mixed doubles starting at 9:15 a.m. and men's doubles at 10:30 followed by semifinals later in the day, men at 1 o'clock and mixed at 2:15. All finals will be held Sunday, women's at 9 a.m., men's at 10:30 and mixed at noon.

IF YOU ARE going to the Oakland Raider-Cincinnati Bengals game Sunday, make sure you see the halftime show. One of the little guys on the field will be 8-year-old David Hemingway of Novato, a third grader at Pleasant Valley School.

Hemingway won Ford's Punt, Pass and Kick competition at the local level in Novato, then went on to win the district and regional 8-year-old titles in Redwood City. Sunday in Oakland he'll be competing in the quarter finals of 11 western states during the halftime show. A win Sunday would send David to the semi-finals in Dallas later, one step under the finals and a free trip to the Super Bowl.

TOM KASSIS, age 64, left Marin County today for South Bend, Ind., and a reunion with all his teammates of the 1929-30 undefeated Irish football teams. Kassis and his wife are ranch parents for the Cedars Development Foundation and help keep care of some of the boys in the school for retarded children in Ross.

Kassis played under the great Knute Rockne and yesterday was recalling some of those days to me. "What a remarkable memory Rockne had," he said. "We had 300 guys out for the team that first day of practice and Rockne went down the field, getting all the names. The following day at practice he had only one name wrong. Remarkable."

In his playing days, Kassis was an 185-pound guard. After his playing days, he coached football at University of Wyoming and Colorado U. It will be Kassis' first meeting with his old grid mates since 1955, when he attended the team's 25th reunion. Among the festivities will be tomorrow's Notre Dame-USC game at which the alums will be guests.

WASHINGTON STATE sophomore defensive tackle Tom Wickert, who prepped at Redwood High, is possibly through for the season. He definitely won't make the trip from Pullman, Wash. to Palo Alto for tomorrow's game against Stanford.

Wickert, a 243-pounder, reinjured a broken hand in practice this week after finally getting back to the starting lineup last Satuday against the Cal Bears.

PLAYER AGENT Steve Arnold of Corte Madera was in New York earlier this week representing Larry Cannon who played last year for the Denver Rockets but signed this year with the Denver Pros, another American Basketball Association team.

The case didn't go to court, with ABA commissioner Jack Dolph granting approval for the switch because of a breach of contract by the Rockets.

"It is a significant move in sports," said Arnold, a strong fighter to get changes in sports concerning ownership of athletes.

TERRA LINDA ON SPOT

Trojans Face Redwood

The classic confrontation of running versus passing will be in vogue tonight at 8 p.m. when Redwood and Terra Linda high schools clash at San Rafael High.

This Marin County Athletic League football game of the week will be broadcast live on KTIM. Coach Don Lucas' Terra Lindans view this as a must-win contest. With a 2-1 record, the pass-oriented Trojans cannot afford another conference loss, particularly to the undefeated Giants.

For this reason, the Blue and Gold are pulling out all stops to derail the pennant-bound Redwood express. "We still have a shot at it ourselves," Lucas reminded. "We'll be ready. This one is crucial."

In case the Giants forgot, the Trojans will throw a lot with the sensational Kevin Donohoe barking signals. His favorite target is the sure-handed John Buckley. During recent games, Lucas has attempted to develop a balanced attack. To this end, he has utilized the running talents of backs Sean Casey, Mike Sabel and Doug Long. Sabel has also logged time at split end.

If this trio seeks an example to follow, they need not look further than across the field this evening to view the outstanding capabilities of Mike Connor, Daryl Edralin, Jay Lehman and Mark Asiano.

LEAD AT STAKE

Drake Travels To Novato In Quest Of MCAL Lead

Drake and Novato High schools meet on the gridiron tomorrow at 11 a.m. in a battle which could have great impact on the Marin County Athletic League football standings.

The host Novatans are undefeated in league play, but a Pirate upset would turn the race upside down. The San Anselmo aggregation, 2-1, can vault from a third place deadlock with Terra Linda into undisputed first place, providing Terra Linda and Redwood, 2-0, lose.

Conversely, a Hornet win would drop the Pirates from title consideration, lifting the Black and Gold one step closer to the coveted crown.

The only "sure" thing about this game is that Drake plans to test the rock-ribbed Novato defense. The Hornets have all but shut off the run with the likes of Russ Weklych, Pat Karinen and Rick Reis anchoring the middle.

Drake counters with the league's number two rusher in Phil Wilkinson. The sterling halfback has amassed some 220 yards and ripped off an 82 yard

Michigan Footballers Seek Anti-Asian War Halftime Show

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)— The University of Michigan Wolverines will be in their locker room at halftime, but they still want the halftime show during their Oct. 30 Homecoming game devoted to bringing the troops home from Vietnam.

Fifty members of the third-ranked Wolverines entered the flap over the halftime show in the Indiana game by signing a petition Thursday in favor of the antiwar theme.

"Bring all the troops home now, let's have a real homecoming this year." is the theme chosen for the Homecoming parade, but the University of Michigan Marching Band voted not to go along with a request to play antiwar marches during halftime.

The petition signed by the players asks that a veteran group — Vietnam Veterans Against the War—be allowed to take the field after the band finishes its show and read aloud the names of students who died in the war.

HOST BENGALS

Raiders To Start Dickey

OAKLAND (UPI) —Eldridge Dickey, the former Tennessee A&I quarterback who was converted to a wide receiver by the Oakland Raiders, will get his chance Sunday against the Cincinnati Bengals.

Dickey was named Thursday to start in place of regular wide receiver Rod Sherman, who twisted his ankle last Sunday against Philadelphia and is not expected to play.

Dickey came to the Raiders in 1968 as a No. 1 draft pick after a college career as a quarterback, but was switched to wide receiver. During the 1969 season, he was given a brief shot at quarterback, but was put back in a receiver slot last season.

At first Dickey was bitter about the change, but has since become reconciled to it.

"I thought that was my thing, playing quarterback," he said, "but my father doesn't own the club, so I can't do everything I want."

The move was a tough one for Dickey, too, because he was behind two superstars —Warren Wells and Fred Biletnikoff.

Sherman replaced Wells when he was imprisoned during the exhibition season, and Dickey has since proved that he can make it as a wide receiver.

Last Sunday he faked out three Philadelphia defenders on his way to the end zone for a 27-yard touchdown pass play.

Marin Tars Host Solano Tomorrow

The College of Marin Tars host Solano College tomorrow at 1 p.m. in quest of victory number one.

To achieve this goal, Tar coach Rick Read intimated, the locals will have to convert needed third and fourth down situations into first downs.

"We didn't make the big play" recalled Read. "We've worked hard this week" said Read, without injured starting left tackle Rick Gifford (pinched nerve), and flu-stricken center Rich English. "We got Leon Delisle, and Gary Agee banged up" said Read. Dom O'Donnell, will replace Gifford at left tackle, Dennis Miller is expected to fill in at guard, and Blair Bavuso is likely at center.

Read reported that kicker John Loane is now back in good health after suffering a bruised foot a week ago.

"We may have a rain problem" said Read, "but we're going to wait and see what happens."

"Solano has a great running game" said Read.

The Falcon halfbacks run the 100-yard dash under 10 seconds.

Stanford, Beavers In Drive For Roses

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

With the race for the roses showing signs of developing into a two-team battle in the Pacific 8 Conference, all eyes will be on key games this weekend involving defending league champion Stanford and the Beavers of Oregon State.

Stanford (5-1) plays host to Washington State (2-4) Saturday in a game that will pit the league's top rushing offense—the Cougars—against the best rushing defense in the Pac-8—the Indians.

Oregon State (3-3) travels to Seattle Saturday for a showdown with northwest rival Washington (4-2), and in the only other league game, UCLA (2-4) hosts California (4-2) in the Los Angeles Coliseum Saturday night.

The UCLA-California game will not count in the Rose Bowl running, since the Bears were placed on probation by the NCAA and declared ineligible from any post season competition.

In non-conference games, USC (2-4) will try to get back on the winning track when it takes on highly rated Notre Dame at South Bend in the two team's 43rd meeting. Oregon (3-3) will try to make it three in a row for the Pac-8 over the Pacific Coast Athletic Association when it entertains San Jose State at Eugene.

The battle for the Rose Bowl spot is far from over, but Stanford and OSU have to figure as the top contenders since they are the only two unbeaten conference teams. The Indians have the inside track, having defeated the other pre-season contenders— Oregon, Washington and USC. OSU still has the other major contenders—Washington, Stanford and Oregon—ahead of them.

Giants Release Steve Hamilton

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The San Francisco Giants have released veteran relief pitcherSteve Hamilton and promoted six minor league players to the parent club to fill out the 40-man roster before the winter draft next month.

The Giants announced Thursday that righthanded pitcher Ed Figueroa, infielders Steve Ontiveros and Mike Phillips, and outfielders Gary Matthews and Gary Thomasson, have been called up to the major leagues, all for the first time. The sixth addition was catcher Mike Sadek, who was drafted from the Minnesota Twins in 1969 and has been in the Giants' spring camp twice.

To make room for the six pitchers, Hamilton, 34, was released, and four players — pitchers Jim Moyer and Mike Davison and outfielders Frank Johnson and Floyd Wicker — were assigned to the Phoenix farm club.

NORWOOD, Mass. — Richie Hebner, previously acclaimed as one of the best hockey players in the town's history, was honored Thursday for his play with the World Series champion Pittsburgh Pirates.

"I saw 150,000 people cheering us in Pittsburgh," the 23-year-old third baseman said in ceremonies honoring him at the town hall lawn, "but it's a bigger thrill to see this crowd back here where I belong."

Some 2,000 persons took part in the tribute, which included a parade that began at his home and went through the center of town.

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. — The Minnesota Twins announced Thursday that they will add Ralph Rowe, a veteran minor league player and currently the manager of the Portland club, to their 1972 coaching staff.

Rowe will replace Frank Crosetti, who coached third base for Minnesota.

Football

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Former University of Illinois football great J. C. Caroline, now an assistant coach at his alma mater, may have violated NCAA and Big Ten rules by trying to help Illinois footballer John Wilson.

Wilson was arrested Monday and charged with using a stolen credit card. Wilson allegedly used the card to buy gasoline and oil. He was arraigned Tuesday and bail was set at $1,000.

Caroline reportedly paid the $100 — 10 per cent of the bond — required to get Wilson out of jail. The Illinois athletic department said Thursday that the NCAA and Big Ten will investigate Caroline's actions for possible rules violations.

General

CLEVELAND — Howard Keys, 36, offensive backfield coach for the Cleveland Browns, died Thursday at Shaker Medical Center, where he recently underwent surgery for a bowel obstruction.

Keys joined the Browns staff three years ago as an assistant to the personnel director. He was put in charge of the offensive backfield last season.

Flag Football Game In Corte Madera

Second annual flag football game between the Corte Madera Drop-In Center and the Corte Madera Police will be held at the Town Park tomorrow at noon.

Joe Frazier Ready For Muhammad Ali

WASHINGTON (UPI)—— Heavyweight boxing champion Joe Frazier revealed Thursday he is ready to take on a challenger, Muhammad Ali or anyone else.

"Give me a couple of months," Frazier said. "I'll be as sharp as last spring."

Frazier expressed doubt Ali, whom he defeated in the championship fight last March, will be the next challenger.

"I'd love to have him right now," Frazier said before accepting a "fighter of the decade" award from the Washington Touchdown Club. "But he hasn't proved to the public that he is a worthy opponent."

Frazier apparently was referring to Ali's own plan to win some other bouts before seeking a rematch with Frazier.

"I'll be ready for him."

But Frazier repeatedly expressed indifference about who the next challenger will be. Asked if he sees his opponent in the ring as "an individual or just anybody?"

"I see him as a man, as a person trying to take something from me—I don't show no mercy."

But Frazier, who stands 5-11, has one preference. He likes a tall opponent better than a short one.

"I have trouble with a short guy. When I work for his body the guy covers up. A tall man can't."

Frazier was asked as a spoof how he would like to meet Joe Frazier.

"I wouldn't want no part of him."

Frazier, who ducked into a hospital for a spell after the Ali fight, was asked if he will buy hospital insurance next time.

"Just to protect the other guy. I don't need it," he quipped.

KAISER

Meanwhile, Trevino, who hasn't won a single dollar in official money since going on the shelf early in August following removal of his appendix, struggled around and said he feels his touch is coming back.

"I never had a real makeable putt all day," said Trevino, who won three tourney titles within a span of 21 days in midsummer.

Physician To Attend Practices

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (UPI) — A physician will be at every future practice session of the University of North Carolina football team, Chancellor J. Carlysle Sitterson announced Thursday.

The action was one of a series of steps announced by Sitterson following a controversy over the death of Bill Arnold, a varsity athlete who collapsed with a heat stroke Sept. 6 and died 15 days later.

While the Faculty Athletic Committee cleared head coach Bill Dooley and his staff of any negligence, a group of former athletes called for a new investigation of the death and of the football system.

Sitterson issued a statement praising "the leadership of an able and dedicated athletic director and coaching staff," but said UNC and other institutions "have not solved all the problems of intercollegiate athletics to our full satisfaction."

Other steps recommended by the Faculty Athletic Committee which Sitterson announced were being put into effect include establishment of special clinics by medical personnel for coaches in basic conditioning and training.

He said the school is studying the possibility of a sports medicine department to "assure the best medical knowledge and its application in all our sports."

Wilson Out Sunday

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The San Francisco 49ers do not seem too unhappy after learning that St. Louis Cardinals allpro free safety Larry Wilson will be out of Sunday's game in St. Louis.

Wilson, who suffered a severe hip bruise in last Sunday's 20-0 loss to Washington, will be replaced by rookie Larry Willingham at strong safety. Wehrli will be at free safety.

LETTER THE ISSUE

Avery Brundage Blasted

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — The secretary general of the International Ski Federation (FIS) Thursday termed International Olympic Committee (IOC) president Avery Brundage's latest letter to FIS "indecent and insolent."

"It is indecent and insolent against the various national olympic committees and against the athletes to behave like this," Sigge Bergman said.

In his letter, Brundage made clear that skiers who do not conform to IOC's strick amateur rules will not be allowed to participate in the Sapporo, Japan, winter olympic games next year. The letter has not been made public but the contents have been revealed by FIS sources.

"Brundage has always behaved like this. I cannot understand that a man in his position must continue to disturb the athletes, the preparations by the various national Olympic committees and by the Sapporo organizers in this way. And you may quote me," Bergman said.

"Brundage has shown bad judgment of a sort that does not serve the Olympic cause," he added.

Bergvan's harsh words came in the wake in the latest (but probably not the last) flare-up between IOC and FIS.

"This is not an isolated event. This is a series of events, Bergman said, about the exchange of letters between the two international sports bodies.

Brundage wrote his letter to FIS ten days ago and Bergman said it clearly indicated there is more trouble ahead before the Sapooro games.

"The losing parties that quarrel are the Japanese organizers", Bergman said.

Mizell Joins Congress Side After Baseball Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI)——Congress' most famous ex-baseball player, Rep. Wilmer "Vinegar Bend" Mizell, R-N.C., Thursday joined a growing congressional sentiment challenging baseball's exemption from antitrust laws.

In a house speech, the former St. Louis Cardinal and Pittsburgh Pirates pitcher assailed baseball's "sole purpose of reaping a pot of gold for the owners."

Mizell specifically pointed to the recent transfer of the Washington Senators to Texas in his address.

"I am convinced that if the cold, hard cash deal has led to callous disregard for fans as loyal as Washington fans have been for 71 years, then baseball has purposely and outrightly forfeited its special status as a sport, and deserves no further special consideration in the eyes of the law," Mizell said.

The former lefthander said that only by bringing a new team to the nation's capital "preferably in time for the 1972 season and preferably a national league team" could baseball provide evidence of a return to its paramount concern of the fans.

He said there was a "strong resentment" in congress over the Washington-Dallas switch.

Mizell added many bills have been introduced seeking to end the exemption status. He said baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn and the owners "would do well to take these bills as a warning signal of the strong resentment on capitol hill for baseball's new heartless image."

Roger Brown Paces Indiana Triumph Over Utah, 125-122

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

It looks like last season all over again in the American Basketball Association's Western Division.

Indiana and Utah, who battled to the final days of the season to determine the 1970-71 title, met for the first time this season Thursday night and picked up right where they left off.

The Pacers needed a field goal by Roger Brown with 39 seconds left and two free throws by Freddie Lewis with 25 seconds to go to gain a 125122 victory over Utah. The victory left the Stars with their first loss in four games.

Pacer Coach Bob Leonard was ejected from the game at 1:12 of the third period and Indiana managed to take a twopoint lead. Utah went ahead early in the last quarter and held the lead until Brown's basket.

In other ABA action Thursday night, the Virginia Squires beat the Dallas Chapparals 10399 and the Floridians stopped the Memphis Pros 117-113.

Mel Daniels led the Indiana scoring with 33 points and Brown finished with 30. Rick Mount also added 27 for the Pacers while Zelmo Beaty was Utah's high scorer with 27 points.

HOME OPENER

Warriors Encounter Detroit

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Golden State Warriors get another day off today before opening their home National Basketball Association season.

The Warriors, formerly the San Francisco Warriors, played their home games last year on three courts, but have a permanent home this season— the Oakland Coliseum arena. They get their first action there Saturday night against Detroit.

The Warriors returned from a season opening road trip with an even 2-2 mark. Their last game was Wednesday when they whipped Cleveland, 115-98.

Newcomer Cazzie Russell, who was obtained in the offseason in a trade with New York, scored 29 points to lead the Warriors against the Cavaliers.

Girls Swimming

Marin Catholic defeated Terra Linda 81-32 yesterday in a Marin County Athletic League girls swimming meet at Terra Linda.

California Entertains Hard Bruins

OAKLAND (UPI)—The California Golden Seals will be looking for their first 1971 National Hockey League victory tonight when they meet the powerful Boston Bruins in the Oakland Coliseum Arena.

The Seals, who have two ties in their first six games, will have their work cut out for them. The Bruins, a brutally physical team that won the Eastern Division last season, are paced by Bobby Orr and Phil Esposito, both of whom scored more than 100 points last year. Esposito's 152 points last season set a NHL scoring record.

The Seals' last outing was Wednesday night, when they dropped a 4-2 decision to Montreal.

California may be reinforced tonight by two defensemen and a goalie. Dick Redmond's sore shoulder has healed, and Paul Schmyr, along with goalie Giles Meloche, are expected to arrive in time for the game.

Seals Get Webster

OAKLAND (UPI) — The California Golden Seals picked up some scoring punch today when they picked up rightwinger Tom Webster from the Detroit Red Wings in a straight player swap.

In exchange for Webster, who scored 30 goals and had 37 assists in the national hockey league as a rookie last year, the Seals sent defenseman Ron Stackhouse to the Red Wings.

"Different" because we're a true ski specialty shop. Come in, and you'll see what we mean: bright, unusual clothing (like Bogner, Fusalp and Head Ski and Sports Wear), equipment with the most advanced technology (like Rosemount's new custom boot-fitting system, Head XR 1s and Hexcel aluminum honeycomb skis, the revolutionary Americana binding), people who are truly into skiing (like Kathy, Kim and Greg).

We have most major skiing lines, and we know a lot about them. We believe if you come in our shop just once, you'll notice a refreshing difference.

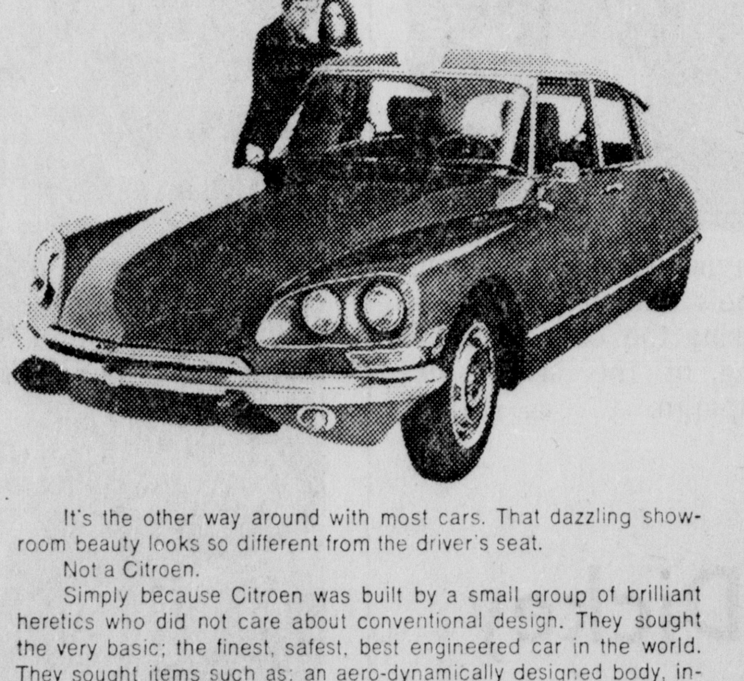
Citroen. The car that looks more beautiful after you drive it.



It's the other way around with most cars. That dazzling showroom beauty looks so different from the driver's seat.

Not a Citroen.

Simply because Citroen was built by a small group of brilliant heretics who did not care about conventional design. They sought the very basic; the finest, safest, best engineered car in the world. They sought items such as: an aero-dynamically designed body, independent four-wheel suspension, front wheel drive and automatic jacking.

Let's just leave it at this; next time you're trying to judge the beauty of a car, drive it first. If you find all these features, chances are you've been driving a Citroen.

Tips On Carting Out That Deer

By AL GIDDINGS

LITCHFIELD, Lassen County — Last Tuesday, I told you about a deer hunt and the use of back packs that can be so vital in helping you get your deer out. Each of the two bucks that we shot probably weighed 140 pounds, field dressed.

Having a back pack along serves two purposes. One, you can hike into the back country, and that's considered to be two miles or so beyond the closest road. In your pack some crackers, cheese, candy bars, raisens, water, a soda or whatever, can give you a real pickup, especially after a four or five hour tough hike.

SECONDLY, taking a saw (a small special type, a skinning knife, some rope and either one or two light deer sacks can help immensely. What does one do with a 140-pound buck? This is the way we handle the situation.

The deer can be either hung up and skinned, or it can be skinned entirely on the ground. Both Howard Leach and I skinned our deer on the ground. What did this accomplish? We were rid of the entire hide, and that might have had a total weight of 10 pounds.

WE ALSO cut the antlers off, so we could then dispose of the head. With feet off, skinned, deantlered, and all entrails removed, our 140-pound field dressed buck now weighed 120 pounds. Halving this, then Schaub and I each had 60 pounds to carry. Naturally, we ate most of the lunch — leaving a little for a refresher half way back — so we placed each of the halves in the deer sack and put it in the pack sack or we could have tied it to the pack board. (The knife and saw will fit somewhere.)

Even the horns can be tied to the pack. Be sure to fill out and punch your two tags — don't wait until you reach the road! Tie the tags on very securely and you're home free. The heart and liver can be placed in the chest cavity of the front half for an easy carry.

WHAT ABOUT flies? If it's hot, they'll be there even at the top of a mountain. That's what the sacks are for. Get your meat covered. It won't be bloody, the air dries it almost instantly. A badly shot up piece should be cut off. The flies will not bother you while packing.

As you hike back, lava rocks and granites make good places to sit. You'll find the weight of the back pack can be minimized if you pick a proper place to rest that will relieve the weight simply by sitting the pack on the top of the rock. It doesn't have to be taken off at all.

IF A BUCK is an exceptionally large one, say 200 pounds dressed, then the same procedure is followed except the buck should be quartered. If two quarters are carried out, the remaining two should be put into the second sack and hung in a shady place. A tree is by far the best, keeping in mind, the best place is out of the morning and noon sun, as you will be back the following morning for the second two quarters.

We saw four young fellows with two bucks that they had been dragging for two days. They had made several trips back to their camp for water and food, and to sleep. They had taken in a Honda to ride the bucks out, but in lava rock, machines break down. They were bound and determined to take their deer out whole, I guess for show. Honest, nobody looks at the meat, they just look at the horns. They tell the story. Even though you get your two halves out in several hours, it's still imperative to then quarter your meat for proper cooling. All game can spoil and usually will if the body heat is not out by six hours or so after killing.

I REALLY wonder, being the weather was so warm, whether the boys got their two bucks out before they spoiled. Wouldn't that have put them in a frenzy?

I remember Bruce Bales, Red Scanlon and I getting two bucks one time and it taking nearly nine hours to get them out whole. I guess it was before we were educated. The bucks were beauties.

Last year, wife Mary, Ken Walker and I took one out from exactly the same spot in one hour. It was quartered, and even Mary took a quarter. It doesn't take much arithmetic to figure which way was the easiest and best.

San Marin To Host San Rafael

San Rafael High School will try to bounce back into the Marin County Athletic League football race tomorrow at 2 p.m. when the Bulldogs take on San Marin High on the Novato High School field.

Coming off a tough 21-13 loss to Redwsood last Friday, the Bulldogs will attempt to vent their frustrations on a rising Mustang aggregation.

However, Bulldog coach Bob Muster realizes it won't be easy. The Green and Gold have developed a reputaion for stingy defensive play, which Terra Linda High can attest to after tipping San Marin 14-0 last Saturday.

The linebacking excellence of Fred Doar, Bob La Pointe and Steve Baldocchi has bulwarked the defensive upsurge, but injuries have sidelined the latter two. La Pointe will give way to Greg Sherwood; Brad Smith replaces Baldocchi. The former suffered a shoulder wound while the latter sustained a sprained ankle.

While the Mustangs attempt to overcome these key injuries and untrack the Hoza Wright-engineered aerial circus, Muster will seek to lift his troops "out of the doldrums after last week's tough loss. We approach this game seriously, because they've got quite a good defense and a fine quarterback in Wright. We're down a little bit but a lot can happen," the Bulldog mentor noted.

If the Bulldogs recover, chances are runners Mark Farrar, Jim Grigg, Dave Urquhart and the sensational Scott Duncan can spark the drive. Each is smarting from the loss and is determined to seek amends at San Marin's expense.

San Marin, seeking its first win in seven starts, is admittedly crippled, a fact which doesn't deter the squad's steadfast drive for an upset.

The lineups:

San Rafael (Offense): LE Duke Bessee, LT John Lechner, LG Kevin Henderson, C Mark St. Gaudns, RG Mike Cook, RT Dirk Correnti, RE Mike Sinclair, QB Dirk Gansloser, LHB Scott Duncan, RHB Dave Urquhart, FB Mark Farrar. (Defense): LE Bessee, LT Bill Lechner, LB Bob Brown, RG Henderson, RT Sinclair, RE Chris Valentino, MLB Correnti, LHB Jim Grigg, RHB Urquhart, LS Duncan, RS Jeff White.

Fullbacks Dave Segale and Rick Bozzio are other Pirates who are tough to knock down. He complements Wilkinson's outside dashes with up-the-middle and off tackle bursts.

Novato is capable of unleashing passing pyroantics with All-League quarterback Marty Moroski calling signals. He'll be tossing to a variety of receivers including halbacks Terry Johnson and Leo Magers, plus ends Joe Robinson, Joe Powell and Straw.

The lineups:

'Cats Vs. Tam Game Tomorrow

Marin Catholic and Tamalpais high schools, two football teams apparently going in opposite directions, cross paths tomorrow at 1 p.m. in Mill Valley.

The host Tam gridders are 0-5, while the Wildcats have won their last four starts. Despite the contrasting records, the respective teams expect a hard battle.

The young Indians will try everything short of larceny to acquire a victory, but Bruno Banducci's 'Cats are equally determined to continue down victory road.

The visitors will be without their ace runner, fullback Pat Parnow, out with a knee injury. Ironically, Mark Ferrua will make his first start after recovering from a shoulder separation suffered in the first preseason scrimmage.

The lineups:

Marin Catholic (Offense) LE John Shallich, LT Jim Shallich, LG Tim Huber, C John Iavarone, RG Gino Pamilia, RT Paul Riccardi, RE Jack Stahl, QB Steve Sherry, HB Rick Cervisi, FB Mark Ferrua, FLK Russ Knudson. coveted ability of finding the goal line in clutch situations. It was Connor who dented the fine San Rafael defense for two tallies and 131 yards.

However, this vaunted rushing unit may receive its sternest test from the hard hitting Trojan defense. As in years past, the Terra Linda defenders stress gang tackling rather than sterling individual performances. Thus, talented crunchers like Steve Withers, Larry Madden, Rich Nicholes, and Jeff Leaird receive few personal plaudits, but this quartet meshes well with seven others to give the Trojans a solid aggregation.

This also holds true with the Larkspur delegation of coach Phil Roark. The Giant defensive stars shine but not as bright as the combined group, which includes linemen Dan Young, Joel Johnson, and Bob Stubbs, and linebacker Bob Fulton. The latter is considered among the better backers in the MCAL this year.

This conglomerate is determined to maximize the pressure on Donohoe and, hopefully, keeping the sterling quarterback from rolling out to throw. Unlike most field generals, Donohoe maintains great accuracy while throwing on the run.

The lineups:

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

Angela Trial Site Still Unanswered; Recess Period

By MARY LEYDECKER

The question of where the trial of Angela Davis will take place — Marin, San Francisco, or one of the 56 other California counties — went unanswered yesterday.

Judge Richard E. Arnason said he must decide first whether it is legal for Miss Davis to ask for a specific county or whether she must ask for a change of venue to a county to be named by the court.

Unlike most defendants seeking transfer of trial, Miss Davis has requested a specific county, San Francisco, but has not yet given a general waiver that might send the case to another county.

Her lawyers yesterday indicated, however that they are so anxious to get the trial out of Marin they will give the waiver even if the San Francisco move is denied.

The prosecutor, Albert W. Harris Jr., said he believed Miss Davis's attorneys "had made a sufficient showing" as required by law for a change of venue, "that she cannot receive a fair trial in Marin."

Although Harris denied there has been "inflammatory publicity" about the case in Marin, he agreed the incidents of Aug. 7, 1970, were "shocking crimes." Miss Davis is charged with murder, kidnapping and conspiracy in connection with the shoot-out that day at the Civic Center.

He said he agreed with Miss Davis's attorneys that Judge Harold J. Haley, killed in the shoot-out, was a well respected person, that the case had received widespread publicity and that Miss Davis is an "outsider" in Marin.

He said, however, that he could not agree that bias against Miss Davis, which her attorneys claim is widespread in Marin is present or that Marin is a tight-knit community sivilar to places like Lassen County.

Harris said that if the case against Miss Davis "is as weak as her attorneys claim," it wouldn't matter where the trial is held.

One of the defense attorneys, Margaret Burnham, a young woman who was a childhood friend of Miss Davis, said yesterday "we know San Francisco is no panacea."

She claimed that at a hearing there for the Soledad Brothers "spectators were ruthlessly attacked by police." She also described heavy security and a glass barrier in the San Francisco courtroom used for the Soledad case.

However, Miss Burnham said, that if Miss Davis is sent to a county other than San Francisco, "she might land in a worse place, for example, Sacramento County." A poll commissioned by defense attorneys and called useless by prosecutor Harris showed that Sacramento residents had more prejudice against Miss Davis that Marinites.

The poll also included surveys of Santa Clara, San Mateo, Alameda counties as well as Marin and San Francisco.

San Francisco is the "only county where there is a slim possibility of getting a fair trial," according to Miss Burnham.

Harris asked why none of the Southern California, Valley or many of the northern counties had been considered by the defense.

Miss Burnham yesterday again called the charges against Miss Davis a conspiracy by officials including President Nixon, Governor Reagan, San Quentin Associate Warden James W. L. Park and Marin Judge Thomas F. Keating.

Park was included in the allegation because of remarks made after the Aug. 21 violence at San Quentin and Keating because he testified he would not name Communists to the grand jury because "they spew hatred and violence."

Yesterday's session, in Marin Superior Court was marked by a flap over whether Miss Davis's supporters would be allowed to give her clenched fist salutes when she entered. Bailiffs who thought the judge had forbidden the salutes in the morning ejected two young men, one of whom went quietly. The other was ushered out yelling slogans like 'power to the people.'"

After lunch the judge sent word clenched fists were all right before he took the bench, and Miss Davis received salutes from about a dozen persons.

Pretrial hearings were postponed to Nov. 1, with only the change of venue motion and one to suppress certain evidence left to be decided. Judge Arnason said the trial, slated for Nov. 1, will be continued on a day-to-day basis until the motions are finished.

Four In Tamalpais CSD Race

(One of a series of articles to be published this week and next by the Independent-Journal, outlining the issues and presenting the candidates in the local elections Nov. 2.)

Two incuments and two new candidates are in the running for three seats on the Tamalpais Community Services District at the election Nov. 2.

In addition to incumbents Arthur L. Crebassa and Ralph Paul Kellog, architect Richard A. Dreyer Jr. and housewife Enola Walls have filed for the election. Mrs. Walls also is a candidate for election to the Tamalpais Valley Fire Protection District board.

A total of 1,973 registered voters will be eligible to cast ballots in the services district election.

The candidates' low-key election campaigns have produced no controversies over operation of the district, which mainly provides park, recreation and sanitation services to the homeowners within the district. Its current tax rate is 35 cents per $100 assessed valuation, with 23 cents of this going toward park and recreation functions.

Cebassa, a school teacher in San Francisco, is completing his first term on the services district board, preceded by service on the Tamalpais Valley Sanitary District from 1960 to 1967, the fire district board, and the services district's parks and recreation commission. He has been a volunteer fireman for 14 years. He is a member of the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club.

Crebassa, 44, is a native of San Francisco. He lives at 535 Midvale Way, with his wife Frances. They have four children.

Incumbent Kellog has been in Europe for the last month, and could not be reached to obtain biographical data or campaign statements.

Mrs. Walls, a great-grandmother, lives at 311 Robin Road. She and her late husband moved to Marin County in 1960.

She is a member of the Tamalpais Valley United Methodist Church and of its women's groups, of the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club and of the Blythedale Rebekah Lodge No. 305, International Order of Odd Fellows.

Regarding her candidacy for the services district board, Mrs. Walls said, "I will do all in my power to equally represent all the people for the betterment of the district while at the same time holding down taxes."

Drever, 35, lives at 305 Ashton Lane, with his wife, Ellen, and three children. He is an associate with Rex Whitaker Allen and Associates, San Francisco architectural firm.

He has served as member and chairman of the Tamalpais Community Services District Parks and Recreation Commission, and is a member of the Tamalpais Improvement Commission.

'Good Thing. . .We Got Jackson'

A member of the Marin County Grand Jury charged yesterday that an associate warden at San Quentin prison told him that the "only good thing" that happened during the prison violence Aug. 21 "was that we got George Jackson."

The charge was included in an affidavit by Grand juror Richard W. Beban filed yesterday by attorneys for Angela Davis.

Beban said that he went to the prison on Aug. 21 because of his membership on a grand jury subcommittee investigating the administration of the prison.

He said he saw Associate Warden James W. L. Park and that Park asked, "Why don't you go investigate the Communist Party? . . . It is them and people like you who are causing what has happened today . . . We lost three guards, three good men. The only good thing that happened all day was that we got George Jackson. Killed him. Shot him through the head."

Beban said Park asked him if he wanted to go inside the main prison walls. "Due to the expression on his face, I did not immediately answer," the affidavit said.

According to Beban, Park continued, "I'll let you go in, but the guards would kill you and I wouldn't stop them."

The affidavit was filed during a court session on Miss Davis's case yesterday, but Judge Richard E. Arnason of Contra Costa County did not allow the affidavit to be admitted as evidence in support of Miss Davis's contention that she cannot get a fair trial in Marin County.

Bill Asks Protection Of Retirement Funds

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill to protect the generous retirement benefits of legislators who want to stay in office despite reapportionment has been proposed by Assemblyman Frank Lanterman, R-Pasadena.

A 1965 law granted full retirement benefits to legislators with four or more years of service if they retired at the same time as their district was reapportioned, but present law requires this right to be exercised by next year, or it is forfeited.

As a result, according to Lanterman, 81 of the 120 legislators thus will be eligible to retire next year because of the pending reapportionment of all districts.

The result would be to disrupt the continuity of the legislature by depriving it of experienced members, and to saddle the state with paying up to $6.6 million in retirement benefits, he said.

Lanterman, in a press statement, said deferring retirements would mean ultimate costs "will be something less than $6.6 million," the amount depending on how many and how long the 81 legislators stay in office and how long they live.

The 81 include Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, who estimated his retirement benefit at $700 a month. He first was elected in 1960.

The special benefits, however, would not be available to Marin's other legislator, Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, who first was elected only last year.

College Editor Resigns In Flap Over Funding

A smoldering controversy over the College of Marin student newspaper erupted yesterday with the resignation of the editor and the freezing of student funds to the paper, called the Times.

According to Times staff members, editor Peter Menkin resigned in protest over what he considered restrictions on funds and editorial content.

Several weeks ago, he had accused student body President Kenneth W. Bott of attempting to censor the newspaper by budgeting less funds than necessary.

Students said Menkin is now working with other student leaders to obtain funds to sponsor another campus newspaper which apparently would replace the Times.

An emergency meeting of the student executive council has been called for Tuesday to consider Menkin's funding request or whether to continue to continue support of the Times at all.

According to Bredt, Menkin resigned because he felt he could not conform with restrictions other than generally classifying them as financial and editorial.

"We don't understand ourselves," he said.

Menkin had complained earlier this month to the executive council that his budget was not enough. The council, after lengthy debate, granted Menkin an additional $2,000 to his $7,000 budget. Last year the paper was budgeted at $10,000.

After the additional funds were granted, however, Menkin continued to seek more money, claiming that without it, the paper's publication schedule would have to be altered.

Fire Board Sells Surplus Vehicles

The Tamalpais Fire District board sold six surplus vehicles for $5,256 to bidders last night but got no offer on two other fire trucks.

Chief William Canlett said the two trucks not sold — a 1937 Chevrolet pumper and a 1949 Studebaker squad truck with a 250-gallon tank — will be advertised in magazines circulated among fire departments and probably sold next year.

Sold last night were: a trailer, for $218; four-wheel drive truck with hydraulic ladder, $2,656; motorcycle, $610; four-wheel drive pickup, $625; jeep, $600, and pickup truck, $557.

In other business, Canlett said, the board voted to hire Kenneth A. Fowler, 25, of San Rafael, as the department's training officer. He will be paid $986 monthly and will organize and administer a training program.

The board also confirmed the hiring of Diana Nelson as clerk dispatcher. She is paid $500 monthly, he said.

Interest On Claims Bill Is Advanced

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation requiring the state to pay 6 per cent interest on unpaid claims against it by local governmental agencies and private persons has won approval from the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

Similar legislation in past years has failed to get out of even one committee, but this year's version (SB 1053) by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, already has cleared the Senate and now is on the Assembly floor.

The bill was amended by the ways and means committee to add private persons as asked by its chairman, Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco. The bill also provides that governmental agencies pay interest on unpaid claims against them by the state.

Interest would begin on the 61st day after a claim was filed.

Marin County, for example, had $604,000 in claims against the state that were over 60 days old as of Aug. 31. County auditor-Controller Michael Mithcell said the amount was "pretty standard."

The committee, acting on another Behr bill (SB 1048), killed his proposed $69,625 appropriation for a venereal disease education program aimed at youths by the Department of Public Health. The committee has killed virtually all special appropriation bills because of the state's financial straits.

Damage Suit Figure Is Corrected

A $12 million damage suit the Independent-Journal is filing in connection with a strike by San Francisco Typographical Union includes $10 million being sought in punitive damages.

A typographical error in yesterday's I-J changed the punitive damages being sought to $12 million.

Gary T. Giacomini, an attorney for the I-J, yesterday asked a Marin Superior Court judge to allow him to add the damage suit to an existing court case containing an injunction against violence by the union.

The union's attorney, Duane B. Beeson, said only that he objected to the addition of the new suit in the old case. Judge Thomas F. Keating directed both attorneys to present written arguments and took Giacomini's request under submission.

GM'S EXPERIMENTAL SAFETY VEHICLE

This cutaway view shows some of the features of the Experimental Safety Vehicle (EVS) General Motors is building to U.S. Department of Transportation specifications for the contract price of $1. Engineering innovations include increased use of the weight saving aluminum in both engine and body components and a cross-body structure in front of the rear-seat passengers. GM reports that the prototype almost meets government specifications for saving lives in a 50 mile per hour barrier crash. Program manager for the vehicle said testing of the car in 50 mile per hour crashes — with a full complement of dummies placed in the car -- showed that "all of them were killed, but some only slightly."

Plans Mapped For Fire Service

Following about three hours of sometimes heated discussion, Corte Madera's new citizens' committee on fire protection emerged last night from its first meeting with a plan of action it hopes will improve fire service.

According to Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels, the council-created committee appointed a subcommittee to spearhead the groups' plan which includes drafting and circulating a questionnaire to residents for their opinions on fire service.

The citizens' committee was created by the town council earlier this month after angry homeowners jammed town hall demanding greater fire protection in the wake of a fire which destroyed two homes and damaged a third.

Bartels said the group last night also delayed its endorsement of hiring outside consultants until the subcommittee has interviewed them.

The town council at its meeting Monday authorized up to $4,000 for the consultants if the committee approved.

Bartels said the subcommittee and town officials will meet with a team of two consultants on Monday to determine the scope of their proposed investigation.

He named the two consultants as Watsonville Fire Chief Bryce W. Connick and Bill S. Ingram, a structural engineer, also of Watsonville.

Bartels has argued that the consultants are needed to recommend immediate changes to the town's five-man fire department — changes which would not effect this year's budget.

He said that while much of last night's discussion centered on the function of the committee, opposition to the committee was voiced by some residents.

Plan Beaten To Take Agency To Electorate

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A last-minute attempt to subject creation of a Bay Area regional government to a vote of the citizens was beaten back yesterday by backers of the proposal.

The Conservation and Development Agency of the Bay Area, proposed in AB 1057 by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, already has passed the Assembly and is on the Senate floor for final legislative approval.

The move to amend it to require a referendum was led by Sen. Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose, but was defeated with 10 votes for his amendment and 15 against it.

The bill was carried on the floor by Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, who argued Bradley's amendment "would make a joke" out of the process of electing representatives to the governing board of the regional agency.

Bradley's timetable called for a referendum on next June's primary election ballot. If the agency were approved, a districting commission would have until Sept. 1 to set the boundaries of its election districts, and Sept. 4 would be the last day on which candidates could file nomination papers for the November election.

The amendment, as drafted by legislative counsel, would give candidates for office only one weekend in which to find out in which election district they reside — and would give them only one day in which to take out and complete nomination papers, Marks noted.

Knox's proposed agency would have exclusive responsibility for regional planning, and would be empowered to nullify city and county ordinances contrary to its regional plan.

Church Executive To Be Guest Speaker

Rev. Robert W. Pirtle, an executive of the Assemblies of God, will be guest speaker tomorrow at the 11 a.m. service at the Central Assembly of God, 517 D Street, San Rafael.

The guest speaker is assistant superintendent and director of the world evangelism department of the Northern California-Nevada District.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Childhood Didn't Exist For Youths In Medieval Times

In medieval days the idea of childhood did not exist. The youngster emerged from infancy to early childhood and became a member of the adult world. This did not mean that youngsters were not loved or were neglected. Parents had affection for their offspring but they never distinguished the child from the adult. The child's entry into an adult world usually occurred when he could live without constant maternal care.

THE CUSTOM of dressing children as adults persisted well into the 19th century. The tykes began to work as soon as they were old enough to do so. Boys of 10 went to sea or worked a full day on the farm. Young girls also did chores. All of this led to a lack of education and many social and medical problems. Surprisingly, many became skilled mariners, craftsmen, statesmen and professional persons.

Life was hard and cruel and abuse and suffering was common. Children from upper and middle class families were those who "should be seen and not heard." The poorer tykes crawled up and down chimneys or along mine shafts too low for ponies. In all walks of life, parents did their best for the children. But rich or poor, the mortality was unusually high among mothers and children.

DURING THE industrial revolution, child abuse was so prevalent that changes had to be made. Reforms came when people became interested in human suffering. The importance of home, hygiene, nutrition and education was stressed. Foundling homes and infirmaries were established. Authors, such as Dickens, understood the plight of the children; other authors began to write books geared to the small fry. Toys and games came into being for the first time. Education became available to more and for longer periods.

The duration of childhood now extends well into the teenage period.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.

HEMORRHAGE AND TB

P. B. writes: Why do some victims of tuberculosis hemorrhage and other don't?

REPLY

Shoreline Trustees Set Bond Election

Shoreline Unified School District trustees last night voted to hold a $1.2 million bond election on Jan. 11 to provide additions to the Bodega Bay and Tomales Elementary schools.

Dissenting in thd 4-2 vote were trustees Joseph Tremari and Kenneth Kehoe who remained adamant despite pleas from audience members for united board support.

Tremari disputed the need for a $200,000 reserve to increase classroom space at the West Marin School in the next three years while Kehoe said he preferred a less expensive piecemeal approach to building.

Repayed over a 25-year period, bonds require 45.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation in the tax rate. Last year property owners in the district paid 88 cents per $100 for existing bonds. This year the figure dropped to 59 cents. If new bonds are added, the total would be 94.5 cents.

Proposed additions of a multiuse room, paved playground and remodeling to the three-room Bodega School, according to district architects, will cost $87,360. Tomales School improvement of a multipurpose room, new classrooms, utilities and site expansion were set at $879,640.

Faced with the question of whether also to ask voters for a tax increase election, board members decided 4-2 to postpone action until they know if they qualify for federal funds available under the obscure public law, 874.

Supt. Charles McCully said the district may also recoup up to 75 per cent of losses from land in agricultural preserve under the Williamson Act from pending state legislative tax reform packages.

The meeting was chaired by Trustee Leroy Erickson in the absence of Board President Robert Dallagher.

Device Measures Mercury In Fish

BERKELEY (UPI) —Scientists have developed a suitcase sized device that may solve the problem of fishermen who find after docking that their catch in unmarketable because of mercury contamination.

The Lawrence Berkeley Lab of the University of California said Thursday the instrument can measure mercury contamination in fish at sea in a minute.

In the test, a sample of fish about the size of a pinhead is placed into the 50-pound measuring device's oven where it is heated into vapor. Any mercury atoms present in the vapor are measured and the contamination is read as a parts-perbillion figure on a simple meter.

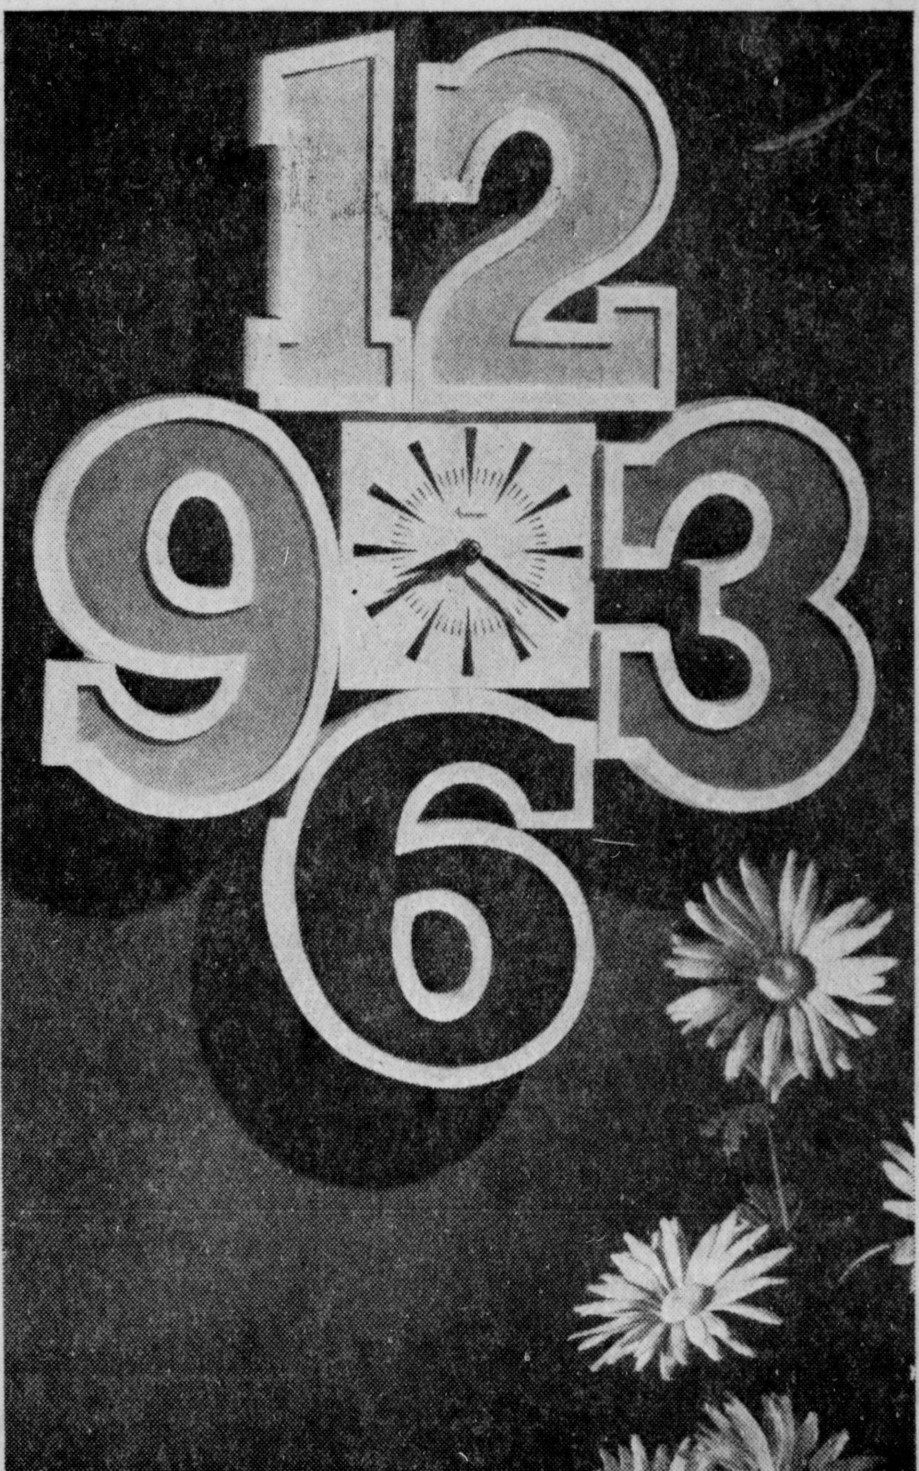
HOME FURNISHING FASHIONS



Decorating, Furnishing Is Major Investment

Decorating and furnishing can be a major investment, as well as a time-consuming effort. The floor plan, location of doors, windows and heat outlets and size of the room will all influence your selection, from wall paper and paint to size of furniture.

Trusting to memory or guesswork often results in disappointment or time-consuming adjustments. So, before you begin searching department stores and furniture shops for the furniture and accessories you want, make a thorough study of the area to be decorated.

For this, a camera that takes sharp flash pictures without batteries is especially easy to use. By taking a few snapshots of the overall, you will get an idea of the appearance and space requirements of the entire room. This will give you a perspective on the total decorating scheme needed to complete the room. Then, for a more detailed record of exact space requirements, take pictures of each individual area. On the back of the print, draw a diagram of the area photographed and list exact measurements. Don't forget to subtract wall space for windows and doors, and be sure to make allowances for doors that open into the room. Writing down the exact measurements of windows, and seeing them in relationship to the wall area, will also be helpful in selecting draperies.

After you have arranged the major pieces, you'll find it helpful to take a few snapshots of the entire room, as well as closeups of specific areas. The pictures will be useful when you're trying to visualize how lamps, mirrors, pictures and other accessories will contribute, or detract, from the total look.

Kitchen Color Schemes Varied

Walls in a light blue-green. Ceiling painted a pale pink. Interiors of cabinets and drawers in a deeper pink shade. Curtains in a raspberry red print. Furniture enameled white. Other accessories white.

DECOR'S EXTRA TOUCH

Regardless of how nice the furniture may be, a room begins to take on character when accessories are added. These and other unusual imported pieces are part of the collection at Wasser's Furniture Accents on Greenfield Avenue, San Anselmo.

EIGHTEENTH-CENTURY SETTING

"A Return to Elegance" is the theme of this inviting cluster of furnishings interpreted by Thomasville. It is among several settings in a fine collection of French reproductions now at the Manor House in downtown San Rafael.

Lot Of Arguments Over Bedroom Of The Child

Many arguments between parent and child result from the cluttered condition of the child's room. The parent wants order, and the child defends collections.

According to a recent report based on an elementary classroom experience, a child can be taught order and principles of design at the same time.

"A design is an intended arrangement to achieve some effect," the report states. "In order to help children feel some of these principles, have them work with an area they are most familiar: their own rooms at home."

In this instruction, the children draw a floor plan of their rooms, marking off placement of furniture. With a crayon in a different color, they mark off footsteps in the morning. Then the children are asked to study the traffic patterns and figure ways of making things simpler by rearranging furniture. They have in mind all the things the room is used for: sleeping, dressing, playing, entertaining, relaxing, reading, watching TV and — being alone.

Toward the end of the lessons on design, the children are given a clean piece of paper and told to design a room from scratch, using interesting colors and materials. They are told there is no limit to imagination. Any material may be used: leather, metal, glass, wood, wool, silk, plastics, wallpaper, paint, net. According to the report, the experience increases the child's awareness of line, proportion, space, light, color, texture and balance.

And who knows? In the process, the children might discover the difference between collections and clutter.

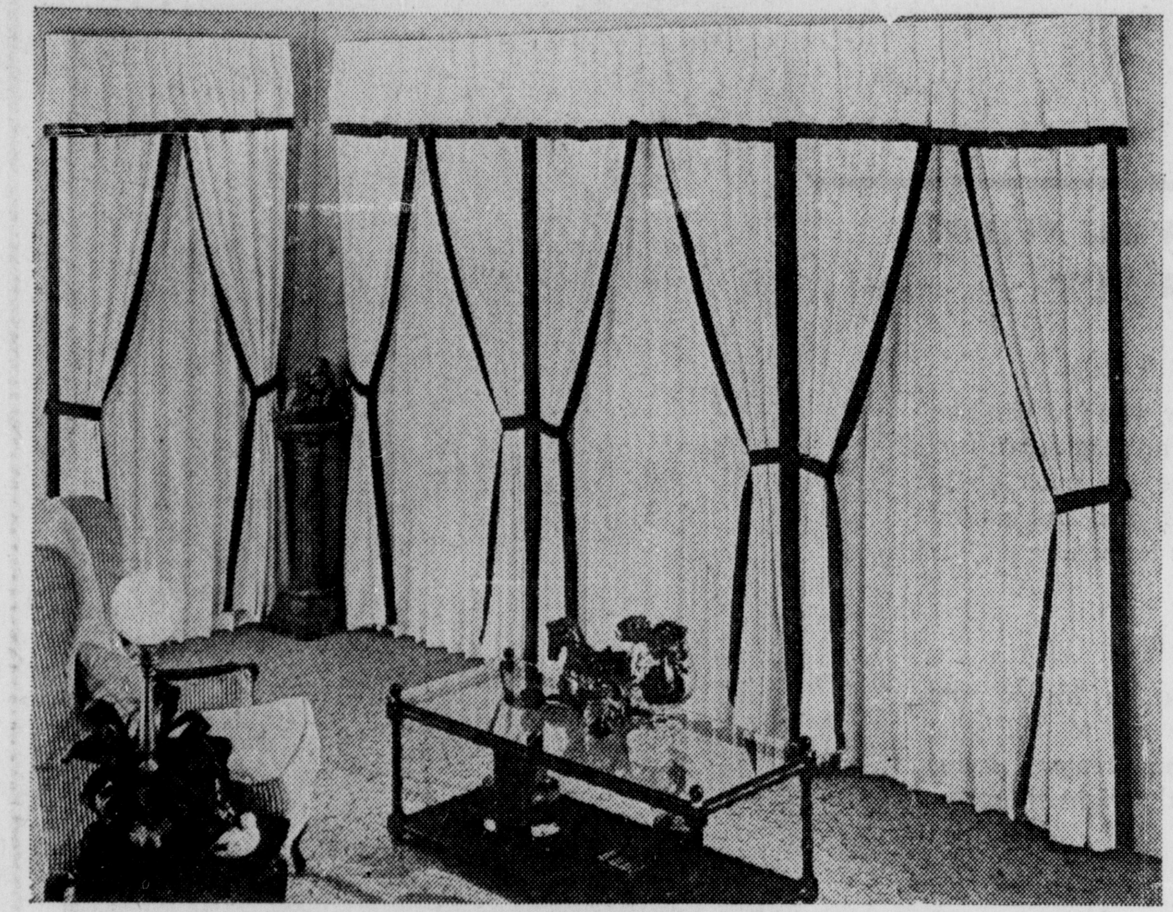
FOCAL POINT IN ROOM PLAN

This Baldwin Acrosonic piano in antique white and gold and French Provincial styling makes an attractive center in today's room settings. The piano, along with many others, can be seen and heard at Marin Baldwin Piano and Organ Co., San Rafael.



FOR WINDOWS OF ANY WIDTH

With their solid bands of contrasting colors, these draperies by Cameo have been created to work in a variety of combinations. They are available in single-width pairs with trimmed or solid color valances and matching solid color tie-backs at Fabric Land in downtown San Rafael.

Some Interesting New Bedding Developments

With part of the population seemingly anxious to slosh around on a waterbed all night, perhaps it's time for those who like more solid underpinnings to have their say.

There are many new interesting developments in bedding that combine solid comfort with dramatic effect, without running the risk of inundation.

There is a fascinating new bedding idea, a combination of frame, panels, lighting and recessed base which wraps a box spring and mattress in leather, plastic or fabric, and gives the illusion of a suspended bed that floats in space. The result provides the true comfort of a stable, resilient latex foam mattress, plus complete decorative impact. The bed is a self-contained unit with no need for embellishments like head or footboards. The panels which wrap around all sides of the unit completely conceal box spring and mattress sides, and can be covered to coordinate with sheets, throw or coverlet.

Platform beds are also creating excitement. These can take the form of a nestlike arrangement with a mattress fitting into a recessed frame, or simply the placing of the mattress on plywood platform. Foam rubber mattresses can be used comfortably without a boxspring base, which make them "naturals" for platform bedding.

Built-ins used to be considered almost exclusively an inexpensive way to furnish seating in a vacation home, or, on a more elaborate scale, as a costly architectural feature of an expensive house. Today, even apartment dwellers are using built-ins. Platform building is a relatively simple do-it-yourself project and using latex foam pads cut to size, and back bolsters, provides seating comfort.

Covering the foam rubber slabs in attractive fabrics gives an elegant look, and when the back bolsters are removed, the foam rubber pads also double as extra sleeping space. Because latex foam never loses its shape, and is completely resilient, it's eminently suitable as a mattress-cushion for built-ins.

BOLD LIFE STYLE

Big bold stripes which are so popular today are styled in durable Herculon on sofa and loveseat with matching off-white Herculon on the chairs. This contemporary furniture by Selig is accented by contemporary art placed against mustard-brown walls. In Marin the Selig line is carried by W and J Sloan and the Emporium at Northgate; Scandinavian Designs, Manor House and Bellach's in San Rafael; and by Braverman's and Wasser's in San Anselmo.

Routine Attention Is All Rugs Need

Routine attention is all that is required to keep carpet colors fresh and bright and the texture soft and luxurious. Frequency of maintenance will depend upon the cleanliness of the air in your community, the color and fabric style you select, and the amount of traffic and type of traffic pattern in your room.

For example: bright and light colors tend to show soil more readily than tweeds and will require more frequent attention:

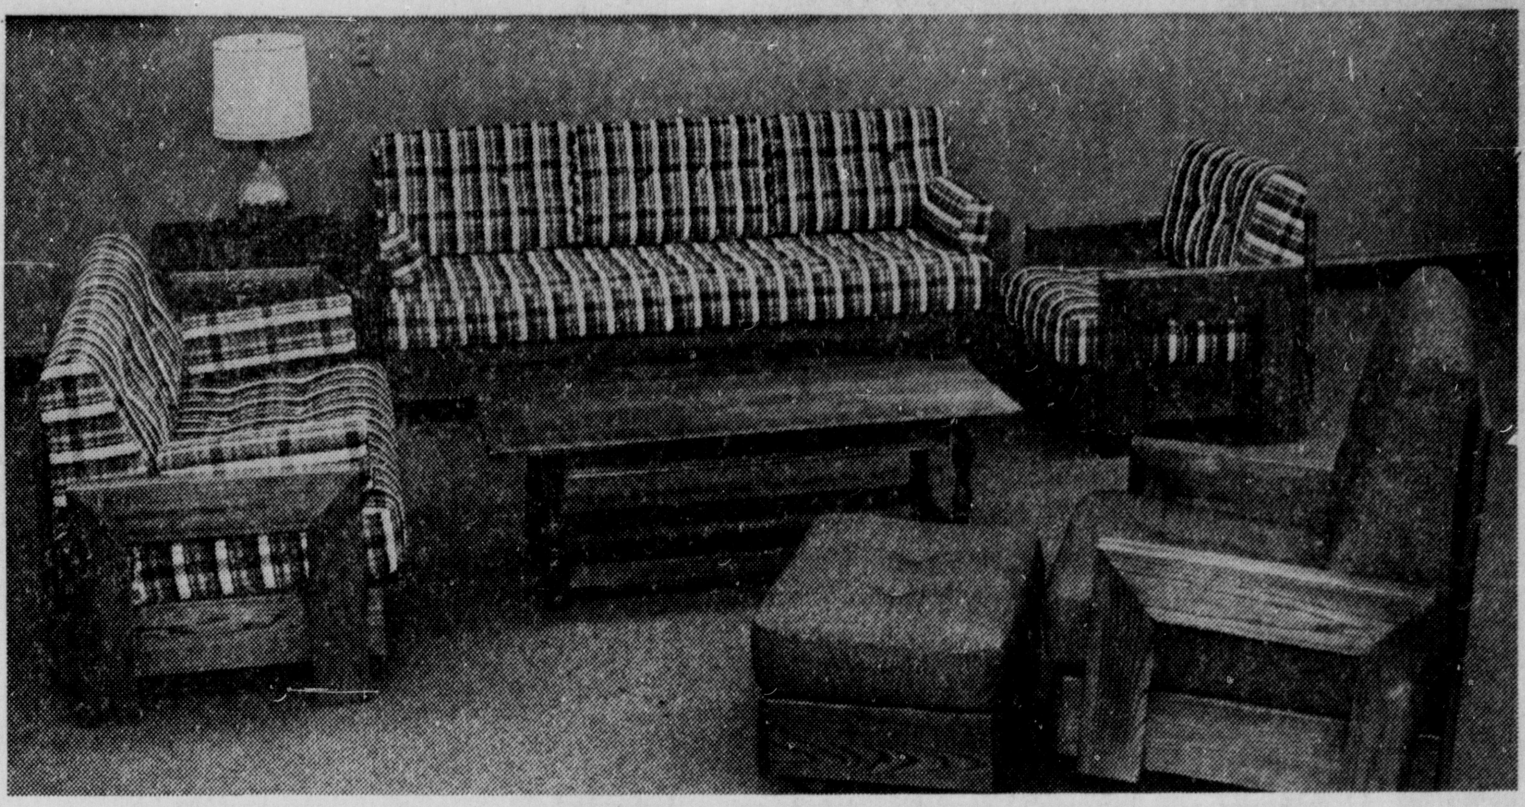
Been Around For Long Time

Although polymers in home furnishings are in the news now, these materials have been with us for some time. The first of these — celluloid — was formulated about 103 years ago specifically for the manufacture of billiard balls. Since then the number of kinds of plastics, of processing techniques, of material combinations and of uses in manufacturing generally has increased many times over.

Yet, despite the "antiquity" of polymers, they have become important in furniture manufacture rather recently. One reason is that responsible furniture manufacturers have insisted upon polymers specifically designed to meet their standards of workability, durability, wearability and consumer appeal. It has taken time to develop these.

Just 10 years ago some of the chief polymers now used in furniture manufacture had not yet been developed, even as laboratory curiosities.



FAMILY-ROOM GROUP FURNITURE

For the growing family, this group by Howard features solid oak beams that form clean, simple lines. Fabrics may be mixed or matched. This and other groups are being shown at the Emporium, Northgate Mall.

Bigger Beds, Smaller Bedrooms—New Problem

A conflicting set of circumstances has created a new problem for American homemakers. Today's bedrooms seem to be getting smaller, while the beds are getting larger.

Most architects agree that bedrooms are shrinking, particularly in the newer apartment developments. Yet statistics from a number of authorized sources show that people are growing. In 1900 only one out of every 25 American men between the ages of 20 and 30 grew to a height of 6 feet or over. But by 1960, the figure increased to one out of five. And don't think men have a priority on growth. In the 1962 Miss America Pageant, for example, the contestants' average height was 5 feet, 6 inches. In the 1921 pageant, 5 feet, 1 inch was the average height.

One method of keeping the bed from appearing to be the whole room is to paper the wall against which the bed is placed. Repeat the wallpaper design in a fabric for the bedspread. This will give an illusion of the bed "sinking" into the wall and will take attention away from its size. It will also serve to make the bed an object of design, rather than function alone. A small, but widely-spaced, all over printed pattern in the paper is the best bet for such a scheme.

Another method recommended by an important decorator is to emphasize the smallness of the room by making it warm and cozy. Use fleecy and nubby fabrics in warm, solid tones. A light-frame headboard in a rich, dark wood — perhaps combined with rattan or woven cane — would be appropriate to this look.

Spots Vary For Trash Compactor

If you buy a kitchen trash compactor, there's a good chance that it may not end up in the kitchen.

A study just released by one manufacturer indicates that almost 40 percent of all compactor owners place the product in such locations as the garage, mud room, basement, utility room, or even the covered patio.

The household trash compactor is a relatively new product that reduces cartons, cans, bottles, newspapers, etc., to about 22 percent of their original bulk. The average family of four can end the week with only one small bagful of compacted trash to deposit at curbside.

The product is dimensioned so that it can be built into kitchen cabinets, like a dishwasher.

No special wiring is needed for either the free-standing or new built-in models. Both plug into ordinary wall outlets.

The Indoor-Outdoor Situation Is Changing

There was a time when indoor and outdoor furnishings were about as far apart as Kipling's east and west. Any purchase for the patio or lawn was restricted to those areas, and the homemaker would hardly think of using the same furniture indoors as part of her carefully thought-out decor.

But today the situation has changed. Not only is outdoor or casual furniture being used interchangeably indoors and out, but some casual designs are so handsome that they're purchased strictly for indoor use.

One reason why casual furniture lends itself so well to indoor areas is because of the unusual designs available which are not restricted by the traditions of indoor furnishings.

Probably more outstanding contemporary designs are being produced for casual furnishings than for other types. The development of sculptured designs in polymer is especially strong in the casual field.

The breakfast room or area is one place where casual furniture has really taken hold as a refreshing alternative to the conventional chrome and plastic-topped dinettes. The family room is another such area, especially where it adjoins the kitchen and is used for family dining.

Subdivisions Vs. Costs of Schools

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Construction on a subdivision of medium-priced houses probably will increase the cost of a community's schools by more than it will generate in school district property taxes, according to an Urban Land Institute study.

On the other hand, the report said, industrial and commercial developments, high - priced homes and some apartment developments produce more revenue for schools than they cost.

All Major Firms Make Decorated Bath Fixtures

Until a few years ago, decorated bathroom fixtures were available only as hand-painted custom-made items. Now all major manufacturers but one make them and that one has its own counterpart.

The decorations on the fixtures range from dainty rings of flowers to bold slashes of color. Depending on the manufacturer, the designs come on lavatory bowls, toilet seats, tubs, water tumblers, tissue holders and soap dishes.

Decorated fixtures are slightly higher in price than either white or solid colors, but to their growing army of fans they're worth it. They're especially popular for bedroom vanity lavatories, which in themselves are shooting up in popularity. The designs in the lavatory bowls can reflect and be coordinated with the bedroom's general decor — whether it's Early American, Swedish Modern, French Provencial or American contemporary.

New Furniture For Kids Tough

Sudden summer showers may interrupt outdoor play, but they won't damage new children's furniture molded of rugged polyethylene polymer.

Virtually indestructible and sturdy enough to support a 400-pound load, they won't rust in the rain or blister in the sun. When soiled, they can be washed with soap and water, rinsed with the garden hose.

Colonial Still Most Popular Furniture

What's the most popular furniture style?

Good old Colonial still is tops, with nearly one third of the market. But what style is growing fastest in popularity?

The answer is Modern. Even though modern furniture design began over 50 years ago, it never really caught on in the home. Modern designs were used in offices, banks, airlines terminals and other public places that wanted a trim, business-like appearance. And modern furniture used stainless steel, glass, and durable latex foam rubber cushions so it was easy to clean and hard to damage. But it was too austere for the home.

But today, Modern suits the times. Italian and French deners have created exciting new looks in latex foam rubber, molded plastic, and glass that have captured the spirit of the country in this age of electron- and moon walks. American designers have followed suit, and the result is modern furniture designed for the home.

It uses far-out shapes, deep foam rubber comfort, lavish color, and lots of free-form molded plastic. Often it is quite inexpensive. One reason for the growing popularity of modern furniture is evident. Television sets, stereos, tape recorders, and appliances look somewhat out of place with traditional furniture, but they go very well with the mood of modern furniture. In fact, the same can be said for many modern clothes.

And modern furniture fits in well with currently popular decorating fads, such as poster art, or colorful wall graphics. In fact, some modern furniture looks more like a graphic than a piece of furniture.

But the final, essential difference in the upsurge of modern furniture is a refusal by young people to type themselves as "Colonials," or "Provincial" or "Traditional." They choose Modern because they do not have to decorate in an established pattern, and can "do their own thing" with accessories, lighting, wall hangings, and color.

From Music To Refreshments

An imaginative young woman, wondering what to do with an old baby grand piano whose mechanism no longer worked, found an answer. She converted it into a refreshment bar.

The internal mechanisms (harp, hammers and strings) were completely removed and replaced by mirror shelving and gold vinyl ocelot skin to hold the glassware, beverages, and other refreshment paraphernalia.

A slow motor was installed to raise and lower the top of the piano by pressing one of the ivory keys in front. Lights were installed inside the piano which are also operated by a piano key. All the electrical wiring was designed with safety factors to prevent shorting and fires.

The outside wood of the piano, which was in need of repair, was gold leafed, as was the bench, which was covered with a white silk-stained tuffeted seat. The finished bar-piano, which holds over 30 bottles in addition to glassware, etc., took approximately six months to convert.

Dryers More Handy Than Sun

You don't have to move to the Land of the Midnight Sun in order to wash and then dry clothes sunshine bright at night. All it takes is the purchase of a flameless electric clothes dryer.

With clean, flameless electric power taking over the clothes drying job from sun power, you can conveniently do your laundry and dry your clothes at any hour of the day — or night.

This flexibility is especially important at a time when almost half of all women in the U.S. are working women. (After all, who wants to work all day and then slave over a drafty clothesline by the dark of the moon?)

Flameless electric clothes dryers also help busy homemakers — whether they are working mothers or not — to take full advantage of the permanent press clothes and linens available today. The happy combination of permanent press and electric clothes drying can be both a time-saver and a money-saver.

Because permanent press clothing comes out of the electric dryer ready to wear within minutes after it is washed, you don't need to waste money on extra sets of clothes that might be outgrown before their time.

And with both permanent press sheets and an electric dryer in the house, you don't have to stock up on extra sheets and pillow cases. Night or day, at your own conveninece, you can strip dirty linens from beds and wash and dry them for immediate re-use, if you have a total electric laundry.

Aluminum Is Like The Other Surfaces

Repainting aluminum is much the same as repainting any other surface. If the old coating is in good condition and is adhering soundly, remove dirt and other surface debris. If the old finish is extremely smooth or glossy, better adhesion will be obtained by roughening it with steel wool or sandpaper.

If the old coating has chipped or is peeling and the bare metal is exposed, sand the surface to smooth out rough edges.

GOURMET WALL

This wall system conveniently combines room for meal planning and preparation in one center. Also, there is plenty of space to display kitchen gadgetry and decorations. There's Too Little Time To Relax In Our Homes

Despite talk of more leisure time, the truth is we have much more choice of activities to fill our leisure and too little time to really relax in our own homes.

When we do find the opportunity to put our various activities aside, we want real comfort and a pleasant atmosphere. This, then, is the basic purpose of today's living rooms. The average homemaker's goal in buying furnishings is to create an atmosphere of gracious comfort for her family and their friends.

She doesn't look at a sofa as merely an attractive or fashionable item. She sees it as the place where her husband may stretch out to take a nap or read the paper, perhaps forgetting to take off his shoes.

A chair to her may be just the item to complete a conversational grouping, as well as serve as a touch of just the right color to complete her decorating scheme.

In summary, the homemaker is creating a living room, not decorating a parlor. Although she wants it to be attractive, she doesn't want to sacrifice comfort for beauty. Today, with space age materials, the modern homemaker can have beauty, style and comfort. Fabrics are elegant in appearance.

Remodeling Bathroom A Top Job

Surveys show that remodeling or adding a new bathroom are among the top five home modernization jobs planned by homeowners this year. If you're planning a new bathroom, it's wise to remember that it pays to buy quality fixtures. They get a lot of hard use, and you'll want your new bathroom to last a lifetime.

Do you know how to tell quality fixtures from the "cheapies?" Here are some tips: The best fixtures retain their luster and are easy to keep clean. The top quality water closet is the siphon jet, which has a strong flushing action and is quiet at the same time. A lavatory bowl of generous size doesn't cost too much more than a small one but its added convenience is great. If you have tall people in your family or enjoy luxuriating in a long soak, it will be worth your while to get a tub that's a little longer and deeper than the average.

More and more homeowners are including a bidet in their new bathrooms, having been exposed to this hygienic device in their European travels.

The peregrine falcon also is known as the duck hawk.

What Women Think Of A Kitchen Carpet

What do women think of kitchen carpet after living with it for several years? Here are some replies from women who have had kitchen carpet for two years or longer:

"I love it."

"It must be dirty, because it's been down two and a half years, but it doesn't look dirty."

"The pattern hides spots."

"It's quiet — that's nice."

"The kids play on it all the time, but it doesn't show wear. The old floor was too cold for them to sit on."

"Vacuuming is easier than washing and waxing. And the carpet never feels gritty."

"It's much less work."

"I thought it would get greasy around the stove from splatters, but if it did, you can't tell."

"It's never slippery, even when wet."

The most common kitchen carpet is a tightly tufted, level loop nylon carpet with a built in high density foam rubber backing. Most of the carpets are printed with a small pattern to help hide spots, or have a tweed design. A water barrier prevents water from seeping through and sopping the foam rubber backing.

The foam rubber cushion is non-skid, and does not mildew. It makes standing easier, and saves money since a separate pad is not needed.

What complaints did the women have?

"We got two cigarette burns, and there is nothing to do about them."

Men Are Making More Decisions

A new research study says the man of the house is moving forward as a prime decision-maker in household spending.

He has much more influence in the purchasing of home furnishings than most of us realize. He participates in two out of three furniture purchases. His degree of influence varies from 40 per cent when it comes to style, color and construction to 53 per cent when it comes to price.

The husband also plays a big role in helping his wife pick out carpeting for their home. The research shows husbands and wives buy carpeting together 59 per cent of the time.

MIX AND MATCH TO SUIT ROOM

ENTRANCE DOORS ON DISPLAY

Decorator carved doors come in many styles and designs, such as Spanish, Mediterranean, Colonial and Contemporary. They should not only be durable and weather resistant but should add charm and grace to the home. The showroom at Mission Wood Products, Inc., Northgate Industrial Park, is featuring these and other designs.

Helpful Hints On Resilient Flooring

Resilient flooring certainly isn't an item you buy every day. Nevertheless, when the time comes to replace an old floor or finish off a new room, it's helpful to know something about the products available and the methods used to install them.

Many changes have taken place in the flooring field in recent years. New floors with totally different functions have been developed; the choice of styles and colors has never been broader. The challenge is to narrow your selection down to one material that meets the functional and aesthetic requirements of the job at a price you can afford to pay. This is best done through a process of elimination.

For example, if you're planning to install a floor in the basement, be sure to choose a material that's recommended for this purpose. Fortunately, most resilient floors can be installed below grade but a few cannot, due to potential difficulties with moisture in the concrete subfloor. Always tell your retailer exactly where the room is located.

Vinyl-asbestos tile is an ideal choice for those Saturday afternoon do-it-yourself jobs. The flooring comes in easy-to-handle squares, usually 12" x 12" size. To install, all you do is spread the adhesive and lay the tiles just as they come from the box.

Both regular vinyl asbestos tile and the new self-stick type are very durable and make an excellent floor for the family room, basement game room, or den. The materials are inexpensive and come in a wide variety of designs and colors. Many feature embossed or textured surfaces to enhance their visual appearance and help hide subfloor irregularities.

Sheet resilient floors of vinyl or linoleum usually require professional installation, but offer several important advantages over tile. In the first place, there are fewer seams to attract and hold dirt.

It's also possible to buy sheet vinyl flooring with a soft undercusion of vinyl foam. This produces a delightfully resilient surface that is both quiet and comfortable to walk on. You'll find a broad selection of designs and colors in the sheet flooring category. These run the gamut from bold contemporary effects to natural designs simulating wood, brick, etc.

Because of the relative seamlessness of sheet flooring, it's usually preferred for kitchens, bathrooms, laundries, and hallways where heavy traffic and spills are likely to occur. Linoleum and sheet rotovinyls are the least expensive; highest in cost are the luxury inlaid vinyls with cushioned backings. Inlaid designs are those which extend completely through the thickness of the wear surface.

FOR FORMAL LIGHTING

This imported fixture is all lead crystal, hand cut and wood polished and available in 10 or 12 lights. It is one of the crystal chandeliers at Marin Lights in San Rafael.

A Flameless Kitchen Is For Time-Saving Wife

Flameless electric ranges are for women — and men — who have better things to do with their time than scrubbing and scouring the inside of an oven. And in age where almost half of all women are working women, who doesn't have better things to do with their time?

The miraculous self-cleaning oven found in electric ranges eliminates the drudgery of old-fashioned oven cleaning, letting you use efficient electric power in place of muscle power.

The self-cleaning oven is just one of many features in today's electric ranges that make life easier for both the working wife and working husband, who often share cooking and other kitchen chores when they come home at night.

Some electric ranges, for example, supplement the regular self-cleaning oven with a separate electronic oven that makes meal preparation quicker and easier for tired working people. With the electronic oven, you can cook a six-pound rolled roast in 30 minutes and a baked potato in 5 minutes.

Other electric ranges conceal the cooking elements under attractive panels that look like a counter top to make it possible to quickly and easily clean up the spills and splatters from your cooking.

And another type of flameless electric range helps you keep the kitchen clean with a self-contained exhaust vent that draws off cooking grease and odors.

The number of work-saving features found in self-cleaning electric ranges is about as numerous as the needs of the busy people who use them. They help working wives and husbands discover that cooking can be fun at the end of a hard day — if you don't have to spend hours cleaning up afterward.

Two Out Of One

If you have a tall chest that you do not need and yet you do need a low chest for the children's room, consider sawing the tall chest in two and making two low chests from it. Also, a mirror may be removed from a bureau and a low chest made from the bottom part with only a minimum of effort.

Feuds Would Be On Tubs Vs. Showers

There was a time when devotees of tub-bathing and showering came close to feuding. They argued their position in colorfully worded letters-to-the-editor, in syndicated columns and even before state legislatures when building codes came up for review.

Now all that has changed. Most families have members who favor both, and few bathrooms being installed today are without showering equipment as well as bathtubs. Major improvements in equipment helped popularize the shower, especially in recent years, so that if yours is over 5 years old, it's outdated. It may even be outdated if it's brand new and doesn't include some of the advanced features.

In old-fashioned showers, hot and cold water was mixed manually. Any sudden surge in water supply pressure could change the mixture, giving the user a sudden dousing of icy cold or near-scalding water that could be as dangerous as it was unwelcome. Today's controls are engineered to adjust to pressure change so that, once it's set, the temperature remains constant.

Showerheads were formerly shaped like the rose on a watering can and offered the user just as little control over water flow. Some were so large in diameter that the strong rush of water could knock over an off-balance bather. Today's showerhead has many different spray settings, ranging from fine, needle and coarse to full-flow. Unlike the old types, which often clogged, today's are self-cleaning.

Foil The Hot Seat

If you've ever sat down on an outdoor metal chair that's been left in the sun — particularly in swim suit or shorts — you know how hot the metal can get. One way to overcome this is to paint such furniture with white enamel which reflects about 84 per cent of the sun heat.

DESIGN YOUR OWN SOFA TODAY
HAVE IT FOR THE HOLIDAYS

Have you looked for a sofa lately and not found what you really want? The style is acceptable but the fabric is poor. Or the wood finish doesn't match your tables. Or the skirt treatment is too fussy, or too plain. Or the tailoring is shoddy, or the filling doesn't provide the comfort you need.

Did you think that custom-making a sofa (or loveseat, or sectional, or chair) meant weeks spent running from upholsterers to fabric houses . . . days spent deciding on frames, fabrics, trims . . . months spent waiting for delivery . . . and a fortune spent on achieving just the right piece for your room, your home?

The Manor House Custom-Order Plan allows you to design your own upholstered furniture, to your own specifications, have it benchmade in a fine Eastern factory, and receive it in your home before Xmas . . . at a price far less than you'd expect to pay.

We'll show you over 40 frames, let you select from more than 200 decorator fabrics, (or supply your own), give you a choice of 9 fillings from which to design your own comfort, 7 skirt treatments. If your sofa (or loveseat, or sectional, or chair) has exposed wood detailing, you can have that wood in warm fruitwood, or antique white, or any of 8 hand-rubbed finishes. The fabric you select can be quilted, or partially quilted, if you like. You can specify a contrasting welt, or even a contrasting fabric for the inside or outside of the piece.

You can pay from $299 to $997 for the sofa you design, depending on style, fabric, filling, detailing. But whether your sofa costs $299 or $997, it will have features only the finest custom factory can offer:

- Individually hand-tied coil springs
- All fabrics Scotchgarded, at no extra charge
- Completely webbed bottoms
- Protective arm covers, at no extra charge.

If designing a sofa frightens you, we have a fully staffed, highly qualified decorating department ready to help you as much . . . or as little as you like. Their services are complimentary, of course.

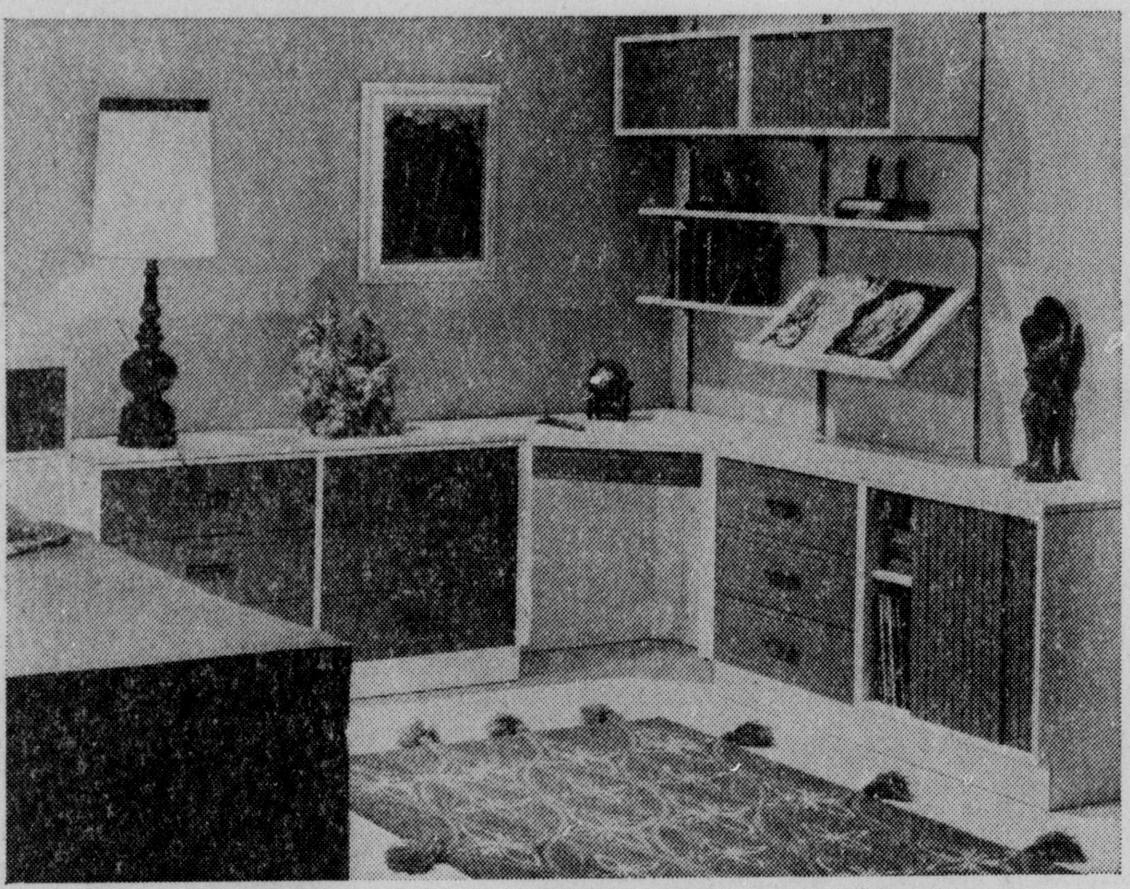
MODULAR STORAGE FURNITURE

Crisp detailing, integral hardware and a choice of a number of combinations are featured in this furniture concept at the Cube, 1018 B Street, San Rafael. The recently opened firm supplies units in 33 different colors or unpainted.



'UNFINISHED' FURNITURE GROUPING

More than the obvious savings to the pocketbook is realized in this modular combination of drawers, shelf and "junk" space, fitted into a corner of a small bedroom. Decorating possibilities and versatility of various groupings are shown at the Nude Nook Unfinished Furniture and Sleep Shop in San Rafael.

Kitchen Modernization Remains Most Popular Remodel Project

According to a recent study, kitchen modernization remains the most popular major remodeling project. When you think of remodeling a kitchen you naturally think of a spanking clean range, a new refrigerator, maybe a dishwasher or a waste disposer. But how about the heating? Yes, you do need heat in your kitchen . . . for those times when the range is not helping out with the warmth.

Kitchens present a special chore to remodelers — whether you do-it-yourself, or call in an experienced contractor or remodeler. Usually the kitchen space will be almost completely taken up with cabinets and appliances so that there's very little space left for heating equipment. But, don't worry. Electric heating equipment adapts more easily than any other type for kitchens. Since the controls are on or near the electric units, the kitchen stays more comfortable, too.

What type of electric heating equipment should you consider for your new kitchen?

Here are some suggestions which will give you a kitchen that's pleasant to work in, or eat in, or for whatever else you want to use your kitchen for. More and more the kitchen is becoming the gathering place for the family or friends.

An area often overlooked, which can be used for installing heating equipment, is the kick space below base cabinets. A fan-driven unit can be installed there, or you might consider a fan-driven wall unit.

You might think about a valance heater which will deliver both radiant and convected heat, and will perform well even in a tight area.

Or you can install the ever-popular baseboard heater. Put it along an inside wall. This is the most satisfactory because the kitchen gains some heat from appliances and because cabinets on outside walls provide a little extra insulating value.

Since remodeling kitchens is so popular, chances are someday soon you'll start planning yours. When you do, don't forget electric heat is the best type for this room which will be your most used area.

INVITES GROUPINGS INSPECTION — Gerda Friedrich of Hideaway Bed Centers at Strawberry Town and Country Center, Mill Valley, is offering a selection of sofa beds suitable for young married couples, retired couples and apartment dwellers who need extra sleeping facilities with limited space.

Vacuum Home On A Schedule

The best approach to vacuuming is to do some experimenting and determine the schedule that you should follow in your home. Then stay with it.

The objectives of regular vacuuming are not only to keep your new carpet looking handsome but also to remove loose soil before it can penetrate into the pile.

Soil particles which are permitted to settle into the pile can cause extreme wear as they are ground against the individual carpet fibers.

Unexpected But Wonderful Things

When a child has a box of crayons and a coloring book, all sorts of unexpected, but wonderful, things begin happening: purple cows, pink poodles, yellow and orange trees.

Maybe if we could all go back in time, and throw away all our preconceived (and restricting) ideas for what is correct and what is proper in putting colors together, better and more imaginative decorating plans might be the result.

It is certainly worth a try, so get some crayons and tracing paper. Make a tracing of a magazine photograph or illustration of a room setting. If you've ever had a secret desire to combine wild and unlikely colors this is the time to find out if they work. Mistakes won't cost a thing and you can experiment to your heart's content. It may sound like child's play, but this is the way professional interior decorators begin organizing a room: with rough sketches, and always in color.

If you remember a beautiful room you have visited, color is almost always the first thing that comes to mind. It was a gold room, with splashes of green; or you will remember a blue room.

This is because color has the power to create mood; it unites all the elements that go into the furnishing of a room.

Color has an effect on people. Blue and green are cool colors and their presence is soothing and restful. Red, orange and yellow are warm colors that will make rooms feel sunnier and livelier.

Color also has an effect on space. It can make larger rooms seem smaller, open space in small rooms, and even raise or lower the ceiling. In other words, it can show off a room's best features or hide a dozen flaws.

Lighter and cooler colors are expansive and will make rooms seem larger. Dark and warm colors will appear closer. If you feel the ceiling is too high, paint it lighter than the walls.

If a room is broken up by too many doors, windows and beams, paint everything, including the woodwork, the same color. Another way to minimize defects is to cover walls and ceilings in a small all-over patterned wallpaper.

To find out if your ideas work, begin by coloring the walls. The second color will be the floor: indicate area rugs, carpeting and wood. Next, decide on patterned and plain upholstery. Plain, with print pillows is more flexible if you like frequent changes of curtains. Finally, color the accessories in something really daring.

There are dozens of ways to color a room, and the best one of all is the one you like, the one that suits your taste.

Today's miracle finishes are more durable and more resistant to stain and scratches, but certain rules should be observed for proper care to insure maximum performance.

The first and most important rule is to read the tag that comes with the furniture and follow the instructions of the manufacturer. If no tag is attached, ask the salesman to advise you on the care of the furniture.

Furniture should be dusted several times a week with a clean cloth. Always dust with the grain of the wood. Since dust contains grit, wiping across the grain could cause fine scratches.

To protect the finish, blot — don't wipe — accidental spills. Remember that nail polish or polish removers are extremely harmful and should never be used on or near wood finished pieces unless the surface has been especially treated.

Strong sunlight is an enemy of furniture, as it can fade the finish and wood color.

As a precaution against burns, use pads (never plastic for they may soften and adhere to the finish) under hot dishes. Use rubber mats or coasters only if there is a protective pad between the rubber and the furniture, and never leave a damp cloth for any length of time on a table.

There are three basic kinds of finishes: glossy, oil and painted color finishes. Generally, one good wax is adequate for all unless one wishes to change the degree of luster. Read labels on containers and follow directions.

A paste wax or a liquid polish is recommended for high gloss finishes and painted color finishes.

A cream wax will maintain a low luster, while a polish or wax containing silicone will increase the luster. A paste wax will also result in a higher gloss. Where special protection is important, such as antiques, a paste wax is recommended, but it does require buffing.

Always pretest any product you haven't used before on an inconspicuous part of the furniture. Never use self-polishing floor wax on any furniture.

When waxes have gradually built up and created a thick film, furniture should be washed. Additional waxing will only add to the accumulation and you will simply be polishing the old wax, instead of the furniture finish.

Washing should be limited to once a year. Use a very mild soap and water, with a clean, soft cloth. Wring cloth well and wash only a small section at a time, rinsing and drying the area before going to another. Painted finishes may also be washed in the same manner.

Furniture finished only with oil should never be washed. It may be cleaned periodically with mineral spirits and then treated by applying boiled linseed oil.

Framed against a sky of wispy clouds, the $6 million home of Commerce Clearing House, Inc. was officially declared "open for business" today after 31 months of ground excavation and construction. The three-story building which covers more than one acre under roof sits on top of Quail Hill overlooking the Northgate area and surrounding hills and valleys. State Deals Sewage Project Fatal Blow

Bolinas, Stinson Beach Lose Financial Backing

By PAT ANGLE

The $8.1 million waste disposal system proposed for Bolinas and Stinson Beach was dealt a fatal blow yesterday as the state Water Resources Control Board decided to withdraw its certification of almost half the project, citing resistance within the community as a main reason for the reversal.

According to John O. Nelson, manager of the state board's grant program, the action means the project will no longer be eligible for the approximately $2.6 million in state and federal grants its backer had counted on to help finance it. Consequently, he said the system as proposed is "dead, because the communities could not afford to finance it on their own."

In its decision, however, the state board indicated the funds still would be available for an alternate project. But despite this concession, the state board made it clear a cease-and-desist order against pollution of Bolinas Lagoon and environs would stand, as would a state suit to speed up a portion of the project.

The grants in question had been requested by the Bolinas Community Public Utility District for construction of joint use facilities to be shared by both communities, among them a treatment plant and ocean outfall. In light of the state decision, he said a $238,667 grant for interceptor pipelines sought by the Stinson Beach County Water District will not be forthcoming either since the state board will not sign the final contract for it.

The project was originally certified and declared eligible for state and federal money in April of this year and grant offers were made to the two districts in May.

Nelson said he could not say what effect the new state rulings would have on cease-and-desist orders against the Bolinas Utility District to enjoin the district to stop dumping raw sewage into the Bolinas Lagoon from about 180 homes in the downtown area.

The orders have been issued by the San Francisco Bay Area Regional Water Quality Control Board (an arm of the state water board), which has also threatened the district with fines of up to $6,000 a day if the discharge is not halted. In August the state attorney general, at the request of the regional board, filed suit against the utility district to compel it to speed up completion of its portion of the disposal system.

According to Nelson, the state board has a policy of keeping its grant program separate from its enforcement program because there is not enough grant money to go around. "If we did not do this, applicants could use their inability to obtain grants as an excuse for not solving their problems," he explained.

Nelson said the state board's change of heart on the system it had once endorsed came about following a two-month study of the project which the board undertook in August.

The board decided to rethink and review the entire project, he said, after the federal environmental protection agency declared its intent to study the environmental impact of the proposed system. He said the EPA study was triggered by controversy centering around the population growth the system could potentially support.

Although the state and federal government had offered grant contracts to the utility district in May, Nelson said the district had never executed them.

Consequently, he said, the state board felt the district's failure to accept the grants appeared "to substantiate the assertion that the majority of residents in the Bolinas area are opposed to the population potential of the proposed project.

(The ocean outfall pipe was designed to serve a population of 16,000, while the treatment plant, planned to serve 4,650 persons could have been expanded at a relatively small cost).

"When Bolinas left the grants on the table, it was significant action on their part," Nelson said.

He said the state study had also revealed that cheaper alternative solutions were available to some of the sewage problems the expensive system was designed to solve. For example, he said the state wter board found that spray irrigation of treated waste water on hillsides and pastures on the Bolinas Mesa "would appear to be a viable alternative" to the $1 million ocean outfall pipe and would not cost as much.

Nelson said the water resources control board was convinced that both the Stinson and Bolinas districts must investigate further alternatives to the

Holiday Monday — But Not For All

Students and most government employees will have a holiday Monday for Veterans Day but most businesses throughout the county will remain open.

Traditional ceremonies by veterans' groups in the county apparently will not be held this year, none having been scheduled.

However, a parade and picnic honoring "heroes of war resistance" will begin at 10 a.m. at the Hub intersection in San Anselmo.

Sponsored by 13 Marin organizations including the Marin Alternative and Marin Veterans for Peace, the parade will proceed along Red Hill Avenue in San Anselmo and Fourth Street in San Rafael to San Rafael High School.

Earlier plans to use Albert Park for a 11:30 a.m. rally were scotched by city officials when the groups could not find insurance funds. The rally is now planned at the high school, which will be closed.

City offices in Marin and Southern Sonoma will be closed except in Belvedere, Petaluma, San Anselmo and Tiburon where employees instead take a holiday the day after Thanksgiving.

Federal, state and county offices will be closed, including the courts.

All Marin and Southern Sonoma public schools will be closed, as well as post offices and libraries with the exception of the San Anselmo library.

No More 'Secret' Meetings

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SACRAMENTO — Marin and Bay Area governmental agencies, which have been leaning on a legal crutch to justify secret committee meetings yesterday had the crutch pulled from under them and broken.

Attorneys for the agencies have claimed that committees consisting of less than a quorum of governing boards are exempt from the state's antisecret meeting law.

A formal opinion by the state Legislature's counsel, however, shows these attorneys have erroneously interpreted the law, the Ralph M. Brown Act.

According to the legislative counsel, George H. Murphy, they misconstrued an exemption from the Brown Act, and applied to committees on which board members serve an exemption that actually applies only to advisory committees on which board members do not serve.

The attorneys' misinterpretation of the Brown Act grew out of a 1968 amendment adding the exemption for advisory committees.

After the exemptions became law, Murphy wrote:

"In our opinion meetings of committees of members of the governing body of a local agency, even if less than a quorum is involved, are within the scope of the act notwithstanding the passage of A.B. 202."

Assembly Bill 202 was by Assemblyman James A. Hayes, R-Long Beach, who set forth this statement of the intent of

Two Big Blasts Rock Bay Area

Thousands of Bay Area residents were awakened at 2:30 a.m. today by two thunderous explosions.

The blasts were heard in Marin, San Francisco, San Mateo, Mendocino and Napa counties. Although presumed to be sonic booms, officials at Hamilton, Mather, Beale and McClellan Air Force Bases in Northern California said they knew nothing about the incident.

A spokesman at San Francisco International Airport said he doubted the blasts came from any planes landing or taking off from the airport.

Officials at the North American Air Defense Command in Colorado Springs, Colo., which tracks planes and satellites over North America, said NORAD also heard nothing about it.

"We had no exercise at all along the Pacific Coast . . . and there were no unknowns in the air," the spokesman said.

A Sausalito resident reported being wakened on his boat by the sound wave's vibration through the water that reminded him of a depth charge going off at a great distance . . .

Living Costs Climb During Last Month

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The cost of living index went up 0.2 per cent in September. The government blamed most of the rise on prices not covered by the wage-price freeze or increases actually imposed before the freeze went into effect Aug. 15.

Ironically, a sharp price decrease in one category of goods exempted from the freeze — raw agricultural products — kept the overall index from rising even higher last month.

At the same time, President Nixon named the membership of the two "Phase II" agencies that are supposed to supervise wages and prices after the freeze ends Nov. 13. He appointed U.S. District Judge George H. Boldt, Seattle, Wash., to head the 15-member Pay Board and C. Jackson Grayson, of Southern Methodist University at Dallas, Tex., chairman of the seven-member Price Commission. another government economic report, the Commerce Department announced that the Gross National Product, the full value accounting of all U.S. goods and services, rose nearly $16 billion between July and September. That brought the GNP to a seasonably adjusted annual rate of $1.059 billion for 1971.

The September cost of living increase was half the 0.4 per cent reported in August. The August boost, which reflected only two weeks under the freeze, equaled the six-month average index rise. However, the index had gone up only 0.2 per cent in July.

Some prices covered by the freeze went up in the September index and the Bureau of Labor Statistics explained that was due to two factors: permissible "seasonal" increases for such items as clothing, and

Nixon Vows Woman Will Fill Supreme Court Slot

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon, who maintained the all-male tradition of the Supreme Court in nominating as justices William H. Rehnquist and Lewis F. Powell Jr., vowed today, "There will be a woman on the Supreme Court."

In a speech to the National Federation of Republican Women, Nixon said he was proud of the two men he named to the Court Thursday night.

"I know that a great many in this audience, including my wife, wanted a woman to be not only considered but appointed to the court," Nixon said. "But we have made a beginning. There will be a woman on the Supreme Court."

The President implied it was the American Bar Association's rejection of California Judge Mildred Lillie that prevented the naming of the first female member of the high court.

"I feel somewhat lonely," Nixon told his woman audience. "I'm the only man on the platform. I must say that's a better break than a woman gets when she goes before the American Bar Association.

"When (the ABA) jury of 12 decides on the merits of the nominees that the president submits to them ... the jury should have at least one woman on it."

Although the President submitted the names of six potential nominees to the ABA, he did not consult with the Association about the qualification of either Rehnquist or Powell.

Although there were indications the nomination of any of those six would be fought vigorously in Senate confirmation proceedings, the nominations of Rehnquist and Powell evoked no hostility.

Although constitutional philosophies change in men serving lifetime tenure on the nation's highest court, Nixon clearly expected — and said he did — that his nominees would bring forth a "strict constructionist" majority on the bench "for generations to come."

Unless Senate confirmation hearings, likely to open shortly after Nov. 2, produce the sort of damaging personal disclosures which defeated nominees Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. of South Carolina and G. Harrold Carswell of Florida, it was considered a certainty that Rehnquist and Powell would win the Senate's "advice and consent." A majority vote is required to confirm nominees.

Women's liberation groups were disappointed that Nixon had not named a woman, as had been hinted. Some Republicans probably were disappointed in his choice of Powell, a Democrat.

Generally, however, the Senate reaction was cautious but friendly.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., who led the floor fights which defeated Haynsworth and Carswell, said Rehnquist and Powell "appear to be significantly better qualified than some of the other names leaked to the public."

This was a reference to the six candidates —two of them women and four of them judges —which the administration had submitted for ratings to the American Bar Association's Judiciary Committee.

The Washington Post reported on Thursday that the ABA panel had rejected as unqualified the two thought to be Nixon's first choices, bond lawyer Herschel H. Friday of Little Rock, Ark., and Judge Mildred L. Lillie of the California State Court of Appeals in Los Angeles. The ABA's opinion is advisory but influential.

Irked that the names of the six had reached the public, Attorney General John N. Mitchell said the administration would abandon the practice which it had initiated of seeking pre-clearance of judicial candidates. The names of Powell and Rehnquist had not been sent to the ABA.

Sen. Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, the conservative Democratic whip of the Senate, whose own name was on the list, promised to support Nixon's effort "to restructure" the court.

As for his own possible candidacy, Byrd said, "I can only say that I am greatly honored

Cuba Attacks U.S. Plan On Saving Taiwan's Seat

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Cuba charged today that U.N. approval of the U.S. plan to save a General Assembly seat for Nationalist China would perpetuate American military occupation of Taiwan.

Cuban Ambassador Ricardo Alarcon Quesada made the charge as the assembly went through its fifth day of the China debate behind tightened security following violence and threats and a floor interruption yesterday.

The floor interruption came when an intruder slipped past U.N. guards and almost reached the speakers' rostrum before he was apprehended. He claimed the right as a U.S. citizen to speak on the issue of China's representation.

"China is represented here now by private persons—just like the man who invaded this hall yesterday and was taken out by security personnel," Alarcon said.

He denounced the U.S. proposal which agrees to seat Communist China in the assembly and the Security Council but would require a two-thirds vote of the world parliament to expel the Nationalists.

"The U.S. proposal for dual representation would perpetuate the military occupation of Taiwan," the Cuban delegate said. "This assembly must liquidate the American endeavor

Charcoal Warning Bill Is Approved

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The state senate Thursday passed a bill requiring a label on all charcoal sold in California warning consumers of possible toxic fumes if used without ventilation.

The label, which must appear on charcoal bags beginning Aug. 1, 1972, reads: "warning: do not use for indoor heating or cooking unless ventilation is provided for exhausting fumes to outside. Toxic fumes may accumulate and cause death."

Conservative Powell Has 'Deep Respect For Court'

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Lewis F. Powell Jr., nominated by President Nixon for one of two vacant U.S. Supreme Court seats, is a conservative lawyer with a "deep respect for the court as an institution."

Powell, 64, has practiced law in Richmond, Va., since 1932, and has served as President of both the the American Bar Association and the American College of Trial Lawyers.

The slight, soft-spokenlawyer described the nomination Thursday night as a "deeply moving experience. I would think my principal reaction is one of deep humility," he said.

"I have respect for the court as an institution," he continued. "I have also a deep respect for the court as it is presently composed. The role of the court in the American system of government is unique. It is essential to our system. If I should be confirmed, it is certainly our hope that I can contribute to the preservation of that role."

Next to law, Powell's deepest concern has been with public education and quality schools. He served as chairman of the Richmond, Va., school board during the 1950s when "massive resistance" to the high court's desegregation order swept through Virginia and the South.

As school board chairman, Powell—and his board—favored a "go slow" approach to integration. But during his 11 years on the board, public schools prevailed in the old Confederate capital, while private academies with "white only" signs flourished in surrounding cities and counties. He later served as a member and president of the Virginia State Board of Education.

LEWIS F. POWELL
'Moving experience'

During the late 1950s, Powell visited the Soviet Union as a member of a six-man delegation from the ABA to study the Russian legal system. His experiences there led him to urge upon his return a reevaluation of the American education curriculum in light of the cold war and the challenges of the space age.

Among his suggestions was the education of scientists and engineers to maintain America's industrial and technical supremacy.

The unwelcome truth is that education is one of the major battlefields of the Cold War," he said.

He also urged the ABA to go on record favoring a course on Communism in secondary schools as "an effective means of contrasting the merits of freedom of Western democracy and 20th Century capitalism and the brutal and repressive characteristics of 'dictatorship of the proletariat'."

Powell, a Democrat, is a graduate of Washington and Lee University and and obtained his law degree there. He took his masters of law from Harvard University in 1932. He has been a partner in the Richmond firm of Hunton, Williams, Gay, Powell and Gibson since 1938.

Born in Suffolk, Va., Sept. 19, 1907, Powell has lived most of his life in Richmond. He is married to the former Josephine Pierce Rucker of Richmond and they have three daughters and one son.

During World War II, he served as a combat and staff intelligence officer with the Army Air Force in the European and North African theaters. He rose from the rank of Lieutenant to full Colonel, winning the Legion of Merit and and Bronze Star and France's Croix de Guerre.

Watson Jury Returns With Death Verdict

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Charles (Tex) Watson, a former high school scholar and star athlete who admitted leading the bloody forays in the seven Tate-Labianca murders, yesterday was sentenced to death.

The verdict, returned by the same jury which had convicted the lanky Texas, made the gas chamber unanimous for the five Charles Manson cult members tried for the killings.

Watson, 26, was refused a possible penalty of life imprisonment at the penalty phase of the trial by the same six-man, six-woman panel which earlier rejected his plea of innocent by reason of insanity.

The verdict brought to an end the long criminal proceedings in the Tate case-excluding appeals — but a variety of other charges, including murder, against a total of 17 "family" members still are in progress or pending.

Meanwhile, in the second murder trial of Manson, 36, for the slayings of Gary Hinman and Donald "Shorty" Shea, the case went to the jury Thursday.

Manson and three women followers, Susan Atkins, Patricia Krenwinkel and Leslie Van Houten, had been sentenced to death at the first Tate trial, which Watson had avoided by fighting extradition from his hometown of McKinney, Tex.

Deputy District Attorney Vincent Bugliosi, who prosecuted both trials, said that in previous murder cases he had recommended life imprisonment.

Watson, dressed neatly in a dark blue jacket, swallowed once when the court clerk read the jury's verdict but kept the same vacant expression he has displayed throughout the trial.

Recycled Paper Measure Moves

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state would be required to purchase recycled paper and recycle its own waste paper under a bill passed 33-0 Thursday by the Senate.

The measure by Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose, requires the State General Services Department, when feasible, to buy paper containing between 10 and 50 per cent of recycled paper.

The bill, returned to the lower house for concurrence in amendments, also directs the agency to draft a recycling plan for its waste paper no later than July 1.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Viet War Ruling

BOSTON (UPI) — The U. S. Court of Appeals ruled yesterday U. S. participation in the Idochina War is constitutional and dismissed a suit brought by the state of Massachusetts.

"In a situation of prolonged but undeclared hostilities, where the executive continues to act not only in the absence of any conflicting congressional claim of authority but with steady congressional support, the Constitution has not been breached," the court said.

However, the court said if either branch were opposed to the continuance of hostilities, a court might well take a different view.

In the unanimous 13-page decision written by Judge Frank M. Coffin, the three-judge panel said the Vietnam war was a "product of the jointly supportive actions of the two branches to whom the congeries of the war powers have been committed.

"Because the branches are not in opposition, there is no necessity of determining boundaries."

Pitch For Apollo

HOUSTON (UPI) — Moon scientists meeting in Houston yesterday urged the government to continue exploring the moon and extend the Apollo program with another mission in 1974.

Dr. Robert A. Phinney of Princeton University warned that Apollo 17, scheduled in December 1972 could be shelved by budget cutbacks. He urged a letter-writing campaign to government officials to stress the importance of the Apollo program.

The 100 scientists at the Lunar Geophysical Conference voted unanimous approval of a resolution endorsing an extension of the Apollo program with an orbital mission by 1974. They said the orbital mission would cost less, since the expense of putting men on the lunar surface could be avoided.

A New Version

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — A Latin American bishop has come up with a new version of the oldest prayer in Christendom.

"Lead us not into the temptation of violence," said Archbishop Alfonso Uribe Jaramillo of Colombia, "but deliver us from the evil of injustice."

It was Uribe's way of telling the Third International Synod of Bishops that he did not support some Roman Catholic priests who support or defend violence in seeking social change.

Uribe told the 210-member synod Thursday that the trend towards violence in Latin America has infiltrated into the ranks of the priesthood. He was sharply critical of the so-called theology of violence.

Kissinger Photos

ROME (UPI) — Pictures of U. S. presidential envoy Henry A. Kissinger meeting Chinese leaders have been published for the first time in a Communist newspaper, the Italian news agency ANSA reported in Peking today.

ANSA said diplomats in Peking attributed "considerable significance" to the pictures, published in the Peking People's Daily. One of them showed Kissinger with Premier Chou En-lai.

"The decision to allow the people to see Chinese leaders together with high officials of the United States, a country violently attacked in slogans and posters all over the country, indicates, according to diplomats, the existence of certain developments in Sino-American relations," the ANSA correspondent said.

"However, for the time being there is no official indication of any change in the positions of the two parties."

Border Security

NEW DELHI (UPI) — India has tightened security in areas facing Chinese-occupied territory in the eastern sector of Kashmir in what diplomats described as a "sensible precaution" at a time of possible war with Pakistan, officials said today.

Civil and border security officials said the stepped-up security arrangements have gone into effect since the military buildup began Sunday along the India-Pakistan borders.

The area affected included the Ladakh area.

Wiretap Proponent Rehnquist Has Worked Behind The Scene

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

A tall, balding and slightly stooped man, William H. Rehnquist, has come from his quiet position working behind-the-scenes as the administration's constitutional troubleshooter, to the fore as a nominee to the U.S. Supreme Court.

President Nixon's personal defenders of four previous Supreme Court nominees, Rehnquist is a staunch proponent of wiretapping, surveillance of criminal suspects and the need to balance the rights of society against the rights of an accused criminal.

Rehnquist batted .500 with the Senate on behalf of Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, Associate Justice Harry A. Blackmun, Circuit Court Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. and former Judge G. Harrold Carswell.

In his adopted state of Arizona. Rehnquist, 47, is remembered as an able lawyer who shunned the spotlight and did not shrink from assuming troubleshooting chores for the GOP.

Following graduation at the top of his class from Stanford Law School, he was appointed to a clerkship with Supreme Court Justice Robert Jackson. He left that post to move to Phoenix with his family, joining a prominent law firm. He later opened a law office with longtime friend James Powers.

Although an active Republican in Arizona, the native of Milwaukee never held an official post except that of legal counsel to the state party.

When the Arizona House of Representatives impeached two members of the State Corporation Commission for alleged high crimes in office. Rehnquist was appointed by the House as prosecutor. He personally conducted a well-prepared case in the lengthy case and, although he lost, the accused commissioners both left office.

WILLIAM H. REHNQUIST
Behind the scenes

Rehnquist, who holds a masters in law from Harvard University, came to Washington as a friend of Assistant Attorney General Richard Kleindienst in 1969. He was also appointed an assistant attorney general and breezed through confirmation in the Senate.

He and his wife, the former Natalie Cornell of San Diego, Calif., now live in an exclusive residential area of suburban McLean, Va. They have three children: James, 16, Janet, 14, and Nancy, 12.

An avid supporter of wiretapping, Rehnquist told the American Bar Association Convention in London July 15, "The present administration of the Department of Justice ... is commited to the use of wiretapping under the safeguards prescribed by Congress."

"Is the invasion of privacy entailed by wiretapping too high a price to pay for a successful method of attacking (organized crime) and similar types of crime?" he asked. "I think not, given the safeguards which attend its use in the United States."

Perhaps Rehnquist's most controversial speech, "Under Attack from the New Barbarians," was on Law Day, May 1, 1969, in Newark, N.J. In it he warned that:

"They are found today on university campuses, in various public demonstrations and protests, and elsewhere, though they represented only a small minority of the numbers participating in these movements ... just as the barbarians who invaded the Roman Empire neither knew nor cared about Roman government and Roman law, thees new barbarians care nothing for our system of government and law."

Judge Beat Up By A Car Thief

VALLEJO (UPI)—Raymond Sherwin, national president of the Sierra Club, was released from a Vallejo hospital Thursday after treatment for a beating police said he received from a man trying to steal his car.

Sherwin, a Superior Court Judge from Vallejo, received extensive head wounds when he surprised a youth Wednesday night rifling through his glove compartment.

The 56-year-old Sherwin said the man, about 30, slugged him with his fists until Sherwin blacked out.

AUCTION ITEMS — St. Vincent's High School athletic director Michael Gonzalez adds a golf bag to the items to be auctioned starting Monday on Petaluma radio station KTOB to benefit the Robbie Sturla fund. Proceeds will help defray medical expenses for Sturla, 15, who has been paralyzed since a football practice injury on Sept. 14. Other items to be auctioned include an evening gown, man's jacket, chrome wheel, motorcycle tire, plants and a drawing of Snoopy by cartoonist Charles Schulz.

ROBBIE STURLA OF PETALUMA

Fund Drive Forms To Aid Prep Paralyzed In Football Practice

Organizations from St. Vincent's High School have united for a fund drive to assist Robert (Robbie) Sturla, the 15-year-old football player paralyzed since an injury during practice on Sept. 14.

Sturla has remained paralyzed and in traction in the intensive care unit at Hillcrest Hospital since the neck injury with no evident improvement. The high school sophomore does have some movements of the arms and wrists, friends report.

Michael Gonzalez, school athletic director, is coordinating money-raising activities sponsored by organizations from the school and St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church.

Beginning Monday at 8:05 a.m. radio station KTOB in Petaluma will sponsor an acution of articles and services donated by residents and businesses from Petaluma, San Rafael and Santa Rosa. Hundreds of items will be on the auction block and will include neckties from comedian Jack Benny, an original "Peanuts" cartoon strip from Charles Schulz, and autographed books from Rep. Paul N. McCloskey Jr., D-11th District, and actress Joan Crawford.

The auction is expected to last three weeks or until the items are gone.

A benefit spaghetti Dinner will be held Nov. 7 from noon to 7 p.m. at the school. Gonzalez said he hoped 3,000 tickets could be sold to gather $3,000 for the fund.

Sturla is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis (Babe) Sturla, 100 Jessie Lane, Petaluma. His father is a retired empioyee of the Petaluma Sanitary Disposal Co.

The youth will go to the Santa Clara Rehabilitation Center in San Jose on Nov. 15 to begin intensive therapy, his father reported.

Gonzalez said costs at the special hospital could run from $4,000 to $6,000 per month. Funds from the Crippled Children's Association will help defray some costs. "The Financial strain on the family will still be overwhelming," Gonzalez said.

The boy is anxiously awaiting transfer to the other hospital to begin therapy, according to his father. "His spirits are really great," Sturla said. "He's determined to beat this thing."

Sturla termed the fund raising activities "amazing." "We surely appreciate everything everyone is doing for us," he said. "I never realized we had so many friends."

Fellow football players and two coaches participated in a radio auction last week to sell their services to homeowners and businesses. The fund netted $1,623 from the auction.

Friends have also held garage sales for the fund and collected more than $700. The fund also received a $100 boost in a donation from the football team and student body at Tomales High School.

Individuals or businesses interested in donating items for the radio auction should contact the radio station or Gonzalez.

Cash donations may be made to the Robbie Sturla Fund in care of St. Vincent's High School, Keokuk and Magnolia avenues, Petaluma.

College Bond Is Endorsed

The Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau board has endorsed the $16.7 million bond measure to expand community colleges in Marin.

The measure appears on the Nov. 2 ballot as Proposition A.

The board said it endorsed the measure because the College of Marin is too small to handle the increasing college enrollment in Marin, and while the pay-as-you-go plan is less expensive, it would require over-burdensome tax increases within a few years.

Fourth Judgeship In Bill Sent To Reagan

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A fourth Marin Municipal Court judge will be authorized under a bill that has gone to the governor's desk following final legislative approval.

The bill, SB 1051 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, also grants pay raises to court employees and creates eight new positions in addition to the judgeship.

Judge David R. Baty's West Marin Justice Court seat will merge with the Central Judicial Dstrict of Marin County. Under the bill he will automatically become the fourth judge. The bill also requires that his branch-court contcue to be maintained "at an appropriate location" in his former West Marin district.

The change, if signed into law as expected, will become effective about the end of January. The new judgeship was recommended by the state Judicial Council.

Municipal court judges are paid $30,724 a year. The pay hikes for court employees will depend on approval by federal wage-price boards.

Pay increases include hikes from $17,520 a year for the secretary of the court to $19,800, and from $13,740 for the chief deputy clerk to $15,480.

The other pay raises hiked salary ranges and step increases.

The Hungarian National Commission for UNESCO has sponsored publication of a 300th anniversary facsimile edition of Comenius's "Orbis Sensualium Pictus," the first illustrated school textbook, a portion of which was printed as early as 1653.

Judge Levels $300 Fine In Dog's Death

A 42-year-old Sausalito man was fined $300 today for shooting to death a neighbor's dog last year.

Judge Peter Allen Smith also placed Thomas Henry Donoghue on probation for one year and ordered him to pay $75 restitution for the dog to its owner, Kathie Sommer.

In sentencing him today, Judge Smith told Donoghue that he had used "incredibly poor judgment," and that if it weren't for the fact Donoghue had no criminal record, the judge said, he would have considered sentencing him to jail.

Donoghue had admitted during his trial that he shot the dog, but said he thought it was justified because he was bitten by the dog that day, May 16, 1970 — the third time in as many weeks the dog had bitten someone.

Donoghue's attorney, Michael B. Dufficy told the judge today the shooting was a "stupid and illegal thing to do," but he tried to persuade the judge to consider the "mitigating circumstances" of the dog biting.

But the judge replied that he saw "very little mitigation for this."

Four Seek Water Unit Empty Seat

Four persons have applied for the Marin Municipal Water District seat vacated by Ray Foreaker Jr., new county public works director, the district administration has announced.

William R. Seeger, district manager, said the district will accept applications from interested candidates through Nov. 5. The directors will interview the candidates Nov. 10, and may fill the vacancy that day or at their following regular meeting, Nov. 24.

Seeger said applications have been submitted by Donald Duerr, Halsey Lyon, Robert Raab and Frank Solomon, all residents of Division One.

Solomon is an attorney and Marinwood civic leader. Lyon lives in Sleepy Hollow and heads a manufacturing firm. Raab lives in Fairfax and is employed with Pacific Gas and Electric Co. Duerr is an administrator at San Francisco Theological Seminary and a San Rafael resident.

COURT

that the President gave my name consideration." His failure to have taken the bar examination had weighed against him.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, a leading Democratic candidate to oppose Nixon in 1972, predicted Senate confirmation without a battle. "I know of Powell and his achievements," he said. "The President picked an outstanding lawyer." He said he would keep "an open mind" about Rehnquist.

Key senators were told in advance, but Nixon's choices suprised many. Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., was so certain that Herschel Friday, his fellow Arkansan, was to be picked that he had prepared for distribution a letter congratulating him.

Both Pat Nixon and Martha Mitchell had campaigned to their husbands for appointment of a woman who would have been the first woman Justice in the Court's history.

The President took note, saying that some had urged a woman and some had urged "the appointment of religious, racial and nationality groups not presently represented on the court."

"But with only nine seats to fill obviously every group in the country cannot be represented on the court," he said.

The seats they will fill, if confirmed, were occupied by the late Hugo Black of Alabama, a 1937 appointee of President Franklin D. Roosevelt and John Marshall Harlan of New York, an appointee of President Dwight D. Eisenhower. Both retired in September for reasons of health and Black died a short time later.

This left the Supreme Court with seven justices, two of them —Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Associate Justice Harry Blackmun —appointed by Nixon.

Stole A Car To Haul Loot Away

A burglar who broke into a Tiburon home took so much loot he had to steal a car to carry it away, Tiburon sheriff's deputies said today.

They said someone entered a garage at the Robert A. Fishman residence on Southridge Drive East between Tuesday evening and Wednesday morning.

The thief apparently loaded frozen meats and juices from a garage freezer and statuettes and liquor from the house into a beige 1970 Chevrolet station wagon parked in the garage and drove off, deputies said.

The stolen items were valued at roughly $1,400, deputies said.

BOLINAS

massive system proposed.

According to the grant program manager the state study also showed that:

1. Individual homes and businesses are discharging raw sewage into Stinson Creek, which feeds into Bolinas Lagoon.

2. A sewer system for Stinson Beach's downtown and hillside areas is necessary because of failing septic tank conditions.

3. Because of geology and ground surface conditions, septic tanks on the Bolinas Mesa would appear, in most instances, to be inadequate means of waste disposal, as would percolating liquid wastes into the mesa soil.

4. The proposed ocean outfall would not have an adverse effect on the environment.

5. Raw sewage from downtown Bolinas must be stopped.

As a result, Nelson said no grant for a disposal system for the communities will be forthcoming until the size of the system and methods of treatment and disposal are worked out and agreed upon at the local level and approved by the state board and EPA.

He said the state water resources board will consider certification of a modified project only if it meets four criteria set by the board. Any new project proposed by solve the problems of both Bolinas and Stinson and eliminate all discharge of raw sewage into Stinson Creek and the lagoon. In addition, it must include an evaluation of the alternative of spray irrigation on the mesa and provide sewage facilities for existing development, as well as make provisions for reasonable, well-planned development.

He said the Bolinas Utility District might prefer to construct a system in several stages, with the downtown sewage problem solved first and the mesa project provided for at a later date.

The state decision to withdraw project certification will make the federal agency's impact study unnecessary, Nelson said, since there is now no project to study.

Quentin Prison Tour Tomorrow

A congressional subcommittee studying prison reform will tour San Quentin Prison tomorrow and hold a hearing Monday in San Francisco.

The subcommittee of the House Judiciary Committee, chaired by Rep. Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., was to tour the state prison at Soledad today. Both prisons have been wracked by violence and death.

Eight of the subcommittee's nine members came West for the tours and hearing. The hearing is scheduled for 9 a.m. in the Ceremonial Courtroom on the 19th floor of the Federal Building, 450 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, despite the Veteran's Day closing of the building.

HOLIDAY

banks will remain open, but many supermarkets will be closed.

Parking meters will be not be enforced except in Sausalito and Petaluma.

The Independent-Journal will publish as usual.

The fourth Monday of October is designated as a federal holiday under Public Law 9363, according to the United States Attorney General's office in San Francisco.

Technically there is no such thing as a national holiday. The President and Congress may proclaim holidays for the District of Columbia and for all federal employees, but it it up to the states whether to follow suit.

Monday has also been proclaimed Prisoner of War Day in California in act by acting Gov. Ed Reinecke.

In the proclamation issued this week, Reinecke urges "all citizens to show their respect and concern for these servicemen and join me in praying for their release."

He called on the state's cities and counties to declare the week of Oct. 25-29 as Prisoner of War Week and asked the state's churches to declare Sunday as a day of prayer for the POWs.

The holiday will be a three-day one for many —the second this month. The first one was Columbus Day weekend.

The act of Congress last year moved several holidays around to create more long weekends. One of its products was selecting Monday as the new date for Veterans Day. The holiday had long been celebrated on Nov. 11 and originally known as Armistice Day.

Private businesses are not necessarily bound by the federal holiday designation, the attorney general's office explained.

The following governmental meetings originally scheduled for Monday will be postponed to Tuesday: The Mill Valley School District board at 1 p.m. at Park School; the Mill Valley Planning Commission at 8 p.m. at city hall; the Mill Valley Park and Recreation Commission at 8 p.m. in the library; the Tiburon City Council at 7:30 p.m. in city hall and the Novato Sanitary District board at 6 p.m. in the North Marin County Water District office and the Rohnert Park Recreation Commission at 7 p.m. in the city building.

The regular meeting of the Novato Planning Commission has been canceled and the Marin County Schools Office Personnel Commission will shift its meeting day, normally Monday, to Oct. 28 at 8 p.m. and the county schools office.

The Kentfield School District Board will meet Monday at 8 p.m. as scheduled, but the Corte Madera Board of Design has cancelled its scheduled meeting.

ECONOMY

delayed reporting of earlier increases, such as for school tuition.

The lag in reporting also cranked earlier increases in taxes, which are not frozen, into the September report. The decline in raw food prices, led by a 5.7 per cent drop in fruit vegetables, actually cut in half the September increase. This more than offset increases in such other exempt items as mortgage rates and taxes, and pulled down increases in price-frozen items.

The BLS said consumer prices had been going up in the past three months at an annual rate of 3.3 per cent, the second lowest quarterly advance in the last four years. There was a 2.8 per cent increase in the first three months of this year when mortgage interest rates were declining.

There was a 5.3 per cent annual increase for the second quarter of this year —April through June.

The BLS said food prices dropped 0.8 per cent before adjustment for seasonal factors but only 0.3 per cent after adjustment, and automobile prices also declined —new cars by 1.5 per cent on an unadjusted basis and used cars by 0.8 per cent.

Marinite Is Found Guilty

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A Kent Woodlands man who is a part-owner of a Tenderloin bar was found guilty yesterday of charges of assaulting and interfering with two federal agents who had gone to his home to serve a subpoena growing out of an investigation of organized crime in the Tenderloin.

Milton Mohr, 40, president of West-Ent Inc., which owns the Mocambo Bar on Powell Street, was convicted after a three-day jury trial before Judge Thomas Clary in U.S. District Court.

Two Internal Revenue agents went to Morh's home at 296 Crown Point Road on May 3, and reported they were kicked and pushed when they tried to serve a subpoena from a federal grand jury investigating Tenderloin bars in connection with prostitution, credit card thefts, illegal liquor dispensing and tax violation.

Despite the fracas, the subpoena was served.

An IRS spokesman said no sentencing date has been set for Mohr, who faces a maximum sentence of three years in prison or a $10,000 fine, or both.

Another employee of the Mocambo, Ron London, 29, of Tamalpais Valley, is awaiting court disposition of a gun charge arising from a visit by a federal agent to the tavern, also on May 3.

Guards were doubled at all security posts after a well-dressed intruder slipped through the delegates' entrance entered the assembly hall and almost reached the speakers' rostrum before U.N. authorities dragged him away.

The man made his dramatic appearance just after Soviet Ambassador Yakov Malik had told the assembly of shots fired into his midtown Manhattan delegation headquarters from the roof of nearby Hunter College. Syrian Ambassador George Tomeh registered complaints of threats to his mission. New York City police were stationed at both places in extra strength.

Although the outcome of the discussion on whether to expel Nationalist China from all U.N. affiliates while seating Mainland China in both the Assembly and Security Council remained in doubt, the closeness was not reflected in the debate, now in its fifth day.

Of 56 countries heard by the start of today's proceedings, 38 favored Peking, 17 were for the Nationalists and Ecuador was noncommital. There were still 22 speakers on the list of Assembly President Adam Malik of Indonesia.

Britain Thursday lined up with the opponents of the U.S.sponsored resolution aimed at preventing the expulsionof Nationalist China while granting membership to Communist China.

Sir Colin Crowe told the assembly that Britain has long recognized the Peking regime as the "only lawful representative of China" and would vote against "substantive resolution or amendment which provides for dual representation..."

Copies Of Master Plans Can Be Read

Copies of the controversial Tiscornia Estate Master Plan and the North Ridge Plan are available for reading at the Larkspur Library, the Friends of the Larkspur Library have reported.

The documents — the first proposing extensive development of the forested hills above Larkspur and the other proposing they remain undeveloped — have been the center of growing controversy between developers and conservationists.

OBITUARIES

Sausalito Resident Manuel Pasquinucci

Manuel Pasquinucci, co-owner of the Caledonia Market in Sausalito and lifelong resident of that city, collapsed yesterday at his home and was pronounced dead at Marin General Hospital. He was 45.

Pasquinucci, of 1721 Bridgeway, was a partner in the Caledonia Market for 23 years. He was an Army veteran of World War II, serving in Europe and winning the Bronze Star, and formerly served as president of the Sausalito Lions Club.

Pasquinucci also was a member of Seapoint Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West, Sausalito and San Rafael Elks Lodge 1108.

Survivors are his wife, Virginia; two daughters, Linda F. and Debra J., both at home, and a sister, Mrs. Adele J. Barrow of Sausalito.

Private Mass of the Resurrection will be celebrated tomorrow at Star of the Sea Church, Sausalito, with entombment also private. Memorial contributions to a private charity are preferred by the family.

LAW

his bill: "The reference to committees of less than a quorum was intended to apply only to new section 54952.3 (his bill) and not to the entire Brown Act." Hayes underlined the "not."

His bill, he said, was aimed at closing a loophole in the Brown Act under which public agencies had created temporary advisory committees composed of governing board members — but deliberately including less than a quorum in order to dodge the Brown Act.

That evasive practice, Hayes said, "eliminated the public from all of the investigative and fact-finding processes." The Brown Act, he said, obviously was intended to apply to all deliberations by public bodies, not just to those by their full boards.

Hayes stressed that the bill was introduced and signed into the law "to erase this subterfuge."

The most recent local abuses of the Brown Act under Hayes' amendment have been by the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District and the Metropolitan Transportation Commission.

Directors of the smog district, including Marin County Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., have held three unannounced closed meetings of the personnel committee to consider firing the district's counsel, Matthew S. Walker.

Ironically, it was Walker who advised district officials that Hayes' 1968 amendment allowed the unannounced sessions. He relied on the misconception that the amendment exempted committees of less than a quorum of the full board.

The Metropolitan Transportation Commission has been conducting all of its committee meetings without public notice, relying on the same misconception. Its chairman, Alameda County Supervisor Joseph P. Bort, advised complaining newsmen that "if you want to make a big issue about it, go ahead. It won't do any good."

Psychiatry Clinic Will Relocate

The Ross Psychiatric Clinic, which has been given free space at Ross General Hospital since 1964, will move Nov. 1 to the Redwood Medical Building at 1125 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Kentfield.

Dr. Thomas E. McCormick, clinical director of the center, said the move was necessary because hospital officials now need the space for their own programs. He added that hospital officials will continue to cooperate with the center.

The clinic, which provides psychiatric services which are billed according to ability to pay, is sponsored by the Marin Mental Health Foundation, a private nonprofit foundation.

Hours of the clinic will continue to be 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, Dr. McCormick said.

She was born on the family ranch in Penngrove and spent her entire life in the Petaluma area. Mrs. Kaiser was a former member of the Petaluma Golden Age club. Her husband, William Kaiser, died in 1957.

She is survived by a daughter, Patricia Harris of Overton, Nev.; a brother, Elmer Starke and a sister, Isabel Minor, both of Petaluma; seven grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Thieu's Victory Cleared

By KIM WILLENSON

SAIGON (UPI)—The South Vietnamese Supreme Court approved today by an 8-1 vote the Oct. 3 unopposed reelection of President Nguyen Van Thieu, clearing the way for his inauguration Oct. 31.

The court also issued decisions on lawsuits filed by supporters of Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky seeking to have Thieu's victory declared invalid. The court had deliberated on the suits four days and postponed its decision three times.

The court decided again by an 8-1 vote to reject a suit by four taxpayers and by 6-3 to reject a similar suit by a professor of law.

TO VALIDATE

As to the election itself, Chief Justice Tran Van Linh announced "the Supreme Court in its meeting on the 19th, 20th, 21st and 22nd of October, based on Article 54 of the Constitution, has reached a decision to validate the elections of Oct. 3.

"We solemnly declare that 6,331,918 voters have gone to the polls. The democracy slate (Thieu) received 5,975,018 votes. The Supreme Court officially declares that the democracy slate was elected."

Chief Justice Linh read the judgments in a low voice to some 50 newsmen and a dozen police along with the litigants in an open court session. The dissenting justices were not permitted to give their minority opinions and the entire court filed out with the justices refusing to answer questions.

LAST BARRIER

The decision cleared the last legal barrier to Thieu's assumption of power for another four years. Construction of grandstands and a ceremonial platform for the inauguration a week from Sunday has been underway for a week.

The court challenges were based on a controversial election law forced through the National Assembly by Thieu last spring. It required presidential candidates to get the backing of either 40 deputies or senators or 100 provincial councilors on their nominating petitions.

Thieu wanted to cut down on the number of candidates in the race and give a clear majority to the winner. But when it became apparent he might have to run against both Ky and Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh, Thieu used the law to force Ky out. At that point Minh withdrew.

Take Your Choice

BOSTON (UPI) — A sign in the front window of the Paulist Fathers Center says in big letters: Repent and Be Saved. In smaller type in the lower right-hand corner, it says: "If you have already repented, please disregard this message."

CAPT. DANIEL B. AHERN
Awarded four medals

Flying Cross Is Awarded To Novatan

Air Force Capt. Daniel B. Ahern of Novato has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for valor in flying vitally needed ammunition to a South Korean airfield in the face of enemy fire.

The Air Force also announced that it had presented the Marin man his second, third and fourth awards of the Air Medal for "outstanding airmanship and courage" on other vital missions, while he was flying a C-7A tactical airlift aircraft.

Ahern's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard L. Ahern, live at 455 Calle De La Mesa, Novato. The young pilot was a 1964 graduate of San Rafael High School and graduated from the Air Force Academy, where he earned honors as captain of the fencing team, in 1968.

He is married to the former Ellen Gaither of Prescott, Ariz.

Medi-Cal Fraud Figure Gives Up

OAKLAND (UPI)—A 37-year-old pharmacist charged with bilking the state of nearly $1 million in fraudulent Medi-Cal claims surrendered in Oakland Thursday.

Robert D. Tobenkin gave himself up and promptly posted $60,000 bail. He was sought Tuesday on 32 grand theft counts but couldn't be located.

Arraignment for Tobenkin, who is married and owns a $75,000 mansion and two drug stores, will be held Oct. 28.

Charles Herbert, an Alameda County deputy district attorney said:

"Tobenkin received very close to $1 million from the state Medi-Cal program over the past four and three-quarter years, and we have reason to believe that more than 90 per cent of it was obtained illegally."

Fire Base Pullout Of 200

By ARTHUR HIGBEE

SAIGON (UPI)—The United States today pulled out nearly 200 American troops from embattled Fire Base Pace, closing the last exposed U.S. base in South Vietnam. It had been under Communist fire for 27 consecutive days.

UPI correspondent Don Davis reported from Tay Ninh City that about 95 artillerymen and 100 infantry troops were flown into the Tay Ninh area by huge U.S. Chinook helicopters. Pace was 80 miles north of Saigon and only 600 yards from the Cambodian border.

"I'm not worried about security," he told Davis. "These airborne troops are good. They can take anything."

The pullout of the 200 Americans left all U.S. combat and support forces, with exception of advisers, well inside the South Vietnamese borders and in effect under the protection of the South Vietnamese.

Earlier this year U.S. fire bases along the along the Cambodian and Laotian borders and just south of the Demilitarized Zone also were closed up, leaving Pace as the only exposed American positionremaining in the war zone.

As if to prove the the point that South Vietnamese troops are now protecting the Americans, 300 soldiers swept out of Vietnamese bases 30 miles east of Saigon in an attempt to wipe out an understrength Viet Cong "regiment" of less than 700 men.

WILL IT OR WON'T IT? — Unflappable John Irwin of Bolinas sits in the cockpit of his red Meteorplane, antique biplane which he has been slowly restoring for nearly 16 years. The takeoff is to come within the next few months, and the 80-year-old Irwin has no doubts the machine will fly.

ENGINE COMPONENTS — Hand-made parts from the Meteorplane's engine are examined by aging aviator John Irwin. He has tested the engine, and waxes enthusiastic over its performance. Only a few adjustments and final assembling of the craft are all that is needed before takeoff, Irwin says.

(Independent-Journal photos by Bob Hax)

80-Year-Old Aviator Will Soar Again

By PAT ANGLE

On some fateful day in the next few months, John Fulton Irwin of Bolinas will hop into his bright red Meteorplane, open up the throttle and soar into the sky, at speeds up to 75 miles an hour.

The 80-year-old pioneer aviator can hardly wait. In the face of many obstacles, he has been inching toward that big day for almost 16 years, working slowly and painstakingly to restore the antique biplane.

Of the many persons who will be watching the historic takeoff eagerly, none will be more enthusiastic (or relieved) than Jack Irwin's wife, Ethel, who has the distinct impression she is living in an aircraft factory.

"I don't have a home anymore; I'm lucky I have a bed," she said with a wry grin. "Now he has started to store his equipment on the beds in the guest room!"

But good natured griping from his wife is not about to dissuade Irwin from his appointed task. The 240-pound plane is not just any old plane, but one he designed and built himself in the 1920s.

Irwin, who was flying and building planes when most of his fellow citizens were predicting the automobile was a fad that would never last, opened his meteorplane factory in Sacramento in 1922 and turned out more than 200 of the craft before the start of the Depression.

The red Meteorplane which reposes (and completely fills) the Irwin's tiny garage is one of the few still in existence. Considering its history, the fact that it is still extant and almost ready to fly again is only slightly short of a miracle.

During World War II, for example, the small plane was stored in Aptos, Santa Clara County. Youngsters broke into its shed and stole the motor and rain water rotted out most of the front part of the craft.

It would have been enough to make almost anyone give up the idea of restoring the plane. But Irwin is a salty old character, a kind of 80-year-old Peck's bad boy who likes to finish what he starts.

He searched "up and down the state" for more than two years and finally found his engine in North Sacramento where a man was using it to pump water. "I had to buy my own engine back for $75," he recalls cheerfully.

After Irwin began the restoration in earnest in 1955, a man in San Carlos generously offered to help in the work and took the airplane down there. However, all was not well and creditors attached the man's business and all his possessions. Fortunately the Meteorplane had been moved to another place "just in time," before the creditors moved in.

The work has also been slowed by the fact that Meteorplane parts are not available just anywhere; you can't find them in the Sears catalogue or at your friendly aircraft supply house. Irwin has all the patterns and builds all the parts by hand, not all that easy when you don't have the money, the proper equipment or a good place to work.

Jack Irwin's stubborness — which first manifested itself in 1905 when, despite his parents chagrin, he substituted for a drunken balloonist at a fair — has come in handy during the long restoration.

After all, any man who was fooling around with those strange, impractical contraptions called aeroplanes as early as 1910, has to have had a definite stubborn streak.

Of course through the years, there have been many doubters who have been sure the plane would never get off the ground, but Irwin is used to such doubts and they don't bother him a bit. "My own mother and father thought I was crazy," he said with a laugh, "why they would never even ride with me in a car because they thought I was nuts."

He is sure the plane will go and has a tape recording of a recent test of the engine which he will play for anyone at the drop of a hat. "Listen to that motor turning, 1,650 rpms," he purred.

All that is needed now are a few adjustments and assembling of the craft. "I'll have to take it outside to assemble it," the sprightly Irwin said. "It could be ready to fly within 30 days, but if the rains come early, well then we'll have to wait until spring."

Irwin, who has lived in Marin County on and off since 1895 and in Bolinas since 1950, hasn't flown for years, but is convinced he will have no trouble because "it's like learning to ride a bicycle; you never forget."

The flight will be a short, but a merry one, just to prove to himself and others that the plane will actually go. After that, Irwin hopes to find "a good museum which will preserve it." He laughed: "After all. I have a little ego in me."

The flight will mark the end of a 69-year career in aviation which began in 1903 with testing dirigibles in the mudflats near San Bruno. Irwin says he got his first flying license in 1919 from Orville Wright. After that he worked at a variety of jobs in the industry, including managing the Watsonville airport, working for the Navy as an aeronautical consultant and working as a consulting engineer in San Francisco.

After the big event, what then? Won't the aftermath be a big letdown? To those questions, Irwin responds with a big emphatic "No!"

"I'll have plenty of things to do, to keep me busy," he said with a wicked smile. "I'll probably spend a lot of time making love to my wife," he said and added: "I'm just a sexy senior citizen."

New City Offices Gain Approval

The Rohnert Park City Council last night approved final plans for a new city office building.

City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan said the council voted 3-1 to go ahead with the building project. Mayor Warren K. Hopkins dissented and Councilman Vernon P. Smith was absent.

Callinan said the council had generally approved preliminary plans by architect Lawrence Simons, but posed philosophical questions about the estimated expenditure of $150,000. Callinan said the council also considered holding an election on the building plan, but dismissed the idea.

The council directed Simons to prepare working drawings for the building and told Callinan to go ahead with negotiations to buy 1.5 acres for the building on Commerce Boulevard. Land cost was estimated at $30,000.

Callinan said the council, sitting as the Rohnert Park Civic Commission, could sell bonds to finance the project with the city paying an annual debt service of $17,000 to $20,000 on the 15-year note.

The city plans to rent some of the offices to the Cotati School District for up to $400 per month to defray some costs.

The building now used as a city hall will be turned over entirely to the police and fire departments.

Youth Panel Enters Book Controversy

Marin County Youth Commission members will get a peek next month at a controversial San Rafael High School book to see if the commission should take a stand either for or against.

Commissioner Brian Perkins of San Rafael said he has a copy of "Movement Toward a New America," which San Rafael High teacher Virginia Franklin planned to use in her American government class.

Perkins told the commission he will not only bring the book but will talk to Mrs. Franklin in order to gather more information on how she intends to use the book.

"I've read it and don't find anything in it that most of us don't know already," Perkins said. The book is a collection of articles from the underground press, he said. He will report back to the commission at the next meeting, set for 4 p.m. Nov. 4 at the Civic Center.

The Marin County Youth Commission also:

YOUTH NEWS — Asked youth coordinator L. Charles Smith to see if "Free Youth," the new youth newspaper published only yesterday, can include paid advertising in the future, and whether it can be printed on recycled newsprint. Smith said the first issue of 6,000 mimeographed copies cost $65.

PAKISTAN RELIEF — Heard from Smith that about $150 has been collected for relief of starving and diseased children in Pakistan. Commissioners decided they would try to make at least one more concerted fund drive in their respective high schools.

COUNTYWIDE PLAN — Was urged by Commissioner Merritt A. Robinson to attend one of the hearings on the preliminary countywide plan. One hearing was held last night at Sir Francis Drake High School, and the final wrapup public hearing is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 30, from 9:30 a.m. at College of Marin's Olney Hall.

NORWIN S. YOFFIE
To head foundation

Yoffie Is Foundation President

Norwin S. Yoffie, general manager of the Independent-Journal, has been chosen president of the California Newspaperboy Foundation for 1971-72.

Yoffie, who was first vice president last year, replaces Ralph H. Markham, advertising director of the Van Nuys News.

The foundation, based in Glendale, is engaged in preserving the rights of newspaperboys to engage in a part-time occupation and to promote and encourage good working habits, educational opportunities and special awards.

Other new foundation officers are William Ortman, circulation manager of the Oakland Tribune, first vice president; Hubert L. Kaltenbach, publisher of the South Bay Daily Breeze in Torrance, second vice president, and William J. Morrissey, circulation director of the Long Beach Independent Press-Telegram, secretary-treasurer.

One-Day Membership Drive Set

A one-day membership drive was set yesterday for Nov. 11 by the Novato Chamber of Commerce board, according to secretary Billie Garl.

Twenty-five members will make the drive, starting with a kickoff breakfast and closing with a cocktail party at which reports from the day's canvassing will be made.

The board also voted to spend $1,675 for part-time office help for Mrs. Garl.

It was agreed to change its luncheon meeting dates from the third to second Thursday of the month because of a conflict with the Air Force Association.

The board voted to endorse the $1.6 million bond issue of the North Marin County Water District at the Nov. 2 election.

The City of Novato has proposed that the chamber move from its present location at 1123 Grant Avenue to a house which the city recently purchased at De Long and Reichert avenues, and the board voted to investigate the cost and feasibility of the move.

Happy Camp Has A Doctor Again

HAPPY CAMP, Calif. (UPI)—This town of 2,600 has a doctor again.

Dr. Stanley Gustin, 48, a native of Medford, Ore., has opened an office here. Happy Camp, 72 miles northwest from Yreka, the nearest city of any size, had been without a doctor for a year.

Dr. Gustin said he took the job because he has become so "de-urbanized" that even Medford, with about 30,000 people, is "overdeveloped."

The doctor had spent the past 10 years in New Mexico and Southern California. He learned of Happy Camp's plight while passing through Siskiyou County on a visit.

Six Policemen Are Killed In Ambush

BANGKOK (UPI)——Communist terorists detonated a land mine under a government jeep Thursday and sprayed the wreckage with automatic weapons fire, killing six policemen.

The ambush was on a jungle road in the Chawang district of Nakhon Si Thammarat province in southern Thailand.

Belfast Firm Is Bombed By Gunmen; Three Hurt

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—British troops fought youth gangs in Londonderry today and gunmen who forced entry into a Belfast city center egg-packing firm bombed the building, security forces spokesmen said.

A police spokesman said three women were hospitalized in Belfast when five men forced entry into the Gravey Brothers Egg-Packing Co., ordered the watchman out and placed bombs at the rear, in the center and at the front of the building.

Two of the bombs exploded, setting off a fire which badly damaged the building, the spokesman said.

The fighting in Londonderry began when a combined British army and Northern Ireland police raid swept through the Roman Catholic Bogside district of the city, an army spokesman said.

Gangs of youth retaliated by attacking army posts in the area with gasoline bombs.

Soldiers fired back with CS nausea gas and rubber bullets, the spokesman said.

In Belfast, an army patrol shot and wounded a man aiming at gun at a soldier in the Short Strand district in the eastern part of the Northern Ireland capital, an army spokesman said.

The man was moved to the Royal Victoria Hospital where he was placed under guard, the spokesman said.

A police spokesman said security forces today discovered a new extremist bomb tactic—"a particularly nasty device"—that could blow up "any one at all."

Adolf Hitler seized Austria in March, 1938.

Door Slammed; House Collapses

She was only two steps away from the door when the entire house collapsed, leaving her standing in front of a pile of rubble.

Police said the house's main beam apparently was rotten.

Commerce Clearing House Finishes Quail Hill Move

By HARRY CRAFT

Commerce Clearing House, Inc., a national publishing house of tax and business law reports headquartered in Chicago, today completed the move of its western regional headquarters from San Francisco to the top of Quail Hill in San Rafael's Northgate section.

The move represents a transfer operation which has been under way since Oct. 4. The three-level office complex houses the western editorial staff as well as the staff from General Programmed teaching, a division formerly located in Palo Alto that designs and develops training materials utilizing principals of instructional technology.

Still remaining in San Francisco in a district sales department for Northern California. It will not be moved.

Commerce Clearing House will have about 84 employees at the Quail Hill facility at the start which will include office workers, executives, administrators, writers and editors. About half of this number are said to live in Marin, including the company's western vice president Richard K. Duncan, a resident of Peacock Gap.

The new western headquarters is part of an 83-acre site developed by a subsidiary of the publishing firm, Quail Hill, Inc. Duncan said the remainder of the area will be developed by others pending completion of negotiations. Construction is expected to start this year on a residential development consisting of 110 condominium townhouses and 34 single-family dwellings and additional administrative and professional sites on top of the hill. A 10-story office building site at the northeast corner of the hill is available for development, he said.

About $250,000 has been spent in landscaping the grounds of Quail Hill and a 3.5-acre vineyard planted at the site will produce grapes under a company label, Duncan said.

Commerce Clearing House purchased Quail Hill in 1967 from Citizens Federal Savings and Loan Association after more than a year searching for a Bay Area location that would remove it from the traffic and congestion of San Francisco.

Citizens Federal Savings had acquired the land from Jerome Draper who had purchased it in 1954 from the Manuel T. Freitas Estate.

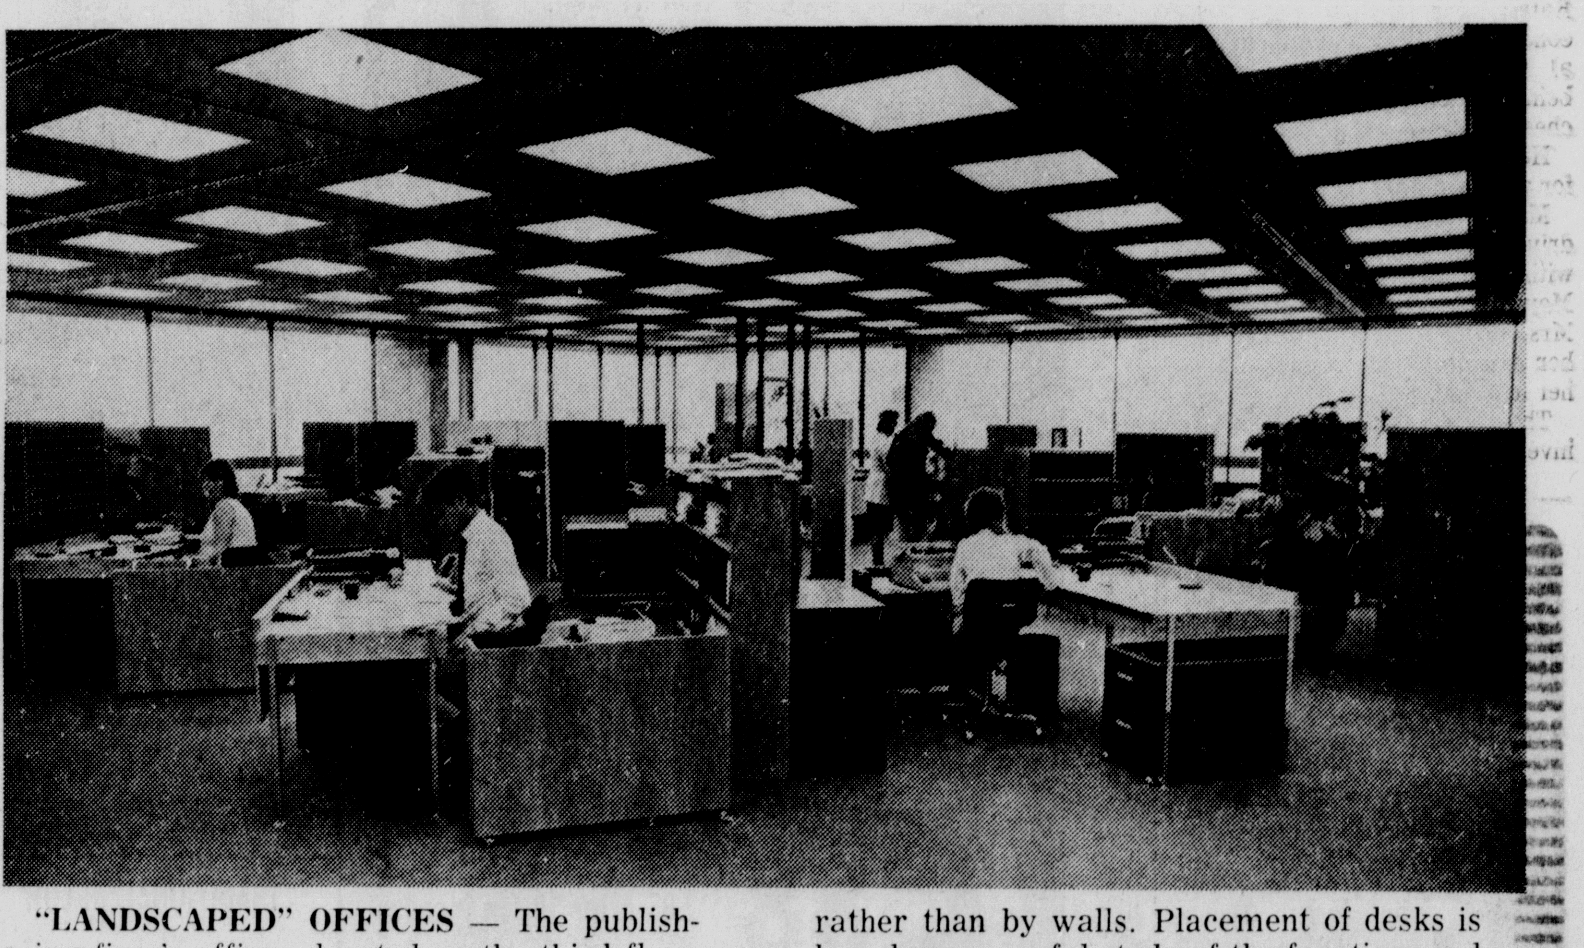
The property had been rezoned in July 1967 to allow construction of a conference center, administrative--professional buildings a commercial building, houses and townhouses. Ground was broken for the Commerce Clearing House office building in March 1969. Construction of the building involved installing 110 concrete piers 30 feet deep in the hill, many hundreds of tons of concrete and 34 miles of reenforcing cable in each floor. The total structure covers 120,000 square feet.

The building was designed by Marquis and Stroller. Exterior facing is of chipped concrete, giving the building the appearance of chiseled granite. Most offices are located on the upper level with a panoramic view of the surrounding hills and circled by an outside terrace.

A large central court contains galleries, planters and a sculptured fountain. Entrance and lobby are on the second level which also contains large dining areas and a kitchen. The lower floor is used for parking, a telephone exchange, computer equipment and service facilities.

The firm was founded in 1913. It edits and publishes information on taxes, labor, banking and law for the legal, accounting, business and educational world. It has been expanding for several years, adding to its services and acquiring related companies.

At the end of 1970 the company reported sales of $51.5 million and net earnings of $5.3 million. To provide for anticipated expansion at Quail Hill the building was designed for an additional 320 employees.



"LANDSCAPED" OFFICES — The publishing firm's offices, located on the third floor, are large open spaces, with employees separated by furniture, bookshelves and plants, rather than by walls. Placement of desks is based on a careful study of the functions and interactions of each employee.

North Coast Agency Plan Amended

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation including Sonoma County in a proposed North Coast regional planning agency is being amended radically to strip the agency of power.

The measure, SB 920 by Sen. Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, is being overhauled belatedly on the Assembly floor — just short of final legislative approval — because the senator had just changed his mind on the powers of the agency, his office said.

His original bill, written by a Crescent City attorney would have created a North Coast Area Planning and Development Commission with limited veto power over construction of public facilities. The agency also would have operated housing, health and economic opportunity programs under federal funding.

As now proposed in a packet of 180 amendments developed by legislative aides, the commission will have power only to draft regional plans. The word "development" will be stripped from its title.

The result would be a North Coast version of the Association of Bay Area Governments, a forum of city and county officials with no power except to review and comment on local government applications for state and federal funds.

The commission would be financed by a property tax at a maximum rate of 1 cent per $100 assessed valuation. A provision in earlier versions of the bill giving it power to sell revenue bonds will be deleted by the new amendments.

The bill also provides that the commission would be formed only with the approval of a majority of the governing boards of the cities and counties in the proposed area, which includes Sonoma, Lake, Mendocino, Humboldt and Del Norte counties. Other contiguous counties also could join, and each would have two representatives on the commission, one supervisor and one city councilman.

Bicycle Path Bill To Reagan

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation authorizing a statewide system of bicycle paths has gone to the governor's desk for his signature into law.

The measure, SB 265 by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, entitled the Bicycle Recreation and Safety Act of 1971, also empowers local governments to require subdividers to donate land for bicycle paths.

His original bill would have applied this requirement to any subdivision large enough to also require dedication of roadways, but this provision was limited in Assembly committee to apply only to subdivisions of 200 or more parcels.

Dog Directory Bill Into Law

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill requiring sheriffs to maintain a directory of dogs specially trained in search and rescue has been signed into law by Acting Gov. Ed Reinecke.

The bill, SB 1050 by Sen Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, originally would have required every sheriff to have such dogs — a proposal that brought a flood of protests from sheriffs objecting to its high cost.

The original bill was asked by the Charles Mel Foundation of Oakland, which maintains one of the two search and rescue dog teams in the state in Inverness. The only other team is in Los Angeles, Behr's staff said.

Hospital Is Given Go Ahead

Hillcrest Hospital Administrator Joseph M. Horner said the special meeting included a report from Dr. Thomas O. Maloney from the medical staff growth policy committee.

27 IN SUPPORT

Horner said the staff study involved voting by 32 physicians who make up 95 per cent of the practicing doctors at Hillcrest Hospital. Dr. Maloney said that 27 of the 32 supported the board plan for one major public health care facility for Southern Sonoma.

Dr. Maloney reported that 50 per cent of the doctors said they would accept a board decision for the location of the new hospital while 25 per cent said they preferred an east side Petaluma location and the remaining 25 per cent said they wanted to stay at the Hillcrest site on the extreme west side of Petaluma.

Horner said the five dissenting doctors attended the meeting and recommended that the board abandon plans for a new hospital and contract with a private hospital group for medical services.

The board had tentatively approved a plan to build a new hospital on the east side and to reserve the 57-bed Hillcrest Hospital for specialized care such as obstetrics or geriatrics.

BOARD PLEASED

Horner said the board was pleased with the report since any decision they make would please at least 75 per cent of the medical staff.

The board directed Horner to move swiftly on the project and meet with financial consultants Stone and Youngberg of San Francisco to get a recommendation on the most practical methods of financing a new hospital. He was also directed to consult with a nonprofit medical care organization on a possible affiliation that would permit the sale of nonprofit revenue bonds to finance the project.

Road Link In Countywide Plan Causes An Exchange

Debate over a controversial road link between Sleepy Hollow and Terra Linda, and suggestions for incorporating health planning into land use planning were highlights of last night's public hearing on the new countywide preliminary plan.

The hearing was conducted in San Anselmo with councilmen Woodrow V. Capurro and Lewis W. Stewart as co-chairman for the presentation by the City-County Planning Council. Nearly 100 persons attended the discussion.

Dr. Michael L. Harris of the Comprehensive Health Planning Council of Marin County reported that the council directors on Wednesday endorsed making Fawn Drive a link between Sleepy Hollow and Terra Linda. The health spokesman also urged a connector between White's Hill and Lucas Valley as vital to providing emergency health care.

Sleepy Hollow Homeowners Association spokesman Andrew Cordano opposed the connections, calling for mass transmit rather than any more routes for private autos.

Harris said his group would accept limitation of a connector to buses and emergency vehicles.

"The general consensus seems to be that the countywide plan is a good one except that it is not innovative . . . in transportation and relies too much on the automobile," County Planning Director Werner von Gundell said.

The health planning council recommendations, as reported by Harris, branded earthquakes the most serious threat to Marin County residents' health. The council urged immediate drafting of danger zone ordinances, particularly in the countywide plan's West Marin corridor. It called for control of development along fault lines, below slide areas, and downstream from dams.

The health planners drew heavily on lessons from the Los Angeles earthquake in February to draft their recommendations. Among the proposals: frontage roads paralleling all freeways to keep emergency traffic routes open in the event of overpass collapse, provision of alternate emergency medical care sites and use of a countywide emergency telephone number.

The health planning council also recommended drafting a central plan with greater scope than present civil defense proposals, to deal with emergency sewage problems, food and housing shortages and similar problems of less than disastrous magnitude.

The health planners suggested coordinating land use plans to provide general health treatment facilities in four areas — Southern Marin, Ross Valley, San Rafael and Novato. Specialized facilities might be clustered in one area to serve the entire county, the health panel suggested.

A final public symposium will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Oct. 30 in Olney Hall at College of Marin, to review the criticisms of the countywide preliminary plan voiced at the series of city-county planning council hearings held throughout the county in recent weeks.

Cathedral's Use Draws Protest

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A group of Episcopalian leaders has protested the use of Grace Cathedral on Nob Hill for "animalistic symbols and pagan cultic practices."

"Grace Cathedral has been consecrated for public worship of God and separated from all unhallowed, worldly and common uses," they said in a letter Thursday.

They cited the use of the Cathedral last month by an organization called "Living Creatures Association.

Truck Door Flies Open, Woman Injured

Eileen Taylor, 25, of 2342 Skillman Lane, Petaluma, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital yesterday for back pains suffered when she fell from a moving pick-up truck at 6:50 p.m. at Skillman Lane and Petaluma Boulevard North, Petaluma.

The California Highway Patrol said the truck door opened as it turned the corner and Mrs. Taylor fell to the pavement. The truck was driven by her husband, William Taylor, 29.

Rights Panel Backs Leased Housing Plea

Marin Human Rights commissioners last night supported Executive Director Gerald J. Hood in his effort to get cities to drop residency requirements in the federally-subsidized leased housing program.

At the same time, commissioners criticized Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of the Housing Authority of Marin, for making statements that would hinder the program to have cities drop the discriminatory residency rules.

Hood said Shepherd is telling cities they are not legally required to drop residency requirements.

The commissioners authorized the executive committee, headed by Richard Harding, to meet with Shepherd and ask him to refrain from making such statements.

The Marin Human Rights Commission also:

MARIN CITY — Supported a resolution by the Marin Alternative, endorsing the principle of self-determination for Marin City, including incorporation of the community, construction of quality housing, and development of a shopping center and educational and cultural facilities.

EMPLOYMENT — Supported a resolution by the Marin Alternative, demanding that the county take immediate steps to employ members of minority races at all levels and to actively recruit nonwhites as openings develop.

SEX DISCRIMINATION — Heard from commissioner Barbara Hosmer that the county hiring practices discriminate against women. She asked that the commissioners give priority attention to combating sex discrimination.

MANPOWER — Heard from Nesbit Crutchfield, manpower coordinatorfor the Economic Opportunity Council's employment service in Marin City, that the employment service will be out of funds by the end of this month. Commissioners voted a letter to the San Francisco foundation, supporting Crutchfield's request for more grants.

WORK STUDY — Heard from Hood that 25 Dominican College students have signed up for a work-study program, under which they get college credits for doing work for various county departments at the Civic Center.

WORKSHOP — Asked the executive committee to draw up an agenda for a joint meeting with the Marin County Board of Supervisors at 9 a.m. on Nov. 9.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (UPI)—Margaret Norton has been named to the newly created position of resident publicity director for the Saratoga Performing Arts Center.

Mother And Son, Hurt In Crash

A young mother and her 4-year-old son were injured at about 8:30 a.m. yesterday in a two-car accident at the intersection of Second and Irwin streets.

Honore Marie Fitzsimmons, 24, of 10 La Brea Way, San Rafael, was reported in fair condition today at Marin General Hospital where she was being treated for a concussion, chest bruises and facial cuts.

Her son, Todd, was treated for a bruised forehead.

Mrs. Fitzsimmons was the driver of a car which collided with one driven by Janis Irene Meyer, 24, of San Francisco. Mrs. Meyer said she would see her own doctor for a bump on her forehead.

The accident was still being investigated by police.

A bullet struck Thomas Theis Jr., 8, in the head and fatally wounded him.

Malnutrition And Body Fat

PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI)—"The most destructive form of malnutrition in our midst is the accumulation of excess body fat," according to Dr. Charles G. King, the scientist who isolated Vitamin C in 1932.

"For those who live in countries where good quality foods are abundant, it is difficult to realize the penalty that food deficiencies inflict on mankind in other areas of the world," King told an audience Thursday at Washington State University, his alma mater.

"We still contend with moderate deficiencies in iron, iodine, fluorine and other nutrients among the vitamins and minerals, and occasionally severe cases of deficiency are found," he said.

"However, the most destructive form of malnutrition in our midst is the accumulation of body fat," said King, who also identified Vitamin C as a scurvy-preventing substance.

Faulty School Bus Being Checked

c, Mich. (UPI)—General Motors technicians who inspected a Pontiac school bus that lost its rear wheels report there was a loose nut on one of the bolts that holds the axle to the rear spring assembly.

The bolt could have been loosened by a number of factors, they said.

The 1964-model school bus is one of a fleet used each day to carry children involved in court-ordered busing to achieve integration. Wilbur Johnson, school supervisor of transportation, would neither confirm nor deny Thursday the possibility of sabotage.

"This is something I've never heard of before," he said." "I've never seen it happen."

Pontiac police said they had not been asked to investigate the accident which occurred Wednesday when the driver, Mrs. Wilma Doster, was forced to make an emergency stop as she was returning to the bus depot after dropping off children at their schools. The axle and rear wheels came loose, dropping the rear end of the bus to the pavement.

TELEVISION REVIEW

An Ambitious New Children's Series

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—A preview of the most ambitious children's video series since "Sesame Street" was presented on numerous commercial stations Thursday night as a help to the non-commercial network in getting it launched.

The name of the new series is "The Electric Company," and it will have its formal premiere on the non-commercial Public Broadcasting Service Monday. It is a half-hour daily entry that tries to help the reading of children roughly between seven and 10 years old, and, in its attempt to combine information with an entertaining approach, it has a repertory troupe that includes Bill Cosby and Rita Moreno.

Although there is much general talk about the age group that the series is aiming at—mostly in the second, third and fourth grades —the basic fact is that, like "Sesame Street," its real target audience is youngsters who are part of minorities or disadvantaged surroundings.

As a matter of fact, "The Electric Company" has been put together in the Children's Television Workshop, which also turns out "Sesame Street," so there is a consistency of intelligence at work here.

The intelligence is indicated by the fact that, in the Thursday night preview, the show frankly made clear it is not absolutely sure at all that television can truly educate youngsters to any great degree, or even slightly. But it hopes it can at least help out.

With this aim, the series is spending about $7 million —its budget—from the underwriting of the U.S. Office of Education, the Ford Foundation, the Carnegie Corporation and the Corporation for Public Broadcasting.

Furthermore, it has picked the brains of more than 100 experts and studied about 40 teaching systems to come up with a format that could cleverly hold the attention of youngsters who are at the age when they switch television channels like demons and are tough to keep interested. In short, the entertainment format has to be truly special.

And it is. In a winningly attractive style, reading lessons are slipped into a nicely-paced, but not furiously frantic, combination of witty sketches, animation, music and the other usual devices for such a show. Really, though, who known how much any of this is helping anybody? The series admits as much, and maybe only the kids themselves know if all this is of any help, and probably they couldn't be sure either.

Still, it's better, far better, than the usual dumb cartoons, mainly because the entertainment is pretty intelligent—and enthusiastically offered. It has a zany touch now and then, and somehow this zaniness seems to be the kind that would particularly appeal to kids. My own personal favorite on the show is a girl named Judy Graubart, who managed to get across her reading lesson at one point with a charming, funny takeoff on the video cooking expert Julia Childs.

Anyway, tune in "The Electric Company" starting next week and decide for yourself. If your youngsters are reasonably intelligent or getting along pretty well in reading, I don't think they'll benefit much from it in educational terms. But they might enjoy some of the fun once in a while, and you might too, and it's better than a steady diet of moronic cartoons. It is not, of course, as good as reading. Television rarely is.

Reagan Allays Japan Fear Over Nixon Peking Visit

TOKYO (UPI) — California Gov. Ronald Reagan said today Asia's non-Communist nations have nothing to fear from President Nixon's planned visit to Peking.

"He wants to open communications to see if he can remove the barriers to peace," Reagan told Japanese and American business leaders.

"It means no lessening in the strength of our tieswith our old friends and allies.

"The free countries of Asia are not pawns to be moved around in a giant chess game."

Reagan spoke before an enthusiastic and largelyAmerican audience of more than 500 at a joint meeting of the American Chamber of Commerce in Japan and the JapanAmerica Society. Members of the audience paid $10 to hear the address.

The Republican governor is visiting Japan on the last leg of an Asian tour as personal representative of Nixon.

He leaves Japan Saturday by special Air Force jet for the United States.

CHIEF HOWARD C. CLARK

LARKSPUR CHIEF'S 30 YEARS

No Gold Watch Treatment – Yet

By ERIK M. INGRAM

After 30 years of police work, one is usually ready for the dinner party and gold watch treatment — but not Larkspur Police Chief Howard C. Clark.

"I hope not; I'd get no retirement pay," the 58-year-old chief quipped the other day.

Apparently city officials are in no hurry either to let their chief go. They are going to give him a party Nov. 2 honoring his 30 years but will hold on to the gold watch for a few more years.

"I think this is the greatest job in the world," Clark reflected in his cramped city hall office. "There never has been a time in 30 years that I have resented or hated coming to work."

When Clark first donned a uniform back in 1941, Larkspur was "a village," Greenbrae a cow pasture and the road to San Rafael wound through San Anselmo.

Since then, he has watched the community grow from 2,000 residents, many of them summer visitors only, into a city of about 11,000.

"There wasn't much police work back in those days," he said explaining that police chief duties included those of dog catcher and street superintendent among others.

As an assistant to former Chief William V. Nicholson, Clark said he got most of his "police training" at the Larkspur Rose Bowl — a popular Saturday night dance spot.

There, according to the soft-spoken chief, a Saturday night wasn't a Saturday night without a few fist fights.

"It was fist to fist combat," he remembered with a twinkle in his eye. "I got knockeddown many times . . . I learned the hard way."

But according to others, Clark didn't get his reputation as being one of the toughest officers in the county by being knocked down too many times.

While he's tough, they add, he's also fair.

His reputation also stems from his record of solving tough cases — some of which have been used for training by the Federal Bureau of Investigations as classics in investigation.

One such case, he said, involved the 1950 murder of a Hamilton Air Force Base sergeant. Besides the body, all Clark had as evidence was a stolen vehicle used in the crime.

Three weeks later, by methodically checking leads from throughout the state, he solved the car theft and with the aid of other departments ultimately the murder.

But, he added with a laugh, there have been the lighter moments.

For instance, the time a naked woman ran past him one night screaming for help.

Giving chase on foot, he finally caught up with her only to realize the entire neighborhood had been awakened by her screams and had witnessed him chasing her.

"We finally got the thing cleared up when we found the guy that had her clothes," he said. "I hope my wife understands when she reads this . . . It's one I always tell when someone asks my about my funniest experience."

But Clark, who was born at San Quentin where his father worked as a prison guard, in his eye. "I got knocked down talked about the future of law enforcement. He didn't believe the courts had weakened the efficacy of police work.

"It's improving all the time," he said. "The so-called adverse decisions by the courts have helped. The individual's rights are more protected."

As head of Larkspur's 15-member department, Clark sees consolidation of his department with the police force of neighboring Corte Madera as the next step to better law enforcement in Larkspur.

"I support consolidation with Corte Madera," he added. "This is one thing that has to happen." Already there is an overlapping of services between the two, he said.

"We're always willing to respond to a call to protect someone . . . we feel we can worry later about whose jurisdiction it is."

Clark, named chief in 1948 during the post-World War II growth of Larkspur, said he has no thought of retiring — "not for another seven or eight years."

Maybe then, he said, he'll think more seriously about his favorite pastime — fishing.

Clark resides in Larkspur with his wife and has two grown children — Bonnie and Bruce Clark, both of Terra Linda.

Cotati Hires A Private Eye

The Cotati Council last night appointed Herbert Miller, an insurance and private investigator, to the city planning commission.

The appointment came after a 45-minute closed door session in which the council also considered five other men who expressed interest in the position. They included Allan Stansbury, who had been recommended by the commission: David Thomas, Stanley Olsen, William Appleton and Harold Griffith.

Miller has lived in Cotati for 14 months and previously served on city councils in Monrovia, Los Angeles County, and in Manchester, Conn.

The council reviewed plans for the oversizing of sewer and water lines to the new Holiday Park subdivision and adjourned to Oct. 29 at 7:30 p.m. to continue the discussion.

Quentin Closure, Broad Reform Urged In Prison System Study

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) —Sweeping reforms in the California correctional system, including conjugal visits at all penitentiaries and closing the 19th Century San Quentin and Folsom prisons, were recommended Thursday in a report ordered by the Reagan administration.

The three-volume study said the California penal system was "far superior" to most others, but warned that its reputation "camouflages the reality" that it is "very conventional" and "fragmented."

California prisons, the report said, are generally "too large, difficult if not impossible to manage, and too far removed from the real world of people, problems and real life styles."

The $266,000, federally-financed report was prepared over a one-year period by Oakland criminologist Robert E. Keldgord and a 62-member staff. It was submitted to the State Board of Corrections.

The more than 200 suggestions included shortening prison terms or, in some cases, no terms at all; elimination of two-man cells to decrease homosexuality; installation of "modesty" toilet panels, brighter colors on prison walls; termination of nearly all regular mail censorship, and higher prison wages.

It also suggested the wearing of civilian clothes by the 20,802 convicts, background music at meals, reduction of maximum isolation sentences from 30 to 10 days and the hiring and promotion of more minority group members as prison personnel.

One of its basic recommendations was that the "bulk of the correctional effort ... be moved to the community level" where it would be regulated and partially subsidized by the state.

The study said that conjugal visiting, now being tested at the Tehachapi facility, should be expanded because it "is impressing almost everyone as both humane and rehabilitative, as well as a source of improved inmate morale."

Although the report urged the abandonment of the 116-year-old San Quentin and 91-year-old Folsom prisons, it was not optimistic they would be given up.

"They are immense, yet they do not have adequate space for modern programs. They are not secure or safe. Decent living conditions are almost unattainable in them, and they are ugly and depressing," the report declared.

Major remodeling, it said, would cost millions of dollars, and it would be better to close the facilities than try to recondition them.

The voluminous report also reviewed the local jail and parole system in California.

It said that jail conditions have "not appreciably changed" since 1923 when a federal report on jails said they were "unbelievably filthy" and "usually swarming with bedbugs, roaches, lice and other vermin."

"It is no wonder that jails and lockups are considered to be among the state's worst correctional evils," it concluded.

The study urged parole or probation for most criminals, saying that long prison sentences did not act as a deterrent and incarceration was a costly alternative to parole. California keeps men in prison about 50 per cent longer than other states, it said.

Other findings and recommendations included:

—California has the largest criminal population in the nation, 274,000, including probationers, juveniles, etc., and that local and state agencies spent $220 million on them in 1969-70.

"Small, decentralized and community-based, real-life" prisons should be constructed in the future so that inmates would be closer to jobs when they are released and better rehabilitated.

Drunks and "persons who do not pose a serious threat to the community" should be treated non-criminally.

—Alcoholic beverages should be taxed to finance "detoxification centers" and research on alcoholism.

—There should be increased training and professionalization of prison personnel, probation officers and other persons in the correctional system.

Garry Files Suit In Inmates' Behalf

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Black Panther attorney Charles Garry today filed a lawsuit on behalf of San Quentin Prison inmates who said they have been isolated and mistreated since the Aug. 21 rampage at the prison in which six persons were killed.

The federal court suit was brought by five prisoners who have been confined to specialized quarters since the Aug. 21 incident in which George Jackson, one of the "Soledad Brothers," was killed along with three guards and two other prisoners.

The lawsuit claims the Quentin lock-up denies due process of law, constitutes cruel and unusual punishment and violates the First Amendment by punishing the prisoners' beliefs and associations.

The suit named as defendants Gov. Ronald Reagan, Raymond K. Procunier, director of the Department of Corrections; Louis S. Nelson, San Quentin Prison warden; Associate Warden James W. L. Park; Joseph O'Brien, an official at the prison; A.R. Jacobs, associate warden, and other San Quentin officials.

The plaintiffs, mostly black, had been among the general prison population. The suit said they are now confined in Quentin's adjustment center and A and B sections. They are locked in their cells 23-24 hours per day without prison privileges or programs, according to the complaint, and their parole is in danger.

Charges against the plaintiffs range from being Black Panthers to "making prison staff uncomfortable." There are a total of 200 so segregated, according to attorneys for the plaintiffs.

The plaintiffs named in the suit were Bobby Bly, Wesley Robert Wells, Cleveland Brooks, Willie E. Gray, and Benito Ibarra, all convicts.

Award Will Be Given For Overall Project Design

The Novato Plan Review committee has decided to give an annual award for the best overall project design incorporating new and innovative ideas that integrate the building with the site.

Other awards , the board said Wednesday, may also be given for the best design in cluster single-family residential design, multiple-family residential design, public buildings, commercial, and industrial buildings, renovations and alterations, and signs.

The committee on Wednesday approved plans for 32 single-family residences in Mendocino Gardens, south of Novato Boulevard west of Eucalyptus Avenue for Norman T. Gilroy.

It approved plans for a professional office building at the northeast corner of Second Street and Grant Avenue for Eugene McGillicuddy.

The committee approved an 18-square-foot sign for Little Bavaria restaurant at 5611 Redwood Highway for George Wamminger.

School Finance Plan Still Valid

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Supreme Court, in a modification of its landmark Aug. 30 school financing decision, has ruled that the existing property tax system for supporting the public schools is still valid.

The high court yesterday said the Aug. 30 decision was not a final judgment and pointed out that it only ordered the case returned to trial court for further proceedings and did not strike down school financing in California.

If the trial court subsequently finds the present system of public school financing to be unconstitutional, the high court said it should provide for an "orderly transition" to a new system.

In the meantime, the high court said, the lower court's judgment "should make clear that the existing system is to remain operable until an appropriate new system" can be put into effect.

A finding that a governmental operation is unconstitutional "does not necessarily require invalidation of past acts . . . or an immediate implementation of a constitutionally valid substitute," the court said.

In the Aug. 30 ruling, in a case brought by a group of Los Angeles residents, the high court said the method of financing schools by local property taxes was unconstitutional because it penalized children who lived in poorer counties.

The modification was made in response to a petition by Attorney General Evelle Younger, who said that some taxpayers were paying local property taxes under protest and filing claims for refunds because they thought the present system was no longer vaiid.

Soviets Denied Land In Mt. Vernon Area

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Sate Department has advised the Soviet embassy it could not approve Russian purchase of a $1 million, 28-acre tract of land near the Mt. Vernon home of George Washington for use as a "recreational area" by embassy officials and employees.

A department spokesman said yesterday Secretary of State William P. Rogers decided last week that "purchase of land of historic interest by any foreign nation" could not be approved.

Rogers' decision was relayed Thursday to Soviet first secretary Vadim I. Kavalerov, who called at the department on "other business."

The Russians had sought to buy from a private owner the 28-acre Potomac River estate on land once owned by Washington, who built a home there before he moved to nearby Mt. Vernon.

Department spokesman Charles W. Bray said he knew of no legal designation of the property as "historic" although he said its nature was obvious by its location.

The department has no specific legal authority to bar the purchase, but it has an understanding with the Russians that they will neither lease nor buy property in the United States without the department's approval.

Kavalerov was told the department would give its "full cooperation" in finding an adequate recreational facility elsewhere.

THE SPOUSE GAP

Three Avenues To Save Marriage

(Condensed from the book, "The Spouse Gap")

By ROBERT LEE and MARJORIE CASEBIER

If in reality or in your imagination you have reached the final climax of a deadlocked marriage, there are three possible ways to approach the gap. One way is to live in one of the patterns described in the previous section as variations of the mating game. Another, providing both you and your spouse want to make things work and are willing to risk change, is to find some ways to bridge the gap. Or, a third and last resort is to carry through with divorce, dissolve the union, and build a new life from there.

Before jumping to this last decision, the individuals or the couple together could well seek some counseling help prior to visiting their lawyers. Too often divorce is not a solution to the personality difficulties that created the interpersonal problem.

EVEN WHEN divorce is agreed upon as the best solution, the actual breakup, for a couple in middle age especially, is usually a traumatic experience. When this failure to make it in marriage hits home, the person may experience damage to his self-esteem as well as guilt, grief, resentment, self-pity, and depression. The marriage crisis has become a life crisis.

For those couples unwilling to settle for either deadlock or divorce, the marriage drama enters yet another and final stage, one alive with possibility and anticipation. Perhaps a resolution to the spouse-gap problem is possible.

We do not intend to suggest following a few guidelines will make a rose garden of your marriage and fill it with happiness and peace. We lay down a challenge for each person to go beyond past misery and injustice and failure, to cease blaming others for present troubles, and to assume responsibility for contributing to the marital situation.

If one member is not willing to try to make mutual changes and adjustments, then it is doubtful that there will be progress past the deadlock or divorce stages. For those couples who see that their marriage is in trouble, and who desperately want to make a go of it, there can be surprising changes.

TAKE A MOMENT and think about your spouse. Imagine him as a person separate from any relationship to you — not as your wife or husband, nor the mother or father of your children, but as an individual with a unique past, with special talents, and with a personal history. It is from such a vantage point that we must always relate to another, even after 20 years of marriage, for only when we acknowledge the personhood of each other can we truly relate.

Now begin to feel the difference between expected marital images of behavior and a real, person-centered relationship in considering these factors: A mother never tires or gets sick, but the person you married can tire and does become sick. A doctor's wife (or minister's, or teacher's, or executive's) is understanding and is never lonely, but the person you married does get impatient and lonely. A wife is responsive to her husband and so is always ready to respond to his sexual advances with loving tenderness, but the person you married has feelings that are sometimes expressed in other ways. A husband is self-confident and assertive in his work, but the person you married has his self-confidence threatened and shaken at times. A father can be depended upon, and is happy, to be the primary breadwinner and protector of the family, but the person you married sometimes feels taken-for--granted and unnecessary, apart from bringing home the bacon. A husband is always a confident and attentive lover who takes initiative, but the man you married gets tense and anxious and needs affection and comfort.

Our point is that no one is married to an image or a role; everyone is married to a person — who is the same, yet not the same, today as yesterday. And the spouse gap can only be bridged when couples begin recognizing and affirming that reality. It is not too late to make this person-to-person discovery.

THE WHOLE POINT of a mutually loving relationship rests in the necessity of two people's meeting each other as whole persons. Erich Fromm writes that, "love is possible only if two persons communicate with each other from the center of their existence." Such love is a constantly growing, challenging experience for both parties, allowing neither one to idolize or sentimentalize the other or to project neurotic needs onto the other. But this love can come only if each partner is himself a centered self, aware of his own needs, feelings, and experiences.

Where there is such a coming-together, person-to-person, there is a continuing reaffirmation of love as relationship and a supportive bridge across the spouse gap.

Psychiatrist Traces Men's, Women's Roles

By JOAN LISETOR

Tracing the roles of women and men over the past 50 million years in a one-hour-lecture yesterday at Congregation Rodef Sholom in San Rafael may have been what caused Dr. Wolfgang Lederer to deal in vast generalities.

"Feminists are brave maidens blowing bugles of equality against what they consider an ages old conspiracy by men," he said in a talk sponsored by the Marin County Section of the Women's Division of the Jewish Welfare Federation.

"We are living in an age of fault finding where we must find someone to blame, to attribute our troubles to a conspiracy of someone other than ourselves," Lederer said.

The cause of the women's liberation is legitimate, he said, "but can equality solve our problems?"

LEDERER, a psychiatrist who lives in Sausalito with his wife, also a psychiatrist, traced behavior patterns of the male and female animals from the beginning of time, through the dawn of civilization to the present.

"There is evidence that nature created (male and female) animals fairly equal in the ability to fight, hunt, train the young and the capability of showing affection, but males have always been more apt to rove, while females were at the center of the off-spring," he said.

The male animals would face an attacker, while the female would flee, he said.

Early art showed woman as a vessel, contrasting the man as a fallic symbol with a spear or a plow, he said.

"What has been for 50 million years cannot be changed in the flick of an eyelash," the psychiatrist said. "We were males and females before we became masculine and feminine. Civilization was created primarily by men, while women grew things and were the link to nature."

NO MATTER how much a women increases her knowledge, she is still sought by a man for her understanding, and lack of understanding justifies a man's infidelity, he said. A woman's understanding should not be of the technical aspects of a man's life but of his feelings.

The psychiatrist drew an analogy between ships and harbors and men and women, likening men to a ship in their mobility and women to a harbor in the role of waiting. He drew the analogy further by saying each was worthless without the other.

Immigrants coming to this country found that the role of the woman shifted little, but the man was forced to overcome handicpas in order to get the training required for good jobs to support the family, he said.

Women now think that men have rendered this training hard to obtain to keep them home and protected, he said, but it is not men who are at fault. The nature of the home has changed.

"WITH A restriction of sibling numbers 20 years is all that is required of motherhood, and life for a woman is less demanding and interesting. Busy work is not fully satisfying," he said.

But why do women twist this to mean they are victims of a conspiracy?

"What we require is not the liberation of women and men but a search for how men and

DISTRICT MEETING

Alternative School Idea Explored

By DOROTHY NEWELL

Alternative schools, non-grading and earlier childhood education were the topics of four educators speaking before the 14th District of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers in Novato yesterday.

Dr. Edith Pewitt of the administrative staff of the Novato Unified School District was the moderator. Speakers were Dr. Quentin R. Bryan, assistant superintendent of Santa Rosa City Schools; Dr. James Collins, superintendent of Mill Valley Elementary Schools, and Wayne Boone, assistant superintendent of San Rafael City Schools.

Dr. Collins described his work with a task force appointed by State Supt. of Public Instruciton Wilson Riles, to study early childhood education.

THE TASK force is suggesting that children begin school at the age of 4, but not to move kindergarten to that age but to have a possible non-graded school for children through the age of 8 and also to have early parent education along with the child. Some districts would be ready to go if funded, Dr. Collins said. He added that Mill Valley ahs a healthy situation in the schools with a great deal of parent involvement.

Dr. Bryan said they have alternative programs in the Santa Rosa schools, kindergarten through the 12th grade. Career development and work experience are among the programs, he said. They have also taught algebra to first grade students, he said.

The program is designed to teach students not only to learn to use leisure time but also to work, relating to the outside world of work. The program was started this fall and Dr. Bryan gave as an example a policeman riding his motorcycle into a second grade classroom with red light on and siren blaring. The youngsters were able to talk to the policeman, sit on the bike and then relate how they felt. A course for the seventh graders combines photography and geography, he said.

Vocation, general and exploratory programs are involved in the work experience program. Students either work in the field they are taking courses in in school, are placed on salary for other types of jobs or visit various work stations to see varying careers and professions.

However, Dr. Bryan said, the schools should be able to back out of such programs when they are no longer needed.

IN HIS closing statement, which brought applause from the Parent-Teacher members, he said the state gives beautifully bound glossy books to the student and then tells them not to make a mark on them. The state should give students paper-back books on the cheapest paper so the students can enjoy them and then place them in their library at the end of the year, he said.

Boone discussed the "on location" school started this fall in the San Rafael School District. Twenty-five students were chosen from Terra Linda and 25 students from San Rafael.

The students and two teachers developed their own program, which includes "development of the environment, man's relationship to society and real life experience in voluntary work." The program is only part of a school day, as the student is on a 24 hour a day commitment. The students are housed in the Presbyterian Church in San Rafael, he said.

San Rafael also has the Marin Career Education program which is in its second year — a vocation program which includes auto repair, welding and plastics.

DR. PEWITT described the opportunity classes being offered to students in Novato. These classes, one junior high class and another at Pacheco Elementary School, are for the child who cannot study in a regular class. The student might be either hyperactive or withdrawn, she said.

Other alternative schools in the county include continuation high school, adult evening school and more able learners school.

The educators agreed that it is hoped that the school will eventually be able to absorb all the children — including the educable mentally retarded, emotionally handicapped and the more able learner.

Child Center Sets Series

A series of programs for parents will be held monthly through March by the San Anselmo Pre-School Center, beginning Nov. 1.

The programs will be presented by staff from the Child Center in Kentfield at the school center in San Anselmo, 121 Ross Avenue.

Dr. Gerald Jampolsky, child center and private practice psychiatrist, will open the series Nov. 1 at 8 p.m. with a talk titled "In Defense of Fathers."

Pediatrician Dr. E. Muriel Bennett and Barbara Wander will speak Dec. 6 on "Motor Tune-Up" (motor development in children); speech specialist Jean Hartley and teacher Gayl Westerman will talk on "Sending Clear Messages" on Jan. 10; teachers Therese Stawowy and Therese Berreyesa will speak on creativity through games on Feb. 14, and the panel of staff will finish on March 13 with "The Learning Experience: What Will I Let My Kid Teach Me?"

Classic Look Is Returning

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) —Said designer Chester Weinberg: "I don't want to see the classics die."

Weinberg brings 'em back alive in his new spring collection of daytime through evening clothes. So do the rest of Seventh Avenue's style leaders currently showing their spring finery for benefit of the nation's buyers and press.

They're bringing back such standbys from the 1930s and '40s as the blazer suit, the halter neckline for evening, the white collar (and cuffed) dress that was the trademark of the working girl of another era (Remember Kitty Foyle?), ruffles and taffeta, baby-doll touches for grownups, slinky, exposing gowns in the manner of a Jean Harlow, a Rita Hayworth, a Joan Crawford or a Marlene Dietrich (somebody in the nation's garment center has been watching the late, late shows).

Matter of fact, some of New York's designers dip so far back they're copying classics of the Chinese, such as Weinberg's updated version of a rice paddy worker's trousers and tunic top done now in floral-printed organza.

Weinberg and Larry Aldrich both bowed to the Chinese influence pervading the spring collections, reflecting of course the headlines of President Nixon's forthcoming visit to mainland China. Now that the President has announced he also is going to Moscow next spring, will the cossack look also filter in?

WEINBERG, ALDRICH and Pierre Cardin American, designed by Andre Oliver, were among the collections shown Wednesday.

The Aldrich collection, designed by Marie McCarthy, opened with a Chinese honan silk group of dresses in ivory (natural) silk with long, loose sleeves and high-rising mandarine collars.

Oliver didn't mention the Orient in his U.S. collection for Cardin (Cardin also has a Paris design establishment). But there were enough big sleeves, called butterfly style, to show that the mysterious East also captivated this designer.

Every way you turn for spring, you'll see what the fashion industry calls "feminine," calls "soft", calls "pretty" — and also calls saleable. It showed in the soft fabrics such as organza, flat crepes, crepe de chine (China again!), in the rustle of taffeta and crinoline, and at Aldrich enough matte jersey to curtain a warehouse.

The softness showed in the revival of the flattering white collar and cuff look on both daytime and casual evening wear, in big pussycat bows at throats, again for both day and evening, in the return of the pure silhouette of the unbelted princess with its bias cut and flaring skirt.

CERTAINLY NEW York's designers have buried the midi. Only one mini spotted so far and actually that is a misnomer. Weinberg opened his show with the model wearing navy pantyhose and a Kelly green shirtjacket in mohair. The designer said the jacket, ending at the hipline, was for wear with trousers or skirt "but it just looked better showing it without either."

Lengths for daytime spring settled at the knee, just barely covering it. For evening though, a "new" length emerged, especially in casual dresses with skinny sweater tops, fully gathered skirts bustling about. The skirts come just above the ankles, flattering on models, but maybe difficult for the nonmodel types.

IF A WOMAN doesn't want to risk the ankle display, there are plenty of floor length numbers.

Watch also for these trends for spring:

—Continuation of the pants look, Weinberg doing trousers with single-breasted blazer jackets, the cuffed trousers swinging wide at the ankle.

—Big sleeves in some evening dresses. Aldrich showed an "oriental princess" evening dress with big, full sleeves and high, mandarin collar, the works in a soft mauvey-print organza.

—Checks, plaids and stripes all worked into one costume.

—A wider look to the shoulders as designers nip in and fit the body at the waist, but none of the Joan Crawford "football" shoulders that the late designer Adrian used to run up for the movie glamour girls.

—Tiers of ruffles making up the skirts of formal wear, both short and long, the neckline usually the front-covering halter which bared the back. Or, ruffles primly outlining high throated formals, ending the sleeves at the wrists.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

No Answer For Mother Who Wants To Live Without Fear

DEAR HELEN:

I am the mother of an 11-year-old girl who is an honor student and has won several awards. She is mature for her age, yet I must treat her as I would a five-year-old. Here's why:

The home we lived in for the past seven years has been taken by Urban Renewal, and we've been moved to a really terrible district. In the month we've been here, there have been five rapes, and one resulted in the death of a 10-year-old girl. Another victim is still in the hospital.

My daughter resents it when I insist on walking with her almost everywhere, especially in the evening, and taking her up and down on those frightening elevators — we're on the 10th floor.

I can't keep her locked up in our apartment, and I'm wearing myself — and her — out with all this protection. Her father is long gone.

We're on a list for a village apartment, but it may take years. Meanwhile, we fight off rats — and the human kind are worst.

Helen, how can you bring your child up to believe in society when you must make her so afraid that she won't step out of the door alone? — MRS. M.M., GHETTO, U.S.A.

DEAR MRS. M.:

I wish I had an upbeat answer to your question, but I haven't. I can only print it with the hope that someday, somehow, urban mothers and children can live without constant fear.

Meanwhile, keep on writing letters — to the mayor, your councilman, the newspaper, the police commissioner, your state assemblyman, and get other concerned mothers to join you.

Before you say that complaints from the ghetto are never heard, remember your letter made a national column. You have the gift of expression. Don't waste it! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I need a painless, quick, lasting cure for a sister-in-law who always pops in at dinnertime.

Stella must have radar when it comes to food. Preparing and serving dinner for four children and a husband is hectic enough without this 100-pounds-overweight divorcee gossiping and complaining all the way. She never cooks for herself, so all her meals come out of cans, restaurants, or our place. I can't, in good conscience, invite her to eat with us because she's always on a diet and I can't cope with her "no-no" list from W.W., her physician, reducing salon, hypnotist and psychiatrist. But, still she sits and watches us eat. Most often she says, "Oh no, I can't stay, and then ends up with a heaping plate of "just tastes."

I've tried changing our dinner hour but she must be psychic. Whenever I see her driving up, my blood starts to curdle. Why couldn't she come in the afternoon, or later in the evening? Or once a month?

She's my husband's only relative so I can't be mean, though I know he doesn't like her dinner visits any more than I do. I've made little cracks about her "nose knowing" when there's food, but all she ever asks is why I bite my fingernails. Help! — FRYING

DEAR FRYING:

If you can't level with the lady, then why not make the dinner hour so uncomfortable she'd prefer to spend it elsewhere? Trip over her feet, spill gravy in her lap, give the kids permission to play records extra loud, put on a battle or two, scream a lot, greet her with, "I'm so glad you came — can you babysit for us tonight?" . . . And find her a man, if that's possible. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

You mentioned something about a husband joining the "men's auxiliary of NOW." Men are full members of NOW, who vote, hold office, etc. This is where NOW parts company with most women's liberation groups. It welcomes men in equal positions and is attracting more and more males who see that liberation from old sex role stereotypes will help everyone. — B.H.

DEAR B:

I stand corrected: Gentlemen, be seated — equally. — H.

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bottel in care of the Independent-Journal.

Life Around The Computer And Piano

The youthful native of Selma, Ala., is both accomplished pianist and computer programmer.

Miss Donley's recent performance of a Bach concerto with the Greece, N.Y. Symphony was another chapter in a long career in music. (Greece is a Rochester suburb). Conductor David Fetler complimented her as a "sensitive performer" who did a "beautiful job" with the delicate concerto.

Miss Donley, now a computer programmer for the Eastman Kodak Co., began music with piano lessons at the age of four. By the age of 11, she was presented in a recital, playing as many instruments as her age.

She was graduated in 1964 from Fisk University in Nashville, Tenn., taught a year at Tugaloo College in Mississippi, did graduate study in musicology at Indiana University, and was a teacher-assistant at the State University of New York at Buffalo where she earned her Master's Degree in piano.

She came to Kodak a year ago under the company's training program for computer specialists.

Miss Donley sees her musical career as performer and composer completely in keeping with her work in industry—the well-rounded artist, she says, "must balance the creative with the utilitarian."

ON BEING BLACK

New Sports Magazine Hailed For Its Specific Viewpoints

By SANDRA HAGGERTY

Some years ago, while viewing a performance by the San Francisco Ballet, my escort for the evening made a verbal observation which caused me to have a new respect for the field of sports — an area I had decided I didn't like and couldn't understand.

As the dancers gracefully and flawlessly performed their repertoire, my friend made the statement that their maneuvers were much like those of a running back or flanker —at least the proper execution of such maneuvers require the same amount of body conditioning, discipline, agility and ability. And they were both (media) beautiful — both worthy of being championed, respected and appreciated.

I was reminded of that bit of philosophy as I viewed the color photo of Dallas' Bob Hayes, which graces the cover of the October issue of Black Sports — a new magazine dedicated to the illumination of black men and women in the world of sports.

PUBLISHED BY Black Sports, Inc. (386 Park Avenue South, N.Y. 10016) this neophyte magazine is off to a great start. The format is fascinating and the features are well written. The point of view is black.

"Jocks" (athletes — past, present and would be) will find Black Sports highly readable but so will the sports layman — especially the female who is only quasi-interested in sports. Black Sports will "turn her on" and help to clear some of the smoke screen that somehow manages to surround the fascinating area of sports.

Creative director Ahmad Sadiq has put together a highly aesthetic magazine. The features include a thoughtful and provocative statement by the publisher, Allan P. Barron and notes from the editor, Sheila F. Younge.

Walter Dukes' TCB (Takin' Care of Business) is informative and each month Black Sports features high school and college athletes of the month —well-deserved commendation for up-and-coming young athletes.

BRYAND C. GUMBEL has written a thoughtful article about Bob Hayes entitled "Run Silent, Run Deep" and also a poignant tribute to the late Ernie Davis entitled "One Uniform is Missing."

An especially great feature is Historically Speaking . . . This month it spotlights Duke Slater, an all-American, all-pro Hall-of-Famer, who was also a judge. Its content is an inspiration to all athletes —especially the young.

Carl Nesfield presents an interesting article on black collegiate quarterbacks.

Also included is a monthly rap session. This month the alleged practice of blacklisting is discussed.

HOWIE EVANS initiates the coming basketball season with an informative article called the "Little Man's Game."

Coming this Saturday in Marin Magazine

Special features you'll enjoy:

The Marin Magazine's current series on cities in Marin continues this week with a look at Novato, apparently destined to be the county's largest city. Mayor Joseph D. Gargiulo presents a "state of the city" report, while his daughter, Ellen, reviews the history of the Novato area and the Novato Chamber of Commerce looks to the future. The word portrait of Novato is accompanied by photographs of the area, past and present.

Musican Marin is as active as ever and one of the latest organizations making sounds is the Orchestra Piccola, a group of young musicians, under the direction of Hugo Rinaldi and sponsored by the Marin Symphony Association. The Marin Magazine's story by Editor Don Keown reveals how the musicians take to the playing of Early Baroque and contemporary chamber music.

Cooks Told To Serve More Fish

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Commerce Department is waging an enticing campaign to lure more American housewives into fish and seafood cookery.

The Department's National Marine Fisheries Service has available a series of pamphlets which aim to provide homemakers with information on the vast protein resources of the sea and recipes to make them more edible.

Except for fears of mercury in swordfish, the department is encouraging fish and seafood eating for many reasons. The fat content is low and the protein content is high in a variety of fish.

IT POINTS out that fish with low fat amounts are particularly suited for weight control. Moreover, the fat in fish contains a high proportion of polyunsaturated fatty acids which may help to decrease the incidence of heart ailments.

The fish and shellfish with low amounts of fat and high amounts of protein include tuna, halibut, cod, flounders, haddock, pollock, mullet, rockfish, carp, whiting, crab, scallops, shrimp, and lobsters.

Tuna and halibut are particularly good sources of protein. Fish that often contains higher amounts of fat—but still high amounts of protein—include anchovies, herring mackerel, salmon and sardines. Oysters and clams contain relatively low amounts of fat and protein, because of their high content of water.

The department in promoting resources of the sea stresses the importance of oil in fish and shellfish to human health. Fishery products also are high in minerals and vitamins.

The department rejects the old wives tales that fish is brainfood or that oysters increase sexual potency.

THE SALES pitch on fish eating dwells on the wide variety available in markets all over the country: the quick cooking time; the nutritious value and the low budgeting cost, with good buys all year long.

The brochures are entitled: "Fish for Compliments," "How to Eye and Buy Seafood," "Over the Coals," "Nautical Notions for Nibbling," "Take a can of Salmon," "Flavor of Maine," subtitled "Sardine Secrets" and "Fancy Catfish."

women can become more meaningful to each other," he said. "Those in the (feminist) movement have forgotten this which makes me consider it destructive and evil."

The psychiatrist said he is doubtful fullfilment can be obtained when traditional roles change or by the sharing of household chores.

The psychiatrist is the author of a recently published book, "The Fear of Women." The title, he said is often misunderstood by persons who think it is about women's fears. It is about the fears men have that they can't please women, he explained.

A woman in the audience expressed the hope that the psychiatrist would write a sequel, when he understands women.

'Span Plan' Program Helps Women Take Full Advantage Of Education

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (UPI)—A Purdue University project now being copied elsewhere remembers mamma beyond her potential as wife, mother and housekeeper.

It's designed to prepare a woman for a good job if she goes into the labor market, perhaps even as head of the household.

Called the "Span Plan", the program includes counseling freshmen to get more out of college than a husband, and a fund that provides "seed money" assistance to student wives and mature married women who want to take college courses.

Dr. Cecelia Zissus, associate dean of women who directs the Span plan, said the program is no longer unique to Purdue because other schools have adopted at least parts of the program.

"THE NAME Span Plan refers to the belief that girls and women should make educational and work plans for their total lifespan," she said. Freshmen women are given a chart showing the average age for major events in a woman's life.

"According to the Span Plan chart, the average woman at age 35 has her last child in school and has 30 active years before her," Dr. Zissus said. Not too long ago, such a woman probably would try to fill her time with clubs or similar social activity, but that does not happen very often now, she said.

There are some 31 million women in the labor force today and the average one is married and 39 years old, Dr. Zissus said. The figure represents over 40 per cent of the women in the United States.

The Span Plan is sufficiently new (it started in January, 1968) so there are really no "typical" cases of women who have benefited from all its aspects.

But Dr. Zissus did have figures on the number of women students, often students' wives who were "putting hubby through," who have received grants under the program. More than 140 grants have been given for a total of about $9,000, she said.

This might not sound like much, but the purpose of the grants is to enable women to take a course or two, not to finance a complete education, she said.

"It was felt that if the wife had a chance to take a course or two, she would feel encouraged to take more courses on her own," she said. The idea has worked that way in quite a few cases.

HERE AGAIN, figures don't come close to telling the whole story.

For Mrs. Sharron Cavness, a 36-year-old housewife from Francesville, the need for such a program was brought home a few years ago. Then, her husband Richard had a tumor in one leg and was unable to return to work for several months and the family had to depend on her income.

At that time she was able only to find work as a teacher's assistant in the town of 1,000.

"As an assistant, I was only making about $50-60 a week and I kept eyeing the teachers and thinking 'Why, I could do that,'" Mrs. Cavness said. "When Richard was able to return to work, the idea kept coming to me that I should go back to school."

Cavness was skeptical at first about his wife, a 1953 high school graduate, returning to college for a degree.

"Now the closer I get to a degree, the better it looks to both of us," she said.

With two children, both girls, aged 13 and nine, and a husband, there is no practical way for Mrs. Cavness to live on campus, so she commutes 100 miles a day for classes.

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

The Playoff Begins To Select U.S. Olympics Representative

This afternoon marks the beginning of a playoff in New Orleans to pick the team to represent the United States next June in the Bridge Olympics. The Dallas Aces, winners of the world championship in 1970 and 1971, are favored to win, but the team they are meeting this weekend, headed by Los Angeles expert Lew Mathe, came from behind to beat them in the national team championship three months ago in Chicago. I'll be watching the match to bring you hands like the one shown today.

BRILLIANCE

West opened the seven of spades, and Mike Lawrence won with the ten. At 31, the youngest player in the playoff, Lawrence is ranked by many expert observers as the most brilliant of the Aces. Today's hand shows the soundness of his game.

How should South play for nine tricks after winning the first trick with the ten of spades? Assume that he cannot see the East-West cards.

Lawrence returned a spade to dummy's king at the second trick. West could not afford to put up the ace since that would give declarer a total of three spade tricks, all he needed for the contract. East discarded a heart, and South knew that he could not expect any more spade tricks.

MAKING SURE

The odds were better than even that the clubs would run, but Lawrence saw no reason to take any risks. He was sure of two spades, three hearts and three clubs and needed one other trick for the game. He made sure of that trick also by leading a diamond from dummy.

The defenders could take their three diamonds and the ace of spades, but then Lawrence was sure of the rest. The ten of diamonds was sure to be his ninth trick no matter how the defense wriggled or squirmed.

If Lawrence had gone after the clubs, like a normal human being, the defenders would have taken a club trick as well as three diamonds and a spade. You don't win world championships by taking chances when you can take a sure thing.

ANSWER: Bid two clubs.

If partner fails to support the clubs enthusiastically, you can go to game in no-trump at your next turn. If you jumped to 2-NT at your first turn you might miss a slam in clubs.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Marin Motion Picture and Television Council provides these ratings of movies now being shown in Marin County. The Council's findings are from California and National Parent-Teacher Assn. Magazine and Parent's Magazine. More complete reviews may be obtained by calling the San Rafael Library.

FAMILY

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Gone With The Wind" — A classic, a pictorial history of the Civil War and of a civilization "gone with the wind."

"Hellstrom Chronicle" — Fascinating and incredibly detailed study of the insect world is nothing short of miraculous. It conveys a new awareness of the world we inhabit.

"Lord of the Flies" — A group of British school boys, marooned on an uninhabited tropical island by a plane crash regress to ancient savagery. Well acted film conveys author Golding's comment on human frailty.

"Murder in the Rue Morgue" — Poe's gory tales of murder are given explicit treatment in this horror film set in and around the theater in the Rue Morgue of Paris. Plenty of violence.

"Murphy's War" — A dissertation on hate. A tale of adventure set toward the end of World War II in the Venezuelan jungle. A British merchant seaman survives a U-boat attack, is obsessed with getting revenge against the submarine responsible for the loss of his shipmates. Well done.

BORDERLINE
(Most sources say Adults Only)

"Bonnie and Clyde" — A chapter in the gangster history of the 30's brought to vivid life. No attempt made to glamorize its characters. Brutally frank and violent.

"Bullit" — Set in San Francisco this story behind the security measures to safeguard a witness for a crime hearing is fast moving and brutally violent. A dizzying car chase and the final shootout have an electrifying effect.

"Death In Venice" — Set in 1911, a composer on the verge of a physical and mental collapse goes to Venice to regain his health and becomes obsessed with a beautiful young boy and is tormented by the passion that is unleashed. Very slow moving.

"Dr. Phibes" — Campy horror film about a man who comes back from the dead to avenge his wife's death, which occurred during surgery. Each of the doctors involved is destroyed according to a pattern of ten curses. It's supposed to be morbid humor but becomes offensive and boring.

"Flap" — Rowdy comedy with unorthodox spokesman for the neglected American Indians undercuts the serious message of this film. A militant group in fighting for better conditions on the reservation use illegal methods and cancel out the progress they might have achieved. Brutality, cursing and nudity.

"Getting Straight" — A satiric view of the Establishment and the radicals on a college campus. Many characters' complicated problems are presented. Riot with police is disturbing to watch, many sex scenes and foul language.

ADULTS ONLY

"Carnal Knowledge" — The sex lives of two men from college days to middle age done in a two dimensional cynical, satirical style does become tiresome. Fine performances from cast, language and sex are explicit.

"Doctor's Wives" — Marital and extra-marital sex in medical circles with operating room gore as added attraction.

"Drive, He Said" — A disturbing portrait of college students who have trouble maturing in today's world. Film relies heavily on use of frontal nudity, love attitudes and foul language, drugs and overwhelming violence.

"Husbands" — Three New York suburban husbands go on a bender after the funeral of one of their pals. Their pent up frustrations with their dreary, empty existence leads them to make one last bid for freedom. Sex and cursing.

"Klute" — Hard hitting psychological thriller with a sordid background of the explicit details of a high priced call girl. Strong language, sex and nudity.

"Little Murders" — A black comedy about how people have become brutalized by the horrors of contemporary life, they deny all feeling. How five people react to a series of murders make up the story. Savage, witty, horribly violent parable of our times.

"The Love Machine" — Adaptation of Susann's best seller leaves much to be desired. An oversexed TV newscaster becomes president of the network by bedding down with everyone. Some of the serious dramatic moments are quite funny.

"Marriage of a Young Stock Broker" — An attempt to make a comedy out of a desperate situation is sad. A film about a voyeur, a pathetic character, who cops out rather than find a solution to his problem.

"McCabe and Mrs. Miller" — A mining town at the turn of the century is victimized by a petty crook who sets up a brothel. Story is tasteless in the name of realism. Much brutality, vulgarity and nudity.

"Owl and the Pussy Cat" — A racy adult comedy based on a Broadway hit about a prostitute who tries to improve her mind and a shy would be author and their unlikely relationship. Low comedy bits and profanity from Barbra Streisand.

"The Touch" — Bergman's new film (in English) is about a wife who takes as a lover a friend of her husband's. The lover character is a neurotic, egotistical man. The husband draws the line on how much he will permit his wife to make him and their children suffer. Acting good except for Elliot Gould. Nudity and sex.

Completion Date For Outfall Line Reset To Oct. 27

The San Rafael Sanitation District has extended the contractor's completion date to Oct. 27 for the new Peacock Gap outfall line into San Pablo Bay.

According to Norris M. Rawles, district administrator, the 15-day extension was granted the Heli-Tibitts construction firm of San Francisco which has run into delays getting materials.

The project itself, located south of China Camp, is about 90 per cent complete, he said. Total cost is about $75,000.

On other matters, the board was told Wednesday its new pumping station on Francisco Boulevard at the San Rafael overpass of Highway 101 is about 65 per cent complete.

The $600,000 project is due for completion during the first part of December, he said.

Agnew Playing Tourist Role

ATHENS (UPI)—U.S. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew was just another tourist today, with aides insisting that he planned nothing but sightseeing. Politically minded Greeks refused to believe it.

After an exhausting two-day tour of the Greek countryside, which included his ancestral village of Gargalianoi and the islands of Rhodes and Crete, Agnew spent a quiet Thursday.

Agnew, who canceled an Aegean cruise in order to return to Athens on Wednesday night, was not scheduled to meet anyone, a spokesman said.

Renaissance Center Sounds Intriguing, But

The Renaissance Center in Lucas Valley would be a cultural jewel for Marin, as described by Phyllis Patterson, who hopes to locate it on part of the Grady Ranch just over four miles from Highway 101 on Lucas Valley Road.

It would, as she describes it, attract visitors and students from afar, at the same time preserving, rather than despoiling, the rustic beauty of upper Lucas Valley.

It would be an authentic recreation of a medieval English village, with gildhall, inn, outdoor theater, craft workshops and museum clustered about a village square. Students would participate in workshops under instruction of skilled craftsmen, and would even help erect the buildings. There would be an "Elizabethan summer university."

THIS CENTER would occupy only about 30 acres of the 1,000-acre Grady Ranch. All but 75 acres of the ranch would remain in agricultrual zoning. The 75 acres of the ranch would be rezoned resort-commercial.

Funds for construction and operation of the center, according to a prospectus prepared for the county planning department, would come from a variety of sources. The prospectus lists these as memberships in the center, admissions to its exhibits and events, government and foundation grants, donations, tuition for classes, and sale of books and recordings.

Not mentioned in this list is the source of the funds with which Mrs. Patterson and her husband, Ronald, propose to buy the Grady Ranch: the Renaissance Faires.

The Pattersons operate these "faires" in Marin and Los Angeles counties. One-third of the money received for admissions, according to Mrs. Patterson, is donated to the Renaissance Center, a non-profit corporation. That is the source of the funds to buy the Grady Ranch.

THE MAIN RENAISSANCE Faire would occupy the rest of the 75 acres to be rezoned resort-commercial (although this commercial zoning would apply also the assertedly non-commercial center). The "faire" would be held each year in September and October.

To accommodate the many automobiles carrying visitors to the "faire," the plan calls for parking lots lining narrow, winding Lucas Valley Road for a half-mile below the center entrance. And it is expected, according to Mrs. Patterson, that as many as 1,000 additional cars would be parked at the Marin Civic Center, with shuttle buses provided.

The Renaissance Center, as a non-profit corporation, would be entitled to tax exemption on the property. But Mrs. Patterson says the center directors (she, her husband, and one other) would not apply for such exemption.

MRS. PATTERSON likes to talk about the Renaissance Center. The residents of Lucas Valley are worried about the Renaissance Faire — and with good reason.

Unanswered when Deputy Zoning Administrator Harvey E. Bragdon approved a use permit for the development was the question of why resort-commercial zoning is sought for the Renaissance Center if it is to be a non-profit, non-commercial use.

Perhaps that question will be answered when the application goes before the county planning commission on Nov. 1 — along with other questions, such as what protection would exist against having the whole 1,000 acres removed from the tax rolls by the non-profit corporation, and just how all those cars are to be handled on Lucas Valley Road without all sorts of problems of home access, fire protection, etc.

Without very convincing answers to such questions, we are inclined to think we'd just as soon do without the marvelous Renaissance Center — though Mrs. Patterson makes it sound tremendously attractive.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

Retirement Funds Raided To 'Balance' State Budget

By MARY K. SHELL

SACRAMENTO (Capitol) — Several state retirement systems are short amounts totalling nearly $5 billion, according to the Joint Legislative Audit Committee. This revelation was contained in a routine audit report filed without fanfare earlier this year.

According to Assemblyman Vincent Thomas, D-San Pedro, chairman of the joint audit committee, this is the result of annual raiding of the retirement funds by the state to pay other current operating costs. The debt (which nearly equals the entire state budget for 1971-72) is owed to the teachers', public employees', judges' and legislators' retirement systems.

The obligation has grown to such proportions that the joint audit committee has recommended that local government take over funding of the systems for local employees.

IN ITS REPORT, the committee suggests the state pay off its existing obligation to the various funds over a period of perhaps 30 years and transfer the responsibility to local government.

"Wages and fringe benefits," in the committee's view, "including retirement benefits are the rightful responsibility of local government and should be exclusive to local government."

The $5 billion obligation is not mentioned in the governor's budget, which prompts Auditor General William E. Merrifield to conclude, "It is obvious that the state budgets have not been balanced on this basis or the general fund would not have obligations to retirement systems as of June 30, 1970, approaching the $5 billion level."

Merrifield (who serves under the direction of the joint audit committee) also charged the general fund statements and the statements for retirement funds in the state controller's annual report for the year ending June 30, 1970, are misleading because they contain no reference to this "huge obligation of the general fund to the several retirement systems which has accumulated over a long period of years and continues to grow at an accelerated rate."

ASSEMBLYMAN THOMAS compares the practice to a business ignoring its "accounts payable" in a financial statement.

The audit committee has found the state has an unpaid obligation of some $4 billion to the teachers' retirement fund; $360 million to the public employees' fund; $115 million to the judges' fund and $6 million to the legislators' fund.

That was last year! Figures are not yet available on deficiencies for 1971.

Each year the state budget has included an allocation to the several retirement systems, but it has fallen far short of requirements.

By removing the ability to earn interest, the state (that means you taxpayers) can end up paying out twice as much in cash in retirement benefits.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Reporting On School Attacked By Reader

I am appalled at the incredibly poor judgment displayed by the I-J in its recent stories of the San Rafael High School. I can only believe that such an inflammatory, and misleading, attack was meant to stir up a controversy. How unfortunate for both the community and the school!

I think David Dietz is one of the most irresponsible journalists I have ever read. Since he was so lacking in objectivity, he might have mentioned that the venomous rudeness shown by some of the adults at the board of education meeting Tuesday night was fully as distressing and objectionable to concerned citizens as any of the things they so loudly deplored.

The articles have been both uninformed — or misinformed — and misleading. Nothing was included about the positive steps that have been taken by the administration and the police, cooperatively, or the continuing constructive efforts by many people who are involved in trying to work out the problems — which incidentally are nation-wide, not confined to SRHS, which the I-J in its provinciality seems not to realize.

It has been stressed that the solutions lie in community involvement of a constructive nature. Until the I-J can take a realistic attitude toward the school and community, it not only does not offer answers, it adds fuel to the fires of those who refuse to budge an inch in their narrow, short-sighted views.

There have been innumerable requests for help in many areas at SRHS — as at all schools. It is always the same people who respond, who are willing to make a personal commitment of involvement. Conversely, those who know the least are the ones who shout the loudest.

The SRHS PTA board recently gave Dr. Palches its full support and appreciation for his handling of the incidents. It is unfortunate that the I-J so carelessly blew them up out of all proportion.

Maybe Boys Can't Be Boys Any More

Tonight I read an article in your paper that I for one find hard to believe, and I am referring to the boys who were trying to sneak into the fair and some security guard shot at. All I can say is that the security guard was never young.

Big deal, so what if they did sneak in? Do you think it was worth a wounded or dead boy? If the boy had been shot or wounded there would be "hell" to pay and rightly so. I have a eighteen year old boy, and I wouldn't think he was much of a "boy" if at some time in his life he didn't do some of these antics just for the heck of it.

Was also happy to read that Marcelle McCoy said that this was the only "criminal" incident that was reported to mar the fair.

Today is Friday, Oct. 22nd, the 295th day of 1971.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter.

The morning star is Saturn.

The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

Those born on this day are under the sign of Libra.

Hungarian composer Franz Liszt was born Oct. 22, 1811.

On this day in history:

In 1836 Gen. Sam Houston was sworn in as the first president of the Republic of Texas.

In 1883 the Metropolitan Opera House in New York City celebrated its grand opening with a performance of "Faust."

In 1962 President John F. Kennedy announced an arms blockade of Cuba after Soviet missiles were discovered on the Communist island.

In 1968 the Apollo VII astronauts splashed down after an 11-day earth orbital flight.

Three Ranches Could Become Marin Park

The three ranches for sale, Grady, Lewis and Nunes, should be turned into a park.

San Francisco has Golden Gate, East Bay has Tilden, Peninsula has Alum. Marin too should have a park.

The sewage system or the roads are not adequate to support the Renaissance Faire or more homes.

Let's have some open spaces. The Grady, Lewis and Nunes farms. A place for people to play and breathe. Let's have a park for Marin County.

High Medical Fees Produce Protest

What has happened to fair play? Are there any Doctor Welbys left? Is the medical profession filled with money-hungry individuals who don't care about the working man and whether it kills him to pay their high fees?

Must a working man pay his whole life for a little medical attention, which we all deserve and need? Must we go in debt or broke getting it? I realize that doctors have to go to school for many years and it is expensive, but does mankind have to carry the load for the education and cost for the rest of our lives?

The struggle of a working man having to pay the same medical fee as a rich man and trying to keep his pride and head above water by trying to keep out of the welfare roll. Why should people be the puppets of the medical doctors? We are forced to pay the fees that they charge because the medical needs of a family have to be met. They've got us, but is it fair? They must realize what they're doing to us! Don't they have a conscience?!

Are there any real doctors left that care about the people instead of their money? Down with high doctor fees and in with humanity! . . .

Water Measure Questions Unanswered

As a voter in the Marin Municipal Water District and as an engineer who has had water resource planning experience I am naturally very interested in Measure B.

However, much of the information needed to make a rational decision has not been presented in any article I have read. Virtually everything written concerns conclusions and opinions (both pro and con) rather than the basis for these conclusions.

I would like to see the following information presented to the voters:

(1) What is the firm annual yield of the MMWD system at present?

(2) What would be the firm annual yield during a one in 10 year drought? During a one in 5 year drought?

(3) How much additional water could be obtained from local sources (such as Phoenix Lake)?

(4) What is the present annual water use in the district?

(5) What is the present population served and the average water usage (gallons per capita per day)?

(6) What were the population growth and water usage projections used in determining future water needs?

(7) Are there administrative or legal reasons why construction of the aqueduct could not be delayed for five or 10 years?

Answers to the above questions would give voters the information needed to reach their own conclusions on the reasonableness of these assumptions and decide whether additional water will be needed or desired during the next few years.

Information on financing also needs to be available to the voters. There has been considerable information on this in the I-J but it would be helpful it it was all summarized during these last days before the election.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Voter Participation Needed In Selecting Vice President

WASHINGTON — Two political predictions can be made wtih reasonable safety:

The man who is elected vice president will likely become president.

If he doesn't inherit the presidency, it is probable he will be a presidential nominee.

Under such circumstances, is it prudent, is it good government, is it right that one man should pick the party's vice-presidential candidate?

I say no.

THE TIME HAS COME to end the one-man choice of future presidents and future presidential nominees — and for these two reasons:

1—The vice presidency is the foremost escalator to the White House in the political structure of the United States today.

It made Harry Truman president. It made Lyndon Johnson president. It gave Hubert Humphrey the Democratic presidential nomination. It gave Richard Nixon two presidential nominations and helped him win the presidency in 1968. Sen. John F. Kennedy sought the vice presidential nomination in 1956 as the best means of getting the presidential nomination in 1960.

2—During the last 50 years —from Wilson to Nixon —two-thirds of our presidents have either been grievously ill in office (Wilson and Eisenhower) or died in office either from sickness or assassination. (Harding, F.D.R. and John Kennedy) or been the target of an assassin's bullet (Truman and Roosevelt). Only two out of the last nine presidents (Coolidge and Hoover) have entirely escaped these perils.

THESE CIRCUMSTANCES compel the conclusion that the major parties must measure their prospective vice presidential candidates for fitness to serve as president.

It simply isn't good enough any longer to leave this decision to one man —even to the presidential nominee. The choice ought to be widely based and deliberated by the party as a whole.

It can be done. One good way of doing it is recommended in the solid, practical and provocative "The Future of American Political Parties" by the disparate team of Dr. John S. Saloma III, a political science professor with pragmatic instinct, and Frederick H. Sontag, an experienced practitioner of practical politics.

This study, undertaken under the aegis of the Twentieth Century Fund and to be published in book form next year, is packed with creative proposals to rescue our decaying political parties and to make representative government more representative. It is a voter's as well as a politician's much-needed modern handbook for practical reform. It shows how our parties can be made to work better at every level of voter participation and thereby how government can be made more responsive and more effective.

ONE OF THEIR MANY recommendations is that the selection of the vice presidential nominee be "an open convention contest," that candidates for the nomination should engage in primary contests. They rightly stress that considerations such as ticket-balancing, compatibility of the national ticket and intraparty compromise seem to pale against the criterion of the ability of the vice president to govern the country and lead the party.

Their central point is that the increasing importance of the vice president as deputy leader of the party and as heir to the presidential nomination, now outweighs traditional arguments that the choice of a running-mate should be the sole prerogative of the presidential nominee.

Let's Hear The Cheers For Nancy And Air Force

By ERNEST B. FURGURSON

WASHINGTON — Let's hear it for Nancy Graber, who has socked Vassar College with a million-dollar suit for tolerating her schoolmate's pot smoking to the extent that it ruined her studies.

Also let's her it for the United States Air Force!

In the continuing campaign of individual vs. institution so brashly pushed by young Americans these past years, there is no more heartening intelligence than Miss Graber's individual assertion that the young ladies' institution at Poughkeepsie on the Hudson has let permissiveness go a long step too far.

Unless, perhaps, it is the parallel action of the Air Force as an institution against a 24-year-old individual who has enjoyed a four-year education at government expense and now decided with exquisite timing that he doesn't really like the Air Force business after all.

EACH CASE, YOU SEE, breaks the pattern that had got to be so boring — that of freedom-loving student or other juvenile challenging stuffy conservative institution and sometimes prevailing and sometimes losing, but always drawing hosannas from the youth cultists and two minutes on the evening news.

Here we have a straignt-arrow student (insofar as her attitude toward dope is concerned; I care not how she feels about sex, booze, religion or "Oh, Calcutta!") cast as heroine, and on the other stage the most expensive of the overabused military branches, the wielder of the big bomb itself, playing hero. Ask who cast them in these roles, and I will answer: Me.

I am qualified to along with X-million other parents in this country who have sent, are sending or are saving to send their children to college on their own (the parents') hard-earned money.

THAT IS HOW the 20-year-old Miss Graber went to Vassar, which is a lot more dear than your average county community college. Having shelled out for tuition, room, books and whatall, she found herself billeted with a roommate she refers to out of legal discretion merely as "Pamela." Pamela got her collegiate career off to a fast start by taking a whiff of hemp and, in the words of the Graber suit, "quickly embraced all aspects of the drug culture" and "became a focal point of all the drug users on campus."

Well, that's Pamela's business, you may say. Perhaps so, even when it is against the law. But being a focal point meant having "psychedelic gatherings, playing loud music and singing with abandon all through the night, both in our suite and elsewhere in the corridor," Miss Graber said. And since Nancy and Pamela were roomies and Nancy had this queer notion about doing her homework, they didn't precisely groove together.

Nancy accordingly complained to the management, and the lady dean of residents allegedly told her she could open her windows if she wanted to vent the pot smoke. Persisting, Nancy tried to have her room changed. Vassar apparently had no sympathy for her. Nancy flunked and transferred to Adelphia, which is no Vassar, but then one Vassar may be enough under the circumstances.

Now Nancy is suing for $1 million, on grounds that the college's laissez-faire attitude toward Pamela's partying caused her failure and that will stigmatize her in later life. And if Nancy's example inspires a wave of comparable suits at other campuses around the country, it may do us all good.

AT THE AIR FORCE Academy, they don't go in for Vassar's style of progressive education either in classrooms or dorms. But that did not bother young John McCullough, from the time he signed his contracts until six months after he graduated last June with a bachelor's degree financed by you and me.

His contract required McCullough to serve six years, five of them on active duty after graduation. He opted to go to law school first and do his active duty later. The Air Force agreed. While his time at law school did not count as active duty, it did add to his service longevity, and once he had six months of that, he was exempt from the draft. So six months, two weeks and one day after graduation from the academy, McCullough notified the Air Force that he was a conscientious objector.

Pretty neat. He gets a high-class education, he beats the draft and the taxpayers never get a day's work out of him.

He breaks his contract, which is something any ordinary workingman attempts at considerable peril. But — stroke of brilliance! — he breaks it because he disagrees with the Vietnamese war. That, of course, has become grounds for breaking nearly every law on the books; why not a measly contract as well?

THE AIR FORCE, unamused, is billing McCullough for $53,575, which it figures is his prorated share of Air Force Academy expenses for four years. McCullough's senator, Mark Hatfield, calls the billing un-American and undemocratic. I call it an admirable effort to recover our good faith investment in the young gentleman.

Good faith — sounds quaint, doesn't it?

Air Force Yields To Protests; Radar Domes To Turn Green

Environmentalists have won a battle in Southern Marin and most of them don't even know it.

Perhaps it's incorrect to say dissatisfaction with the bright white radar domes on Mount Tamalpais had escalated into actual warfare. Guerrilla action might be a more proper term.

Environmentalists, of course, have been unhappy with the Air Force radar station since it was built. They claim it spoils the scenic mountaintop, adds to pollution (treated sewage from the installation is sprayed across the mountainside), and offends residents from Fairfax to Mill Valley with its bright security lights.

But, widespread though the dissatisfaction may have been, only a few sporadic raids on the Air Force powers-that-be have taken place.

THE MOST CONCERTED effort was aimed at the security lights, which some residents said made the mountain look like "a wedding cake."

The lights were installed to protect the radar station from roving vandals, mischief-makers and subversives. But some residents, notably Jeffory S. Morshead (who turned the lights into a campaign issue during a bid for the Marin Municipal Water District board) and members of the Sierra Club, felt the lights could be aimed away from the populated valleys.

Armed service bureaucracy being what it is, many months passed before the Air Force acted on the complaints. But finally the poles on which the lights sit were lowered and the lights were pointed more toward the ground. Score one for the environmentalists.

The sewage system remains unchanged. Ecologists claim the treated sewage, which is sprayed across the north slope of the mountain, finds its way into Lake Lagunitas and Alpine Lake and ultimately into the county's drinking water supply. The Air Force denies it.

THAT QUESTION remains to be settled. But all the time controversy over the lights ebbed and flowed, the Air Force was considering blunting criticism of the two bright, white radar domes which so prominently cap the mountain.

Within a few days, according to Maj. Robert Hlawek, commander of the radar installation, the domes will be painted green to blend with their surroundings.

Anticipating the obvious question, Hlawek said the paint will be lightgreen, thus squashing rumors that the Air Force merely was seeking to get rid of a few gallons of surplus olive drab paint.

COUNTY COMMENT

By WILLIAM D. (BILL) FUSSELMAN

Brasilia Is Our Dizzy Land, Profitable For The Proprietors

Brasilia: A Dizzy Land — not an amusing enterprise for those who must pick up the tab, but quite profitable for some of the throne room group and the satellites.

The media just carried the story that the lobbyist of the Golden Gate Bridge District board has gotten a bill passed to raise the pay of the directors 50 per cent. This will make the Marin supervisor on the bridge board suffer from the effort of carrying home a total of $17,400 by virtue of being a supervisor.

Then by virtue (and there is a question as to the use of "by virtue") of the continuing abdication by the throne room group, the grand manner of operating the administrator layout is costing the taxpayers over a third of a million dollars. Salaries for the administrator's personnel account are $224,915; his immediate office for half of that. So you see when I said last week that there was a deep dread that someone would wise up that there is just not enough work to warrant the salaries they are getting, the comment had real substance.

ON MAY 30 I WROTE, "Unlike Washington, D.C., and Sacramento, Brasilia is not the capital of Marin. It is the administration building and the hall of justice (plus now the Veterans' Memorial Auditorium). The amount of legislation produced there is minimal and only effective in the unincorporated areas. The grand manner of administration, which is effective in only one-third of the county, is somewhat out of balance."

Early in June an editorial in the I-J said in part: "The Marin County Board of Supervisors seems reluctant to face up to the real problem involved in the county administrator's office... After some random discussion, the matter was put over... but nobody posed the important question: 'Do we want to restructure the administrator's office, and if so, how?' The approach appears to be 'business as usual,' with only a change in the name on the door.

"As it (the administrator's office) has grown it has assumed more power. It was envisioned as an office to see that the orders and policies of the $400-a-month part-time supervisors of 1957 were carried out. It has become an office that makes its own policies and more-or-less forces them on the $1,000-a-month supervisors of 1971." (Note: now the base pay of the supervisors is $1,100 per month.)

The editorial went on to say, "The result has been that the board has become the captive of its own creation. It has permitted the administrator to make policy — both by what he has and has not provided the supervisors and by going directly to pressure groups to bring the 'will of the people' to bear on the board."

As I said last week, "This baby will make Bruce look like an amateur."

THE EDITORIAL ended by saying, "What the board needs to do now is decide how to structure the office, spell out the areas of its authority — and the areas of its responsibility to the board."

This can be added to the above: The taxpaying voters are in no frame of mind to let things go as they have been and are. June is not far away. The board still has time to show the folks that they really can earn their fattened-up take. If they lose, they can only blame themselves.

Agency Errs In Meeting Location

The Marin County Housing Authority administration said yesterday it erred in announcing that a special hearing on budgets for the authority's leased and low income housing programs would be held in the Manzanita Center, as reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

The meeting will actaully be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Casa Nova Seniors project in Novato.

Anti-Faire Group Sets Sunday Rally

A brand new organization, the Un-Faire Committee of Lucas Valley, will hold a rally Sunday from 3 to 5 p.m. at the Lucas Valley Community Center, chairman Calvin Colt announced today.

The committee was organized by a group of Lucas Valley residents after Harvey E. Bragdon, deputy county zoning administrator, approved a use permit for the Renaissance Faire and Renaissance Center on the Grady Ranch in upper Lucas Valley. Its immediate purpose is to seek to "restore democracy" through an appeal to the Marin County Planning Commission, said Colt, declaring, "We appear to be victims of taxation without representation."

New Guinea High Cost Of Marriage

By CLAUDIA WRIGHT
Toronto Telegram News Service

For thousands of years, the inhabitants of New Guinea's strange valleys have been governed by immutable ancient taboos.

They still are. Among the customs and languages that change from tribe to tribe, bride price is one with magnetism for splendid warriors in parrot plumes or pen-pushing city natives in western dress and shiny shoes.

The bride price magnetically pulls clans together, and through it families of the bride and bridegroom, their relatives and friends, acquire status and importance within the tribe, security and a simple code of marital justice.

For the bridegroom with the cassowary bone in his nose, bride price, whether $500, 20 arm shells and two pigs and one fence post, is custom he guards jealously.

For many of Plato-quoting university educated natives and the young natives making careers in business, bride price is a fact of life — but one they would like to see abolished.

Bride price is not a happy bead around their neck; it is a ball and chain. Because of the European cash economy values ruling their lives they might have to pay $500 for their bride, while natives in villages where the economy is lower might pay $500.

Simply, bride price is what a man pays for his right to the services of a woman for labor and sex. Basically, it has nothing to do with his attraction to her.

The money collected from relatives and friends must always be repaid. The bride and groom do not receive a cent from bride price. It is shared between her parents, their relatives and friends.

But after paying his dowry, the bridegroom's responsibilites just start. Forever it will be his duty to adopt his bride's parents and relatives. If they need food, he gives it. An outboard motor — he buys it. The same with a car, bills and debts.

Their son-in-law is better than bank investment against poverty, old age and the future matrimonials of their sons and relatives.

In Port Moresby the highest price in the territory was paid for a bride last year — $6,000.

They live in Hanuabada village which is a vision of bone-dry timber shacks that sit on stilts over the sea.

This collection of Uncle Tom's cabins is the largest native settlement in Port Moresby.

Many of the inhabitants living among scattered coconut palms and rat nests work in the city and earn money they never could at home in the villages.

The men and women left at home sit among mounds of betel nuts hoping for paying customers to buy a few of the nuts to chew away the hours.

Arua comes from a well-established family in Hanuabada. His father, Toua Kapena, is the Minister for Labor in the House of Assembly and the leading opponent of bride price.

I was told that the minister toned down his anti-bride price views when it came time for his daughter, Dia, to marry Gabe Ovia. She fetched the record price of $6,000.

Arua Toua, says 30 years ago in Hanuabada the bride price was only a small settlement of cash goods. Recently, his father tried to make modern bride prices a maximum of $500 in cash and $500 in goods, but it has never become law.

He says "The more money you pay the more important you and your family and friends appear. When it comes time to pay the price your parents send out letters to people asking for help with money and then the donations are entered in a book.

"Some pay $2, $5 or $10. This might be all their savings. And when you begin to repay them they get interest on their investment.

"Every time they ask you for money for their sons or relatives weddings, you send it. I was married in 1967 and nearly everybody in the village helped me. Parents of the bride have no control over the amount of the bride price, it all depends on the boy's parents and relatives.

"I've paid back a lot of money. I don't know, I'd have to check, but it would be about $20 a month."

Marin Dining And Wining

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Blue Rock Inn Operation Dates Back To 1880s In Same Location

Marin County now has only about six dineries which can trace their origins back into the 19th Century.

Except for a few temporary closures between changes of ownership, the old Blue Rock Inn at Larkspur has been in fairly continuous operation since 1887. Originally called the Larkspur Hotel, it dominated most of the early photographs of downtown Larkspur and it still clings stubbornly to its post on the main thoroughfare, Magnolia Avenue, at Ward Street today.

Over the years some structural changes have been made in the building, such as the blue rock facing in 1911 and later improvements in the living quarters upstairs. But the dining room and bar are still much as they were over a half-century ago. The few alterations and additions to the old decor now blend in so well with the original set-up, it is doubtful that anyone remembers when they occurred, or for that matter, what most of them were.

Nothing is posed at the Blue Rock — everything is allowed to mellow in its own natural way. Only some of the denizens are comparatively new and they, too, soon tend to blend in with the woodwork. Oldtimers still visit the place regularly and are reluctant to let go of this tie with old Marin. Considering the age of the Blue Rock, you probably wouldn't qualify as an oldtimer unless you've been going there for 25 years or more.

One of the changes that has taken place is the conversion from rinky-tink to piano bar entertainment. The late Herb Saman was long the popular exponent of the first and I think it was Johnny Robinson who originally appeared in the little cubicle behind the piano bar. Others who have entertained here over the years include such names as Charlie Kelso, Bob Britain, the Dick Saltzman and Walt Ulner duo, Barney Blair — and now, of course, Dori Green recently returned to Marin from Santa Barbara.

It surprises some people to find that the food at the Blue Rock is as good as it is. But present owner John Weiland has consistently tried to maintain a balanced menu of popular, moderately priced selections and good cooking. In a recent test, my wife and I found both the abalone and the chicken Kiev excellent — and if you think these items are something anyone should be able to do satisfactorily, your traveling has either been limited or you are very easily pleased.

ON THE COAST, the Marshall Tavern has been getting a nice play on its dinners recently since Skip Henderson took charge earlier this year. There is also mid-day activity on weekends when lunches are served from noon on Saturday, brunches are served from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Sundays, followed by a lunch period from 1 to 5 p.m.

After that dinners are served to 10 p.m. The restaurant is closed Mondays and Tuesdays, but dinners are from 5 to 9 p.m. on Wednesdays and to 10 p.m. the rest of the week.

Dinner menu runs to such selections as prawns steamed in beer, chicken roasted in a rum sauce, pepper steak in a brandy sauce, sole amandine and a few others. The price range is $3.50 to $4.75 for the complete dinner.

Marshall Tavern also features movies after 9 p.m. on Wednesday nights, live classical music Thursday nights and mostly live country music on Fridays and Saturdays.

There is a general onsale liquor license, but it is a seasonal one, with the "hard stuff" out of season between the end of this month and Feb. 1. During those three months, service is for wines and beers only.

THERE'S MUSIC FOR DANCING Wednesday through Saturday nights at Holiday Inn on the knoll at Terra Linda to the Steve Corley Trio. It goes well with a late dinner.

Formed in 1968, before coming to Holiday Inn this group played at clubs in Sonoma and Mendocino counties, headquartering at the Music Box in Santa Rosa. Steve Corley, who plays piano and organ and sings, had previously performed at clubs and hotels in Dallas, Texas. Curt Levins, the bass guitarist and also a vocalist, toured up and down the coast with a group called the Miracle Workers — and Dick Wildberger, the drummer, toured with the Black Wells.

Together they make good music and you should enjoy them.

BRUCE ROSEN will introduce something different at Der Hof Brau Haus in Northgate One, starting next Wednesday night.

He will offer a program of Dixieland ragtime music between 9 p.m. and 1 a.m. This is being put on by a group called the Hof Brau Four, featuring versatile banjoist and singer Tony Mance, formerly with the Red Garter Band. Other members of the group are also former Red Garter performers.

Except for beer on tap and wine and pizza, all regular food service (table and take-out) will be suspended after 9 p.m. these nights, which are scheduled for Tuesdays through Saturdays.

JUAREZ RESTAURANT in San Anselmo is now open Sundays for dinners from 4:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Mondays through Thursdays, lunches are served from 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. and dinners from 5 to 9:30 p.m. Friday lunches are from 11 to 3 and dinners are from 5 to 10. Saturday dinners are also from 5 to 10 p.m.

BERNARD'S EXECUTIVE LOUNGE in San Rafael has added vocalist Wendy Stafford from the Playboy circuit to the Steve Atken Trio on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights.

The "$7.95 for two" champagne supper still goes on Mondays through Saturdays —and with the new space added, there is room for parties and banquets here.

ENTERTAINMENT TONIGHT through Saturday at the Lion's Share in San Anselmo is furnished by Dave Von Ronk, who is both a folk and blues artist — along with High Country, a full Blue Grass band of five members who just had an album released this month through Warner Bros. There are two shows each evening at 9 and 11 p.m.

Sunday's performers are Commander Cody and Clover.

OCTOBER IS National Wine month in California and other U. S. wine growing regions, coinciding with the annual vintage time. The California grape crop this year has been forecast as more than 25 per cent larger than 1970's frost reduced crop.

Nearby wineries to the north of Marin are still making their new wine.

San Anselmo Trustees Endorse Plan For Donald Shaw Memorial

The San Anselmo School District board has endorsed a proposal that a memorial be erected at Red Hill School in memory of the late Donald Shaw.

According to Trustee Mary Helen Olive, the board approved of the idea Tuesday and will investigate costs of erecting a geodesic dome in the former principal's honor.

She said it would house a manual arts center and would be financed by funds already collected by a parents' group and a special fund set up by the board.

Shaw died suddenly at his home earlier this year of a heart attack.

The San Anselmo School District board also:

PERSONNEL — Accepted the resignation of Sleepy Hollow School teacher Joyce Woods and approved the hiring of Linda Dooley to replace her. However, Mrs. Woods who will earn $9,387 per year, will work at Wade Thomas School.

ENROLLMENT — Heard a report that school district enrollment is down about eight students from last month. Currently there are 1,972 students attending which is more than 100 less than last year.

OLD BUS — Continued discussion of selling an old bus after teachers requested it be used for educational purposes possibly as a display classroom.

SALARIES — Heard a report that teachers apparently have agreed to accept a 3 per cent cost of living increase this year in the form of fringe benefits. The matter will come up for action at the next meeting, Nov. 2.

TASK FORCE — Continued to its next meeting consideration of a citizens' task force to study operational and fiscal problems in the district.

School's Final Plans Approved

Final plans for the Sullivan Pre-School Center on Ashford Avenue near Lomita Drive, have been approved by the Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Committee, zoning administrator Howard R. McGill reported.

The designs, by San Francisco architectural firm of Royston and Hanamoto, Beck and Abey, were approved at the committee's Tuesday meeting.

McGill said construction of the school will begin as soon as the Southern Marin building ban has been lifted, he said.

LBJ Tells Role In Dominican Crisis

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Former President Lyndon B. Johnson says the U.S. Marines entered Santo Domingo April 28, 1965, to save American lives from "a trigger-happy mob," but the action may also have prevented a Communist takeover of the Dominican Republic.

Johnson said at one key point both the insurgents and the junta army were "dejected," while the Communists who rallied in support of the insurgents were organized and dedicated.

"Communist leadership had the keys to what Lenin once called 'commanding heights' of power in the Dominican Republic," Johnson wrote in his forthcoming book "Vantage Point: Perspectives of the Presidency 1963-1969."

Excerpts were published today by the Washington Post.

The President was criticized in the United States and by Latin American leaders for the Marine incursion.

Although the regime of Donald Reidy Cabral —who came to power through the overthrow of democratically elected President Juan Bosch— was preserved. Johnson said, that result was secondary to the saving of Americans living in the Central American nation. The insurgents were led by Bosch followers trying to regain control.

"I realized the importance of the decision. I knew it would attract a good deal of criticism ... but I could not risk the slaughter of American citizens. As their president, it was my duty to protect them with every resource available to me. I would do it again to protect American lives."

Johnson said reports available to him at the White House during and following the week of shooting between insurgent and junta forces indicated that "we were dealing not with an army but with a trigger-happy mob with little experience and no discipline."

Youths of 12 and 13 were issued arms by the insurgents; representatives of the junta were beheaded, and both the military junta and the insurgents were dejected, Johnson said. Eventually, the noncommunist "patriotic Dominicans" who were active in the insurgent forces became dependent on the Communists for arms and leadership.

Baking Firm Denies Ad Deceptive

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The makers of Wonder Bread acknowledged today that their product may contain no more nutrients than competing brands, but they denied their "builds strong bodies 12 ways" advertisements were deceptive.

The firm, ITT Continental Baking Co. Inc., Rye, N.Y., also denied false nutritional advertising charges made against Hostess snack cakes. The company's reply to the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) set the stage for litigation viewed in the advertising industry as a key test.

The Wonder Bread case is considered a test of whether the FTC can clamp down on "uniqueness" claims for a product that isn't really unique.

The Wonder Bread and Hostess cases also could test the FTC's allegation that ads pushing a product's nutritive plusses also should admit any nutritional deficiencies.

FTC Probe Focuses On Sex-Related Ads

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal Trade Commission (FTC) members have asked for the first time whether advertising should be allowed to offer products as a cure for teenagers' loneliness, sexual frustrations and desire to belong.

"Are you selling the product or are you selling sex?" Commissioner Mary Gardiner Jones asked yesterday in connection with ads for cigarettes, cosmetics and hair dressings.

"There are many products that are closely related to the sex act," replied Charles E. Overholser, senior vice president of Young & Rubicam, Inc., a big ad agency.

Commissioner Paul Rand Dixon asked why athletes were hired to endorse men's hair dressings.

Overholser replied that the advertiser apparently picked the "clean cut" approach "in contrast to the sex route."

"When you associate an auto with young people and dates what do you expect the person to think of?" Mrs. Jones asked.

Overholser mentioned loneliness and dating worries as common teen-age concerns.

"For a teen-ager ... possession of an auto helps him to believe he belongs in our society and gives him self esteem," Overholser said.

"You're associating the product with a very real human want," said FTC Chairman Miles W. Kirkpatrick.

Mrs. Jones said some critics contend that such ads present products as the answer to human problems.

The dialogue came in the second day of FTC hearings designed to explore advertising's psychological aspects, camera techniques and ads aimed at children.

Sealed speaker enclosures deliver sound with a difference you'll notice immediately. Where the difference really counts is in the bass response. That's because sealed speaker enclosures prevent what engineers call back wave cancellation. With comparable conventional open-back speakers, sound waves from the rear come around to cancel out those from the front. This can't happen with sealed speaker enclosures. As a result, you hear all the music—music with the dimension and "feel" of a live performance. RCA Stereo with 50-watt peak power amplifier and "Cushionaire" sealed speaker system is yours at a surprisingly modest cost in a choice of mastercrafted cabinet styles. Come in for a demonstration—we think you'll be impressed.

Preferred Holders Have Special Rights

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I bought shares of Trans World Airlines Cumulative Preferred (NYSE), which I understand are owned "with rights." Could you explain what this means. — E.M.

A. These shares, in addition to being cumulative, are also convertible. I assume it is the right of conversion which concerns you. Each of your shares may be exchanged for one-half common share at your option. If, however, after May 1, 1972, the company calls the shares you may convert only up through the seventh day preceding redemption. Since the preferred is currently trading at a 20 per cent premium above its conversion value such an exchange would be unwise now.

Other rights to which you, as a preferred shareholder, are entitled are voting and liquidations rights. In the event TWA liquidates its assets each share could claim up to $50 plus dividends. The preferred holders are also entitled to one-half vote per share. If the dividend is in default for six quarters preferred holders may add two directors to the board. At present the dividend has been omitted for three quarters.

A healthy level of traffic in both July and September plus an SST refund from the government in August should produce a robust third quarter. If traffic remains healthy, full year net could approach the break even point. Thus the dividend situation appears more promising.

Q. I purchased 200 shares of Aztec Oil and Gas (NYSE) in 1961 and again in 1965. Stock dividends have built my holdings to 610 shares. The stock has fluctuated up and down but seems to go nowhere. What are the company's prospects? — J. A.

A. Your shares have increased 53 per cent in value over your cost, only slightly more than the combined value of the stock dividends you have received. Revenues and earnings have remained static, the greatest change has been the buildup of natural gas reserves to an estimated one trillion cubic feet.

Appeal here lies primarily in the strength of Aztec's reserve position and probable higher product prices reflecting the natural gas scarcity factor.

Stocks Close With Surrender

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks surrendered most of an early morning advance today amid continued uncertainty about the economy. Turnover was moderate.

The early gain was attributed largely to the market's own internal conditions, or to what most analysts termed a "technical bounce" coming after seven consecutive declines. There was little in the news, however, to encourage traders and stocks turned down in the last hour of trading.

Declines and advances were about even.

Electronics and oils, among the day's widest movers, pointed in both directions.

Also trading in mixed fashion were airlines, chemicals, and rails. Motors showed scattered weakness, and steels moved over a narrow range.

In the new background, the Labor Department reported the cost of living rose 0.2 per cent last month.

A Bright Outlook For The Economy In 1972

LOS ANGELES (BW) — The president of the nation's leading packaging firm said the economic outlook for 1972 is brightened considerably by the likelihood of increased consumer confidence, but added that business prospects for the fourth-quarter this year are uncertain.

Edwin D. Dodd, president and chief operating officer of Owens-Illinois Inc., told the Los Angeles Society of Financial Analysts that any forecast for the balance of the year is difficult because of uncertainties arising from the complex problems in implementing Phase Two of President Nixon's program.

"Until details become clearer," Dood observed, "it will be difficult to pinpoint our prospects for the balance of the year. Longer range, we are hopeful that the administration's actions will restore consumer confidence in the vitality of the economy.

"While we recognize the inequities inherent in a program of economic controls, we applaud the effort to bring rampant inflation under control," he said. "Because of the outlook for increased economic stability in the coming months, at this point we do look ahead with more optimism to 1972."

Owens-Illinois had record high sales of $1.13 billion in the first nine months of 1971 compared with $1.03 billion in the period a year ago. Earnings for the nine months amounted to $2.81 a common share compared with $2.76 a common share in the nine months of 1971.

In reviewing the operations of Owens-Illinois, the nation's 80th largest industrial firm, Dodd noted that the company has been funneling an increasing number of dollars into programs for the future.

Research and development expenditures have increased steadily over the last decade, and the current budget is in excess of $44 million, compared with $13 million in 1961.

"We have been increasing our spending for these programs during the recent period in which the economy has been sluggish," Dodd pointed out. "Had we not channeled these dollars in this direction, our earnings during this recent rather trying period would have been substantially better. I think you will agree that this is a measure of our commitment to the future.

"As we look back on an annual compounded earnings growth rate of nearly 7 per cent over the past few years, we would like to do better and we are working on a host of ways to improve on that performance," Dodd said. "We are aiming at a return on equity in the range of 12 to 14 per cent. We believe that goal is an achievable one."

Dodd said the company for many years has been engaged in a variety of programs to improve the strength of the glass container while making it lighter in weight and has made notable progress in both directions.

One such development is the "plasti-shield" container.

Hugh Boyer, Aaron Grab Kaiser Golf Lead

NAPA, Calif. (UPI) — Officially Tommy Aaron and Hugh Royer are the leaders at the start of the second round of play today in the $150,000 Kaiser International Open.

But right on their heels are Billy Casper, a man who hasn't played well all year and Lee Trevino, who has but not lagely.

Aaron and Royer shot six under 66's in the opening round Thursday while Casper shot a five under 67 and Trevino had a three under 69.

While Aaron and Royer said they played their best round of the year, Casper and Trevino said things could be better.

Casper has not won a tourney title this year, something he never has failed to accomplish since his rookie year on the pro tour way back in 1959.

Billy, who missed only one green Thursday while playing the tougher North course at Silverado, has no excuses for his play this year.

"I simply haven't played well," he says. "If I knew how to correct things I would. All I can do is keep on plugging and hope things turn around."

They seemed to turn around for Casper in the opening round of the Kaiser, which carries a winner's prize of $30,000. Casper two-putted almost every green so he still hasn't fully regained the putting touch that made him one of the game's biggest stars over the past 10 years.

He made five birdies though and that encouraged him, although none was longer than 10 feet. He also made a couple of three-footers and quipped "even those weren't easy. In fact nothing comes easy anymore."

Ron Cerrudo, former San Rafael resident, fired an opening round 70, and Marin Country Club pro Buddy Sullivan carded a 74.

Tennis Star Ired By Wednesday Story

By RALPH CHATOIAN

A bee sting about the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department's open tennis doubles tournament in this space two days ago was more like opening a hornets' nest in the rec department.

I suggested the doubles team of John Zweig-Bill Theircof was a shoo-in to win, because the pair was head and shoulders above the rest of the competition. And I brought out the fact that both are employed in the recreation department's tennis program.

A letter of complaint to the rec department and to the I-J pointed out that the "weekend tennis player" didn't have a chance against the likes of Zwieg and Andy Moffat of Mill Valley.

"It is an open tennis tourney," Thiercof declared yesterday in rebuttal, "and we welcome all the best players in Marin County. There are at least six teams in the men's competition with just as much chance to win as our team."

And to give the lesser players a chance at winning something, Thiercof pointed out Rule 7 of the tourney: "All first round losers shall play in consolations."

"We're very proud of this tournament and we've had nothing but praise, with the exception of that one anonymous letter of complaint," said Thiercof. "I think this was a cheap shot at us. John and I are not trophy hunting."

Quarter finals will be held tomorrow at Albert Park, mixed doubles starting at 9:15 a.m. and men's doubles at 10:30 followed by semifinals later in the day, men at 1 o'clock and mixed at 2:15. All finals will be held Sunday, women's at 9 a.m., men's at 10:30 and mixed at noon.

IF YOU ARE going to the Oakland Raider-Cincinnati Bengals game Sunday, make sure you see the halftime show. One of the little guys on the field will be 8-year-old David Hemingway of Novato, a third grader at Pleasant Valley School.

Hemingway won Ford's Punt, Pass and Kick competition at the local level in Novato, then went on to win the district and regional 8-year-old titles in Redwood City. Sunday in Oakland he'll be competing in the quarter finals of 11 western states during the halftime show. A win Sunday would send David to the semi-finals in Dallas later, one step under the finals and a free trip to the Super Bowl.

TOM KASSIS, age 64, left Marin County today for South Bend, Ind., and a reunion with all his teammates of the 1929-30 undefeated Irish football teams. Kassis and his wife are ranch parents for the Cedars Development Foundation and help keep care of some of the boys in the school for retarded children in Ross.

Kassis played under the great Knute Rockne and yesterday was recalling some of those days to me. "What a remarkable memory Rockne had," he said. "We had 300 guys out for the team that first day of practice and Rockne went down the field, getting all the names. The following day at practice he had only one name wrong. Remarkable."

In his playing days, Kassis was an 185-pound guard. After his playing days, he coached football at University of Wyoming and Colorado U. It will be Kassis' first meeting with his old grid mates since 1955, when he attended the team's 25th reunion. Among the festivities will be tomorrow's Notre Dame-USC game at which the alums will be guests.

WASHINGTON STATE sophomore defensive tackle Tom Wickert, who prepped at Redwood High, is possibly through for the season. He definitely won't make the trip from Pullman, Wash. to Palo Alto for tomorrow's game against Stanford.

Wickert, a 243-pounder, reinjured a broken hand in practice this week after finally getting back to the starting lineup last Satuday against the Cal Bears.

PLAYER AGENT Steve Arnold of Corte Madera was in New York earlier this week representing Larry Cannon who played last year for the Denver Rockets but signed this year with the Denver Pros, another American Basketball Association team.

The case didn't go to court, with ABA commissioner Jack Dolph granting approval for the switch because of a breach of contract by the Rockets.

"It is a significant move in sports," said Arnold, a strong fighter to get changes in sports concerning ownership of athletes.

TERRA LINDA ON SPOT

Trojans Face Redwood

The classic confrontation of running versus passing will be in vogue tonight at 8 p.m. when Redwood and Terra Linda high schools clash at San Rafael High.

This Marin County Athletic League football game of the week will be broadcast live on KTIM. Coach Don Lucas' Terra Lindans view this as a must-win contest. With a 2-1 record, the pass-oriented Trojans cannot afford another conference loss, particularly to the undefeated Giants.

For this reason, the Blue and Gold are pulling out all stops to derail the pennant-bound Redwood express. "We still have a shot at it ourselves," Lucas reminded. "We'll be ready. This one is crucial."

In case the Giants forgot, the Trojans will throw a lot with the sensational Kevin Donohoe barking signals. His favorite target is the sure-handed John Buckley. During recent games, Lucas has attempted to develop a balanced attack. To this end, he has utilized the running talents of backs Sean Casey, Mike Sabel and Doug Long. Sabel has also logged time at split end.

If this trio seeks an example to follow, they need not look further than across the field this evening to view the outstanding capabilities of Mike Connor, Daryl Edralin, Jay Lehman and Mark Asiano.

LEAD AT STAKE

Drake Travels To Novato In Quest Of MCAL Lead

Drake and Novato High schools meet on the gridiron tomorrow at 11 a.m. in a battle which could have great impact on the Marin County Athletic League football standings.

The host Novatans are undefeated in league play, but a Pirate upset would turn the race upside down. The San Anselmo aggregation, 2-1, can vault from a third place deadlock with Terra Linda into undisputed first place, providing Terra Linda and Redwood, 2-0, lose.

Conversely, a Hornet win would drop the Pirates from title consideration, lifting the Black and Gold one step closer to the coveted crown.

The only "sure" thing about this game is that Drake plans to test the rock-ribbed Novato defense. The Hornets have all but shut off the run with the likes of Russ Weklych, Pat Karinen and Rick Reis anchoring the middle.

Drake counters with the league's number two rusher in Phil Wilkinson. The sterling halfback has amassed some 220 yards and ripped off an 82 yard

Marin Tars Host Solano Tomorrow

The College of Marin Tars host Solano College tomorrow at 1 p.m. in quest of victory number one.

To achieve this goal, Tar coach Rick Read intimated, the locals will have to convert needed third and fourth down situations into first downs.

"We didn't make the big play" recalled Read. "We've worked hard this week" said Read, without injured starting left tackle Rick Gifford (pinched nerve), and flu-stricken center Rich English. "We got Leon Delisle, and Gary Agee banged up" said Read. Dom O'Donnell, will replace Gifford at left tackle, Dennis Miller is expected to fill in at guard, and Blair Bavuso is likely at center.

Read reported that kicker John Loane is now back in good health after suffering a bruised foot a week ago.

"We may have a rain problem" said Read, "but we're going to wait and see what happens."

"Solano has a great running game" said Read.

The Falcon halfbacks run the 100-yard dash under 10 seconds.

Michigan Footballers Seek Anti-Asian War Halftime Show

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI)— The University of Michigan Wolverines will be in their locker room at halftime, but they still want the halftime show during their Oct. 30 Homecoming game devoted to bringing the troops home from Vietnam.

Fifty members of the third-ranked Wolverines entered the flap over the halftime show in the Indiana game by signing a petition Thursday in favor of the antiwar theme.

"Bring all the troops home now, let's have a real homecoming this year," is the theme chosen for the Homecoming parade, but the University of Michigan Marching Band voted not to go along with a request to play antiwar marches during halftime.

The petition signed by the players asks that a veteran group — Vietnam Veterans Against the War—be allowed to take the field after the band finishes its show and read aloud the names of students who died in the war.

Raiders To Start Dickey

OAKLAND (UPI) —Eldridge Dickey, the former Tennessee A&I quarterback who was converted to a wide receiver by the Oakland Raiders, will get his chance Sunday against the Cincinnati Bengals.

Dickey was named Thursday to start in place of regular wide receiver Rod Sherman, who twisted his ankle last Sunday against Philadelphia and is not expected to play.

Dickey came to the Raiders in 1968 as a No. 1 draft pick after a college career as a quarterback, but was switched to wide receiver. During the 1969 season, he was given a brief shot at quarterback, but was put back in a receiver slot last season.

At first Dickey was bitter about the change, but has since become reconciled to it.

"I thought that was my thing, playing quarterback," he said, "but my father doesn't own the club, so I can't do everything I want."

The move was a tough one for Dickey, too, because he was behind two superstars —Warren Wells and Fred Biletnikoff.

Sherman replaced Wells when he was imprisoned during the exhibition season, and Dickey has since proved that he can make it as a wide receiver.

Last Sunday he faked out three Philadelphia defenders on his way to the end zone for a 27-yard touchdown pass play.

Stanford, Beavers In Drive For Roses

By U.P.INTERNATIONAL

With the race for the roses showing signs of developing into a two-team battle in the Pacific 8 Conference, all eyes will be on key games this weekend involving defending league champion Stanford and the Beavers of Oregon State.

Stanford (5-1) plays host to Washington State (2-4) Saturday in a game that will pit the league's top rushing offense—the Cougars—against the best rushing defense in the Pac-8—the Indians.

Oregon State (3-3) travels to Seattle Saturday for a showdown with northwest rival Washington (4-2), and in the only other league game, UCLA (2-4) hosts California (4-2) in the Los Angeles Coliseum Saturday night.

The UCLA-California game will not count in the Rose Bowl running, since the Bears were placed on probation by the NCAA and declared ineligible from any post season competition.

In non-conference games, USC (2-4) will try to get back on the winning track when it takes on highly rated Notre Dame at South Bend in the two team's 43rd meeting. Oregon (3-3) will try to make it three in a row for the Pac-8 over the Pacific Coast Athletic Association when it entertains San Jose State at Eugene.

The battle for the Rose Bowl spot is far from over, but Stanford and OSU have to figure as the top contenders since they are the only two unbeaten conference teams. The Indians have the inside track, having defeated the other pre-season contenders— Oregon, Washington and USC. OSU still has the other major contenders—Washington, Stanford and Oregon—ahead of them.

Giants Release Steve Hamilton

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The San Francisco Giants have released veteran relief pitcherSteve Hamilton and promoted six minor league players to the parent club to fill out the 40-man roster before the winter draft next month.

The Giants announced Thursday that righthanded pitcher Ed Figueroa, infielders Steve Ontiveros and Mike Phillips, and outfielders Gary Matthews and Gary Thomasson, have been called up to the major leagues, all for the first time. The sixth addition was catcher Mike Sadek, who was drafted from the Minnesota Twins in 1969 and has been in the Giants' spring camp twice.

To make room for the six pitchers, Hamilton, 34, was released, and four players — pitchers Jim Moyer and Mike Davison and outfielders Frank Johnson and Floyd Wicker — were assigned to the Phoenix farm club.

NORWOOD, Mass. — Richie Hebner, previously acclaimed as one of the best hockey players in the town's history, was honored Thursday for his play with the World Series champion Pittsburgh Pirates.

"I saw 150,000 people cheering us in Pittsburgh," the 23-year-old third baseman said in ceremonies honoring him at the town hall lawn, "but it's a bigger thrill to see this crowd back here where I belong."

Some 2,000 persons took part in the tribute, which included a parade that began at his home and went through the center of town.

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. — The Minnesota Twins announced Thursday that they will add Ralph Rowe, a veteran minor league player and currently the manager of the Portland club, to their 1972 coaching staff.

Rowe will replace Frank Crosetti, who coached third base for Minnesota.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — Former University of Illinois football great J. C. Caroline, now an assistant coach at his alma mater, may have violated NCAA and Big Ten rules by trying to help Illinois footballer John Wilson.

Wilson was arrested Monday and charged with using a stolen credit card. Wilson allegedly used the card to buy gasoline and oil. He was arraigned Tuesday and bail was set at $1,000.

Caroline reportedly paid the $100 — 10 per cent of the bond — required to get Wilson out of jail. The Illinois athletic department said Thursday that the NCAA and Big Ten will investigate Caroline's actions for possible rules violations.

CLEVELAND — Howard Keys, 36, offensive backfield coach for the Cleveland Browns, died Thursday at Shaker Medical Center, where he recently underwent surgery for a bowel obstruction.

Keys joined the Browns staff three years ago as an assistant to the personnel director. He was put in charge of the offensive backfield last season.

Flag Football Game In Corte Madera

Second annual flag football game between the Corte Madera Drop-In Center and the Corte Madera Police will be held at the Town Park tomorrow at noon.

Joe Frazier Ready For Muhammad Ali

WASHINGTON (UPI)—— Heavyweight boxing champion Joe Frazier revealed Thursday he is ready to take on a challenger, Muhammad Ali or anyone else.

"Give me a couple of months," Frazier said. "I'll be as sharp as last spring."

Frazier expressed doubt Ali, whom he defeated in the championship fight last March, will be the next challenger.

"I'd love to have him right now," Frazier said before accepting a "fighter of the decade" award from the Washington Touchdown Club. "But he hasn't proved to the public that he is a worthy opponent."

Frazier apparently was referring to Ali's own plan to win some other bouts before seeking a rematch with Frazier.

"I'll be ready for him."

But Frazier repeatedly expressed indifference about who the next challenger will be. Asked if he sees his opponent in the ring as "an individual or just anybody?"

"I see him as a man, as a person trying to take something from me—I don't show no mercy."

But Frazier, who stands 5-11, has one preference. He likes a tall opponent better than a short one.

"I have trouble with a short guy. When I work for his body the guy covers up. A tall man can't."

Frazier was asked as a spoof how he would like to meet Joe Frazier.

"I wouldn't want no part of him."

Frazier, who ducked into a hospital for a spell after the Ali fight, was asked if he will buy hospital insurance next time.

"Just to protect the other guy. I don't need it," he quipped.

A Different Picture of Skiing . . . in Marin

That's what you'll find at Sports Far West (our relatively new shop in Tiburon).

"Different" because we're a true ski specialty shop. Come in, and you'll see what we mean: bright, unusual clothing (like Bogner, Fusalp and Head Ski and Sports Wear), equipment with the most advanced technology (like Rosemount's new custom boot-fitting system, Head XR 1s and Hexcel aluminum honeycomb skis, the revolutionary Americana binding), people who are truly into skiing (like Kathy, Kim and Greg).

We have most major skiing lines, and we know a lot about them. We believe if you come in our shop just once, you'll notice a refreshing difference.

Meanwhile, Trevino, who hasn't won a single dollar in official money since going on the shelf early in August following removal of his appendix, struggled around and said he feels his touch is coming back.

"I never had a real makeable putt all day," said Trevino, who won three tourney titles within a span of 21 days in midsummer.

Citroen. The car that looks more beautiful after you drive it.

It's the other way around with most cars. That dazzling showroom beauty looks so different from the driver's seat.

Not a Citroen.

Simply because Citroen was built by a small group of brilliant heretics who did not care about conventional design. They sought the very basic; the finest, safest, best engineered car in the world. They sought items such as: an aero-dynamically designed body, independent four-wheel suspension, front wheel drive and automatic jacking.

Let's just leave it at this; next time you're trying to judge the beauty of a car, drive it first. If you find all these features, chances are you've been driving a Citroen.

Physician To Attend Practices

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (UPI) — A physician will be at every future practice session of the University of North Carolina football team, Chancellor J. Carlysle Sitterson announced Thursday.

The action was one of a series of steps announced by Sitterson following a controversy over the death of Bill Arnold, a varsity athlete who collapsed with a heat stroke Sept. 6 and died 15 days later.

While the Faculty Athletic Committee cleared head coach Bill Dooley and his staff of any negligence, a group of former athletes called for a new investigation of the death and of the football system.

Sitterson issued a statement praising "the leadership of an able and dedicated athletic director and coaching staff," but said UNC and other institutions "have not solved all the problems of intercollegiate athletics to our full satisfaction."

Other steps recommended by the Faculty Athletic Committee which Sitterson announced were being put into effect include establishment of special clinics by medical personnel for coaches in basic conditioning and training.

He said the school is studying the possibility of a sports medicine department to "assure the best medical knowledge and its application in all our sports."

Wilson Out Sunday

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The San Francisco 49ers do not seem too unhappy after learning that St. Louis Cardinals allpro free safety Larry Wilson will be out of Sunday's game in St. Louis.

Wilson, who suffered a severe hip bruise in last Sunday's 20-0 loss to Washington, will be replaced by rookie Larry Willingham at strong safety. Wehrli will be at free safety.

LETTER THE ISSUE

Avery Brundage Blasted

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — The secretary general of the International Ski Federation (FIS) Thursday termed International Olympic Committee (IOC) president Avery Brundage's latest letter to FIS "indecent and insolent."

"It is indecent and insolent against the various national olympic committees and against the athletes to behave like this," Sigge Bergman said.

In his letter, Brundage made clear that skiers who do not conform to IOC's strick amateur rules will not be allowed to participate in the Sapporo, Japan, winter olympic games next year. The letter has not been made public but the contents have been revealed by FIS sources.

"Brundage has always behaved like this. I cannot understand that a man in his position must continue to disturb the athletes, the preparations by the various national Olympic committees and by the Sapporo organizers in this way. And you may quote me," Bergman said.

"Brundage has shown bad judgment of a sort that does not serve the Olympic cause," he added.

Bergvan's harsh words came in the wake in the latest (but probably not the last) flare-up between IOC and FIS.

"This is not an isolated event. This is a series of events, Bergman said, about the exchange of letters between the two international sports bodies.

Brundage wrote his letter to FIS ten days ago and Bergman said it clearly indicated there is more trouble ahead before the Sapooro games.

"The losing parties that quarrel are the Japanese organizers", Bergman said.

Mizell Joins Congress Side After Baseball Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI)——Congress' most famous ex-baseball player, Rep. Wilmer "Vinegar Bend" Mizell, R-N.C., Thursday joined a growing congressional sentiment challenging baseball's exemption from antitrust laws.

In a house speech, the former St. Louis Cardinal and Pittsburgh Pirates pitcher assailed baseball's "sole purpose of reaping a pot of gold for the owners."

Mizell specifically pointed to the recent transfer of the Washington Senators to Texas in his address.

"I am convinced that if the cold, hard cash deal has led to callous disregard for fans as loyal as Washington fans have been for 71 years, then baseball has purposely and outrightly forfeited its special status as a sport, and deserves no further special consideration in the eyes of the law," Mizell said.

The former lefthander said that only by bringing a new team to the nation's capital "preferably in time for the 1972 season and preferably a national league team" could baseball provide evidence of a return to its paramount concern of the fans.

He said there was a "strong resentment" in congress over the Washington-Dallas switch.

Mizell added many bills have been introduced seeking to end the exemption status. He said baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn and the owners "would do well to take these bills as a warning signal of the strong resentment on capitol hill for baseball's new heartless image."

California Entertains Hard Bruins

OAKLAND (UPI)—The California Golden Seals will be looking for their first 1971 National Hockey League victory tonight when they meet the powerful Boston Bruins in the Oakland Coliseum Arena.

The Seals, who have two ties in their first six games, will have their work cut out for them. The Bruins, a brutally physical team that won the Eastern Division last season, are paced by Bobby Orr and Phil Esposito, both of whom scored more than 100 points last year. Esposito's 152 points last season set a NHL scoring record.

The Seals' last outing was Wednesday night, when they dropped a 4-2 decision to Montreal.

California may be reinforced tonight by two defensemen and a goalie. Dick Redmond's sore shoulder has healed, and Paul Schmyr, along with goalie Giles Meloche, are expected to arrive in time for the game.

Roger Brown Paces Indiana Triumph Over Utah, 125-122

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

It looks like last season all over again in the American Basketball Association's Western Division.

Indiana and Utah, who battled to the final days of the season to determine the 1970-71 title, met for the first time this season Thursday night and picked up right where they left off.

The Pacers needed a field goal by Roger Brown with 39 seconds left and two free throws by Freddie Lewis with 25 seconds to go to gain a 125122 victory over Utah. The victory left the Stars with their first loss in four games.

Pacer Coach Bob Leonard was ejected from the game at 1:12 of the third period and Indiana managed to take a twopoint lead. Utah went ahead early in the last quarter and held the lead until Brown's basket.

In other ABA action Thursday night, the Virginia Squires beat the Dallas Chapparals 10399 and the Floridians stopped the Memphis Pros 117-113.

Mel Daniels led the Indiana scoring with 33 points and Brown finished with 30. Rick Mount also added 27 for the Pacers while Zelmo Beaty was Utah's high scorer with 27 points.

Seals Get Webster

OAKLAND (UPI) — The California Golden Seals picked up some scoring punch today when they picked up rightwinger Tom Webster from the Detroit Red Wings in a straight player swap.

In exchange for Webster, who scored 30 goals and had 37 assists in the national hockey league as a rookie last year, the Seals sent defenseman Ron Stackhouse to the Red Wings.

HOME OPENER

Warriors Encounter Detroit

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Golden State Warriors get another day off today before opening their home National Basketball Association season.

The Warriors, formerly the San Francisco Warriors, played their home games last year on three courts, but have a permanent home this season— the Oakland Coliseum arena. They get their first action there Saturday night against Detroit.

The Warriors returned from a season opening road trip with an even 2-2 mark. Their last game was Wednesday when they whipped Cleveland, 115-98.

Newcomer Cazzie Russell, who was obtained in the offseason in a trade with New York, scored 29 points to lead the Warriors against the Cavaliers.

Tips On Carting Out That Deer

By AL GIDDINGS

LITCHFIELD, Lassen County — Last Tuesday, I told you about a deer hunt and the use of back packs that can be so vital in helping you get your deer out. Each of the two bucks that we shot probably weighed 140 pounds, field dressed.

Having a back pack along serves two purposes. One, you can hike into the back country, and that's considered to be two miles or so beyond the closest road. In your pack some crackers, cheese, candy bars, raisens, water, a soda or whatever, can give you a real pickup, especially after a four or five hour tough hike.

SECONDLY, taking a saw (a small special type, a skinning knife, some rope and either one or two light deer sacks can help immensely. What does one do with a 140-pound buck? This is the way we handle the situation.

The deer can be either hung up and skinned, or it can be skinned entirely on the ground. Both Howard Leach and I skinned our deer on the ground. What did this accomplish? We were rid of the entire hide, and that might have had a total weight of 10 pounds.

WE ALSO cut the antlers off, so we could then dispose of the head. With feet off, skinned, deantlered, and all entrails removed, our 140-pound field dressed buck now weighed 120 pounds. Halving this, then Schaub and I each had 60 pounds to carry. Naturally, we ate most of the lunch — leaving a little for a refresher half way back — so we placed each of the halves in the deer sack and put it in the pack sack or we could have tied it to the pack board. (The knife and saw will fit somewhere.)

Even the horns can be tied to the pack. Be sure to fill out and punch your two tags — don't wait until you reach the road! Tie the tags on very securely and you're home free. The heart and liver can be placed in the chest cavity of the front half for an easy carry.

WHAT ABOUT flies? If it's hot, they'll be there even at the top of a mountain. That's what the sacks are for. Get your meat covered. It won't be bloody, the air dries it almost instantly. A badly shot up piece should be cut off. The flies will not bother you while packing.

As you hike back, lava rocks and granites make good places to sit. You'll find the weight of the back pack can be minimized if you pick a proper place to rest that will relieve the weight simply by sitting the pack on the top of the rock. It doesn't have to be taken off at all.

IF A BUCK is an exceptionally large one, say 200 pounds dressed, then the same procedure is followed except the buck should be quartered. If two quarters are carried out, the remaining two should be put into the second sack and hung in a shady place. A tree is by far the best, keeping in mind, the best place is out of the morning and noon sun, as you will be back the following morning for the second two quarters.

We saw four young fellows with two bucks that they had been dragging for two days. They had made several trips back to their camp for water and food, and to sleep. They had taken in a Honda to ride the bucks out, but in lava rock, machines break down. They were bound and determined to take their deer out whole, I guess for show. Honest, nobody looks at the meat, they just look at the horns. They tell the story. Even though you get your two halves out in several hours, it's still imperative to then quarter your meat for proper cooling. All game can spoil and usually will if the body heat is not out by six hours or so after killing.

I REALLY wonder, being the weather was so warm, whether the boys got their two bucks out before they spoiled. Wouldn't that have put them in a frenzy?

I remember Bruce Bales, Red Scanlon and I getting two bucks one time and it taking nearly nine hours to get them out whole. I guess it was before we were educated. The bucks were beauties.

Last year, wife Mary, Ken Walker and I took one out from exactly the same spot in one hour. It was quartered, and even Mary took a quarter. It doesn't take much arithmetic to figure which way was the easiest and best.

San Marin To Host San Rafael

San Rafael High School will try to bounce back into the Marin County Athletic League football race tomorrow at 2 p.m. when the Bulldogs take on San Marin High on the Novato High School field.

Coming off a tough 21-13 loss to Redwsood last Friday, the Bulldogs will attempt to vent their frustrations on a rising Mustang aggregation.

However, Bulldog coach Bob Muster realizes it won't be easy. The Green and Gold have developed a reputaion for stingy defensive play, which Terra Linda High can attest to after tipping San Marin 14-0 last Saturday.

The linebacking excellence of Fred Doar, Bob La Pointe and Steve Baldocchi has bulwarked the defensive upsurge, but injuries have sidelined the latter two. La Pointe will give way to Greg Sherwood; Brad Smith replaces Baldocchi. The former suffered a shoulder wound while the latter sustained a sprained ankle.

While the Mustangs attempt to overcome these key injuries and untrack the Hoza Wright-engineered aerial circus, Muster will seek to lift his troops "out of the doldrums after last week's tough loss. We approach this game seriously, because they've got quite a good defense and a fine quarterback in Wright. We're down a little bit but a lot can happen," the Bulldog mentor noted.

If the Bulldogs recover, chances are runners Mark Farrar, Jim Grigg, Dave Urquhart and the sensational Scott Duncan spark the drive. Each is smarting from the loss and is determined to seek amends at San Marin's expense.

San Marin, seeking its first win in seven starts, is admittedly crippled, a fact which doesn't deter the squad's steadfast drive for an upset.

The lineups:

'Cats Vs. Tam Game Tomorrow

Marin Catholic and Tamalpais high schools, two football teams apparently going in opposite directions, cross paths tomorrow at 1 p.m. in Mill Valley.

The host Tam gridders are 0-5, while the Wildcats have won their last four starts. Despite the contrasting records, the respective teams expect a hard battle.

The young Indians will try everything short of larceny to acquire a victory, but Bruno Banducci's 'Cats are equally determined to continue down victory road.

The visitors will be without their ace runner, fullback Pat Parnow, out with a knee injury. Ironically, Mark Ferrua will make his first start after recovering from a shoulder separation suffered in the first preseason scrimmage.

The lineups:

Novato is capable of unleashing passing pyroantics with All-League quarterback Marty Moroski calling signals. He'll be tossing to a variety of receivers including halbacks Terry Johnson and Leo Magers, plus ends Joe Robinson, Joe Powell and Straw.

The lineups:

coveted ability of finding the goal line in clutch situations. It was Connor who dented the fine San Rafael defense for two tallies and 131 yards.

However, this vaunted rushing unit may receive its sternest test from the hard hitting Trojan defense. As in years past, the Terra Linda defenders stress gang tackling rather than sterling individual performances. Thus, talented crunchers like Steve Withers, Larry Madden, Rich Nicholes, and Jeff Leaird receive few personal plaudits, but this quartet meshes well with seven others to give the Trojans a solid aggregation.

This also holds true with the Larkspur delegation of coach Phil Roark. The Giant defensive stars shine but not as bright as the combined group, which includes linemen Dan Young, Joel Johnson, and Bob Stubbs, and linebacker Bob Fulton. The latter is considered among the better backers in the MCAL this year.

This conglomerate is determined to maximize the pressure on Donohoe and, hopefully, keeping the sterling quarterback from rolling out to throw. Unlike most field generals, Donohoe maintains great accuracy while throwing on the run.

The lineups:

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

Angela Trial Site Still Unanswered; Recess Period

By MARY LEYDECKER

The question of where the trial of Angela Davis will take place — Marin, San Francisco, or one of the 56 other California counties — went unanswered yesterday.

Judge Richard E. Arnason said he must decide first whether it is legal for Miss Davis to ask for a specific county or whether she must ask for a change of venue to a county to be named by the court.

Unlike most defendants seeking transfer of trial, Miss Davis has requested a specific county, San Francisco, but has not yet given a general waiver that might send the case to another county.

Her lawyers yesterday indicated, however that they are so anxious to get the trial out of Marin they will give the waiver even if the San Francisco move is denied.

The prosecutor, Albert W. Harris Jr., said he believed Miss Davis's attorneys "had made a sufficient showing" as required by law for a change of venue, "that she cannot receive a fair trial in Marin."

Although Harris denied there has been "inflammatory publicity" about the case in Marin, he agreed the incidents of Aug. 7, 1970, were "shocking crimes." Miss Davis is charged with murder, kidnapping and conspiracy in connection with the shoot-out that day at the Civic Center.

He said he agreed with Miss Davis's attorneys that Judge Harold J. Haley, killed in the shoot-out, was a well respected person, that the case had received widespread publicity and that Miss Davis is an "outsider" in Marin.

He said, however, that he could not agree that bias against Miss Davis, which her attorneys claim is widespread in Marin is present or that Marin is a tight-knit community sivilar to places like Lassen County.

Harris said that if the case against Miss Davis "is as weak as her attorneys claim," it wouldn't matter where the trial is held.

One of the defense attorneys, Margaret Burnham, a young woman who was a childhood friend of Miss Davis, said yesterday "we know San Francisco is no panacea."

She claimed that at a hearing there for the Soledad Brothers "spectators were ruthlessly attacked by police." She also described heavy security and a glass barrier in the San Francisco courtroom used for the Soledad case.

However, Miss Burnham said, that if Miss Davis is sent to a county other than San Francisco, "she might land in a worse place, for example, Sacramento County." A poll commissioned by defense attorneys and called useless by prosecutor Harris showed that Sacramento residents had more prejudice against Miss Davis that Marinites.

The poll also included surveys of Santa Clara, San Mateo, Alameda counties as well as Marin and San Francisco.

San Francisco is the "only county where there is a slim possibility of getting a fair trial," according to Miss Burnham.

Harris asked why none of the Southern California, Valley or many of the northern counties had been considered by the defense.

Miss Burnham yesterday again called the charges against Miss Davis a conspiracy by officials including President Nixon, Governor Reagan, San Quentin Associate Warden James W. L. Park and Marin Judge Thomas F. Keating.

Park was included in the allegation because of remarks made after the Aug. 21 violence at San Quentin and Keating because he testified he would not name Communists to the grand jury because "they spew hatred and violence."

Yesterday's session, in Marin Superior Court was marked by a flap over whether Miss Davis's supporters would be allowed to give her clenched fist salutes when she entered. Bailiffs who thought the judge had forbidden the salutes in the morning ejected two young men, one of whom went quietly. The other was ushered out yelling slogans like 'power to the people.' "

After lunch the judge sent word clenched fists were all right before he took the bench, and Miss Davis received salutes from about a dozen persons.

Pretrial hearings were postponed to Nov. 1, with only the change of venue motion and one to suppress certain evidence left to be decided. Judge Arnason said the trial, slated for Nov. 1, will be continued on a day-to-day basis until the motions are finished.

Bill Asks Protection Of Retirement Funds

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A bill to protect the generous retirement benefits of legislators who want to stay in office despite reapportionment has been proposed by Assemblyman Frank Lanterman, R-Pasadena.

A 1965 law granted full retirement benefits to legislators with four or more years of service if they retired at the same time as their district was reapportioned, but present law requires this right to be exercised by next year, or it is forfeited.

As a result, according to Lanterman, 81 of the 120 legislators thus will be eligible to retire next year because of the pending reapportionment of all districts.

The result would be to disrupt the continuity of the legislature by depriving it of experienced members, and to saddle the state with paying up to $6.6 million in retirement benefits, he said.

Lanterman, in a press statement, said deferring retirements would mean ultimate costs "will be something less than $6.6 million," the amount depending on how many and how long the 81 legislators stay in office and how long they live.

The 81 include Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, who estimated his retirement benefit at $700 a month. He first was elected in 1960.

The special benefits, however, would not be available to Marin's other legislator, Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, who first was elected only last year.

Interest On Claims Bill Is Advanced

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Legislation requiring the state to pay 6 per cent interest on unpaid claims against it by local governmental agencies and private persons has won approval from the Assembly Ways and Means Committee.

Similar legislation in past years has failed to get out of even one committee, but this year's version (SB 1053) by Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, already has cleared the Senate and now is on the Assembly floor.

The bill was amended by the ways and means committee to add private persons as asked by its chairman, Willie L. Brown Jr., D-San Francisco. The bill also provides that governmental agencies pay interest on unpaid claims against them by the state.

Interest would begin on the 61st day after a claim was filed.

Marin County, for example, had $604,000 in claims against the state that were over 60 days old as of Aug. 31. County auditor-Controller Michael Mithcell said the amount was "pretty standard."

The committee, acting on another Behr bill (SB 1048), killed his proposed $69,625 appropriation for a venereal disease education program aimed at youths by the Department of Public Health. The committee has killed virtually all special appropriation bills because of the state's financial straits.

College Editor Resigns In Flap Over Funding

A smoldering controversy over the College of Marin student newspaper erupted yesterday with the resignation of the editor and the freezing of student funds to the paper, called the Times.

According to Times staff members, editor Peter Menkin resigned in protest over what he considered restrictions on funds and editorial content.

Several weeks ago, he had accused student body President Kenneth W. Bott of attempting to censor the newspaper by budgeting less funds than necessary.

Students said Menkin is now working with other student leaders to obtain funds to sponsor another campus newspaper which apparently would replace the Times.

An emergency meeting of the student executive council has been called for Tuesday to consider Menkin's funding request or whether to continue to continue support of the Times at all.

According to Bredt, Menkin resigned because he felt he could not conform with restrictions other than generally classifying them as financial and editorial.

"We don't understand ourselves," he said.

Menkin had complained earlier this month to the executive council that his budget was not enough. The council, after lengthy debate, granted Menkin an additional $2,000 to his $7,000 budget. Last year the paper was budgeted at $10,000.

After the additional funds were granted, however, Menkin continued to seek more money, claiming that without it, the paper's publication schedule would have to be altered.

Fire Board Sells Surplus Vehicles

The Tamalpais Fire District board sold six surplus vehicles for $5,256 to bidders last night but got no offer on two other fire trucks.

Chief William Canlett said the two trucks not sold — a 1937 Chevrolet pumper and a 1949 Studebaker squad truck with a 250-gallon tank — will be advertised in magazines circulated among fire departments and probably sold next year.

Sold last night were: a trailer, for $218; four-wheel drive truck with hydraulic ladder, $2,656; motorcycle, $610; four-wheel drive pickup, $625; jeep, $600, and pickup truck, $557.

In other business, Canlett said, the board voted to hire Kenneth A. Fowler, 25, of San Rafael, as the department's training officer. He will be paid $986 monthly and will organize and administer a training program.

The board also confirmed the hiring of Diana Nelson as clerk dispatcher. She is paid $500 monthly, he said.

Damage Suit Figure Is Corrected

A $12 million damage suit the Independent-Journal is filing in connection with a strike by San Francisco Typographical Union includes $10 million being sought in punitive damages.

A typographical error in yesterday's I-J changed the punitive damages being sought to $12 million.

Gary T. Giacomini, an attorney for the I-J, yesterday asked a Marin Superior Court judge to allow him to add the damage suit to an existing court case containing an injunction against violence by the union.

The union's attorney, Duane B. Beeson, said only that he objected to the addition of the new suit in the old case. Judge Thomas F. Keating directed both attorneys to present written arguments and took Giacomini's request under submission.

Four In Tamalpais CSD Race

(One of a series of articles to be published this week and next by the Independent-Journal, outlining the issues and presenting the candidates in the local elections Nov. 2.)

Two incuments and two new candidates are in the running for three seats on the Tamalpais Community Services District at the election Nov. 2.

In addition to incumbents Arthur L. Crebassa and Ralph Paul Kellog, architect Richard A. Dreyer Jr. and housewife Enola Walls have filed for the election. Mrs. Walls also is a candidate for election to the Tamalpais Valley Fire Protection District board.

A total of 1,973 registered voters will be eligible to cast ballots in the services district election.

The candidates' low-key election campaigns have produced no controversies over operation of the district, which mainly provides park, recreation and sanitation services to the homeowners within the district. Its current tax rate is 35 cents per $100 assessed valuation, with 23 cents of this going toward park and recreation functions.

Cebassa, a school teacher in San Francisco, is completing his first term on the services district board, preceded by service on the Tamalpais Valley Sanitary District from 1960 to 1967, the fire district board, and the services district's parks and recreation commission. He has been a volunteer fireman for 14 years. He is a member of the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club.

Crebassa, 44, is a native of San Francisco. He lives at 535 Midvale Way, with his wife Frances. They have four children.

Incumbent Kellog has been in Europe for the last month, and could not be reached to obtain biographical data or campaign statements.

Kellogg, his wife and five children live at 135 Peralta Avenue.

Mrs. Walls, a great-grandmother, lives at 311 Robin Road. She and her late husband moved to Marin County in 1960.

She is a member of the Tamalpais Valley United Methodist Church and of its women's groups, of the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club and of the Blythedale Rebekah Lodge No. 305, International Order of Odd Fellows.

Regarding her candidacy for the services district board, Mrs. Walls said, "I will do all in my power to equally represent all the people for the betterment of the district while at the same time holding down taxes."

Drever, 35, lives at 305 Ashton Lane, with his wife, Ellen, and three children. He is an associate with Rex Whitaker Allen and Associates, San Francisco architectural firm.

He has served as member and chairman of the Tamalpais Community Services District Parks and Recreation Commission, and is a member of the Tamalpais Improvement Commission.

'Good Thing. . .We Got Jackson'

A member of the Marin County Grand Jury charged yesterday that an associate warden at San Quentin prison told him that the "only good thing" that happened during the prison violence Aug. 21 "was that we got George Jackson."

The charge was included in an affidavit by Grand juror Richard W. Beban filed yesterday by attorneys for Angela Davis.

Beban said that he went to the prison on Aug. 21 because of his membership on a grand jury subcommittee investigating the administration of the prison.

He said he saw Associate Warden James W. L. Park and that Park asked, "Why don't you go investigate the Communist Party? . . . It is them and people like you who are causing what has happened today . . . We lost three guards, three good men. The only good thing that happened all day was that we got George Jackson. Killed him. Shot him through the head."

Beban said Park asked him if he wanted to go inside the main prison walls. "Due to the expression on his face, I did not immediately answer," the affidavit said.

According to Beban, Park continued, "I'll let you go in, but the guards would kill you and I wouldn't stop them."

The affidavit was filed during a court session on Miss Davis's case yesterday, but Judge Richard E. Arnason of Contra Costa County did not allow the affidavit to be admitted as evidence in support of Miss Davis's contention that she cannot get a fair trial in Marin County.

GM'S EXPERIMENTAL SAFETY VEHICLE

This cutaway view shows some of the features of the Experimental Safety Vehicle (EVS) General Motors is building to U.S. Department of Transportation specifications for the contract price of $1. Engineering innovations include increased use of the weight saving aluminum in both engine and body components and a cross-body structure in front of the rear-seat passengers. GM reports that the prototype almost meets government specifications for saving lives in a 50 mile per hour barrier crash. Program manager for the vehicle said testing of the car in 50 mile per hour crashes — with a full complement of dummies placed in the car — showed that "all of them were killed, but some only slightly."

Plans Mapped For Fire Service

Following about three hours of sometimes heated discussion, Corte Madera's new citizens' committee on fire protection emerged last night from its first meeting with a plan of action it hopes will improve fire service.

According to Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels, the council-created committee appointed a subcommittee to spearhead the groups' plan which includes drafting and circulating a questionnaire to residents for their opinions on fire service.

The citizens' committee was created by the town council earlier this month after angry homeowners jammed town hall demanding greater fire protection in the wake of a fire which destroyed two homes and damaged a third.

Bartels said the group last night also delayed its endorsement of hiring outside consultants until the subcommittee has interviewed them.

The town council at its meeting Monday authorized up to $4,000 for the consultants if the committee approved.

Bartels said the subcommittee and town officials will meet with a team of two consultants on Monday to determine the scope of their proposed investigation.

He named the two consultants as Watsonville Fire Chief Bryce W. Connick and Bill S. Ingram, a structural engineer, also of Watsonville.

Bartels has argued that the consultants are needed to recommend immediate changes to the town's five-man fire department — changes which would not effect this year's budget.

He said that while much of last night's discussion centered on the function of the committee, opposition to the committee was voiced by some residents.

Plan Beaten To Take Agency To Electorate

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A last-minute attempt to subject creation of a Bay Area regional government to a vote of the citizens was beaten back yesterday by backers of the proposal.

The Conservation and Development Agency of the Bay Area, proposed in AB 1057 by Assemblyman John T. Knox, D-Richmond, already has passed the Assembly and is on the Senate floor for final legislative approval.

The move to amend it to require a referendum was led by Sen. Clark L. Bradley, R-San Jose, but was defeated with 10 votes for his amendment and 15 against it.

The bill was carried on the floor by Sen. Milton Marks, R-San Francisco, who argued Bradley's amendment "would make a joke" out of the process of electing representatives to the governing board of the regional agency.

Bradley's timetable called for a referendum on next June's primary election ballot. If the agency were approved, a districting commission would have until Sept. 1 to set the boundaries of its election districts, and Sept. 4 would be the last day on which candidates could file nomination papers for the November election.

The amendment, as drafted by legislative counsel, would give candidates for office only one weekend in which to find out in which election district they reside — and would give them only one day in which to take out and complete nomination papers, Marks noted.

Knox's proposed agency would have exclusive responsibility for regional planning, and would be empowered to nullify city and county ordinances contrary to its regional plan.

Shoreline Trustees Set Bond Election

Shoreline Unified School District trustees last night voted to hold a $1.2 million bond election on Jan. 11 to provide additions to the Bodega Bay and Tomales Elementary schools.

Dissenting in thd 4-2 vote were trustees Joseph Tremari and Kenneth Kehoe who ramained adamant despite pleas from audience members for united board support.

Tremari disputed the need for a $200,000 reserve to increase classroom space at the West Marin School in the next three years while Kehoe said he preferred a less expensive piecemeal approach to building.

Repayed over a 25-year period, bonds require 45.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation in the tax rate. Last year property owners in the district paid 88 cents per $100 for existing bonds. This year the figure dropped to 59 cents. If new bonds are added, the total would be 94.5 cents.

Proposed additions of a multiuse room, paved playground and remodeling to the three-room Bodega School, according to district architects, will cost $87,360. Tomales School improvement of a multipurpose room, new classrooms, utilities and site expansion were set at $879,640.

Faced with the question of whether also to ask voters for a tax increase election, board members decided 4-2 to postpone action until they know if they qualify for federal funds available under the obscure public law, 874.

Supt. Charles McCully said the district may also recoup up to 75 per cent of losses from land in agricultural preserve under the Williamson Act from pending state legislative tax reform packages.

The meeting was chaired by Trustee Leroy Erickson in the absence of Board President Robert Dallagher.

Shoreline Unified School Board Also:

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Childhood Didn't Exist For Youths In Medieval Times

In medieval days the idea of childhood did not exist. The youngster emerged from infancy to early childhood and became a member of the adult world. This did not mean that youngsters were not loved or were neglected. Parents had affection for their offspring but they never distinguished the child from the adult. The child's entry into an adult world usually occurred when he could live without constant maternal care.

THE CUSTOM of dressing children as adults persisted well into the 19th century. The tykes began to work as soon as they were old enough to do so. Boys of 10 went to sea or worked a full day on the farm. Young girls also did chores. All of this led to a lack of education and many social and medical problems. Surprisingly, many became skilled mariners, craftsmen, statesmen and professional persons.

Life was hard and cruel and abuse and suffering was common. Children from upper and middle class families were those who "should be seen and not heard." The poorer tykes crawled up and down chimneys or along mine shafts too low for ponies. In all walks of life, parents did their best for the children. But rich or poor, the mortality was unusually high among mothers and children.

DURING THE industrial revolution, child abuse was so prevalent that changes had to be made. Reforms came when people became interested in human suffering. The importance of home, hygiene, nutrition and education was stressed. Foundling homes and infirmaries were established. Authors, such as Dickens, understood the plight of the children; other authors began to write books geared to the small fry. Toys and games came into being for the first time. Education became available to more and for longer periods.

The duration of childhood now extends well into the teenage period.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.

HEMORRHAGE AND TB

REPLY

Hemorrhage occurs when the infectious process erodes a blood vessel. This is a matter of chance.

Device Measures Mercury In Fish

BERKELEY (UPI) —Scientists have developed a suitcase sized device that may solve the problem of fishermen who find after docking that their catch in unmarketable because of mercury contamination.

The Lawrence Berkeley Lab of the University of California said Thursday the instrument can measure mercury contamination in fish at sea in a minute.

In the test, a sample of fish about the size of a pinhead is placed into the 50-pound measuring device's oven where it is heated into vapor. Any mercury atoms present in the vapor are measured and the contamination is read as a parts-perbillion figure on a simple meter.

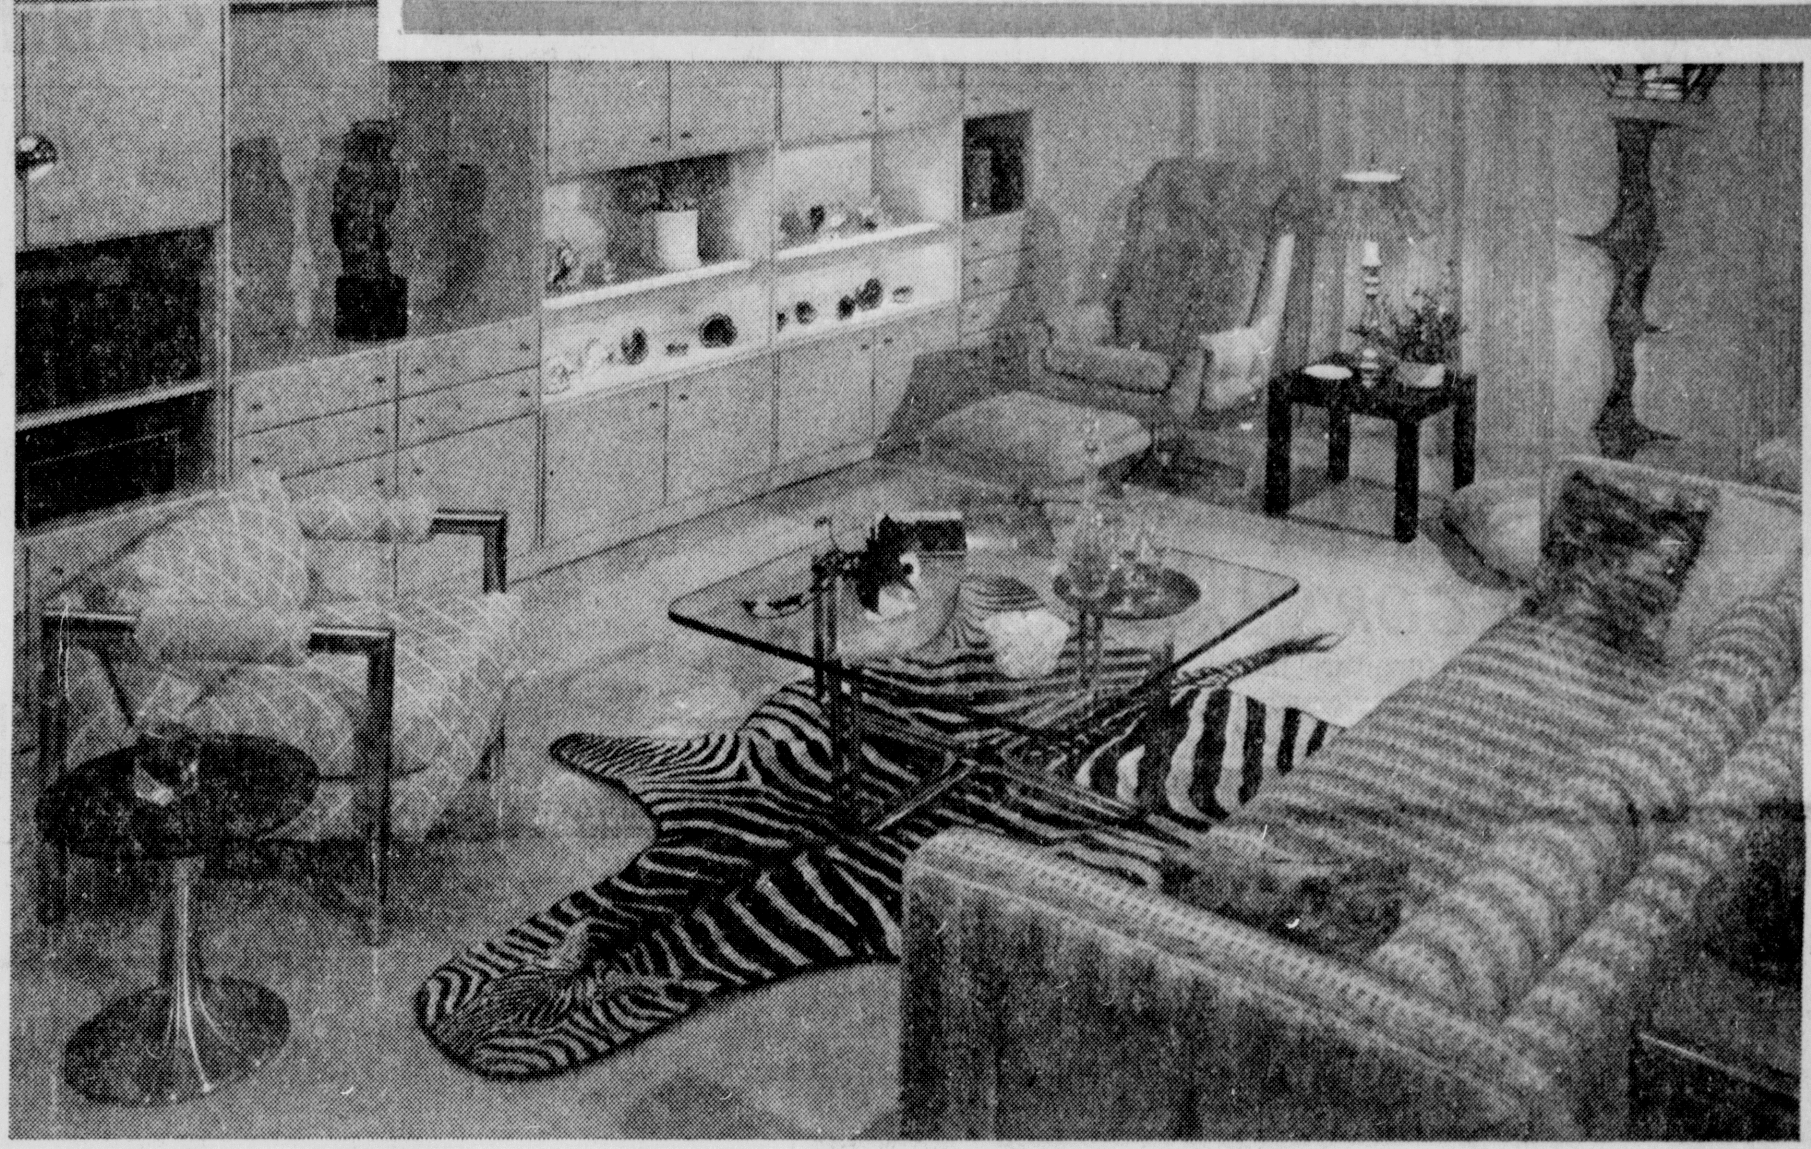
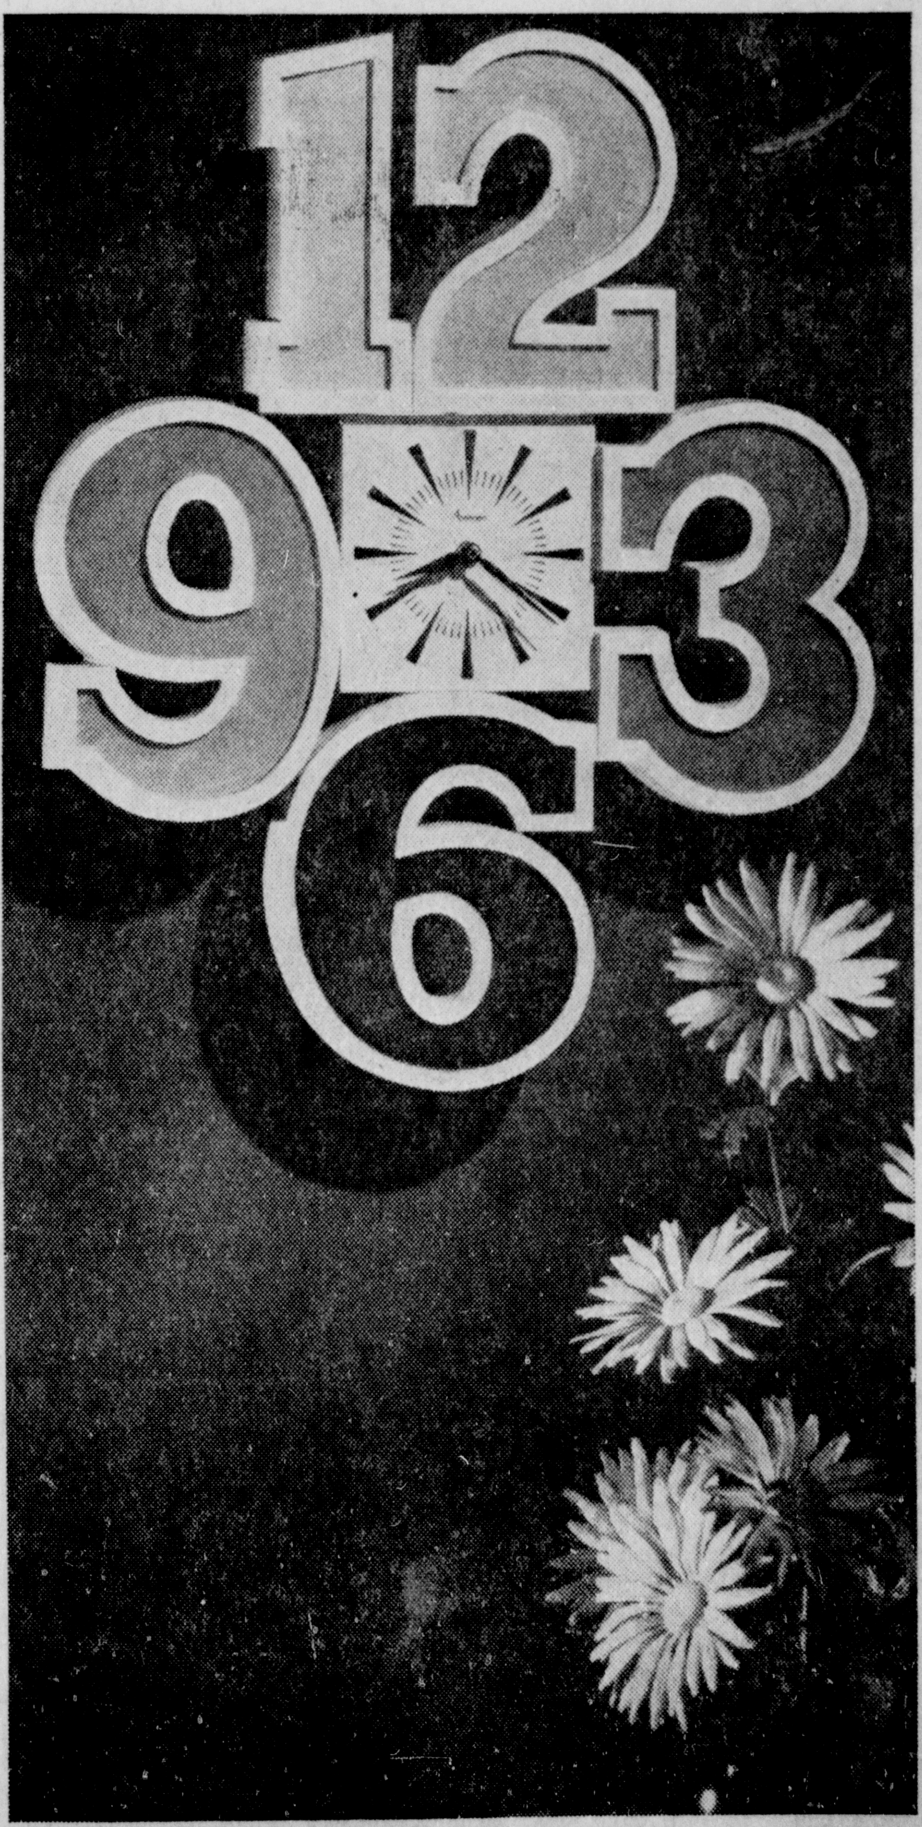
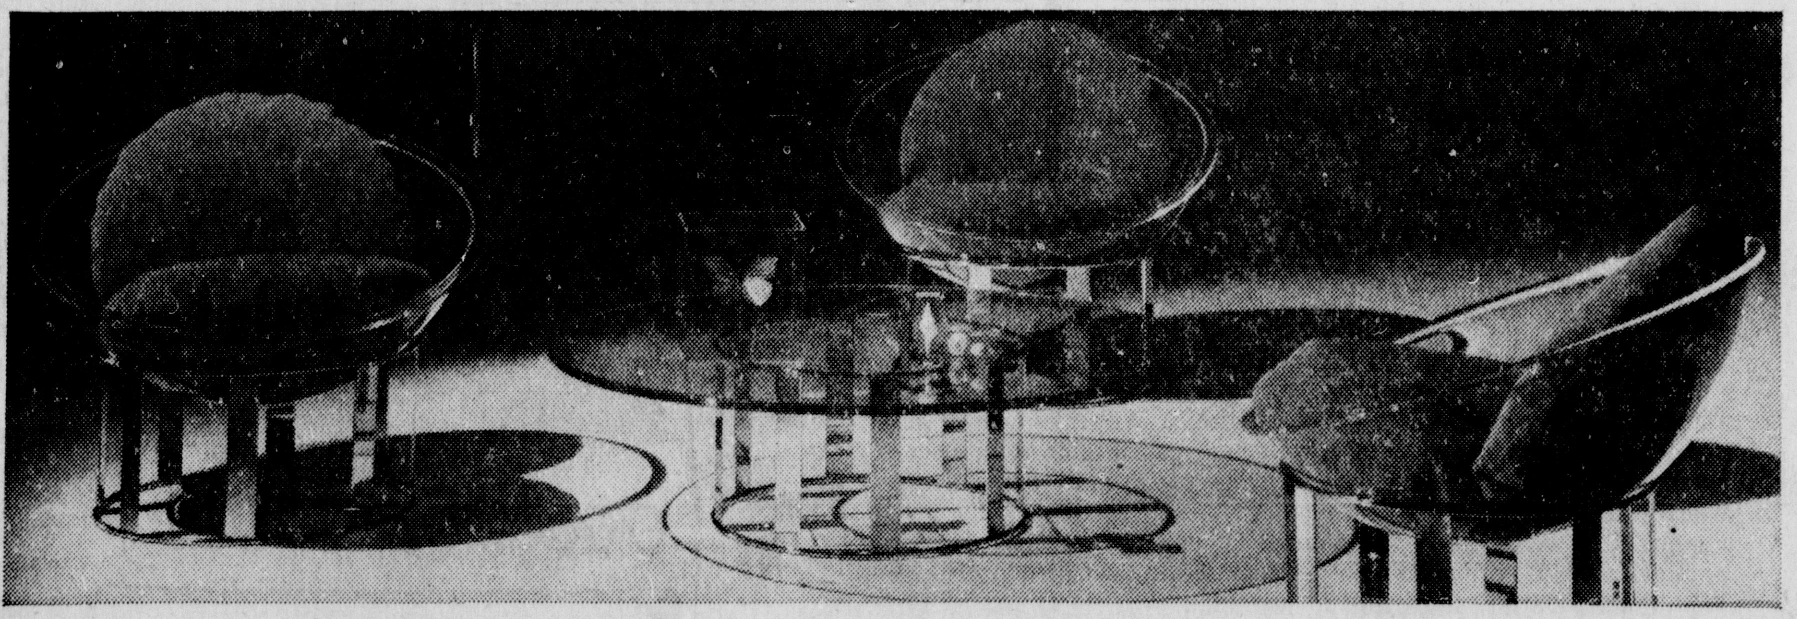
HOME FURNISHING FASHIONS

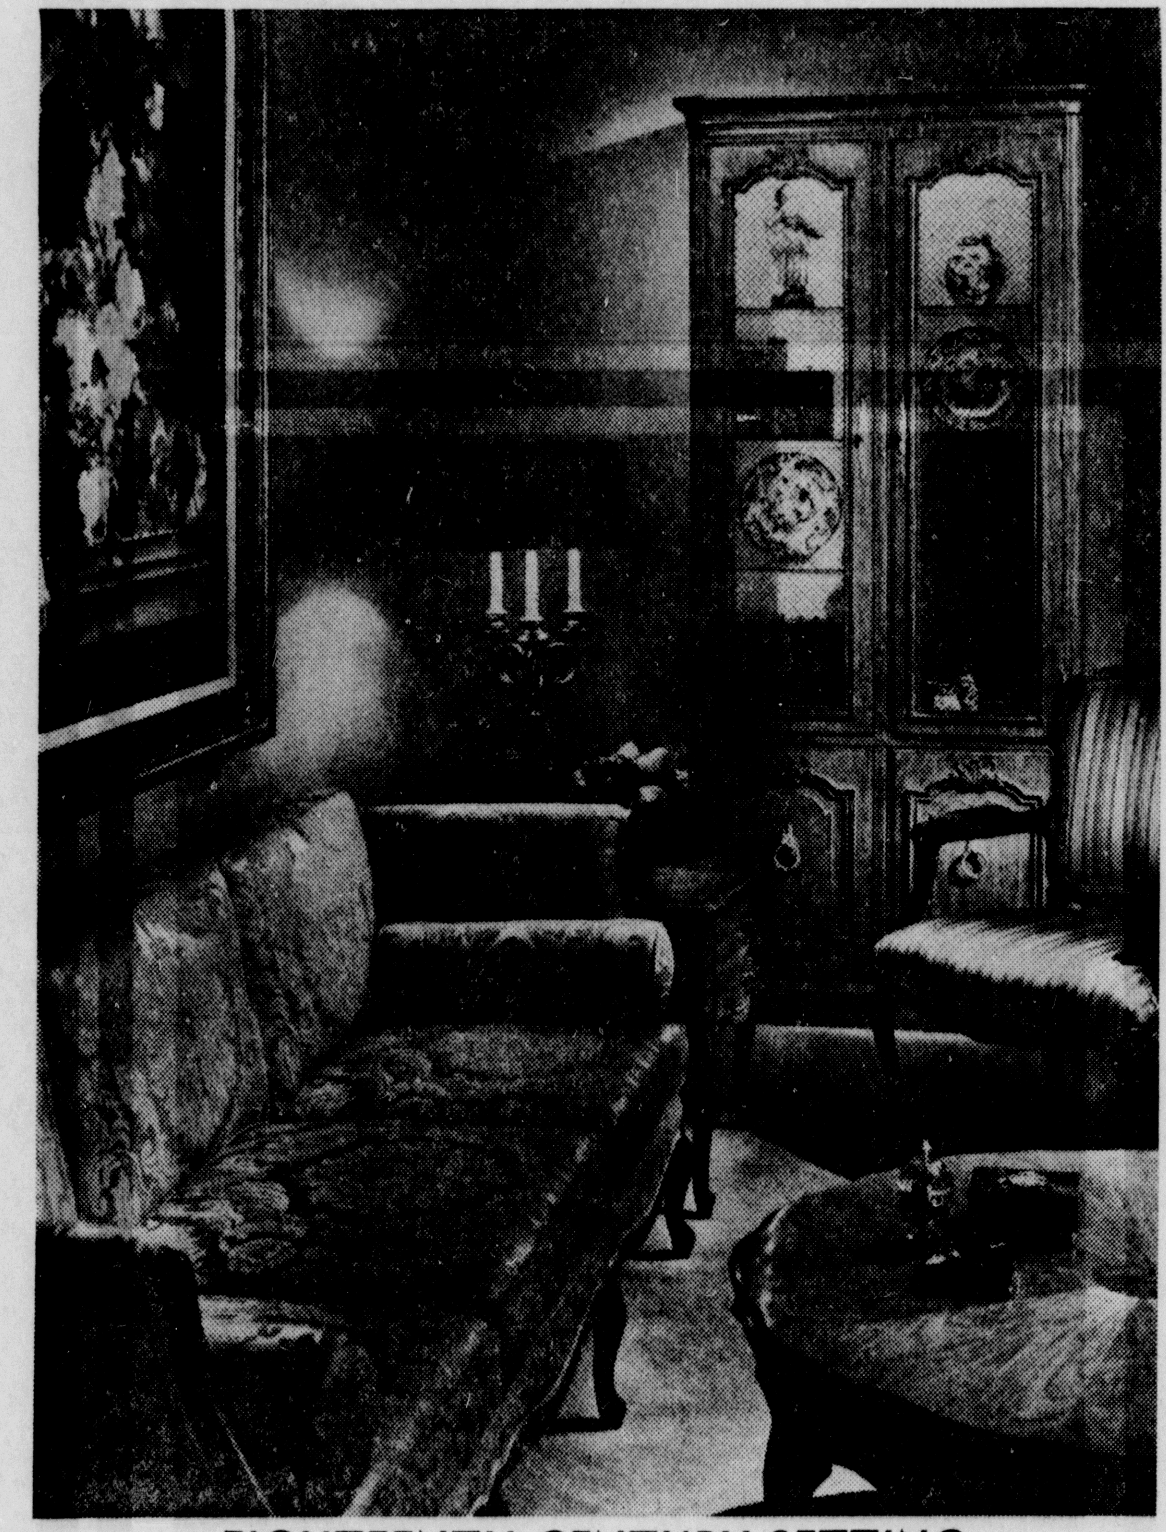






DECOR'S EXTRA TOUCH

Regardless of how nice the furniture may be, a room begins to take on character when accessories are added. These and other unusual imported pieces are part of the collection at Wasser's Furniture Accents on Greenfield Avenue, San Anselmo.



EIGHTEENTH-CENTURY SETTING

"A Return to Elegance" is the theme of this inviting cluster of furnishings interpreted by Thomasville. It is among several settings in a fine collection of French reproductions now at the Manor House in downtown San Rafael.

Lot Of Arguments Over Bedroom Of The Child

Many arguments between parent and child result from the cluttered condition of the child's room. The parent wants order, and the child defends collections.

According to a recent report based on an elementary classroom experience, a child can be taught order and principles of design at the same time.

"A design is an intended arrangement to achieve some effect," the report states. "In order to help children feel some of these principles, have them work with an area they are most familiar: their own rooms at home."

In this instruction, the children draw a floor plan of their rooms, marking off placement of furniture. With a crayon in a different color, they mark off footsteps in the morning. Then the children are asked to study the traffic patterns and figure ways of making things simpler by rearranging furniture. They have in mind all the things the room is used for: sleeping, dressing, playing, entertaining, relaxing, reading, watching TV and — being alone.

Toward the end of the lessons on design, the children are given a clean piece of paper and told to design a room from scratch, using interesting colors and materials. They are told there is no limit to imagination. Any material may be used: leather, metal, glass, wood, wool, silk, plastics, wallpaper, paint, net. According to the report, the experience increases the child's awareness of line, proportion, space, light, color, texture and balance.

And who knows? In the process, the children might discover the difference between collections and clutter.

Decorating, Furnishing Is Major Investment

Decorating and furnishing can be a major investment, as well as a time-consuming effort. The floor plan, location of doors, windows and heat outlets and size of the room will all influence your selection, from wall paper and paint to size of furniture.

Trusting to memory or guesswork often results in disappointment or time-consuming adjustments. So, before you begin searching department stores and furniture shops for the furniture and accessories you want, make a thorough study of the area to be decorated.

For this, a camera that takes sharp flash pictures without batteries is especially easy to use. By taking a few snapshots of the overall, you will get an idea of the appearance and space requirements of the entire room. This will give you a perspective on the total decorating scheme needed to complete the room. Then, for a more detailed record of exact space requirements, take pictures of each individual area. On the back of the print, draw a diagram of the area photographed and list exact measurements. Don't forget to subtract wall space for windows and doors, and be sure to make allowances for doors that open into the room. Writing down the exact measurements of windows, and seeing them in relationship to the wall area, will also be helpful in selecting draperies.

After you have arranged the major pieces, you'll find it helpful to take a few snapshots of the entire room, as well as closeups of specific areas. The pictures will be useful when you're trying to visualize how lamps, mirrors, pictures and other accessories will contribute, or detract, from the total look.

Kitchen Color Schemes Varied

Walls in a light blue-green. Ceiling painted a pale pink. Interiors of cabinets and drawers in a deeper pink shade. Curtains in a raspberry red print. Furniture enameled white. Other accessories white.

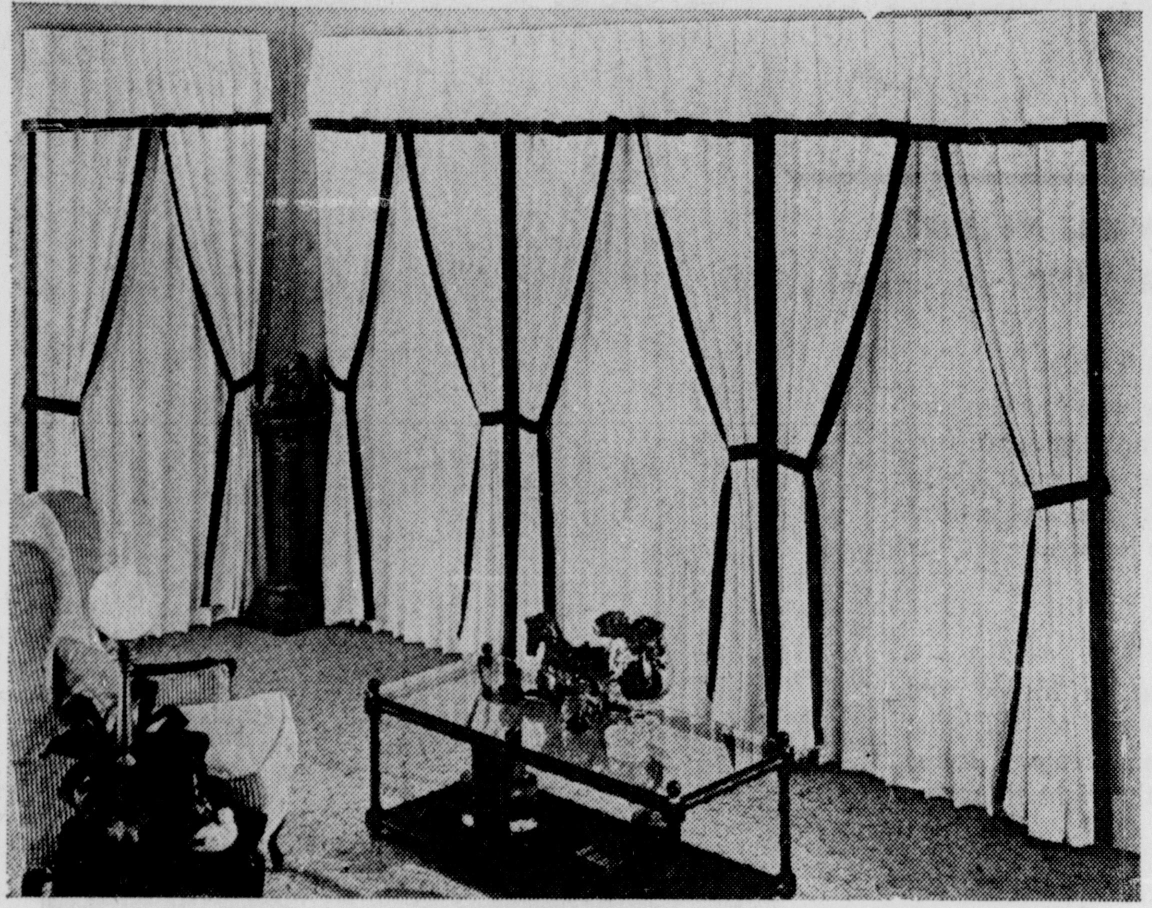
This Baldwin Acrosonic piano in antique white and gold and French Provincial styling makes an attractive center in today's room settings. The piano, along with many others, can be seen and heard at Marin Baldwin Piano and Organ Co., San Rafael.



FOR WINDOWS OF ANY WIDTH

With their solid bands of contrasting colors, these draperies by Cameo have been created to work in a variety of combinations. They are available in single-width pairs with trimmed or solid color valances and matching solid color tie-backs at Fabric Land in downtown San Rafael.

Some Interesting New Bedding Developments

With part of the population seemingly anxious to slosh around on a waterbed all night, perhaps it's time for those who like more solid underpinnings to have their say.

There are many new interesting developments in bedding that combine solid comfort with dramatic effect, without running the risk of inundation.

There is a fascinating new bedding idea, a combination of frame, panels, lighting and recessed base which wraps a box spring and mattress in leather, plastic or fabric, and gives the illusion of a suspended bed that floats in space. The result provides the true comfort of a stable, resilient latex foam mattress, plus complete decorative impact. The bed is a self-contained unit with no need for embellishments like head or footboards. The panels which wrap around all sides of the unit completely conceal box spring and mattress sides, and can be covered to coordinate with sheets, throw or coverlet.

Platform beds are also creating excitement. These can take the form of a nestlike arrangement with a mattress fitting into a recessed frame, or simply the placing of the mattress on plywood platform. Foam rubber mattresses can be used comfortably without a boxspring base, which make them "naturals" for platform bedding.

Built-ins used to be considered almost exclusively an inexpensive way to furnish seating in a vacation home, or, on a more elaborate scale, as a costly architectural feature of an expensive house. Today, even apartment dwellers are using built-ins. Platform building is a relatively simple do-it-yourself project and using latex foam pads cut to size, and back bolsters, provides seating comfort.

Covering the foam rubber slabs in attractive fabrics gives an elegant look, and when the back bolsters are removed, the foam rubber pads also double as extra sleeping space. Because latex foam never loses its shape, and is completely resilient, it's eminently suitable as a mattress-cushion for built-ins.

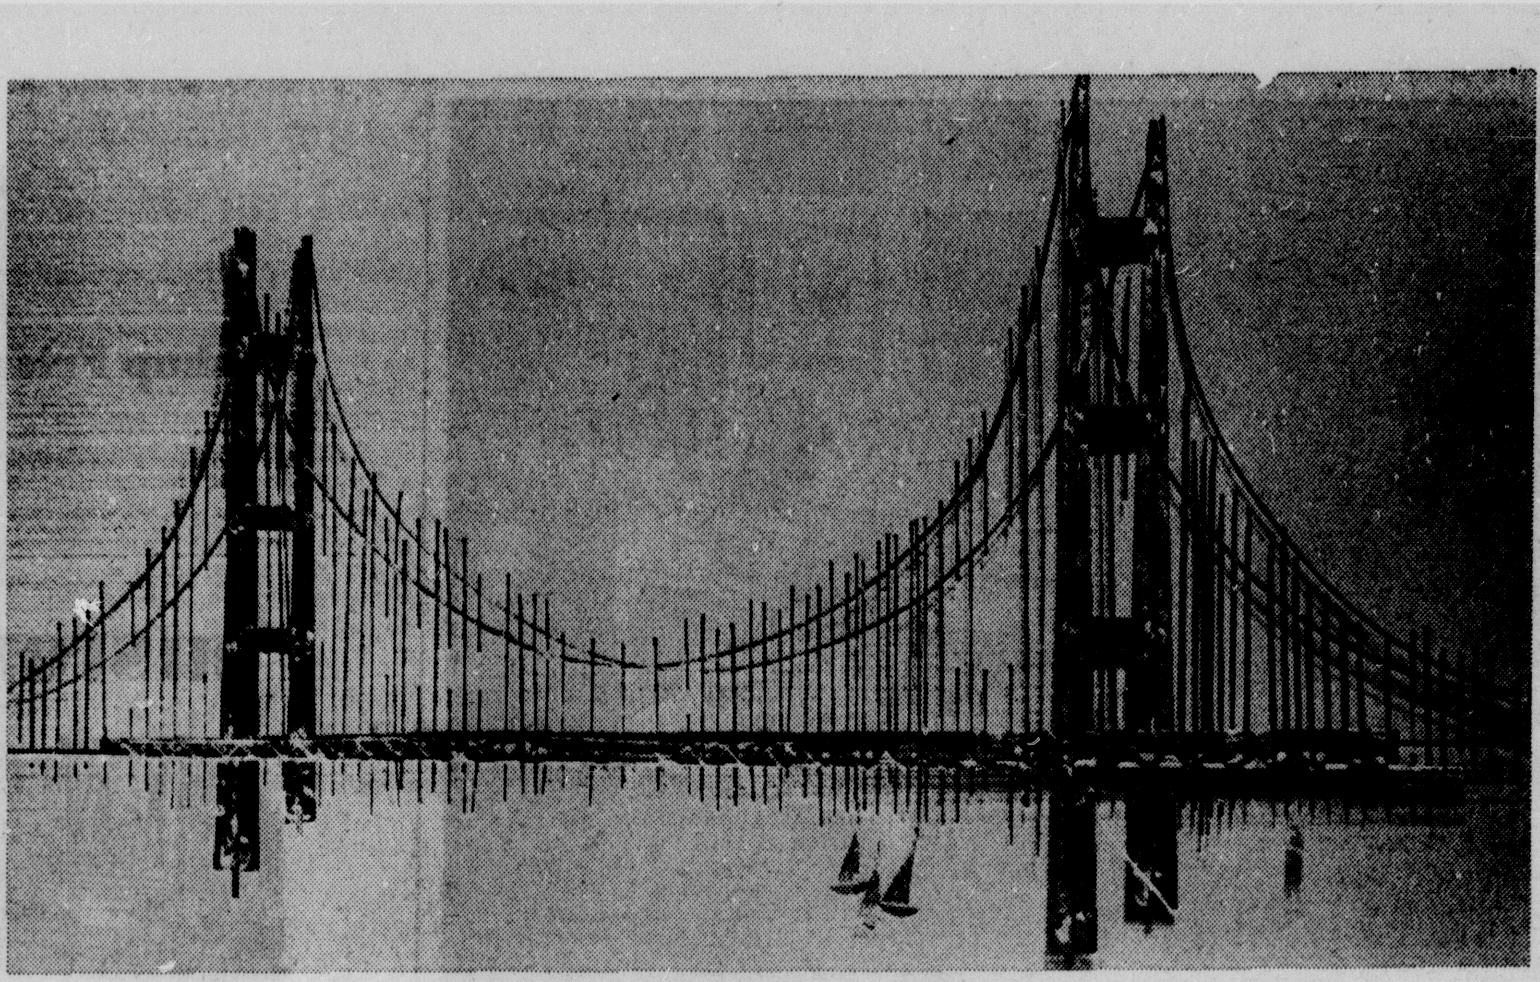
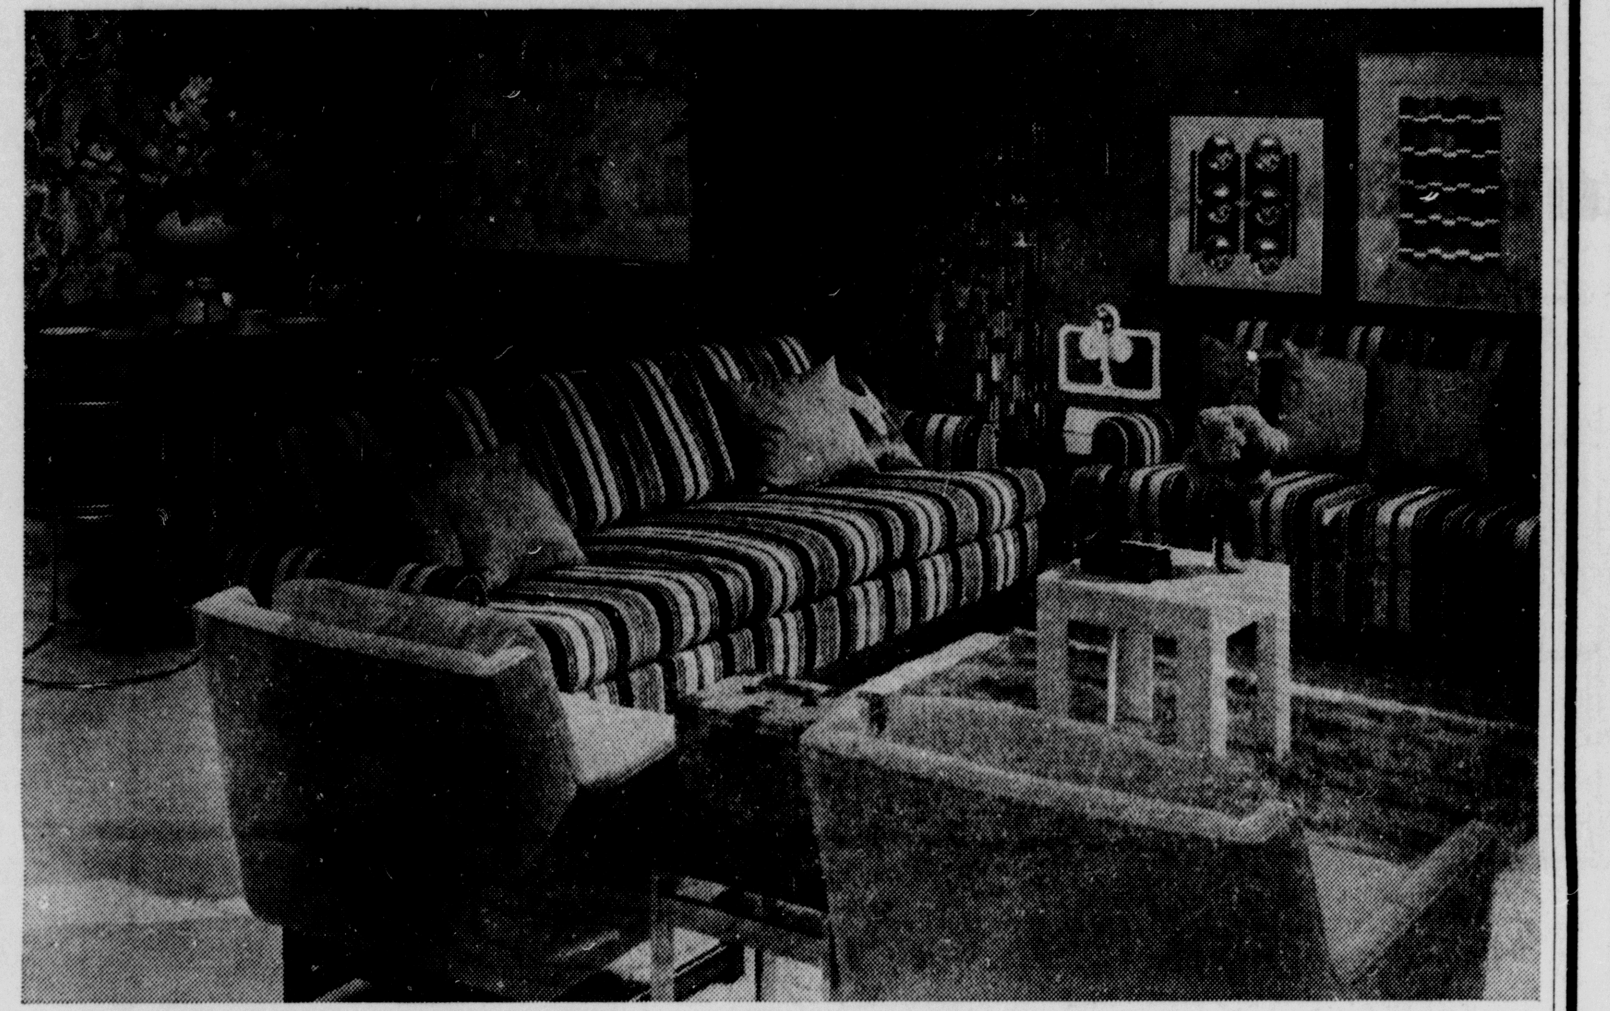
SPACE-AGE DINING SET

This unique set features Micolite tops, a plastic laminate protection, and is constructed of polished aluminum on wide bases with swivel chairs. Loose, washable seat cushions are available. The set is being shown at Western Furniture in San Rafael.



UNIQUE WALL DECOR

This reproduction of the Golden Gate Bridge, 33 by 60 inches, is handcrafted in brass and iron with a weathered finish. It is one of many wall pieces at the Elegant Room at the Northgate Mall.



BOLD LIFE STYLE

Big bold stripes which are so popular today are styled in durable Herculon on sofa and loveseat with matching off-white Herculon on the chairs. This contemporary furniture by Selig is accented by contemporary art placed against mustard-brown walls. In Marin the Selig line is carried by W and J Sloan and the Emporium at Northgate; Scandinavian Designs, Manor House and Bellach's in San Rafael; and by Braverman's and Wasser's in San Anselmo.

Routine Attention Is All Rugs Need

Routine attention is all that is required to keep carpet colors fresh and bright and the texture soft and luxurious. Frequency of maintenance will depend upon the cleanliness of the air in your community, the color and fabric style you select, and the amount of traffic and type of traffic pattern in your room.

For example: bright and light colors tend to show soil more readily than tweeds and will require more frequent attention:

Sometimes you want something nicer.

We are dedicated to those who just can't be satisfied with common, unimaginitive furniture. No matter where we must go to find it, we want well designed and crafted pieces that are a pleasure to own.

And so we invite you to inspect our collection or challenge us to fill your dreams so that you can create a living environment with just the right things — nothing less will do!

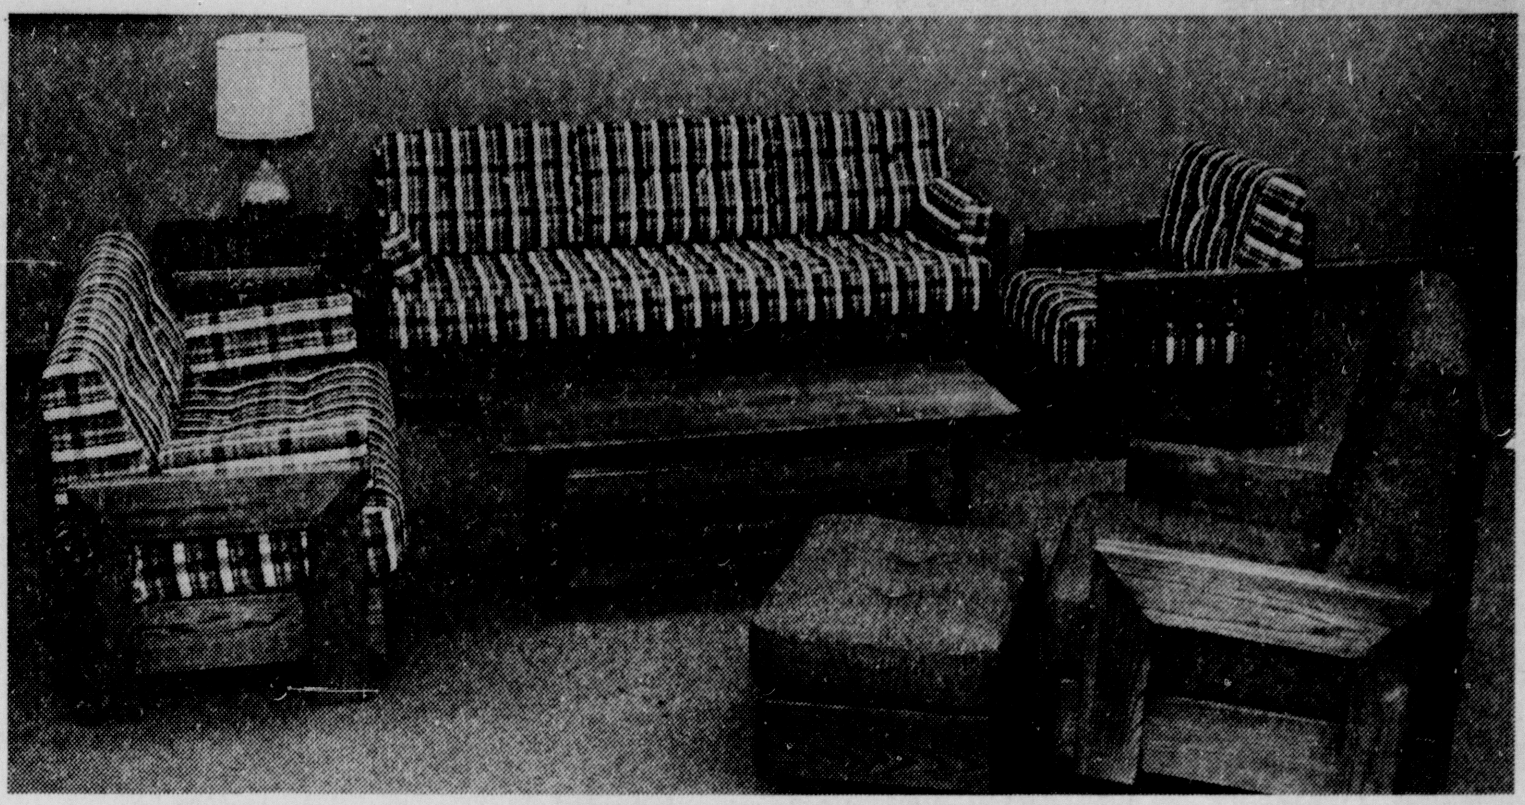
Been Around For Long Time

Although polymers in home furnishings are in the news now, these materials have been with us for some time. The first of these — celluloid — was formulated about 103 years ago specifically for the manufacture of billiard balls. Since then the number of kinds of plastics, of processing techniques, of material combinations and of uses in manufacturing generally has increased many times over.

Yet, despite the "antiquity" of polymers, they have become important in furniture manufacture rather recently. One reason is that responsible furniture manufacturers have insisted upon polymers specifically designed to meet their standards of workability, durability, wearability and consumer appeal. It has taken time to develop these.

Just 10 years ago some of the chief polymers now used in furniture manufacture had not yet been developed, even as laboratory curiosities.



FAMILY-ROOM GROUP FURNITURE

For the growing family, this group by Howard features solid oak beams that form clean, simple lines. Fabrics may be mixed or matched. This and other groups are being shown at the Emporium, Northgate Mall.

Bigger Beds, Smaller Bedrooms—New Problem

A conflicting set of circumstances has created a new problem for American homemakers. Today's bedrooms seem to be getting smaller, while the beds are getting larger.

Most architects agree that bedrooms are shrinking, particularly in the newer apartment developments. Yet statistics from a number of authorized sources show that people are growing. In 1900 only one out of every 25 American men between the ages of 20 and 30 grew to a height of 6 feet or over. But by 1960, the figure increased to one out of five. And don't think men have a priority on growth. In the 1962 Miss America Pageant, for example, the contestants' average height was 5 feet, 6 inches. In the 1921 pageant, 5 feet, 1 inch was the average height.

One method of keeping the bed from appearing to be the whole room is to paper the wall against which the bed is placed. Repeat the wallpaper design in a fabric for the bedspread. This will give an illusion of the bed "sinking" into the wall and will take attention away from its size. It will also serve to make the bed an object of design, rather than function alone. A small, but widely-spaced, all over printed pattern in the paper is the best bet for such a scheme.

Another method recommended by an important decorator is to emphasize the smallness of the room by making it warm and cozy. Use fleecy and nubby fabrics in warm, solid tones. A light-frame headboard in a rich, dark wood — perhaps combined with rattan or woven cane — would be appropriate to this look.

Spots Vary For Trash Compactor

If you buy a kitchen trash compactor, there's a good chance that it may not end up in the kitchen.

A study just released by one manufacturer indicates that almost 40 percent of all compactor owners place the product in such locations as the garage, mud room, basement, utility room, or even the covered patio.

The household trash compactor is a relatively new product that reduces cartons, cans, bottles, newspapers, etc., to about 22 percent of their original bulk. The average family of four can end the week with only one small bagful of compacted trash to deposit at curbside.

The product is dimensioned so that it can be built into kitchen cabinets, like a dishwasher.

No special wiring is needed for either the free-standing or new built-in models. Both plug into ordinary wall outlets.

The Indoor-Outdoor Situation Is Changing

There was a time when indoor and outdoor furnishings were about as far apart as Kipling's east and west. Any purchase for the patio or lawn was restricted to those areas, and the homemaker would hardly think of using the same furniture indoors as part of her carefully thought-out decor.

But today the situation has changed. Not only is outdoor or casual furniture being used interchangeably indoors and out, but some casual designs are so handsome that they're purchased strictly for indoor use.

One reason why casual furniture lends itself so well to indoor areas is because of the unusual designs available which are not restricted by the traditions of indoor furnishings.

Probably more outstanding contemporary designs are being produced for casual furnishings than for other types. The development of sculptured designs in polymer is especially strong in the casual field.

The breakfast room or area is one place where casual furniture has really taken hold as a refreshing alternative to the conventional chrome and plastic-topped dinettes. The family room is another such area, especially where it adjoins the kitchen and is used for family dining.

Subdivisions Vs. Costs of Schools

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Construction on a subdivision of medium-priced houses probably will increase the cost of a community's schools by more than it will generate in school district property taxes, according to an Urban Land Institute study.

On the other hand, the report said, industrial and commercial developments, high - priced homes and some apartment developments produce more revenue for schools than they cost.

GAY PARTY SETTING

All Major Firms Make Decorated Bath Fixtures

Until a few years ago, decorated bathroom fixtures were available only as hand-painted custom-made items. Now all major manufacturers but one make them and that one has its own counterpart.

The decorations on the fixtures range from dainty rings of flowers to bold slashes of color. Depending on the manufacturer, the designs come on lavatory bowls, toilet seats, tubs, water tumblers, tissue holders and soap dishes.

Decorated fixtures are slightly higher in price than either white or solid colors, but to their growing army of fans they're worth it. They're especially popular for bedroom vanity lavatories, which in themselves are shooting up in popularity. The designs in the lavatory bowls can reflect and be coordinated with the bedroom's general decor — whether it's Early American, Swedish Modern, French Provencial or American contemporary.

New Furniture For Kids Tough

Sudden summer showers may interrupt outdoor play, but they won't damage new children's furniture molded of rugged polyethylene polymer.

Virtually indestructible and sturdy enough to support a 400-pound load, they won't rust in the rain or blister in the sun. When soiled, they can be washed with soap and water, rinsed with the garden hose.

Chairs have matte-finnished seats, vertically ribbed backs for ventilated comfort.

Colonial Still Most Popular Furniture

What's the most popular furniture style?

Good old Colonial still is tops, with nearly one third of the market. But what style is growing fastest in popularity?

The answer is Modern. Even though modern furniture design began over 50 years ago, it never really caught on in the home. Modern designs were used in offices, banks, airlines terminals and other public places that wanted a trim, business-like appearance. And modern furniture used stainless steel, glass, and durable latex foam rubber cushions so it was easy to clean and hard to damage. But it was too austere for the home.

But today, Modern suits the times. Italian and French deners have created exciting new looks in latex foam rubber, molded plastic, and glass that have captured the spirit of the country in this age of electron- and moon walks. American designers have followed suit, and the result is modern furniture designed for the home.

It uses far-out shapes, deep foam rubber comfort, lavish color, and lots of free-form molded plastic. Often it is quite inexpensive. One reason for the growing popularity of modern furniture is evident. Television sets, stereos, tape recorders, and appliances look somewhat out of place with traditional furniture, but they go very well with the mood of modern furniture. In fact, the same can be said for many modern clothes.

And modern furniture fits in well with currently popular decorating fads, such as poster art, or colorful wall graphics. In fact, some modern furniture looks more like a graphic than a piece of furniture.

But the final, essential difference in the upsurge of modern furniture is a refusal by young people to type themselves as "Colonials," or "Provincial" or "Traditional." They choose Modern because they do not have to decorate in an established pattern, and can "do their own thing" with accessories, lighting, wall hangings, and color.

From Music To Refreshments

An imaginative young woman, wondering what to do with an old baby grand piano whose mechanism no longer worked, found an answer. She converted it into a refreshment bar.

The internal mechanisms (harp, hammers and strings) were completely removed and replaced by mirror shelving and gold vinyl ocelot skin to hold the glassware, beverages, and other refreshment paraphernalia.

A slow motor was installed to raise and lower the top of the piano by pressing one of the ivory keys in front. Lights were installed inside the piano which are also operated by a piano key. All the electrical wiring was designed with safety factors to prevent shorting and fires.

The outside wood of the piano, which was in need of repair, was gold leafed, as was the bench, which was covered with a white silk-stained tuffeted seat. The finished bar-piano, which holds over 30 bottles in addition to glassware, etc., took approximately six months to convert.

Miss Sher is not exactly a novice at things mechanical. Although only 25 years old, she is the president of Madjac Data Co., a keypunch and verifying firm.

Dryers More Handy Than Sun

You don't have to move to the Land of the Midnight Sun in order to wash and then dry clothes sunshine bright at night. All it takes is the purchase of a flameless electric clothes dryer.

With clean, flameless electric power taking over the clothes drying job from sun power, you can conveniently do your laundry and dry your clothes at any hour of the day — or night.

This flexibility is especially important at a time when almost half of all women in the U.S. are working women. (After all, who wants to work all day and then slave over a drafty clothesline by the dark of the moon?)

Flameless electric clothes dryers also help busy homemakers — whether they are working mothers or not — to take full advantage of the permanent press clothes and linens available today. The happy combination of permanent press and electric clothes drying can be both a time-saver and a money-saver.

Because permanent press clothing comes out of the electric dryer ready to wear within minutes after it is washed, you don't need to waste money on extra sets of clothes that might be outgrown before their time.

And with both permanent press sheets and an electric dryer in the house, you don't have to stock up on extra sheets and pillow cases. Night or day, at your own conveninece, you can strip dirty linens from beds and wash and dry them for immediate re-use, if you have a total electric laundry.

Aluminum Is Like The Other Surfaces

Repainting aluminum is much the same as repainting any other surface. If the old coating is in good condition and is adhering soundly, remove dirt and other surface debris. If the old finish is extremely smooth or glossy, better adhesion will be obtained by roughening it with steel wool or sandpaper.

If the old coating has chipped or is peeling and the bare metal is exposed, sand the surface to smooth out rough edges.

GOURMET WALL

This wall system conveniently combines room for meal planning and preparation in one center. Also, there is plenty of space to display kitchen gadgetry and decorations. A product of Pacific Northwest Red Alder, the unit is now being introduced by Interior Systems at the Northgate Mall.

Remodeling Bathroom A Top Job

Surveys show that remodeling or adding a new bathroom are among the top five home modernization jobs planned by homeowners this year. If you're planning a new bathroom, it's wise to remember that it pays to buy quality fixtures. They get a lot of hard use, and you'll want your new bathroom to last a lifetime.

Do you know how to tell quality fixtures from the "cheapies?" Here are some tips: The best fixtures retain their luster and are easy to keep clean. The top quality water closet is the siphon jet, which has a strong flushing action and is quiet at the same time. A lavatory bowl of generous size doesn't cost too much more than a small one but its added convenience is great. If you have tall people in your family or enjoy luxuriating in a long soak, it will be worth your while to get a tub that's a little longer and deeper than the average.

More and more homeowners are including a bidet in their new bathrooms, having been exposed to this hygienic device in their European travels.

The peregrine falcon also is known as the duck hawk.

What Women Think Of A Kitchen Carpet

What do women think of kitchen carpet after living with it for several years? Here are some replies from women who have had kitchen carpet for two years or longer:

"I love it."

"It must be dirty, because it's been down two and a half years, but it doesn't look dirty."

"The pattern hides spots."

"It's quiet — that's nice."

"The kids play on it all the time, but it doesn't show wear. The old floor was too cold for them to sit on."

"Vacuuming is easier than washing and waxing. And the carpet never feels gritty."

"It's much less work."

"I thought it would get greasy around the stove from splatters, but if it did, you can't tell."

"It's never slippery, even when wet."

The most common kitchen carpet is a tightly tufted, level loop nylon carpet with a built in high density foam rubber backing. Most of the carpets are printed with a small pattern to help hide spots, or have a tweed design. A water barrier prevents water from seeping through and sopping the foam rubber backing.

The foam rubber cushion is non-skid, and does not mildew. It makes standing easier, and saves money since a separate pad is not needed.

What complaints did the women have?

"We got two cigarette burns, and there is nothing to do about them."

Men Are Making More Decisions

A new research study says the man of the house is moving forward as a prime decision-maker in household spending.

He has much more influence in the purchasing of home furnishings than most of us realize. He participates in two out of three furniture purchases. His degree of influence varies from 40 per cent when it comes to style, color and construction to 53 per cent when it comes to price.

The husband also plays a big role in helping his wife pick out carpeting for their home. The research shows husbands and wives buy carpeting together 59 per cent of the time.

There's Too Little Time To Relax In Our Homes

Despite talk of more leisure time, the truth is we have much more choice of activities to fill our leisure and too little time to really relax in our own homes.

When we do find the opportunity to put our various activities aside, we want real comfort and a pleasant atmosphere. This, then, is the basic purpose of today's living rooms. The average homemaker's goal in buying furnishings is to create an atmosphere of gracious comfort for her family and their friends.

She doesn't look at a sofa as merely an attractive or fashionable item. She sees it as the place where her husband may stretch out to take a nap or read the paper, perhaps forgetting to take off his shoes.

A chair to her may be just the item to complete a conversational grouping, as well as serve as a touch of just the right color to complete her decorating scheme.

In summary, the homemaker is creating a living room, not decorating a parlor. Although she wants it to be attractive, she doesn't want to sacrifice comfort for beauty. Today, with space age materials, the modern homemaker can have beauty, style and comfort. Fabrics are elegant in appearance.

MIX AND MATCH TO SUIT ROOM

ENTRANCE DOORS ON DISPLAY

Decorator carved doors come in many styles and designs, such as Spanish, Mediterranean, Colonial and Contemporary. They should not only be durable and weather resistant but should add charm and grace to the home. The showroom at Mission Wood Products, Inc., Northgate Industrial Park, is featuring these and other designs.

Helpful Hints On Resilient Flooring

Resilient flooring certainly isn't an item you buy every day. Nevertheless, when the time comes to replace an old floor or finish off a new room, it's helpful to know something about the products available and the methods used to install them.

Many changes have taken place in the flooring field in recent years. New floors with totally different functions have been developed; the choice of styles and colors has never been broader. The challenge is to narrow your selection down to one material that meets the functional and aesthetic requirements of the job at a price you can afford to pay. This is best done through a process of elimination.

For example, if you're planning to install a floor in the basement, be sure to choose a material that's recommended for this purpose. Fortunately, most resilient floors can be installed below grade but a few cannot, due to potential difficulties with moisture in the concrete subfloor. Always tell your retailer exactly where the room is located.

Vinyl-asbestos tile is an ideal choice for those Saturday afternoon do-it-yourself jobs. The flooring comes in easy-to-handle squares, usually 12'' x 12'' size. To install, all you do is spread the adhesive and lay the tiles just as they come from the box.

Both regular vinyl asbestos tile and the new self-stick type are very durable and make an excellent floor for the family room, basement game room, or den. The materials are inexpensive and come in a wide variety of designs and colors. Many feature embossed or textured surfaces to enhance their visual appearance and help hide subfloor irregularities.

Sheet resilient floors of vinyl or linoleum usually require professional installation, but offer several important advantages over tile. In the first place, there are fewer seams to attract and hold dirt.

It's also possible to buy sheet vinyl flooring with a soft undercusion of vinyl foam. This produces a delightfully resilient surface that is both quiet and comfortable to walk on. You'll find a broad selection of designs and colors in the sheet flooring category. These run the gamut from bold contemporary effects to natural designs simulating wood, brick, etc.

Because of the relative seamlessness of sheet flooring, it's usually preferred for kitchens, bathrooms, laundries, and hallways where heavy traffic and spills are likely to occur. Linoleum and sheet rotovinyls are the least expensive; highest in cost are the luxury inlaid vinyls with cushioned backings. Inlaid designs are those which extend completely through the thickness of the wear surface.

FOR FORMAL LIGHTING

This imported fixture is all lead crystal, hand cut and wood polished and available in 10 or 12 lights. It is one of the crystal chandeliers at Marin Lights in San Rafael.

A Flameless Kitchen Is For Time-Saving Wife

Flameless electric ranges are for women — and men — who have better things to do with their time than scrubbing and scouring the inside of an oven. And in age where almost half of all women are working women, who doesn't have better things to do with their time?

The miraculous self-cleaning oven found in electric ranges eliminates the drudgery of old-fashioned oven cleaning, letting you use efficient electric power in place of muscle power.

The self-cleaning oven is just one of many features in today's electric ranges that make life easier for both the working wife and working husband, who often share cooking and other kitchen chores when they come home at night.

Some electric ranges, for example, supplement the regular self-cleaning oven with a separate electronic oven that makes meal preparation quicker and easier for tired working people. With the electronic oven, you can cook a six-pound rolled roast in 30 minutes and a baked potato in 5 minutes.

Other electric ranges conceal the cooking elements under attractive panels that look like a counter top to make it possible to quickly and easily clean up the spills and splatters from your cooking.

And another type of flameless electric range helps you keep the kitchen clean with a self-contained exhaust vent that draws off cooking grease and odors.

The number of work-saving features found in self-cleaning electric ranges is about as numerous as the needs of the busy people who use them. They help working wives and husbands discover that cooking can be fun at the end of a hard day — if you don't have to spend hours cleaning up afterward.

Two Out Of One

If you have a tall chest that you do not need and yet you do need a low chest for the children's room, consider sawing the tall chest in two and making two low chests from it. Also, a mirror may be removed from a bureau and a low chest made from the bottom part with only a minimum of effort.

Feuds Would Be On Tubs Vs. Showers

There was a time when devotees of tub-bathing and showering came close to feuding. They argued their position in colorfully worded letters-to-the-editor, in syndicated columns and even before state legislatures when building codes came up for review.

Now all that has changed. Most families have members who favor both, and few bathrooms being installed today are without showering equipment as well as bathtubs. Major improvements in equipment helped popularize the shower, especially in recent years, so that if yours is over 5 years old, it's outdated. It may even be outdated if it's brand new and doesn't include some of the advanced features.

In old-fashioned showers, hot and cold water was mixed manually. Any sudden surge in water supply pressure could change the mixture, giving the user a sudden dousing of icy cold or near-scalding water that could be as dangerous as it was unwelcome. Today's controls are engineered to adjust to pressure change so that, once it's set, the temperature remains constant.

Showerheads were formerly shaped like the rose on a watering can and offered the user just as little control over water flow. Some were so large in diameter that the strong rush of water could knock over an off-balance bather. Today's showerhead has many different spray settings, ranging from fine, needle and coarse to full-flow. Unlike the old types, which often clogged, today's are self-cleaning.

Foil The Hot Seat

If you've ever sat down on an outdoor metal chair that's been left in the sun — particularly in swim suit or shorts — you know how hot the metal can get. One way to overcome this is to paint such furniture with white enamel which reflects about 84 per cent of the sun heat.

DESIGN YOUR OWN SOFA TODAY
HAVE IT FOR THE HOLIDAYS

Have you looked for a sofa lately and not found what you really want? The style is acceptable but the fabric is poor. Or the wood finish doesn't match your tables. Or the skirt treatment is too fussy, or too plain. Or the tailoring is shoddy, or the filling doesn't provide the comfort you need.

Did you think that custom-making a sofa (or loveseat, or sectional, or chair) meant weeks spent running from upholsterers to fabric houses . . . days spent deciding on frames, fabrics, trims . . . months spent waiting for delivery . . . and a fortune spent on achieving just the right piece for your room, your home?

The Manor House Custom-Order Plan allows you to design your own upholstered furniture, to your own specifications, have it benchmade in a fine Eastern factory, and receive it in your home before Xmas . . . at a price far less than you'd expect to pay.

We'll show you over 40 frames, let you select from more than 200 decorator fabrics, (or supply your own), give you a choice of 9 fillings from which to design your own comfort, 7 skirt treatments. If your sofa (or loveseat, or sectional, or chair) has exposed wood detailing, you can have that wood in warm fruitwood, or antique white, or any of 8 hand-rubbed finishes. The fabric you select can be quilted, or partially quilted, if you like. You can specify a contrasting welt, or even a contrasting fabric for the inside or outside of the piece.

You can pay from $299 to $997 for the sofa you design, depending on style, fabric, filling, detailing. But whether your sofa costs $299 or $997, it will have features only the finest custom factory can offer:

- Individually hand-tied coil springs
- All fabrics Scotchgarded, at no extra charge
- Completely webbed bottoms
- Protective arm covers, at no extra charge.

If designing a sofa frightens you, we have a fully staffed, highly qualified decorating department ready to help you as much . . . or as little as you like. Their services are complimentary, of course.

Kitchen Modernization Remains Most Popular Remodel Project

According to a recent study, kitchen modernization remains the most popular major remodeling project. When you think of remodeling a kitchen you naturally think of a spanking clean range, a new refrigerator, maybe a dishwasher or a waste disposer. But how about the heating? Yes, you do need heat in your kitchen . . . for those times when the range is not helping out with the warmth.

Kitchens present a special chore to remodelers — whether you do-it-yourself, or call in an experienced contractor or remodeler. Usually the kitchen space will be almost completely taken up with cabinets and appliances so that there's very little space left for heating equipment. But, don't worry. Electric heating equipment adapts more easily than any other type for kitchens. Since the controls are on or near the electric units, the kitchen stays more comfortable, too.

What type of electric heating equipment should you consider for your new kitchen?

Here are some suggestions which will give you a kitchen that's pleasant to work in, or eat in, or for whatever else you want to use your kitchen for. More and more the kitchen is becoming the gathering place for the family or friends.

An area often overlooked, which can be used for installing heating equipment, is the kick space below base cabinets. A fan-driven unit can be installed there, or you might consider a fan-driven wall unit.

You might think about a valance heater which will deliver both radiant and convected heat, and will perform well even in a tight area.

Or you can install the ever-popular baseboard heater. Put it along an inside wall. This is the most satisfactory because the kitchen gains some heat from appliances and because cabinets on outside walls provide a little extra insulating value.

Since remodeling kitchens is so popular, chances are someday soon you'll start planning yours. When you do, don't forget electric heat is the best type for this room which will be your most used area.

Vacuum Home On A Schedule

The best approach to vacuuming is to do some experimenting and determine the schedule that you should follow in your home. Then stay with it.

The objectives of regular vacuuming are not only to keep your new carpet looking handsome but also to remove loose soil before it can penetrate into the pile.

Soil particles which are permitted to settle into the pile can cause extreme wear as they are ground against the individual carpet fibers.

Unexpected But Wonderful Things

When a child has a box of crayons and a coloring book, all sorts of unexpected, but wonderful, things begin happening: purple cows, pink poodles, yellow and orange trees.

Maybe if we could all go back in time, and throw away all our preconceived (and restricting) ideas for what is correct and what is proper in putting colors together, better and more imaginative decorating plans might be the result.

It is certainly worth a try, so get some crayons and tracing paper. Make a tracing of a magazine photograph or illustration of a room setting. If you've ever had a secret desire to combine wild and unlikely colors this is the time to find out if they work. Mistakes won't cost a thing and you can experiment to your heart's content. It may sound like child's play, but this is the way professional interior decorators begin organizing a room: with rough sketches, and always in color.

If you remember a beautiful room you have visited, color is almost always the first thing that comes to mind. It was a gold room, with splashes of green; or you will remember a blue room.

This is because color has the power to create mood; it unites all the elements that go into the furnishing of a room.

Color has an effect on people. Blue and green are cool colors and their presence is soothing and restful. Red, orange and yellow are warm colors that will make rooms feel sunnier and livelier.

Color also has an effect on space. It can make larger rooms seem smaller, open space in small rooms, and even raise or lower the ceiling. In other words, it can show off a room's best features or hide a dozen flaws.

Lighter and cooler colors are expansive and will make rooms seem larger. Dark and warm colors will appear closer. If you feel the ceiling is too high, paint it lighter than the walls.

If a room is broken up by too many doors, windows and beams, paint everything, including the woodwork, the same color. Another way to minimize defects is to cover walls and ceilings in a small all-over patterned wallpaper.

To find out if your ideas work, begin by coloring the walls. The second color will be the floor: indicate area rugs, carpeting and wood. Next, decide on patterned and plain upholstery. Plain, with print pillows is more flexible if you like frequent changes of curtains. Finally, color the accessories in something really daring.

There are dozens of ways to color a room, and the best one of all is the one you like, the one that suits your taste.

Today's miracle finishes are more durable and more resistant to stain and scratches, but certain rules should be observed for proper care to insure maximum performance.

The first and most important rule is to read the tag that comes with the furniture and follow the instructions of the manufacturer. If no tag is attached, ask the salesman to advise you on the care of the furniture.

Furniture should be dusted several times a week with a clean cloth. Always dust with the grain of the wood. Since dust contains grit, wiping across the grain could cause fine scratches.

To protect the finish, blot — don't wipe — accidental spills. Remember that nail polish or polish removers are extremely harmful and should never be used on or near wood finished pieces unless the surface has been especially treated.

Strong sunlight is an enemy of furniture, as it can fade the finish and wood color.

As a precaution against burns, use pads (never plastic for they may soften and adhere to the finish) under hot dishes. Use rubber mats or coasters only if there is a protective pad between the rubber and the furniture, and never leave a damp cloth for any length of time on a table.

There are three basic kinds of finishes: glossy, oil and painted color finishes. Generally, one good wax is adequate for all unless one wishes to change the degree of luster. Read labels on containers and follow directions.

A paste wax or a liquid polish is recommended for high gloss finishes and painted color finishes.

A cream wax will maintain a low luster, while a polish or wax containing silicone will increase the luster. A paste wax will also result in a higher gloss. Where special protection is important, such as antiques, a paste wax is recommended, but it does require buffing.

Always pretest any product you haven't used before on an inconspicuous part of the furniture. Never use self-polishing floor wax on any furniture.

When waxes have gradually built up and created a thick film, furniture should be washed. Additional waxing will only add to the accumulation and you will simply be polishing the old wax, instead of the furniture finish.

Washing should be limited to once a year. Use a very mild soap and water, with a clean, soft cloth. Wring cloth well and wash only a small section at a time, rinsing and drying the area before going to another. Painted finishes may also be washed in the same manner.

Furniture finished only with oil should never be washed. It may be cleaned periodically with mineral spirits and then treated by applying boiled linseed oil.
